D * Thus sayeth ꝑ LORDE: bowe downe your shulders & neckes & serue ꝑ kynge of Babylon, so shall ye remayne styl in ꝑ lande, ꝑ I gaue vnto your fathers. yf ye wyll not do thys, nor heare the voyce of the LORDE your GOD, to serue ꝑ kyng of Babylon: I shall destroye you in the cities of Juda: wythyn Jerusalem and wythout, I wyll also take you frō the voyce of myrthe, and ꝑ voyce of ioye, ꝑ voyce of the brydegrome & the voyce of the bride, & there shall no man dwell more in the lande. But they wolde not hearken vnto thy voyce, to do ꝑ kynge of Babylon seruyce: & ther fore haste thou perfourmed the wordes that thou spakeste by thy seruauntes ꝑ prophetes: namelye, that the bones of oure kynges, and the bones of our fathers shulde be translated out of theyr places. And lo, nowe are they layed oute in the heate of the sunne, & in the cold of the nyght, & deed in great miserie, wt hunger, wyth sweard with pestilence, & are cleane cast forth. As for the temple wherein thy name was called vpon thou hast layde it waste as it is to se thys daye: & that for the wyckednes of ꝑ house of Israel, & ꝑ house of Juda. O LORDE our GOD, thou hast intreated vs after all thy goodnes, & accordyng to al that great louyng mercy of thyne lyke as thou spakeste by the seruaunte Moses, in ꝑ day when thou dydest cōmaunde him, to wryt thy lawe before ꝑ chyldren of Israel saying: * yf ye wyll not herken vnto my voyce, then shall thys greate multitude be turned into a verye small people, for I wyll scater them abrode. Notwithstandinge, I am sure ꝑ thys folke wyll not heare me for it is an hardenecked people, but in the lande of theyr captiuite, they shal remēber them selues, and learne to know, ꝑ I am the LORDE theyr GOD, when I geue thē an herte to vnderstād, & eares to heare. Then shall they prayse me in the lande of theyr captiuite: and thynke vpon my name. Then shall they turne them from theyr harde backes, and from theyr vngodlynesse. Then shall they remember ꝑ thinges, ꝑ happened vnto theyr forefathers, whych synned agaynst me. So I wyll bryng them agayne into the land whych I promised with an oth vnto theyr fathers Abraham, Isahac, & Jacob, and they shalbe lordes of it: yee, I wyl increase them, & not minishe them. * And I wyl make another couenaūt with them: such one as shal endure for euer, namely, that I wil be their GOD, & they shalbe my people: & I wyl nomore dryue my people the chyldren of Israel oute of the lāde that I haue geuen them.

Ierem. 27. c.

The iij. Chapter

¶ The people continueth in their prayer for their deliuerance. He prayseth wysedome vnto the people. The wyngs that so great aduersities came vnto them for the despising thereof. Only GOD was the fynder of wisdome. Of that incarnacion of Christ.

AND

A And nowe, O LORDE Almyghtye thou GOD of Israel, our soule þ is in trouble, and our spirite that is vexed, cryeth vnto the: heare vs (O LORD) & haue pitye vpon vs for thou arte a mercifull GOD, de gracious vnto vs, for we haue sinned before the. Thou endurest for euer, shulde we thē vtterly perishe? O LORDE Almyghtye, thou GOD of Israel.

Heare nowe the prayer * of the deed Israelites and of theyr chyldrē, whych haue synned befor the, & not herkened vnto þ voyce of the LORD theyr GOD, for the whych cause these plages hange nowe vpon vs: O LORDE, remēber not the wickednes of oure forefathers, but thynche vpon thy power and name nowe at thys tyme: for thou arte þ LORDE oure GOD: and the (O LORDE) wil we prayse. * For thou hast put thy feare in oure hertes, to the intente that we shulde call vpon thy name, & prayse the in oure captiuite, and that we myght turne from the wyckednesse of our forefathers, that synned before the.

B Beholde, we are yet thys daye in oure captiuite, where as thou hast scatered vs, to be an abomination, curse, and syn: * like as it hath happened vnto our forefathers also, because of theyr wyckednesse, and departynge from the.

O Israel, heare the commaundemētes of lyfe: ponder thē well with thyne eares, that thou mayest learne wysedome. But how happeneth it Israel, that thou art in thyne enemies lande, thou arte waxen olde in a straunge cōtrye, & defyled wyth þ deed. Why arte thou become lyke them, þ go downe to theyr graues? Euen because thou hast * forsaken the wel of wysedome. For yf thou haddest walked in the way of GOD truly thou shuldest haue remayned styl safe in thyne owne land. * O learne then where discrecion is, where vertue is, where vnderstanding is, þ thou mayest knowe also frō whence cōmeth * lōge lyfe, & necessarie lyuig, þ lyght of þ eyes, & quietnes. Who euer fond out her place? Or who euer came into her treasures?

Where are the princes of þ Heathen become, and such as ruled the beastes vpō þ erth? They þ had theyr pastyme wt the foules of the ayre, þ hoorded vp syluer and gold (wher in men trust so much) and made no ende of their gatherynge? What is become of them þ coyned syluer, & were so careful, & could not bringe theyr workes to passe? They be roted out, and gone downe to hell, & other mē are come vp in their steades. Yong men haue sene lyght, and dwelte vpon earth: but the waye of reformation haue they not knowen, nor vnderstande the pathes therof: nether haue theyr chyldren receaued it: yee, rychte farre is it from them. It hath not bene heard of in the lande of Canaan, neyther hath it ben sene at Theman.

The Agarenes soughte after wysedome, but that which is earthly, lyke as D the marchauntes of the lande do. They of Theman are conuyng, also and they laboure for wysedome and vnderstandyng: but þ way of true wysedome they knowe not: neyther do they thynche vpon the pathes therof. O Israel howe greate is the house of GOD? and how large is the place of hys possession? * Great is he and hath no ende: yee, & vnmesurable. What is become of those famous Gyauntes, that were so greate of bodyes, & so worthy men of warre? Those had not þ LORD chosen, neyther haue they foūde þ waie of reformatiō therefore were they destroyed: & for so much as they had no wysdome, they perished because of theyr foolyshenesse.

Who hath gone vp into heauen, take E wysdome there and brought her downe frō þ cloudes? Who hath gone ouer þ see, to fynde her, and hath chosen her aboue golde, & so brought her hether? No man knoweth the wayes of wysdome, nether is there any þ can seke out her pathes. But he þ worketh all thynges, knoweth her, and he hathe founde her oute wyth hys fore knoweledge. * Thys same is he whych prepared the earth at the begynnynge & fylled it wt all maner of foules & beastes. * Whē he sendeth out the lyghte, it goeth: & when he calleth it agayne it obeyeth hym wt feare. The starres kepe theyr watche, and gene theyr light: yea, & that gladly, when he calleth them they say: here we be. And so wyth chearfulnesse they shewe lyght vnto hym that made them.

* Thys is oure GOD and there shall none other be compared vnto hym. It is he that hathe founde oute all wysedome, and hathe geuen her vnto Jacob hys seruaunte, and to Israel hys beloued.* Afterwarde hyd he shewe hym selfe vpon earth, & dwelt amonge men.

The iiij. Chapter.

¶ The reward of them that kepe the lawe, and the punishement of them that dispise it. A confortinge of the people beinge in captiuite. A complayne of Jerusalem, and vnder the figure therof the churche A consolacion and comfortynge of the same.

THys is the booke of the cõmaundementes of GOD, and the lawe that endureth for euer. All they that kepe it shall come to lyfe: but such as forsake it, shal come to deathe. Turne the O Jacob, take holde of it: walke by thys way thorowe hys brightnes and shyne. Geue not thyne honoure to another, and thy worshippe to a straunge people, O Israel.* howe happye are we, seynge that GOD hath shewed vs suche thynges as are pleasaũt vnto him: Be of good cheare, thou people of GOD. O thou auncient Israell,* Nowe are ye solde amonge the Heathen, howbeyt, not for youre vtter destruction: but because ye prouoked GOD the LORD to wrathe and displeasure, therefor were ye delyuered vnto youre enemies: for ye displeased þ euerlastyng GOD, that made you offeringe vnto deuyls & not to GOD. ye haue forgotten hym þ broughte you vp, & your nourse haue ye greued, O Jerusalem.

5. Reg. 17. d. 2. Esdr. 25. d.

When she sawe that the wrathe of GOD was cõmynge vpõ you, she sayd, herken O ye that dwell about Sion, for GOD hath brought me into greate heauinesse, and why: I se the captiuite of my people, of my sonnes and daughters, whych the euerlastyng GOD wyll bringe vpon them. wyth Joye dyd I norysh them, but nowe must I leaue them wyth weppng and sorow.

Let noman reioyce ouer me a wyddowe, and forsaken, whyche for the synnes of my chyldren am desolate of euery mã. For why: they departed frome the lawe of GOD: thy wolde not knowe hys ryghteousnesse, nor walke in þ way of hys commaundementes: and as for the pathes of the truth and godlynes, they had no lust to go in them.

O ye dwellers aboute Sion, come, & let vs call to remembraunce the captiuite, that the euerlastynge GOD hath broughte vpon my sonnes & my daughters.* He hath brought a people vpon them from farre, an vncurteous people and of a straunge language whych nether regarde þ olde, nor pitie þ yonge.

Deu. 28. f. Ierem. 5. b.

These haue caryed awaye the deare beloued of my wyddowes, leauynge me alone, both desolate and childelesse. But alas what can I helpe you: Nowe he that hath brought these plages vpon you, delyuer you also from the handes of youre enemies.

Go youre way (O chyldren) go youre way for I am desolate and forsaken *I haue put of the clothynge of peace, and put vpon me the sackecloth of prayer, and for my tyme I wyll call vpon the most Hyeste. Be of GOD cheare O my chyldren, crye vnto the LORD, and he shall delyuer you from the power of the princes, your enemies.

Dan. 9. a. Psal. 9. a.

For verely, I haue euer a good hope of your prosperous health: yea, a very gladnes is come vpon me from þ holy one, because of the mercy that ye shall haue of oure euerlastynge sauiour.

With mournyng and weping dyd I let you go frõ me, but wyth ioye & perpetual gladnesse shall þ LORD bringe you agayne vnto me. Lyke as neyghboures of Sion sawe your captiuite from GOD. Euen so shall they also se shortly youre health in GOD, whyche shall come in you wyth greate honour and euerlastynge worshyp.

O my chyldren,* sufferr pacientlye þ wrathe that shall come vpon you. For the enemie hath persecuted þ, but shortely thou shalt se hys destruction, and shalte treade vpon hys necke. My dearlinges haue gone trough harde wayes, for they are led awaye as a flocke that is scatered abrode wyth the enemyes. But be of good comforte (O my chyldren,) and crye vnto the LORD: For he that led you awaye, hath you yet in remembraunce: & lyke as ye haue bemynded to swarue from your GOD* so shal ye nowe endeuoure youre selues ten tymes more, to turne agayne and to seke him. For he þ hath brought these plags vpõ you shal bringe you euerlastig ioye agaune, wt youre health. Take a good hert vnto the O Jerusalẽ: for he which gaue þ that name, exhorteth þ so to do.

* The wycked doers that newe put þ to trouble, shal perishe, and suche as haue reioyced at thy fall, shalbe punished. The cities whome thy chyldren seruc,

serue, and that haue caryed awaye thy sonnes, shalbe correct. For lyke as they be nowe glade of thy decay (& reioyce at thy fal) so shall they murne in theyr owne destructiō. The ioye of theyr multitud shalbe taken away & their cheare shalbe turned to sorowe. For a fyre shal fall vpon them from the euerlastynge GOD, longe to endure: and it shalbe inhabited of deuels for a greate season.

The v. Chapter.

Jerusalē is moued vnto gladnes for the returne of her people, & vnder the figure thereof, the churche.

¶ O Jerusalem, loke aboute the towarde the Easte, and beholde the ioye that commeth vnto ꝓ from GOD. For loo, thy sonnes (whome thou hast forsaken, and that wer scatered abroade) com gathered together, from the east and weste, reioysynge in the word of the holy one, vnto the honour of GOD.

Put of thy mournynge clothes (O Jerusalem) and thy sorowe, and decke the wyth the worshyppe and honoure, that commeth vnto the from GOD, wt euerlastynge glorie. GOD shall put the garmente of ryghteousnesse vpon the, and sette a crowne of euerlastinge worshyppe vpon thyne heade, for vpon the wyll GOD declare hys bryghtenes, that is vnder the heauen. Yee, an euerlastynge name shalbe geuen ꝓ of GOD, wyth peace of ryghteousnesse, and the honoure of GODDES feare.

B Aryse, O Jerusalē, stande vp an hye: loke aboute the towarde the East: and beholde thy chyldren gathered from ꝓ Easte, vnto the west whyche reioyse in thy holye word, hauing GOD in remēbraunce. They departed from the one foote, and were led away of theyr enemies: but nowe shal ꝓ LORD bryng thē caryed wyth honour as chyldren of the kyngedome. For GOD is purposed to brynge downe all stoute mountaynes: yee, and all hye rockes, to fyl ꝓ valles & so to make them euen wyth ꝓ grounde: that Israell maye be diligent to lyue vnto the honour of GOD. The woodes and all pleasaunte trees shall ouershadowe Israel, at the cōmaundemente of GOD. For hether shall GOD bryng Israel wt Joyfull myrthe, & in ꝓ lyghte of his maiestye: wyth the mercie & ryghteousnesse that commeth of hym selfe.

The vi. Chapter.

¶ A copie of the epistle that Jeremie sente vnto the Jewes, whych were led awaye prisoners by the kynge of Babylon: wherein he certifieth them of the thynge that was commaunded hym of God.

A BEcause of ꝓ synnes, that ye haue done agaynste GOD, ye shalbe ledde awaye captiue vnto Babylon, euen of Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon. So when ye become in tho Babylon, ye shall remayne there manye yeares, & for a longe season: namely seuen generations: & after that wyl I bringe you awaye peaceably from thence. Now shal ye se in Babylon goddes of golde, of syluer, of wood, & of stone, borne vpō mens shulders, to caste oute a fearfulnesse before ꝓ Heathen. But looke ꝓ ye do not as ꝓ other: be not ye afrayed, & let not ꝓ feare of them ouercome you. Jer. 25. a. b

B Therfore, when ye se the multitude of people worshyppynge thē behynde & before, saye ye in youre hertes: O LORDE, * it is thou that oughteste oncelye to be worshypped. Myne Angell also shalbe wyth you, & I my selfe wyl care for youre soules. As for the tymber of those goddes, the carpenter hath polished them: yea, gylted be they, & layde ouer wyth syluer, yet are they but vain thynges, and cannot speake. Lyke as a wenche ꝓ loueth paramoures is trymly deckt, euen so are these made & hanged wyth golde. Crownes of golde verely haue theyr goddes vpon theyr heades: so the preastes them selues take golde & syluer from them: & put it to theyr owne vses: yea, they geue of the same vnto harlottes, and trimme theyr whores withal: agayne, they take it from their whores, and decke theyr gods there wt. *yet cannot these gods delyuer them selues from rust & mothes. When they haue couered them wt clothynge of purple, they wype theyr faces for the duste of the temple, wherof there is muche among them. One hathe a Scepter in hys hāde as though he were Judge of the countrye: yet can he not slaye suche as offende hym. Another hath a swearde or an axe in his hande, for al that he is neyther hable to defēde hym selfe frō battayle, nor frō murtherers. By thys ye maye vnderstand, ꝓ they be no gods: therfore se ꝓ ye neyther worshyp them, nor feare them. For like as a vessel that Jer. 10. d.

a man vseth, is nothynge worth when it is broken, euen so is it wt theyr gods. when they be set vp in the temple, their eyes be full of dust thorowe the fete of those ꝑ come in. And lyke as the doores are shut in rounde aboute vpon hym ꝑ hath offended the kynge. Or as it were a dead bodye kepte beside the graue. Euen so the preastes kepe the doores wyth barres and lockes, least theyr godes be spoyled wyth robbers. They set vp candels before them (yee, verely and that manye) whereof thei cānot se one, but euen as blockes so stande they in ꝑ temple. It is sayde that the serpentes and wormes, whych come of the earth, knawe oute theyr hertes, eatynge then and theyr clothes also, and yet they feele it not. Theyr faces are black thorowe the smoke that is in the temple. The oules, swalowes and byrdes, fly vpon them: yee, and the cattes runne ouer theyr heades. By thys ye may be sure, ℣ that they are not gods, therfore feare them not. The gold that they haue, is to make them bewtyfull: for all that, excepte some bodye dyght of theyr rust they wyll geue no shyne: and whē they were cast into a fourme, they felt it not. They are bought for mony & haue no brethe of lyfe wythin them.* They Esa.44.c. muste be borne vpon mens shulders, as those that haue no feete: wherby they declare vnto men, that they be nothing worth.* Confounded be they then that Psal.114.c. worshyp them, for yf they fal to ꝑ grounde, they cannot ryse vp agayne of them selues. yee though one helpe them vp & set them ryghte, yet are they not able to stand alone: but must haue proppes set vnder them lyke dead men. As for the thynge that is offered vnto them, their Preastes sell it, & abuse it: yee, ꝑ Preastes wyues take thereof: but vnto the sycke and poore, they geue nothyng of it: the women wyth chylde, and the menstruous laye handes of theyr offerynges: By thys ye may be sure that they are no gods, therfore be not ye afrayd of them. From whence commeth it thē, that they are called gods: The women syt before the goddes of syluer, golde, and woode, and the preastes syt in theyr temples hauyng open clothes, whose hedes and beerdes are shauē and haue nothynge vpon theyr heades: roorynge, and cryinge vpon theyr gods, as men do at the feaste when one is deade.

The preastes also take awaye the garmentes of the ymages, and decke theyr wyues & chyldren wythall. Whether it be good or euell that any man do vnto thē, they are not able to recompense: they cā neyther sette vp a kyng nor put hym downe. In lyke maner they may neyther geue ryches, nor rewarde euell. * Though a man make a bowe vnto them & kepe it not, they wyl not require it. They can saue no man from deathe, neyther deliuer the weake from the myghtie. They cannot restore a blynde man to hys syghte, nor helpe anye man at hys nede. They can shewe no mercy to the wyddowe, nor do good to the fatherlesse. Theyr goddes of wodde, stone, golde, and syluer, are but euen as other stones, that be hewen of ꝑ mountayne. They that worshyp them, shalbe confounded. Howe shulde they than be taken for goddes: yee, howe dare men call them goddes: And though the Caldees worshypped them not, hearinge ꝑ they were but dōme & could not speake yet they thē selues offre vnto Bell, and wolde fayne haue hym to speake: as who saye, they coulde fele ꝑ may not moue. And when the thyng is wel knowē, yet they can not forsake them, as thyng that haue no sense. A greate sorte of wemē gyrde wyth coardes, sytte in ꝑ stretes, and burne oliue beries. Now yf one of them be conueyed awaye, and lie wyth any such as come by: she casteth her neyghbours in ꝑ teth, because they are not so worthely reputed, nor ther coard broken. Whatsoeuer is done for thē, it is but in vaine & lost. Howe maye it thē be said or thoughte, that they are goddes: Carpenters and goldesmithes make them, nether be they any other thynge but euen what the workemen wyll make of them. yee, the goldesmythes them selues that make them, are of no longe continuaunce. Howe shuld then ꝑ thynges that are made of them, be goddes: Vayne therfore are the thinges (yee, verye shame is it) that they leaue behynde them for theyr prosperitie. For assoone as there commeth any warre or plage vpon them, then the preastes imagine where they maye hyde them selues wyth them. Howe can men thynke then, that they be goddes, whyche neyther may defende them selues selues from warre, nor delyuer them from misfortune: For seyng they be but of wood, of stone, of syluer & of golde: al people and kynges shall knowe hereafter that they be but vayne thynges: yee, it shalbe openly declared, that they be no goddes: but euen ỹ very workes of mens handes, & that GOD hath nothyng to do wyth them. It is manifeste then that they are no goddes, but the worckes of mens handes, & no worcke of GOD in them. They can set no kinge in the lande, nor geue rayne vnto men. They can geue no sentence of a matter, nether defende ỹ lande frō wrōge. For thei are not able to do somoche as a crowe ỹ flyeth betwyxte heauen & earthe.

6 Whan there happeneth a fyre into ỹ house of those goddes of wodde, and syluer, and of golde, the prestes wil escape and saue them selues, but the goddes burne as the blokes therin. They cannot wythstand any kynge or battell: howe may it then be thoughte or graūted, ỹ they be goddes of wodde, of stone, of golde, and syluer, may nether defende them selues frō theues nor robbers: yee, the very wycked are strōger then they. These stryppe them oute of theyr apparell, that they be clothed withall, these take theyr golde and syluer from them, & so get them away: yet can they not helpe them selues. Therfore it is moch better for a man, to be a kynge, & so to shewe hys power: or els a profitable vessel in a house, wherin he ỹ owethe it, myghte haue pleasure: yee, or to be a dore in a house, to kepe suche thynges safe as be theryn, thē to be such a vayn god. The Sunne, the moone, and al the starres, seynge they geue theyr shyne & lyghte, are obedient, and do men good. Whan the lyghtenynge glysstereth, all is cleare. They wynde bloweth in euery countre, & whan GOD commaūdeth the cloudes to go rounde about ỹ whole worlde, they do as they are bydden, whan ỹ fyre is sent downe from aboue & commaunded, it burneth vp hylles & woddes. But as for those goddes, they are not lyke one of these thynges, neyther in bewtye, neyther strēgth. Wherfore, men shulde not thyncke nor saye ỹ they be goddes, seynge they can neither geue sentence in iudgemente, nor do mē good. For so muche nowe as ye are sure, ỹ they be no goddes, then feare thē not. For they can neyther speake euell nor good for kynges. They can shewe no tokens in heauen for the Heathen, neyther shyne as the Sunne, nor geue lyghte as the Moone: yee, the brutcal beastes are better then they, for they can get them vnder the rose, and do them selues good. So can ye be certified by nomaner of meanes, that they be goddes: therfore feare them not. For lyke as a scarcrowe in a garden of herbes kepeth nothig, euē so are theyr goddes of wodde, of syluer and golde: and lyke as a white thorne in an orcharde, that euerye byrde syttethe vpon: yee, lyke as a dead bodye that is caste in the darcke. Euen so is it with those goddes of wodde, syluer and golde. By the purple and scarlet whyche they haue vpon them, & soone fayleth awaye: ye maye vnderstande, that they be no goddes: yee, they them selues shalbe consumed at the laste, whyche shalbe a great confusion of the lande. Blessed is the godly man, that hath no images and whorshyppeth none, for he shalbe farre from reproue.

The songe of the thre chyldren, whyche were put into the hote brennynge ouen. The commen translation readeth this songe in the thyrde Chapter of Daniel.

AND they walked in ỹ myddest of the flāme prayslnge GOD and magnified the LORDE. Azarias stode vp and prayde on thys maner. Euen in the myddest of the fyre opened he hys mouth and sayde: Blessed be thou (O LORD GOD of our fathers) ryght worthy to be praysed and honoured is that name of thyne for euermore: for thou arte ryghteous in all the thynges that thou hast done vnto vs, yee, saythfull are all thy worckes, thy wayes are ryght, and all thy iudgementes true. In all the thynges that thou hast brought vpon vs, and vpon the holy citie of oure fathers (euen Jerusalem) thou haste executed true iudgemẽte: yee, accoꝛding to right and equite haſt thou bꝛoughte all theſe thinges vpõ vs becauſe of oure ſynnes.

Foꝛ why: we haue offended and done wyckedlye, departynge from ꝓ: * In all thynges haue we treſpaſed, and not obeyed thy commaundementes, noꝛ kept them, nether done as thou haſt bydden vs, ꝓ we myght pꝛoſpere. * Wherefoꝛe all that thou haſte bꝛoughte vpon vs, and euery thyng that thou haſt done to vs, thou haſt done them in true Iudgement: Is in deliuering vs into the handes of oure enemies, among vn godlye and wycked imaginations, and to an vnrygh teous kynge: yee, ꝓ moſt frowarde vpon earth. And nowe we maye not open oure mouthes, we are become aſhame and repꝛoſe vnto thy ſeruauntes, and to them that woꝛſhype the. yet foꝛ thy names ſake (we beſech ꝓ) geue vs not vp foꝛ euer, bꝛeake not thy couenaunt and take not awaye thy mercie from vs, foꝛ thy beloued Abꝛahams ſake, foꝛ thy ſeruaunt Iſaacks ſake, and foꝛ thy holy Iſraels ſake. To whom thou haſt ſpoken and pꝛomiſed * that thou woldeſt multiplie theyꝛ ſede as ꝓ ſterres of heauen, and as the ſande that lyeth vpon the ſee ſhoꝛe. Neuertheleſſe, in a contrite herte and an humble ſpirite, let vs be receaued, ꝓ we maye optayne thy mercye. Lyke as in the burntofferyng of Rammes and bullockes, and lyke as in thouſandes of fat lambes, ſo let our offerynges be in thy ſyght thys day, ꝓ it may pleaſe the, * foꝛ ther is no confuſion vnto thẽ that put there truſte in the. And nowe we folowe the wyth all oure herte, we feare the and ſyke thy face. Put vs not to ſhame, but deale wyth vs after thy louyng kyndnes, and accoꝛdyng to the multitude of thy mercies. Deliuer vs by thy myracles (O LORDE) and get thy name an honoure, that all they whyche do thy ſeruauntes euell, may be confounded. Let them be aſhamed thoꝛowe thy Almyghtye power, and theyꝛ ſtrength be bꝛoken: ꝓ they maye knowe howe that thou onelye art the LORDE GOD, and honour woꝛthy theꝛowout all the woꝛld.

And the kynges ſeruauntes that put them in, ceaſſed not to make the ouen hote wyth wyld fyꝛ, dꝛye ſtrawe, pytch & faggottes, ſo that the flamme went oute of the ouen vpon a xlix. cubites: yee, it toke awaye and bꝛent vp thoſe Chaldees, that it gat holde vpõ beſyde the ouen. But the Angel of the LORDE came downe into the ouen to Azarias and hys felowes, and ſmot the flame of the fyꝛe oute of the ouen, and made the mydſt of the ouen as it had ben a cold wynd blowyng: ſo that the fyꝛe nether touched them, greued thẽ, noꝛ dyd them hurte. Then theſe thꝛe (as out of one mouthe) pꝛayſed, honoured, & bleſſed GOD in the foꝛnace ſayinge.

* Bleſſed be thou, O LORDE GOD of oure fathers: foꝛ thou art pꝛayſe and honoure woꝛthye: yee, and to be magnified foꝛ euermoꝛe. * Bleſſed be the holy name of thy gloꝛie, foꝛ it is woꝛthy to be pꝛayſed, and magnified in all woꝛldes. Bleſſed be thou in the holie temple of thy gloꝛie, foꝛ aboue al thynges thou arte to be pꝛayſed, yee, and moꝛe then woꝛthy to be magnified foꝛ euer. Bleſſed be thou in the thꝛone of thy kyngedome, foꝛ aboue al thou arte woꝛthy to be well ſpoken of, and to be moꝛe then magnified foꝛ euer. Bleſſed be thu that lokeſt thoꝛowe the depe, and ſytteſt vpon the Cherubins, foꝛ thou arte woꝛthye to be pꝛayſed, and aboue all to be magnified foꝛ euer. Bleſſed be thou in ꝓ firmament of heauen, foꝛ thou arte pꝛayſe and honoure woꝛthy foꝛ euer.

O all ye woꝛckes of the LORDE, ſpeake good of the LORDE, pꝛayſe hym and ſet hym vp foꝛ euer.

O all deuoute men, speake ye good of the LORDE, euen the GOD of all GODDES. O prayse hym, and gene hym thanckes, for hys mercye endureth worlde wythoute ende. Ier. 20. b. Esai. 43. d. Psal. 17. d.

The Historie of Susanna wyche is the thyrtene Chapter of Daniel after the Latin.

THere dwelt a man in Babylon called Joachim, ꝑ tooke a wyfe, whose name was Susanna, the daughter of Helcia, a verye fayre woman and suche one as feared GOD. Her father & her mother also were godly people, and taught theyr doughter accordynge to the lawe of Moses. Nowe Joachim (her husband) was a greate ryche mā, and had a feyre orchard ioynynge vnto hys house. And to hym resorted the Iewes comenly, because he was a man of reputacion amonge them. The same yere were there mad two iudges, suche as the LORDE speaketh of: All ꝑ wyckednes of Babylon commeth from the elders (that is) from the iudges, which seme to rule the people. These cam oft to Joachims house, and all such as had anye thynge to do in the lawe came they thether vnto them.

B Nowe when the people came againe at after none, Suſanna went into her huſbandes orcharde, to walke. The elders ſeynge thys ꝑ ſhe wente in daylye to walke, they burned for luſt of her: yee, they were almoſt out of theyr wittes, & caſt downe theyr eyes, that they ſhuld not ſe heauen, nor remember that GOD is a rightcous Judge. For they were bothe wounded wyth the loue of her, neyther durſt one ſhewe another his greſe. And for ſhame, they durſt not tel her theyr inordinat luſt, ꝑ they wold fayne haue to do wt her. yet they layde waite for her earneſtly frō daie to daye, ꝑ they myghte at the leſt haue a ſyghte of her. And the one ſayde to the other: Up, let vs go home, for it is dyner time. So they wente theyr waye from her.

When they returned agayne, they came together, enquiringe out the matter betwyxte them ſelues: yee, the tolde the other of hys wycked luſt: Then appoynted they a tyme when they myghte take Suſanna alone.

C It happened alſo ꝑ they ſpyed oute a cōueniente tyme, when ſhe wente forth to walke (as her maner was) and no bodye wyth her, but two maydens, and thought* to waſche her ſelfe in the garden, for it was an hote ſeaſon: And ther was not one parſone there, except the two elders ꝑ had hyd them ſelues to behold her. So ſhe ſaid to her maydens: go fet me oyle and ſope, and ſhut the orcharde doze, ꝑ I maye waſche me. And they dyd as ſhe bad them, and ſhut the orcharde doze and wente oute them ſelues at a backe dooze to fet the thynge ꝑ ſhe had cōmaunded: but Suſanna knewe not, that the elders laye there hyd wythin. Nowe when the maydēs were goone forthe, the two Elders gat them vp and came vpon her, ſayinge: nowe ꝑ orcharde dozes are ſhut, that no man can ſe vs: we haue a luſt vnto the, therfore conſente vnto vs, and lye with vs.

D Yf thou wylte not, we wyll bringe a teſtimonie all agaynſte the, that there was a ponge felowe wyth ꝑ, and that thou haſt ſente away thy maydens frō the for the ſame cauſe. Suſanna ſyghed, and ſayde: Alas, I am in trouble on euery ſyde. Though I folowe youre mynde, it wyll be my deathe, and yf I conſente not vnto you, I cannot eſcape your handes. Well, it is better for me, to fall into youre handes wythout the dede doynge, then to ſynne in ꝑ ſyghte of the LORDE: and with that, ſhe cryed out wyth a loud voyce: the elders alſo cryed oute agaynſte her.

Then ranne there one to ꝑ orcharde dooze and ſmote it open. Nowe when ꝑ ſeruauntes of the houſe hearde ꝑ crye in the orcharde they ruſhed in at ꝑ backe dooze, to ſe what the matter was. E So when the elders tolde them, ꝑ ſeruauntes were greatly aſhamed, for why: there was neuer ſuche a reporte made of Suſanna. On the morowe after, came ꝑ people to Joachim her huſbande, and the two elders came alſo, ful of myſcheuous imaginacion agaynſte Suſanna, to bringe her vnto death, and ſpake thus before ꝑ people. Sende for Suſanna the daughter of Helcias, Joachims wyfe. And immediatly they ſente for her. So ſhe came wyth her father and mother, her chyldren and all her kynred. Nowe Suſanna was a tender perſone and meruelous fayre of face. Therefore the wycked men cōmaunded to take of the clothes from her face (for ſhe was couered) that at the leſt they might ſo be ſatiſfied in her bewty. Then her frendes: yee, and all they that knewe her, began to wepe.

Exod 2.d. 2.Re. 11.d.

Theſe two elders ſtode vp in ꝑ myddeſt of ꝑ people, * & layde theyr handes Luke vpon Suſanna, whych wepte & loked vp towarde heauen, for her herte had a ſure truſte in the LORDE. And the elders ſayde: As we were talkinge in the orcharde alone thys woman came in wt her two maydens whome ſhe ſente awaye from her, and ſpared the orcharde dozes: wyth ꝑ a ponge felowe (whyche there was hid) came vnto her, and laye with her. As for vs, we ſtode in a corner of the orcharde. And when we ſawe thys wyckednelle, we ranne to her: and perceaued, that they had medeled together. But we coulde not hold hym, for he was ſtronger then we: thus he opened the dooze and gat hym awaye.

Nowe when we had taken thys woman, we aſked her what ponge felowe this was: but ſhe wolde not tell vs. Thys is ꝑ matter, & we be wytneſſes of ꝑ ſame. The comen forte beleued them: as thoſe ꝑ were ꝑ elders and Judges of ꝑ people, and ſo they condemned her to death. Suſanna cryed oute wyth a loude

a loude voice and sayde: Oeuerlastinge 42.c GOD,* thou secrecher of secretes, thou that knowest all thynges afore they co me to passe: thou wottest, that they haue borne false wytnesse against me, and beholde, I must dye, where as I neuer
dyd such thynges, as these men haue maliciously inuented agaynst me. And the LORDE heard her voyce. For when she was led forth to death, the LORDE raysed vp ỳ spirite of a yõge childe, who se name was Daniel, whyche cryed wt 43.a a loude voyce: * I am cleane frõ thys
b.c.d. blond. Then al the people turned them towarde hym, and sayde: What meane
these wordes, that thou hast spokẽ: Da niel stode in the myddeste of them and sayde: Are ye suche fooles, O ye chyldrẽ
of Israel, ỳ ye can not discerne nor kno
we the truth: ye haue heare cõdemned
a daughter of Israel vnto death, & kno
we not the truth wherefore. So syt on Judgemente agayne, for they haue spo ken false wytnesse agaynste her.

Wherfore the people turned agayne in all the haste. And the elders (that is the principal heades) sayde vnto hym:
come syt downe here amonge vs and shewe vs thys matter, seynge GOD 43.d hath geuen ỳ as greate honoure as an elder. And Daniel sayde vnto them: *
Put these two asyde one from another, & then shall I heare them. When they were put asonder one frome a nother,
he called one of them & sayd vnto hym O thou cankered carle, ỳ haste vsed thy wyckednes so long: thyne vngracious dedes (whych thou hast done afore) are nowe come to lyghte.

For thou haste geuen false Judgemẽ
tes, thou hast oppressed the innocent, &
letten the gyltye go free where as yet Exo.23.a. the LORDE sayth. * The innocente and Deu.17.a. righteous, se thou slay not. Well, than ỳ thu haste seue her, tel me vnder what tree sawest thou them talkynge together. He aunswered: vnder a Holbery tree. And Daniell sayde: very well, no-we thou lyest euen vppon thyne owne heade. Loo, the messaunger of the LOR DE hath receaued the sentence of hym,
to cut the in two. Then put he hym asyde, & called for the other, & sayd vnto hi
O thou seede of Canaã, but not of Juda: Fayrenes hath dyscreaued the, and lust hath subuerted thyne herte. Thus dealte ye afore wt the daughters of Israel, and they (for feare) consented vnto
you: but the daughter of Juda wolde not abyde youre wyckednesse. Nowe
tel me than vnder what tree dydest thu
take them speakinge together: He aunsi
wered: Vnder a Pomegranate tree.
Then sayde Daniel vnto him: very wel
nowe thou lyest also euen vpon thyne
owne head. The messenger of the LOR DE standeth waitinge with ỳ swearde
to cut the in two, and to slay you both.

Wyth that all the whole multitude gaue agreate shoute, and praysed GOD
*whyche al waye delyuered them that Psal.17.d. put theyr truste in hym. And they came vpon the two elders, whome Daniel hath conuict wt theyr owne mouth that they had geuen false wytnesse, and deal
te with them, euen lykwyse as they wol
de haue done wt theyr neyghbours: yee,
they did *accordyng to the lawe of Mo Deu.19.d.
ses, & put them to death. Thus the inno Pro.19.a.
cente bloude was saued the same daye.

Then Helcia and hys wyfe praysed
GOD for theyr daughter Susãna, with Joachim her husbande and all the kyn
red: that there was no dishonestie foun
de in her. Frõ that daye forth was Daniel had in greate reputacion in the syghte of the people.

me wythe whome
Daniel was familia-
are in so muche that he did eate at the kynges table, and was had in reueren ce aboue all hys frendes. There was at Babylon an Image, called Bel: and there were spent vpon hym euery daye
twelue cakes, forty Shepe, & syxe gre ate pottes of wyne. Hym dyd the kynge worshyppe him selfe, and wente daylye
to honoure hym: but Daniel worshyp-

ped his owne GOD. And the kynge sayde vnto hym: why doest not thou worshyppe Bell: He answered and sayde: *Because I may not worshyppe thynges that be made wyth handes, ¶ But the lyuynge GOD, which made heauen and earth, and hathe power vpon al flesshe. The kynge sayde vnto hym: thynkest thou not that Bell is a lyuynge GOD: Or seest thu not howe muche he eateth ¶ drynketh euery daye: Daniel smileth and sayd: O kinge, disceaue not thy selfe, for thys is but made of claye wythyn, and of metall wythoute *neyther eateth he euer anye thynge.

Then the kynge was wroth, ¶ called for hys prestes, and sayd vnto them: yf ye tell me not who is thys, þ eateth vp these expenses, ye shall dye: but yf ye cã certifie me þ Bel eateth them, thẽ Daniel shal dye, for he hath spoken blasphemie agaynste Bel. And Daniel sayd vnto þ kyng: let it so be, accordinge as thu hast sayde: The preastes of Bell were lxx. besyde theyr wyues and chyldren. And the kynge went with Daniel into þ temple of Bel. So Bels prestes sayde: Loo, we wyl go oute, and sette thou the meate there (O kyng) ¶ poure in þ wyne, then shut the doore fast, and seale it with thyne owne sygnet: and tomorowe when thou commest in, yf thu fyndest not that Bell hath eaten vp al, we wyll suffre deathe, or els Daniel that hath lyed vpon vs. The prestes though them selues sure ynoughe, for vnder þ aultaze they had made a priuie entraunce, and there went they in euer, and dyd eate vp what there was.

So when they were gone forth, the kyng set meates before Bell. Now Daniel had commaunded hys seruauntes to bringe ashes, ¶ these he syfted thorowout al the temple, þ that kyng myght se. Then went they out, and spared the doore, sealinge it with the kynges signet and so departed. In the nyght came þ preestes, with theyr wyues and chyldren (as they were wonte to do) ¶ dyd eate and dryncke vp al. In þ morninge by tymes at the breake of the daye, the kynge arose, and Daniel with him. And the kyng sayde: Daniel, are the seales whole yet: He answered: yee (O kynge) thei be whole. Nowe as soone as he had opened the doore, the kyng loked vnto the aultare, and cryed with a loude voyce: Great art thou (O Bel) ¶ with þ, is no disceyte. Then laughed Daniel, and helde the kyng that he shoulde not go in, and sayde: Beholde the pauement, make well whose foote steppes are these: The kynge sayd: I se the foote steppes of men, women, ¶ chyldrẽ.

Therfore the kynge was angrye, and toke the prestes, with theyr wyues and chyldren, and they shewed hym the priuie doores, where they came in, and dyd eat vp suche thynges as wer vpon the aulter. For the wiche cause the kynge slue thẽ, *¶ deliuered Bel into Daniels power whiche destroyed hi ¶ his tẽple.

And in that same place there was a greate dragon, whiche they of Babilõ worshypped. And the kyng sayde vnto Daniel: sayest thou, that thys is but a good of metall also: lo, he lyueth, he eateth ¶ dryncketh: so that thou canste not saye, þ he is no lyuynge god, therfore worshyppe hym. Daniel sayde vnto the kynge: I wyll worshyppe the LORDE my GOD. *he is the true lyuyng GOD: as for thys, he is not the GOD of lyfe. But geue me leaue (O kynge) and I shall destroye thys dragon wythout sworde or staffe.

The kynge sayde: I geue the leaue. Then Daniel toke pitch, fat, and hearywol, ¶ did seth them together ¶ made lõpes thereof: thys he put in the dragons mouth, ¶ so the dragon brust in sunder, ¶ Daniel sayd: lo, there is he: whom ye worshipped. When they of Babylon herde that, they toke greate indignatiõ and gathered them together agaynste the kinge, sayinge. The king is become a Jew, and he hath destroyed Bell, he hath slayne the dragõ, ¶ put the prestes to death. So they came to the kyng, ¶ saide: let vs haue Daniel, or els we wyl destroy the and thyne house.

Nowe when the kynge sawe, þ they ruished in so sore vpon him, and that necessitie constrayned hym, *he deliuered Daniel vnto them whych cast hym into the lions den, wher he was vi. dayes In the denne there were seuen Lions and they had geuẽ them euery day two bodies and two shepe: whych then were not geuen them, to the intente þ they myghte deuour Daniel.

Dani. 14.

There was in Jewrye a Prophete called Habacuc, whych had made pottage, and brokẽ breade in a deepe platter,

and

and was goynge into the felde, for to bryng it to the repers. But the Angel of the LORDE sayde vnto Abacuc, go cary the meate þ thou haste into Babylon, vnto Daniel, whyche is in þ Lions denne. And Abacuc saide: LORDE I neuer sawe Babilon: and as for the denne, I knowe it not. * Then the Angel of the LORDE toke hym by the toppe, & beare hym by the heare of the head and (throwe a myghtye wynde) set him in Babilon vpon the denne. And Abacuc cryed, saynge: O Daniel * thou seruaunte of GOD, haue, take the breakefaste, þ GOD hath sente the. And Daniel sayd: O GOD hast thou thought vpon me: well, thou neuer faylest them that loue the. So Daniel arose, and did eate: and the Angel of þ LORD set Abacuc in his owne place agayne immediatly.

Upō the seuēth daye, the kynge wente to bewepe Daniel: and when he came to the denne he loked in: and beholde, Daniel sat in the myddest of the Lions. Then cryed the kynge wyth a loude voyce, sayinge: great art thu O LORDE GOD of Daniel: * & he drewe hym out of the Lions denne. & As for those that were the cause of hys destruction he did cast thē into þ denne, & they were deuoured in a moment before his face.

After thys, wrote the kynge vnto all people, kynredes, and tōges, that dwelte in al coūtryes, sayinge: peace be multiplied with you. My commaundemente is in all the dominion of my realme: þ men feare and stande in awe of Danielis GOD * for he is the lyuynge GOD whyche endureth euer: hys kyngedome abydeth vncorrupte, and his power is euerlastynge. It is he that can deliuer & saue: he doth wonders and marueloꝰ workes in heauen and in earth, for he hathe saued Daniel from the power of the Lions.

The ende of the Historie of Bell.

The prayer of Manasses kynge of Iuda, when he was holden captiue in Babilon.

O LORD Almyghty, GOD of our fathers Abraham, Isaac, & Jacob, and of the rygh-teous sede of them which hast made heauen and earth, with all the ornament therof, whych hast ordeyned the see, by þ word of thy commaundement, which hast shut vp þ depe, & hast sealed it for thy fearfull and laudable name, which all men feare, and tremble before the face of thy vertue, and for the anger of thy threatenynge, the whiche is impor table to sinners. But the mercy of thy promise is great & vnsearcheable, for thou arte the LORDE GOD most hye aboue all the earth, longesufferynge, & exceadynge mercyfull, and repentaunce for þ malice of men. Thou LORDE after thy goodnes hast promised repentaunce of the remission of synnes: and thou that art the GOD of þ righteous, hast not put repenteaunce of þ righteous Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: vnto them þ haue synned agaynst þ: But because I haue synned aboue þ nomber of þ sandes of the see, & that myne iniquities are multiplied, I am humbled wt manye bandes of yron, & there is in me no breathynge. I haue prouoked thyne anger, & haue done euel before þ, in committynge abominacion & multiplienge offences. And nowe I bowe þ knees of my herte, requirynge goodnes of þ O LORD. I haue synned, LORD I haue synned, & knowe myne iniquite. I desire the by prayer, O LORDE forgeue me: forgeue me, and destroye me not wyth myne iniquities, nether do thou alwayes remember myne euels, to punish them, but saue me (whych am vnworthy) after thy greate mercie: and I wyl prayse the euerlastynglye, al þ dayes of my lyfe: for all the vertue of heauen praiseth the, and vnto þ belongeth glorie world without ende. Amen.

3. Reg. 11. d

1. Mac.

* And after ꝑ Anthiochus had smytē C Egypt, he turned agayne in the C.liij. yeare, and went towarde Israell, & came vp to Jerusalem with a mighty people: & entred proudly into ꝑ Sanctuarie, & toke away the golden aulter, the candelstycke and al ꝑ ornamētes ther of, the table of the shewbread, the powring vessel, the charges, the golden spones, the vayl, ꝑ crownes, and ꝑ golden apparel of the temple, & brake downe al. He toke also the syluer and gold, ꝑ precious Jewels, and the secret treasures ꝑ he found. And when he had takē away altogether, caused a great murther of mē, & so fulfilled hys malicious pryde he departed into his owne lande.

1. Mac.

Thus there arose greate heuynesse & D miserie in all the land of Israel. * The princes & the elders of the people mourned, the yong men & the maydens were defyled, and the fayre bewtie of women was chaunged: the brydegrome & the bryde toke them to mourning: the lande & those that dwelte therein, was moued: for all the house of Jacob was broughte to confusion.

1. Mac.

* After two yeares the kynge sente his chefe treasurer vnto ꝑ cities of Juda, whyche came to Jerusalem with a greate multitude of people, speakyng peaciable wordes vnto thē, but al was dysceate: for when they hat geuen hym credence, he fell sodenly vpon the citie, and smote it soore, and destroyed much people of Israel. * And whē he had spoyled ꝑ citie, he set fyre on it, castyng downe houses & walles on euerye side. The wemen and theyr children toke they captiuie, & led awaye theyr catell. Thē buylded they the citie of Dauid wyth a greate & thycke wal, & wyth myghtie towarres, & made it a strōge holde for thē. Besyde al thys, they set wicked people & vngodly men to kepe it, stoared it wt weapens and vytayles: gathered ꝑ goodes goodes of Jerusalem and laied thē vp there: thus became it a theuishe castel.

And thus was done to laye wayte for the people that wente into the Sanctuarie, and for the cruel destruction of Israel. Thus they shed innocente blode on euery syde of the Sanctuarie, & defyled it: In so muche that ỳ citezyns were faine to departe, and the citie became an habitacion of straungers, beyng desolat of her owne seede, for her owne natiues were fayne to leaue her. *Her Sanctuarie was cleane wasted her holy dayes were turned into mourning, her Sabbothes were had in derisiō, & her honoure brought to naughte. Looke howe great her glorie was afore, so greate was her confusion, and her Ioye turned into sorowe.

*Antiochus also the kyng sent out a commission vnto all hys kyngedome, ỳ all the people shulde be one. Then they lefte euery man hys lawe, and all the Heathen agreed to the commaūdemēt of kynge Antiochus: yee, many of the Israelites consented there vnto offeryng vnto Idols, and defyling the Sabboth. So the kinge Antiochus sent his messeaungers with his commission vnto Jerusalem, and to all the cities of Juda: that they shulde folowe the lawes of the Heathen, and forbad ether burnte offeringe, meat offering: or peace offerynge to bemade in the temple of GOD, and that there shulde no Sabboth nor hye feast day be kept: but commaunded ỳ the Sanctuarie & the holy people of Israel shulde be defiled. He commaunded also ỳ there shulde be set vp other aulters, tempels, and Idols: to offer vp swines flesshe, and other vncleane beastes, ỳ me shulde leaue theyr chyldren vncircūcised, to defyle theyr soules wt al maner of vncleanesse & abominacions ỳ they myghte forget the lawe, and chaunge all the holye ordinaunces of GOD: & that whosoeuer wolde not do accordynge to the commaundement of kyng Antiochus: shulde suffer death. In lyke maner commaūded he thorowout al his realme, and set rulers ouer the people, for to cōpell them to do these thynges, cōmaundynge ỳ cities of Juda to do sacrifice vnto idols

Then wente the people vnto ỳ Heathen by heapes, forsoke the lawe of the LORDE, and committed muche euel in the lande: yee, and chaunged oute the secret Israelites, whych had hyd them selues in corners & priuie places. The fyftene daye of ỳ mooneth Cisleu in the hundred & fyue & fortye yeare, set kyng Antiochus an abommable Idoll of desolacion vppon the aulter of GOD, and they buylded alters thorowoute al the cities of Juda on euerye syde before ỳ doores of the houses, and in the stretes were they brent incense, and dyd sacrifice.* And as for the bokes of the law of GOD, they brente them in the fyre, & rente them in peces. Whatsoeuer he was that had a booke of the Testamente of the LORDE founde by hym, yee, whosoeuer endeuoured him selfe to kepe the lawe of the LORDE, the kynges cōmaundemente was, that they shuld put him to death. And thorowe hys autorite they executed these thinges euery Mooneth vpon the people of Israel that were founde in the cities. Ierem 36.e Acto 39.b.

*The fyue and twentye daye of the Moneth, what tyme as they dyd sacrifice vpon the aulter (whyche stoode in the strade of the aulter of the LORDE) accordynge to the commaundement of kinge Antiochus, they put certaine women to death, whych had caused theyr chyldren to be circumsid: Not onlye ỳ, but they hanged vp the chyldren by ỳ neckes thorowoute all theyr houses, & slewe the circumcisers of them. 2.Mac. 6.b

yet were there many of the people of Israell, whych determayned in them selues, that they wolde not eate vncleane thynges: but chose rather to suffer death, thē to be defyled wyth vncleane meates: So because they wolde not breake the blessed lawe of GOD, they were cruelly slayne. And thys greate tyrannie increased verie sore vpon the people of Israel.

The ij. Chapter.

¶ The mournynge of Mattathias and hys sonnes for the destruction of the holy cite. They refuse to do sacrifice vnto Idols. The zele of Mattathias for the lawe of GOD: They are slayne and wel not fyghte agayne because of the Sabboth day. Mattathias dyinge commaundeth hys sonnes to stycke by the worde of GOD after the exāple of the fathers of Joarib) from Jerusalem, and dwelte vpon the mounte of Modin, and had v. sonnes, Jhon called Gaddys, Simon called Thasi: Judas, otherwyse called Machabeus: Eleazer, otherwise called Abaron: & Jonathas, whose syrname was Apphus. These sawe þ cuell þ was done among the people of Juda, & Jerusalem. And Mattathias sayde: Woo is me, alas þ euer I was borne, to se this miserie of my people, & þ petreous destruction of þ holy citie: & thus to syt so stil, it being deliuered into þ handes of þ enemies. *Her Sanctuarie is come into the power of straungers: her Temple is, as it were a man that hath lost hys good name: Her precious ornamentes are caryed awaye captiuie. Her old men are slayne in the stretes, & her yonge men are fallen thorowe the swearde of the enemies. 1. Mac. 6.

IN those dayes there dyd stande vp one Mattathias ỳ sonne of Jhon the sonne of Simeon the preast (out of ỳ kinred of Joarib Ioseph Antiquit. li. 12 cap. 7.

What people is it, that hath not some possession in her kyngdome? Or who hath not gotten somme of her spoyles? All her glorie is taken a waye. She was a fere woman and nowe she is become an hande mayde.

Beholde oure Sanctuarie, oure bewtye & honoure is wasted awaye, & defyled þ Gentiles. What helpeth it vs thē to lyue? And Mattathias rente his clothes, he & hys sonnes, & put sackecloth vpon them, and mourned very sore. B

Then came the men thyther whyche were sente of kynge Antiochus, to compell suche as were fled into the citie of Modin, for to do sacrifice, and to burne incense vnto Idolles, and to forsake the law of GOD. So, many of the people of Israell consented and enclined vnto them, but Mattathias and his sōnes remayned stedfaste. Then spake þ commissioners of kynge Antiochus, & sayd vnto Mattathias: Thou arte a noble man, of hye reputacion & greate in thys citie, hauinge fayre chyldrē and brethren. Come thou therefore fyrste, and fulfyl the kinges commaundemente, lyke as all the Heathen haue done, yee and the men of Juda, & such as remayne at Jerusalem: so shalt thou and thy chyldren be in the kynges fauour and enryched wyth gold, syluer, and greate rewardes.

Mattathias answered, & spake w a loude voyce: Though al nacios obey þ kig Antiochus, & fal away euery mā from keping the lawe of theyr fathers: though thy consente to hys cōmaundemētes yet wil I & my sonnes & brethrē not fall from the lawe of our fathers. GOD forbyd we shulde, that were not good for vs* that we shulde forsake þ lawe & ordynaunces of GOD, & to agre vnto the commaundemente of kynge Antiochus. Therefore we wyll do no suche sacrifice, neyther breake the statutes of oure lawe* to goo another way. And whē he had spoken these wordes, there came one of þ Iewes, which openly in the syght of al, did sacrifice vnto the Idolles vpon the aulter in the citie of Modin, accordyng to the kynges commaundemente. Act. 4. Pro. 4. C

When Mattathias sawe thys, it greued hym at þ herte, so that hys raynes shoke with all, and hys wrath kyndled for very zeale of the lawe. Wyth þ he starte vp, and killed the Iewe besyde þ alter: yee, and slewe the kynges commissioner, that compelled hym to do sacrifice, and destroyed þ same time: such a zeale had he vnto the lawe of GOD* Num. Lyke as Phineas dyd vnto Zambri þ sonne of Salomi. And Mattathias cried wyth a lowde voyce thorowe the citie sayinge. Whoso is feruent in the lawe, and wyll kepe the couenaunte, let hym folowe me. * So he and hys sonnes fled in to the mountaynes, and left all that euer they had in the citie. Many other godlye men also departed into the wyldernesse wyth theyr chyldren theyr wyues and theyr catell, and remayned there: for the tyranny increased sore vpon them. 1. Mac.

Nowe when the kynges seruauntes, and the hooste, whych was at Jerusalē in þ citie of Dauid heard þ certayne men had broken the kynges commaundement, and were gone theyr waye to the wyldernes into secret places, and þ there were many departed after them: they folowed vpon them, to fyght against them, on the Sabboth day and sayde wyll, ye yet rebel: Get you hence and do the commaundement of kynge Antiochus, and ye shal lyue. They answered:* We wyll not go forth, neyther wyl we do the kynges cōmaundement to defyle the Sabboth daye. Then beganne they to fyghte agaynste them: nerthelesse, they gaue thē none other answere, neyther caste they one stone at them, D 1. Mac.

at the, nor made faste theyr preuie places, but sayd: we wyll dye all in our innocency, heauen and earth shall testefie with vs that ye put vs to death wrongfully. Thus they sought agaynst them vpon the sabboth, and slewe both men and cattel, theyr wyues & theyr childre nombre of a thousande people.

When Mattathias and hys frendes hearde thys, they mourned for them eyght sore and sayde one to another: If so be that we all do as our brethren haue done, and fyght not for our lyues & for our lawes agynst the heathen, then shall they the soner rote vs out of the earth. So they concluded among them selues at the same time: sayeng, whatsoeuer he be ỳ cõmeth to make battayle w vs vpon the Sabboth day, we wil fyght agaynste him & not dye al, as our brethren ỳ were murthered so haynously. Upon thys came the Synagoge of the Jewes vnto ỳ stronge men of Jsrael, all suche as were feruent in ỳ lawe. And all they that were fled for persecution, came to helpe them, & to stande by them: In so muche that they gathered an host of men, & slue ỳ wycked doers in theyr gelousy and the vngodly men in theyr wrath. Some of ỳ wicked fled vnto the heathen, and escaped.

Thus Mattathias and his frendes went aboute, and destroyed ỳ aulters and circumcised ỳ chyldren, that had not yet receiued circumcision: as many as they founde within the coastes of Jsrael: and folowed mightely vpon the children of pryde, & this acte prospered in theyr hãdes: In so muche, ỳ they kepte the lawe agaynste the power of the Gentiles & the kynges: and gaue not ouer theyr dominiõ vnto wicked doers

f After thys, when ỳ tyme drue on fast that Mattathias shulde dye, he sayd vnto hys sonnes: Nowe is pryde and persecucion increased, nowe is the tyme of destruction & wrathfull displeasure: wherfore (O my sonnes) be ye feruente in ỳ lawe, & ieoparde your lyues for the Testament of ỳ fathers, call to remembraũce what actes our fathers dyd in theyr time, so shall ye receue grete honour and euerlastyng name.

*Remembre Abraham, was not he founde saythfull in temptacion, and it was reckened vnto hym for ryghteousnes: & Joseph in tyme of hys trouble kepte the commaundement, & was made a LORDE of Egipte. * Phineas our father was so feruent for ỳ honour of GOD, that he optained ỳ couenaunt of euerlastyng presthode. * Josua for fulfyllyng the worde of GOD, was made the captayne of Jsraell. * Caleb bare recorde before the cõgregacion and receiued an heritage. * Dauid also in his mercifull kyndnes, optayned the trone of an euerlastynge kyngdome. * Elias beyng geleous and feruent in the lawe was taken vp into heauen. Hananias, Azarias & Misael remayned stedfast in faythe, & were delyuered out of the fyre. Lyke maner * Daniell beyng vngyltie, was saued from the mouth of the Lyons. Num.25.e. Eccle.45.f Num.17.d. Iosue.1.a. Nu.14.d. 1.Re.24.e 4.Reg.c: Dani.3.d. Dani.6.c:

G And thus ye maye cõsidre thorowout all ages syns the worlde began, ỳ whosoeuer put theyr trust in GOD, were not ouercome. Feare not ye then ỳ worldes of an vngodly man. For hys glorie is but donge and wormes: to day is he set vp, and to morowe is he gone: for he is turned into earth, and his memorial is come to nought. Wherfore, (O my sõnes) take good hertes vnto you, and quite your selues like men in the lawe, for yt ye do ỳ thinges ỳ are cõmaunded you in ỳ lawe of ỳ LORD your GOD, ye shal obtayne greate honour therin.

And beholde, I knowe that your brother Simon is a mã of wysedome: se ỳ ye gyue eare vnto hym alwaye, he shal be a father vnto you. As for Judas Machabeus, he hathe euer bene myghty & stronge from his youth vp: let hym be your captayne, & ordre the battayle of the people: thus shall ye bryng vnto you all those that fauour the lawe, and se ỳ ye auenge ỳ wrong of your people and recompence ỳ heythen agayn & applyce your selues whole to ỳ commaundement of ỳ lawe. So he gaue thẽ hys blessing & was layde by hys fathers: & dyed in the hundreth. xlvj. yeare at Modyn, where his sonnes buryed him in hys fathers sepulchre, & all Jsraell made greate lamentacion for hym.

The iij. Chapter.

¶ Judas is made ruler ouer the Jewes, & killeth Appollonius and Serõ the prynces of Syria. The confidence of Judas toward God. Judas determineth to fyght agaynst Lisias, whõ Antiochus had made captayn ouer hys hoste. The prayer of the abastamers.

Then

Then stode vp Judas Machabeus in hys fathers stede, & al hys brethren helped hym and so dyd al they that helde wyth hys father, and fought with cheresulnes for Israel. So Judas gat hys people greate honour. He put on a brestplace as a Gayaunte, and arayed him selfe wt his harnesse, and defended ỹ hooste wt his swearde. In his actes he was lyke a Lion, & a Lions whelpe roaring at his pray * He was an enemie to ỹ wycked, and hunted them out: & and brent vp those that vexed hys people: So that hys enemies fled for feare of hym, and al the workers of vngodlines were put to trouble: suche luke & prosperitie was in hys hande. Thys greued diuers kinges, but Jacob was greatly reioysed thorowe his actes, and he gat hym selfe a great name for euer.

Josu. 8. 9. & 11.

1. Mac. 3. c.

He went thorowe ỹ cities of Juda, destroyeng the vngodlie out of them, turning away the wrath from Israel, and receyuing such as were oppressed: and ỹ fame of him went vnto the vttermost parte of the earth. Then Appolonius (a prince of Syria) gathered amighty great host of the heythen, and out of Samaria, to fyght a gaynste Israell. Which when Judas perceyued, he wēt agaynst hym, and slewe hym, & a great multitude wyth him, ỹ remnaunt fled, & he toke theyr substaunce. Judas also toke Appollonius owne swearde, and fought wyth it all hys lyfe longe.

Nowe when Seron (another prince of Syria) herde saye, that Judas had gathered vnto hym the congregacion and churche of the faythful, he sayde: I wyll get me a name & a prayse thorow out ỹ realme: for I wyl go fyght wt Judas and them ỹ are with him, as many as haue despysed the kinges commaundemēt. So he made him ready, & there went with him a greate myghty hoost of the vngodly, to stande by him, & to be auenged of the children of Israel. And when they came ny vnto Bethorō, Judas went forth agaynst them with a smal cōpany. And when his people sawe suche a great hoost before thē, they sayde to Judas: Howe are we able (beyng so fewe) to fyght agaynste so great a multitude & so stronge, seyng we be so wery & haue fasted al thys daye.

1. Re. 14. c. * But Judas sayde: It is a small matter for many to be ouercome wt fewe, yea, there is no differēce to the God of heauen, to deliuer by a great multitude or by a smal company: * for ỹ battayle of the battayle standeth not in the multitude of the host, but the strength commeth from heauen. Beholde, they come agaynst vs with a presumtious & proude multitude, to destroye vs, our wyues & our children, and to robbe vs. But we wyll fyght for our lyues, and our lawes & the LORDE hym selfe shal destroye them before our face: therfore be not ye afrayde of them.

As soone as he had spoken these wordes, he leape sodaynly vpon thē. Thus was Seron smytten, and his hoost put to flyght, & Judas folowed vpon them beyonde Bethoron vnto the playne fielde: where there were slayne eyght hundred men of them, and the residue fled into the lande of the Philistines. Then all the Heathen on euery syde were afrayde of Judas and his brethren: so ỹ the rumour of him came vnto the kynges eares, for all the Gentyles coulde tel of the warres of Judas.

So when kynge Antiochus heard these tydynges, he was angry in his mynde: wherefor he sente forth, and gathered an hoost of hys whole realme, very strong armies: & opened hys treasury & gaue his hoost a peares wages in hande, commaundyng them to be ready at all tymes.

Neuertheles, when he sawe, ỹ there was not money ynough in his treasuryes, and ỹ thorowe the disorde & persecucion, whych he made in the lande (to put downe ỹ lawes ỹ had bene of olde tymes) his customes & tributes of ỹ lande were minished: he feared that he was not hable for to beare the costes & charges any longer, nor to haue suche gyftes, to gyue so liberally as he did afore, more thē the kynges that were before hym.

Wherefore, he was heuy in his mynde, and thought * to go into Persides, for to take tributes of the land, & so to gather muche money. So he lefte Lysias (a noble man of the kynges blood) to ouerse the kynges busynesses, from the water Euphrates vnto ỹ borders of Egypte: and to kepe well hys sonne Antiochus, tyl he came agayn.

1. Mac. 14. c.

Moreouer, he gaue hym halfe of hys hoost and

Ehoost and Elephantes, cõmitted vnto him euery thyng of hys mynde, concernynge those whych dwell in Juda and Jerusalem: that he shuld sende oute an armye agaynst them, to destroye & rote out the power of Israel, & the remnaũt of Jerusalem: to put out theyr memorial from ỳ place, to set straũgers for to enhabite theyr quarters, & parte theyr lande amonge them: Thus the kynge toke the other parte of the hoost, and departed from Antioche (a citie of his realme) ouer the water of Euphrates, in the hundred and xlvij. yeare, & went thorowe the hyghe countryes.

17 *And Lisias chose vnto hym Ptolomie the sonn of Dorimenus, Nicanor & Gorgias mightie men, & the kynges frẽdes. These he sent with forty thousande foote men, & seuen thousande horsemen, for to go into the lande of Juda, & to destroye it, as the kynge commaunded. So they wente forth with al theyr power, & came to Emaus into ỳ playne felde. When the marchauntes hearde ỳ rumoure of them, they & theyr seruauntes, toke verye much syluer & golde, for to by the chyldren of Israel to be theyr bond men: There came vnto them also yet mo men of warre on euery syde, out of Syria, and from the Philistines.

1 Now when Judas and hys brethrẽ sawe that trouble increased, and that ỳ hoost drewe nye vnto theyr borders, cõsidringe the kynges wordes which he commaunded vnto the people: namelye that they shulde vtterlye wast and destroye them: They sayde to another: Let vs redresse the decaye of our people, let vs fyghte for oure folke and for oure Sanctuarie. Then the congregatiõ were sone readye gathered to fyght to praye, and to make supplicacion vnto GOD for mercye and grace.

18 *As for Jerusalem, it laye voyde & was as it had bene a wildernesse. There went no man in or out at it, and the Sanctuarie was troden downe. The alcauntes kepte the castell, there was the habitacion of ỳ Heathẽ. The myrth of Jacob was taken away, the ỳpe & the harpe was gone from amonge thẽ.

6 The Israelytes gathered them together & came to Maspha before Jerusalem: for in Maspha was the place * where they prayed afore time in Israel. So they fasted that daye, and put sackeclothes vpon them, and caste ashes vpon theyr heades, rente their clothes, and layde forthe ỳ bookes of the lawe (whereout the Heathen sought the lykenes of theyr ymages) & brought the preastes ornamentes, ỳ firstlynges & ỳ tithes. They set ther also ỳ *abstainers (which had fulfilled theyr dayes) before GOD, and cryed with a loude voyce, towarde heauẽ, saying: What shall we do with these: & whether shal we carye thẽ awaye: For thy Sanctuarie is troden downe & defiled, thy preastes are come to heynesse and dishonoure: and beholde, the Heathẽ are come together for to destroye vs. Thou knowest what thynges they imagine against vs. How maye we stand before thẽ, excepte thou (O GOD) be oure helpe: Num. 6.b

They blewe out the trompet also w a lowde voyce. Then Judas ordeined *captaines ouer the people: ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fifty, and ouer ten. But as for such as buylded them houses, maryed wyues, planted them vyneyardes, and those that were fearful: he cõmaunded them euery man to go home agayne, accordinge * to the lawe. So the hoost remoued, & pitched vpon the southsyde of Emaus. And Judas sayde: Armye youre selues, be strõg (O my chyldrẽ) make you redy against tomorowe in the mornynge, ỳ ye maye fyght w these people, whych are agreed together to destroye vs and our Sanctuarie. Better is it for vs to dye in bat tayle, then to se oure people & our Sanctuarie in such a miserable case. Neuertheless, as thy wyll is in heauẽ, so be it. Exo.18.d Deut.20.d Iudi.7.a Math. 6.b. Luce 11.a

The iiij. Chapter.

¶ Judas goeth agaynste Gorgias, which lyeth in wayt. He putteth Gorgias and hys hoste to flyghte. Lisias inuaderh Jewry, but Judas dryueth hym ente. Judas purifieth the Temple and dedicateth the aulter.

THen toke Judas fyue thousande men of fote, and a thousand of the beste horsemen, and remoued by nyghte, to come nye where the Jewes hooste laye, and so to slay them sodenlye. Nowe the men that kepte the castel, were the conueyers of them. Then arose Judas to smyte the chefe and principal of the kynges hoste at Emaus, for the armye was not yet come together. In the meane season came Gorgias by nyghte into Judas tẽ- Ioseph. li. 12. capi. 10.

tes: & when he founde no man there, he soughte them in the Mountaynes, and thought they had ben fled away, because of hym. But whē it was daye, Judas shewed hymselfe in the felde wyth thre thousande men onelye, whych had nether herneſſe nor swerdes to theyr mynds. But on the other syde, they sawe ỳ the Heathē were myghtye and wel harnessed, and theyr horsemen aboute thē, and all these well experte in feates of warre. Then sayde Judas to the men ỳ were with hym: Feare ye not the multitude of thē, be not afrayde of theyr violente rummynge: remember, howe oure
Exo. 14 f fathers were delyuered *in the red see, when Pharao folowed vpon thē wyth a great hooste. Euen so let vs also crye nowe towarde heauen, and ỳ LORDE shall haue mercy vpon vs, & remember the couenaunte of oure fathers: yea, & destroye thys host before your face this daye: And all the Heathen shal knowe, that it is GOD himselfe, whych delyuereth and saueth Israell.

B Then ỳ Heathen lyfte vp theyr eyes, and when they sawe that they were cōmynge agaynst them, they wente out of theyr tentes into the battayle: and they that were wyth Judas, blewe vp the
1. Mac. 7. d trōpettes. *So they buckled together, and the Heathen were discomfited and fled ouer the playne felde: but the hynmoste of them were slayne. For they folowed vpō them vnto Assaremoth, and into the feldes of Idumea towarde Azot and Jamnia: so that there were slayne of them vpon a thre thousande men. So Judas turned agayne wyth hys hooſt, and saide vnto the people: Be not gredy of the spoyles, we haue yet a battayle to fyght, for Gorgias & hys hooſt are here by vs in the mountaynes, but stande ye fast agaynst youre enemies, and ouercome them, then maye ye safly take the spoyles.

C As Judas was speakynge these wordes, beholde there appered one parte of them vpon the mount. But when Gorgias saw that they of hys partye were fled, and the tentes brent vp (for by the smocke they myght vnderstande what was done) they perceauinge thys, were verye sore afrayde: & when they sawe also ỳ Judas and hys hooſte were in the felde ready to stryck battayle, they fled euerye one into the lande of the Heathē.

So Judas turned agayne to spoyle the tentes, where thy gat much golde & syluer, precious stones, purple & greate ryches. Thus they wente home, & songe a Psalme of thanckesgeuyng, & praised GOD in heauen: *for he is gracious and hys mercye endureth for euer. And so Israell had a greate victorie in that daye. Nowe all the Heathen that escaped, came & tolde Lisias euery thynge as it happened. Wherfore Lisias was sore afrayed, and greued in hys mynd, because Israel had not gotte such myshortune, as he wolde they should, nether as the kynge commaunded. The nexte yeare folowynge gathered Lisias thre score thousande chosen men of foote, and fyue thousande horsemen to fyght agaynste them.

So they came into Jewry, & pyched theyr tētes at Bethoron, where Judas came agaynst them with ten thousand men. And when he sawe so greate and myghtye an hoste, he made hys prayer, & sayde: Blessed be thou (O sauyoure of Israell) *whych deddeste destroye the violente power of the Gyaunte, in the hande of thy seruaūte Dauid, *and gauest the hooſt of the Heathen into the hāde of Jonathas (the sonne of Saul) & of his weapon bearer. Put thys host nowe into the hande of thy people of Israel, and let them be confounded in theyr multitude and horsemen. Make them afrayed, and discōforte the boldnesse of theyr strength, that they maye be moued thorow there destruction. Cast thē downe thorow the swearde of thy louers, then shall all they ỳ knowe thy name, prayse the wyth thankesgeuynge. So they stroke the battaile, and there were slayne of Lisias hooſte fyue thousande men. Then Lisias seyng the discomfytyng of his men, and the manlinesse of the Jewes, how they were redy, eyther to lyue or dye lyke men: he went vnto Antioch, & chose out men of warre: that when they were gathered together, they myghte come agayne into Jewry. Then sayd Judas and hys brethren, beholde, oure enemies are discomfited: Let vs now go vp, to clense & repare the Sanctuarie.

*Upon thys all the hooſte gathered
1. Mac. 4. a them together, and went vp into mount Sion. Nowe when they sawe the Sanctuarie layed waste, the Aulter defiled.

defiled, the doores brent vp ꝓ shrubbes growynge in the courtes, lyke as in a woode or vpon mountaynes: yea, and ꝓ the preastes Celles were broken downe: They rent theyr clothes, mad great lamentacion, caste ashes vpon theyr heedes, fell downe flatte to the grounde, made a greate noyse wyth ꝓ trompettes, and cryed towarde heauen.

Then Judas appoynted certayne men to fyghte agaynst those whych were in the castel tyll they had clensed the Sanctuarie. So he chose preastes that were vndefiled, such as had pleasure in the lawe of GOD: and they clensed the Sanctuarie: and bare oute the defyled stones into an vncleane place. And for so muche as the aulter of burntoffrynges was vnhalowed, he toke aduysemente, wat he myght do wythall, so he thought it was best to destroye it (leste it shulde happē to do them any shame) for the Heathen had defyled it, & therefore thy brake it downe. As for ꝓ stones they layed them vp vpō the mountayne by the house, in a conueniente place: tyll there came a Prophete, to shewe what shulde be done wyth them.

f *So they tooke whole stones, accordinge to the lawe, and buylded a newe aulter, such one as was before, & made vp the Sanctuarie wythin and without, and halowed the house and ꝓ courtes. They made newe ornamentes, and broughte the candelsticke, the aulter of incense, and the table into the temple. The incense layed they vpō the aulter, and lyghted the lampes whych were vpon the candelstyck, ꝓ they myght burne in the tēple. They set ꝓ shewebreade vpon the table, & hanged vp the vayle, and set vp the temple, as it was afore.

And vpon the fyue & twentye daye of the nynthe moneth, whych is called the moneth of Casleu, in the hundred and eyghte & fortye yeare, they rose vp by tymes in the mornyng, for to do sacrifice (accordīg to the lawe) vpon the newe burntoffrynge aulter ꝓ they had made: after the tyme and season that the Heathen had defiled it. The same daye was it set vp agayne, with sōges, pypes, harpes and cymbales.

And all the people fell vpon theyr faces, worshyppynge and thāckynge the GOD of heauen, which had geuē them the victorye. *So they kepte the dedicacion of the alter eyght dayes, offrynge burnte sacrifices and thanckeoffrynges wyth gladnesse. They decked the tē ple also with crownes and shyldes of golde, and halowed the portes & celles, and hanged doores vpon them. Thus there was verie greate gladnesse amonge the people, because the blasphemie of the Heathē was put waye. So Judas and hys brethren wyth the whole congregacion of Israel ordeined, * that ꝓ tyme of dedicacion of the aulter shulde be kepte in hys season frō yeare to yeare, by the space of eyghte dayes, from ꝓ fyue & twenty daye of the moneth Casleu, wyth myrthe and gladnesse. * Iohn 10.c

And at the same tyme buylded they vp the mount Sion wyth hye walles & strong towers round about: leste the Gētiles shulde come and treade it downe, as they dyd afore. Therefore Judas set men of warre in it, to kepe it, & made it stronge, for to defende Bethsura: that ꝓ people myght haue a refuge agaynst the Edomites. 1.Ma. 6.b.f

The v. Chapter.

¶ Judas vanyssheth the Heathen that go aboute to destroy Israel, and is holpē of hys brethren Simon and Jonathas. He ouerthroweth the cite of Ephrō, because they denyed hym passage thorow it.

IT happened also that when ꝓ Heathen round about hearde, how ꝓ the aulter & the Sāctuarie were set vp in theyr olde estate, it displeased thē very sore, wherefore they thought to destroye ꝓ generacion of Jacob that was amōge them: In so much ꝓ they beganne to slay & to persecute certayne of the people. * Then Judas fought agaynst the chyldren of Esau in Idumea, & agaynst those whych were at Arabathane (for they dwelte rounde aboute ꝓ Israelites) where he slew & spoiled a great multitude of thē. He thought also vpon the malice & vnfaythfulnesse of ꝓ chyldrē of Bean, how they were a snare & a stopp vnto ꝓ people, & howe they layd wayte for thē in ꝓ hye waye. Wherfore he shutte vp them into toweres, & came vnto them, destroyed them vtterlye and burnte vp theyr towers, with all that were in them. Iosephus libro 12.c.12. Eze.25.c and 35.a 2.Mac.10.c

Afterwarde wente he agaynste the chyldrē of Ammon, whereof he founde a myghtye power and a greate multitude of people, wyth Timothie theyr captayne. So he stroke manye battayles with them, whyche were destroyed before hym. And whē he had slayne them, he wāne Gazer ꝑ citie, wyth ꝑ townes belongynge therto, & so turned agayne into Jewrye. The Heathen also in Galaad gathered them together agaynste ꝑ Israelites ꝑ were in theyr quarters, to slay them: but they fled to the castell of Dathema & sente letters to Judas and his brethren, sayinge: The Heathē are gathered agaynst vs on euery syde, to destroye vs, & nowe they make them readie for to come, & laye seege to the castell, where vnto we are fled, & Timothie is captayne of theyr hooste: come therefore and delyuer vs oute of theyr handes: for there is a greate multitude of vs slayne alredye, yea, and oure brethren that were at Tubyn, are slayne, & destroyed (well nye a thousand men) and theyr wyues, theyr chyldren, and theyr goodes haue the enemies led awaye captiue.

B Whyle these letters were yet a redinge, beholde, there came other messengers from Galile with rente clothes: whych tolde euen the same tydynges, & sayde that they of Ptolemais, of Tyrus & of Sidon were gathered against them, and that all Galile was fylled wᵗ enemies, to destroye Israell. *When Judas and the people hearde this, they came together (a great congregacion) to deuise, what they myght do for their brethren, that were in trouble, and beseeged of theyr enemies. And Judas sayde vnto Simon hys brother: chose the oute certaine men, & go delyuer thy brethren in Galile: As for me and my brother Jonathas, we wyl go into Galaadythym. So he lefte Josephus the sonne of Zacharie, and Azarias to be Captaines of the people, and to kepe the remnaunte of the hooste in Jewry, and commaunded them sayinge: Take the ouersyghte of thys people, and se that ye make no warre against the Heathen, vntyll the tyme we come agayne. And vnto Simon he gaue three thousande men, for to go into Galile, but Judas himself had eyghte thousande in Galaadythym.

C Then went Simon into Galile, and stroke diuers battayles with the Heathen: whom he discomfyted, & folowed vpon them vnto ꝑ porte of Ptolemais. And there were slayne of the Heathen almooste three thousande men. So he toke the spoyles of them, & caryed awaye the Israelites that were in Galile and Arbatis, wyth theyr wyues, theyr chyldren, and all that they had, & broughte them into Jewry wyth great gladnes. Judas Machabeus also and hys brother Jonathas wente ouer Jordan, & trauayled iij. dayes iourney in the wyldernesse: where the Nebuthytes met them, and receaued them louyngly, & tolde them euerye thynge that had happened vnto theyr brethren in Galaadythym, & howe that many of them were beseeged in Barasa, Bozor, Alymys, Casphor, Mageth and Carnaim (all these are stronge walled and myghtye greate cities) and that they were kepte in other cities of Galaad also: & tomorow they are appoynted to bring theyr hooste vnto these cities, to take thē, and to wynne them in one daye.

So Judas and hys hooste turned in all the haste in ꝑ wyldernesse towarde Bozor, & wanne the citie, slewe al ꝑ males with the swerde, toke al theyr goodes, and set fyre vpon the citie. And in the nyght they toke theyr iourney from thence, and came to the castel. And by tymes in the mornyng when they loked vp, beholde, there was an innumerable people bearynge ladders and other instrumentes of warre, to take the castell and to ouercome them.

When Judas sawe that the battayle beganne, & that the noyse thereof went vp, and range into heauen, & that there was so greate a crye in the citie: He sayde vnto hys hooste: fyght this daye for youre brethren. And so came behynde theyr enemies in three companies, and blewe vp the trompettes, and cryed in theyr prayer to GOD.

But as soone as Timothes hooste perceaued ꝑ Machabeus was there, they fled from hym, and the other slew them downe ryghte sore: so ꝑ there was kylled of thē the same daye, almooste eyght M. men. Then departed Judas vnto Malpha, layde seege vnto it, & wanne it, slewe all the males in it, spoyled it, & set fyre vpon it: From thence wente he and tooke Casbon, Mageth, Bosor, & the other cities in Galaad.

*After thys gathered Timothie another hooste, whych pytched theyr tentes before Raphon beyōde ꝑ water. Judas also also sente to espye the hooste, and they broughte hym worde agayne, sayinge: All the Heathen that be rounde aboute vs, are gathered vnto hym, and ꝑ hoost is verie greate. yee, they haue hyred ꝑ Arabians to helpe them, and haue ꝑpched theyr tentes beyonde the water & are redy to come and fyghte agaynst ꝑ. So Judas wente on to mete them.

And Timothie sayde vnto ꝑ captaynes of hys hooste: when Judas and his hooste come nye ꝑ ryuer: yf ye go ouer fyrste, we shal not be able to wythstãde hym, for why: he wyll be to stronge for vs. But yf he dare not come ouer so ꝑ he pitche hys tẽte beyonde ꝑ water: thẽ wyll we go ouer, for we shalbe stronge ynoughe agaynste him. Nowe as sone as Judas came to ꝑ ryuer, he appoynted certayne scribes of the people, and commaunded them, sayinge: se that ye leaue none behynde vpon thys syde of the ryuer, but let euery man come to ꝑ battayle. So he wente fyrste ouer vnto them, and hys people after hym.

And al the Heathen were dyscomfyted before hym, and let theyr weapons fall, & ranne into the temple that was at Carnim. whyche citie Judas wãne, and burnte the temple wyth al ꝑ were in it: So was Carnaim subdued, and myghte not wythstande Judas. Then Judas gathered al the Israelites that were in Galadathym, from the leaste vnto the mooste, wyth theyr wyues & theyr chyldrẽ (a verye great hooste) for to come into the lande of Israell.

C Mem. *So they came vnto Ephrõ, which was a myghtie great and stronge citie, and laye in theyr waye. For they could not go by it, nether of the ryght hande nor of the lefte, but muste go thorowe it. Neuertheleſſe they that were in the citie wolde not let thẽ go thorowe, but walled vp the portes wyth stones. And Judas sent vnto them wyth peaceable wordes saying: Let vs passe thorowe youre land, ꝑ we maye go into oure owne countrey: there shal nobodye do you harme, we wyl but onelye go thorowe on foote. But they wolde not let thẽ in.

Wherefore Judas cõmaunded a proclamacion to be made thorowoute ꝑ hoste, ꝑ euery mã shuld kepe his order: & so they dyd theyr beste lyke valeaũte mẽ.

And Judas beseeged the citie al that day and all that nyght, and so wanne it: where they slew as many as were males, and destroyed the citie, and spoyled it, and wente thorowe all the citie ouer thẽ that were slayne. Then wente they ouer Jordayne into the playne felde before Bethsam. And Judas helped those forwarde that came behinde, and gaue the people good erhortacion al ꝑ waye thorowe, tyll they were come into the lande of Juda. Thus they wente vp vnto the mount Syon, where they offred with myrth* and thanksgeuyng: because ther were none of them slayne, but came home agayne peaceably. 1.Par.16.d

Nowe what tyme as Judas and Jonathas were in the lande of Galaad, & Simeon theyr brother in Galile before Ptolamays: Then Josephus the sonne of Zachary and Asarias ꝑ captaynes, hearynge of the actes that were done and of the battayles that were stryken, sayde: Let vs get vs a name also, and go fyghte agaynste the Heathen that are rounde a boute vs.

So they gaue theyr hooste a cõmaun f demẽt, & went toward Jamnya. Then came Gorgias and hys men oute of the citie, to fyghte agaynst them: Josephus also and Asarias were chaced vnto the borders of Jewry, & ther were slayne ꝑ daye of ꝑ people of Israel, two M. men: so ꝑ there was a greate miserie among the people * and all because they were not obediente vnto Judas & his brethren, but thought they shulde quite themselues manfully. Neuertheleſſe they cam not of the seed of these mẽ, by whome Israel was helped. But ꝑ men that were wyth Judas, were greatelye commended in the syght of al Israel, and al the Heathen, were soeuer theyr name was heard vpon, and the people came vnto them, byddynge them welcome. 1.Ma.5.b.

After thys wente Judas forthe with hys brethren, and foughte againste the chyldren of Esau, in ꝑ lande that lyeth towarde the south where he wanne ꝑ citie of Ebron, & the townes that lye beside it: and as for ꝑ walles and towre rounde aboute it, he brente them vp.

Then remoued he to goo into ꝑ lãde of the Philystines, and wente thorowe Samaria. At the same time were there manye Preastes slayne in the battayle, whyche wylfullye and wythoute aduysemente wẽte oute for to fyghte, to get them honoure. And when Judas came to Izot in the Phylistines lande, he bra ke downe theyr aulters, brēt the Ima ges of theyr Iolles, spoyled the cities, & came agayne into the lande of Juda.

The vi. Chapter.

Antiochus wyllinge to take the cite of Elymas for a praye, is driuen awaye of the cytezyns. He falleth into sycknesse and dyeth. Hys sonne Antiochus is made kynge. The besiege of the towre of Sion. Eupator commeth into Jewry with a greate armye. The boldnesse of Eleazar.

Iosephus ca pite. li. 12. antiq.

NOwe when kyng Antiochus trauayled thozowe ꝑ hye coū tries, he hearde that Elymas in Persia was a noble and plentrous citie in syluer and golde, and that there was in it a verye ryche temple: where as were clothes, cote armoures and shyldes of golde, whyche Alexandre the sonne of Philip kynge of Macedonia (that raygned fyrst in Gre ke lande) had left behynde hym. Where fore he wente aboute to take the citie & to spoyle it, but he was not able: for the citezyns were warned of it, and fought with him. And he fled and departed wi greate heuynesse, and came agayne into Babylon. Moreouer, there came one whych brought hym tydynges in Per 1. Mach. 3. c and 4. side, that hys hoostes, whyche were in the lāde of Juda, were dryuen awaye, and how that Lisias wente forthe fyrste with a great power, and was dryuē awaye of the Jewes: howe ꝑ they had wonne the victorie, and gotten greate goodes oute of the hoostes ꝑ perysshed, howe they had broken downe the abho Iosph. ca. 14. li. 12. 1. Mach. 3 f mination * which he set vp vpon ꝑ aul ter at Jerusalem, & fensed the Sanctua rie wyth hye walles, lyke as it was afo re: yee, and Bethsura his citie also.

So it chaunsed, that wen the kynge B had herde these wordes, he was afra yed, and greued verie sore. Wherefore he layde hym downe vpon hys bed, and fell sycke for verie sorowe: & all because it had not happened as he had deuysed. And there continueth he long, for hys grefe was euer mor and more, so ꝑ he sawe he must nedes dye. Therefore he sente for hys frendes, and sayde vnto them: the slepe is gone from myne eyes, for the verie sorowe & veracion of hert that I haue. For when I cōsider in my mynd the great aduersitie that I am come vnto, and ꝑ floudes of heuynesse whych I am come in, where as afore ty me I was so mery, & so greatlye set by (by reason of my power.) Agayne, con sidringe the euell that I haue done at Jerusalem, from whence I tooke all ꝑ rychesse of gold and syluer that were in it, and sente to fetche awaye the inhabi tours of Jewrye wythout anye reason why: I knowe that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause. And behold, I must dye wyth great sorow, in a straunge lande. Then called he for one Philip a frende of hys, whome he made ruler of all hys realme, and gaue hym the Crowne, hys roobe, and hys ringe: that he shulde take hys sonne An tiochus vnto hym, and bryngе hym vp, tyll he myghte raygne hym selfe. * So 1. Mac the kynge Antiochus dyed there, in the hundred and forty & nyne yeare. Whē Lisias knewe ꝑ the kynge was deed, he ordeined Antiochus his sonne (whō 1. Mac he had broughte vp) to raigne in hys fa thers steade, and called hym Eupator, nowe they that were in the castel (at Je rusalem) kepte in the Jewes rounde aboute the Sanctuarie, & soughte euer styll to do them harme for ꝑ strengthe nynge of the Heathen.

Wherefore Judas thoughte to de C stroye them, & called all the people toge ther, that they myghte laye seege vnto them. So they came together in the hū dred & fyftye yeare, and beseeged them, laying forth theyr ordinaunce and in strumentes of warre. Then certayne of them that were beseeged, wente forth (vnto whome some vngodly men of Is raell ioyned them selues also) & wente vnto ꝑ kynge, sayinge: How longe wyll it be, or thou punyshe and auenge our brethren: We haue euer bene mynded to do thy father seruice, to walke in hys statutes, and to obeye hys commaunde mentes. Therfore our people fell from vs, & whereseuer they founde anye of vs, they slewe them: & spoyled oure in heritaunce, & they haue not onelye med led with vs, but with all oure coūtreys and beholde, thys daye are they besie gynge the castell at Jerusalem, * and 1. Mac haue made vp ꝑ stronge holde in Beth sura. And yf thou doest not preuēte thē ryghte sone, they wyl do moare thē the se, and thou shalte not be able to ouer come thē. * Whē ꝑ kinge herde thys, he D was very angrye, & called all hys fren 1. Mac des, the captaines of hys sote men, and

of al hys horsemen together. He hyred men of warre also oute of other realmes & out of the Iles of the see, whyche came vnto hym. And ꝑ nombre of hys hooste was an hūdred thousande foote men, & twentye thousande horsemen, & two and thyrtye Elephantes wel exercysed in battayl. *These came thorowe Idumea vnto Bethsura, & beseeged it alonge season, and made dyuers instrumentes of warre agaynste it. But the Iewes came out and brente them, and foughte lyke men. Then departed Iudas from the castell at Ierusalem, and remoued the Hooste towarde Bethzacaran ouer agaynste the kynges armye.

So the kynge arose before the daye, and broughte the power of hys hooste into the way to Bethzacaran, where ꝑ hoostes made them redaye to the battayle, blowynge ꝑ trompettes. And to prouoke ꝑ Elephantes for to fight they shewed them the sap of red grapes and molberyes, and deuyded the Elephantes amonge the hooste: so that by euerye Elephant there stood a thousande men well harnessed, and helmettes of stele vpon theyr heades. yee, vnto euery one of the Elephantes also were ordeyned fyue hundred horsemē of ꝑ best, whiche wayted on ꝑ Elephant, goynge whersoeuer he went, and departed not from hym. Euerye Elephante was couered with a strōge towar of wood, where vpon were two and thyrty valeaunt mē with weapens to fyghte, and wythyn was a man of Inde to rule the beaste.

As for the remnaūte of the horsemen, he set vpon both ꝑ sydes in two partes wyth trompettes, to prouoke the hoste, & to styre vp suche as were slow in the army: And when the sunne shone vpon theyr shyldes of golde & stele, ꝑ mountaynes glystered againe at them, and were as bryght as ꝑ cressettes of fyre. The kynges hooste also was deuyded, one part vpon the hye mountaynes, the other lowe beneth: so they went on takynge good hede: & keppyng theyr order And all they that dweit in ꝑ land, were afrayed at ꝑ noyse of theyr hooste, whē the multitude wente forth, and when the weapens smot together, for ꝑ hooste was bothe greate and myghtye. Iudas also and hys hooste entred in to ꝑ battayle, and slewe syre hundred men of ꝑ kynges armye. Nowe when Eleazar the sonne of Saura, dyd se one of ꝑ Elephantes decked wyth the kynges badge, and was a more goodlye beaste then the other: he thoughte the kynge shulde be vpon hym, and ieopарde hym selfe to delyuer hys people, and to get hym a perpetuall name. Wherefore he ranne vñ a corage vnto the Elephāte in the middest of the hooste, smytinge them downe of both sydes, and slewe manye aboute hym. So wente he to the Elephantes fete, and gat hym vnder hym, and slew hym, then fell the Elephante downe vpon hym, & there he dyed. Iudas also and his men seynge the power of the kynge and the myghtye violence of hys hooste departed from them. And the kynges armye wente vp againste them towarde Ierusalem, and pytched theyr tentes in Iewry beside mounte Sion. Moreouer, the kynge tooke truce with them that were in *Bethsura. 1.Mac.4. g 6.d.

But when they came oute of the citie (because they had no vittayles within, and the land laye vntylled) the kynge tooke Bethsura, and set men to kepe it: and turned hys hoste to the place of the Sanctuarie, and layd seege to it a gret whyle. Where he made all maner ordinaunce, handebowes, fyre dartes, rackettes to cast stoones, scorpions to shote, arowes, and slynges. The Iewes also made ordinaunce agaynste theyrs, and foughte alonge season. 2.Mac.11. 14.d. f

But in the citie there were no vitayles, for it was the seuenth yeare of the warres, and those Heathen that remayned in Iewry, had eathen vp all theyr store. And in the Sanctuarie were fewe mē lefte, for the hungre came so vpon them, ꝑ they were scatered abrode euery man to hys owne place.

So whē Lysias hearde that Philip (*whom Antiochus the kyng while he was yet liuyng had ordeyned to bryng vp Antiochus hys sonne, that he myght be kynge) was come agayne oute of Persia, and Media, wyth the kynges hooste, and thoughte to optayne ꝑ kyngedome. He gat hym to the kynge in all the haste, & to the captaynes of ꝑ hooste, and sayde, we decrease dayly, & oure vytayles are but small: Agayne, ꝑ place that we lay seege vnto is very stronge, and it were oure parte to se for the realme. Let vs agre wyth these men, & take truce wyth them, & wyth al theyr 2.Ma.6. b. G people, & graunt thē to lyue after theyr lawe as they dyd afore. For they be greued, & do al these thynges agaynste vs, because we haue dyspysed theyr lawe. So the kynge and the princes were contente and sente vnto them to make peace, and they receaued it. Nowe whē the kynge and the prynces had made an othe vnto them, they came oute of the Castell, and the kynge wente vp to mount Sion. But when he sawe that the place was well defenced, he brake hys oth that he had made, and cōmaunded to destroy the wall round aboute. Then departed he in all the haste, and returned vnto Antioch, where he foūde Philip haynge dominion of the citie. So he fought agaynst hym, & toke the citie agayne in hys handes.

The vij. Chapter.

¶ Demetrius raygned after he had kylled Antiochus and Lysias. He troubleth the chyldrē of Israel thorowe the counsayle of certayne wyckedpersons. The prayer of the priestes agaynst Nicanor. Judas fylleth Nicanor, after he had made his prayer.

IN the hundred and one & fyftie yeare came Demetrius ỳ sonne of Seleucus from the citie of Rome wyth a small cōpanie of men vnto a citie of the see coaste and there he bare rule. And it chaūsed that when he came to Antioch the citie of hys progenitoures, hys hooste tooke Antiochus & Lysyas, to bryng thē vnto hym. But when it was told hym, he sayd: let me not se theyr faces: So the hooste put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of hys kyngdome, there came vnto him wycked and vngodlye men of Israell whose captayne was Alcimus, ỳ wold haue bene made hye preaste: These mē accused the people of Israell vnto the kynge, saynge: Judas and hys brethren haue slayne thy frendes, and dryuē vs oute of oure owne lande. Wherfore sende nowe some man (to whome thou geuest credence) that he maye go and se al ỳ destruction, whiche he hath done vnto vs and to the kynges lande, and let hym be punished wyth all hys frendes and fauoures.

B Then the kynge chose Bachides a frend of hys, whych was a mā of great power in the realme (beyonde ỳ great water) and faythfull vnto the kynge, and sente him to se the destruction that Judas had done. And as for that wycked Alcimus, he made him hye preaste, and commaunded hym to be auenged of the chyldren of Israel. So they rode vp, and came with a greate hooste into the lande of Juda, sendinge messaungers to Judas and hys brethren, and speakynge vnto them wyth peaceable wordes: but vnder disceate. * Therefore Judas and his people beleued not theyr sayinge, for they sawe that they were come wyth a greate hooste.

After thys came the Scribes together vnto Alcimus and Bachides, trustynge the beste vnto them. And fyrste the Assideans required peace of them, sayinge: Alcimus the preast is come of the seede of Aaron, howe cā he disceaue vs: So they gaue them louing wordes and swore vnto them, and saide: we wil do you no herme neither youre frendes and they beleued them. But the verye same daye toke they lxx. score mē of thē and slewe them accordynge to the wordes that were writtē. * They haue cast the flesh of they sayntes, & shed theyr bloude rounde aboute Jerusalem, and there was no man ỳ wold burie them. So there came a greate feare & dreade amonge the people, sayinge: there is neither truth nor ryghteousnesse in them, for they haue broken the appoyntemēte & oth that they made. And Bachides remoued hys hooste from Jerusalem, and pytched his tente at Bethzeka: were he sent forth & toke many of them ỳ had forsaken him. He slewe many of the people also & cast thē into a great pyt. Then committed he the lande vnto Alcimus & left men of warre wyth to helpe hym. And Bachides hym selfe wente vnto the kyng. And thus Alcimus defended his hyghe Preaste hode, and all suche as vered Israel resorted vnto hym: In so much that they optayned the lande of Juda, and dyd much euell vnto the Israelites.

Nowe when Judas sawe all the myscheefe that Alcimus and hys company had done (yee, more then the Heathen them selues) vnto ỳ Israelites. He wēte forthe rounde aboute all ỳ borders of Jewrye, and punished those vnfaythful rennagates, so ỳ they came nomore oute into ỳ countre. So whē Alcimus sawe that Judas and hys people had gotten

gootten the vpper hande, and that he was not hable to abyde them, he went agayne to the kyng, and sayd all the worst of them that he coulde. Then the kynge sent Nicanor one of hys chefe princes (whych beare euel wyl to Israel) and commaunded hym, ỳ he shuld vtterlye destroye the people.

1.M.7.a *So Nicanor came to Ierusalem wyth a great hoost, and sent vnto Judas and his brethren with frendly wordes (but vnder dysceat) sayinge: there shalbe no warre betwyxt me and you: I wyll come with fewe men, to se howe ye do, wyth frendeshyppe. Upõ thys he came vnto Judas, & they saluteth one another peaceably, but the enemies were appointed to take Judas by violence. Neuertheleſſe, it was tolde Judas, ỳ he came vnto him but vnder dissceate: wherefore, he gat him awaye frõ him, & wolde se hys face nomore, when Nicanor perceaued that hys councell was bewrayed, he wente out to fyght agaynst Judas, beſyde Capharsamala wher there were slayne of Nicanors host fyue thousande men: and ỳ residue fled vnto the castell of Dauid.

After thys came Nicanor vp vnto moũt Syon: and the Preastes wyth ỳ elders of the people went forth to salute hym peaceably, and to shewe hym ỳ burntesacrifices that were offred for ỳ kynge. But he laughed them and the people to scorne, mocked them, defyled theyr offeringes, and spake dyspaynefullye: yee, and swore in hys wrath, saying, *yf Judas and his hoost be not deliuered now into my handes, as soone as euer I come agayne (& fare well) I shall burne vp thys house. wyth that, went he oute in a greate anger. Then ỳ preastes came in, and stoode before the aulter of ỳ temple, weppynge, & sayinge

1.Par.18.c. 2.Ch.8.f. Psa.48.b. Luc.21.b *For so much as thou (O LORDE) hast chosen thys house, that they name myghte be called vpon therein, and ỳ it shulde be *an house of prayer and petition for thy people. Be auenged of thys man and hys hoost, and let them be slayne with the sweard, remember the blasphemies of them, & suffer them, not to continue anye longer.

When Nicanor was gone from Ierusalem, he pytched hys tente at Bethoron, and there an hooste with hym oute of Syria. And Judas came to Adarsa wyth thre thousande men, and made hys prayer vnto GOD, sayinge:

Esai.37.f. 2.Mac.8.d. and.15.d. 4.Re.19.g O LORDE, *because the messengers of kynge Senacherib blasphemed the, the Aungel wente forthe, & slewe an hũdred foure score & fyue thousand of thẽ Euenso destroy thou thishooste before vs to daye, ỳ our people maye knowe howe that he hat blasphemed thy Sãctuarie, and punishe him accordyng to hys maliciousnes.

And the hooste stroke the felde, the thyrtene daye of the moneth, *Adar, & Nicanors hooste was discomfyted, * & he him selfe was fyrst slayne in the battayll. When Nicanors men of warre sawe ỳ he was killed, they cast awaye theyr weapons and fled, but ỳ Jewes folowed vpon them an whole dayes iourney frõ Adasar vnto Gazara, blowinge with the trompettes & makyng tokens after thẽ. So the Jewes came forth of al the townes there about & bleawe out theyr hornes vpon them, & turned agaynste them. Thus were they al slayne, and not one of them lefte.

Februarij 2.Mac.15.b

Then they toke theyr substaunce for a pray and smote of Nicanors heade & hys ryghte hand (* whych he held vp so proudly) & brought it with them and hanged it vp afore Ierusalem. Where fore the people were exceadingly reioyced, and passed ouer that daie in greate gladnes. And Judas ordeyned, that ỳ same day (namelye the thyrteneth daye of the moonethe Adar shulde be kepte in myrth euerye yeare. Thus the land of Juda was in rest a lytle whyle.

The viij. Chapter.

¶ Judas consideringe the power and godly policie of the Romans maketh peace with them. The reserypte of the Romans sent vnto the Jewes.

Judas heard also the fame of the Romans that they were myghtie & valeant men and agreable to al thynges ỳ are required of them, & make peace wyth all men, which come vnto thẽ, & howe they were doughtye men of strenght. Besides that, it was told him of theyr battailes, & noble actes which they dyd in Galacia, howe they had conquered thẽ & brought them vnder tribute: & what great thinges they had done in Spane howe ỳ w theyr wisedome and sober behauoure they had wonne the mynes of syluer & gold, ꝑ are there, & obtayned al the lande, wyth other places farre frō them: howe they had dysconfited and slayne downe the kynges ꝑ came vpon them, from the vttermost parte of the earth, & howe other people gaue them tribute euery yeare. Howe they had slayne and overcome Philippe & Perses kynges of Cethim, and other mo (in battel) which had brought theyr or dinaunce agaynst them: howe they discomfyted great Antiochus kynge of Asia (that wolde nedes fight w them) hauynge an C. and. rr. Elephantes, wyth horsmen, cherettes, & a very great host, howe they tooke hym selfe alyue, & ordeined hym (w such as shulde raygne after him) to paye thē a greate tribute.

1. Mac. 1. a. *yee, & to hynde them good suretyes and pledge: besydes al thys, howe they had taken from hym Judia, Media, & Lidia (hys best landes) and geuen thē to kynge Eumenus. Againe, howe they perceauunge that the Grekes were cōmynge to vere them: sente agaynste thē a captayne of an hooste, whyche gaue them battayle, slewe many of them, led awaye theyr wyues, and chyldren captiue, spoyled them, toke possession of theyr lande, destroyed theyr stroge holdes, & subdued them to be theyr bondemen, vnto thys daye. Moreouer, howe that as for other kyngedomes and Iles whyche sometyme wytstoode them they destroyed them, and brought thē vnder theyr dominiō. But helped euer theyr owne frendes, and those ꝑ were confederate with them, and conquered kyngdomes, bothe farre anye, & ꝑ whosoeuer heard of their renowne was afrayed of thē: for whome they wold helpe to their kyngedomes, those raigned, & whome it liked not thē to raigne, they put hi downe. And howe they were comcomt to great preheminence hauynge, no kynge amonge thē, nether any man clothed in purple, to be magnified ther thorowe, but had ordeined them selues a parlyment, wherin there sat iij. C. rr. Senatoures dayly vpon the councel to dyspatch euer the busines of the people, and to kepe good ordre. And howe that euery yeare they chose a Mayre to haue the gouernaunce of all theyre lande to whome euerye was obedient, and ther was neyther euell wyll nor discencion amonge them.

Then Judas chose Eupolemus the sonne of Jhon, the sonne of Jacob, and Jason the Sonne of Eleazer, and sent them vnto Rome, for to make frendeshyp & abonde of loue with them, that they myghte take from them the bondage of the Grekes, for the Jewes sawe that the Grekes wolde subdue the kyngdome of Israel. So they went vn to Rome (a very great iourney) & came into the parlamente, and sayde: Judas Machabeus wyth hys brethren and ꝑ people of the Jewes hathe sente vs vn to you, to make a bonde of frendeshyp & peace w you, and ye to note vs as your e louers and frendes. And the matter pleased the Romaynes right wel, wher fore it was wrytten vp: of ꝑ whych the Romaines made a wrytynge in tables of brasse, & sent it to Jerusalem: ꝑ they myght haue by them a memorial of the same peace, and bonde of frendshyp after thys maner. GOD saue the Romaynes & ꝑ people of ꝑ Jewes, both by see & by lande, and kepe the swearde & enemy from them for euermore. yf there come fyrst any warre vpon the Romaynes or anie of their frēdes thorowout al theyr dominion, the people of the Jewes shal helpe thē (as the tyme requireth) and ꝑ w al theyr hertes. Also they shall nether geue nor sende vnto theyr enemyes vitayles, weapēs, money nor shyppes: but fulfyll thys charge at the Romaynes pleasure, & take nothinge from them therfore. Agayne, yf the people of the Jewes happen fyrst to haue warre, ꝑ Romayns shall stande by thē wyth a good wyll, accordynge as ꝑ tyme wyll suffre. Nether shall they geue vnto ꝑ Jewes enemyes, vytayles, weapens, mony, nor shyppes. Thus are ꝑ Romaynes cōtent to do, & shall fulfyll theyr charge wythoute anye discreate.

Accordynge to these artycles, ꝑ Romaynes made the bonde wyth the Jewes. Nowe after these artycles (sayde they) yf anye of the partyes wyl put to them, or take any thynge from thē they shall do it wyth the consente of both: & whatsoeuer they adde vnto thē, or take from them, it shal stande faste. And as touchynge the euell that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes, we haue wrytten vnto hym sayinge: wherefore layest thou thy heuy yocke vpon the Jewes oure frendes and louers: yf they make

vnto vs, we shal defende them, & fyghte wyth the by see and by lande.

The ix. Chapter.

¶ After the death of Nicanor Demetrius sendeth hys army agaynst Judas. Judas is slayne. Jonathas is put in the stead of his brother. The strife betwene Jonatas & Bachides. Alcimus is take wit the palsye, and dyeth. Bachides returneth agayne vnto the king. He commeth vpon Jonathas by the counsel of certaine wicked persons, and is overcome. The truce of Jonathas with Bachides.

IN the meane season whē Demetrius hearde that * Nicanor and hys hooste was slayne in the felde, he proceded further to sende Bachides & Alcimus agayne into Jewrye, and those þ were in þ tyght wynge of hys hooste: wh him. So they wente forth by the waye that leadeth vnto Galgala, & pytched theyr tentes before Melaloth wiche is in Arbellis: & wanne þ citie and slewe much people. In þ fyrste Moneth of þ. C. and two yeare, they brought theyr hooste to Hierusalē, & rose vp, & came to Berea, with twentie thousande footemē, and two. M. horsemen.

Nowe Judas had pytched his tente at Laisa, with tzethousande chose mē. And when they sawe the multitude of the other armye þ it was so great, they were sore afrayed, & manye conuayed thē selues oute of þ hoost. In so much that there abode no mo of them but eyght hundred men. Judas sawe þ hys host fayled him, and that he muste nedes fyght: it brake hys herte, þ he had no time to gather them together: wherefore the man was in extreme trouble Neuertheless, he saide vnto them: that remayned wh him. Up, let vs go against oure enemyes, per aduenture we shalbe able to fyght with them. But they wolde haue stopped him, saying: we shal not be able, therefore let vs now saue oure liues, & turne againe to oure brethren, and then wyll we fyghte agaynst them, for we are here but fewe.

And Judas sayd: GOD forbyd þ we shulde flē frō them. Wherefore, yf our tyme be come: let vs manfully dye for our brethren, and let vs not stayne our honour. Then the host remoued oute of þ tentes, and stode agaynst them. The horsmen are deuided in two partes, the slyngeaters and archers went before þ host: & al þ myghtie mē were formost in þ felde. Bachides him selfe was in þ tyght winge of þ battel, & þ host drewe nye in two partes, & blewe þ trompets They of Judas syde blewe þ trōpetes also, & þ earth shoke at þ noyse of þ hostes, & thei stroke a felde from þ morow tyl nyghte. And whē Judas sawe that Bachides host was strongest of þ tyghte syde, he toke wyth hym all the herdymen, and brake þ tyght winge of theyr ordre, & folowed vpon thē vnto þ mount Azot. Nowe whē they whyche were of the lyfte wynge, sawe that the tyghte syde was discomfyted, they persecuted Judas & them þ were wyth him. Then was there a sore battayl, for many were slayne and wounded of both the parties. Judas also him selfe was killed, & þ remnaunt fled. So Jonathas & Simon toke Judas theyr brother, and buryed hym in hys fathers sepulchre in þ citie of Modin. And al the people of Israel made great lamētacion for hym, & mourned longe, sayinge: Alas, þ thys worthye shulde be slayne, whyche deliuered the people of Israel. As for other thynges partaynyng to the battayles of Judas, the noble actes that he dyd & of hys worthynesse: they are not wrytten, for they were very manye.

*And after the death of Judas, wycked men came vp in all the coastes of Israell, & there arose all suche as worcke vngodlynesse. In those dayes was there a greate dearthe in the lande, & al the countre gaue ouer them selues and theirs vnto Bachides. So Bachides chose wycked mē & made them Lordes in the lande. These sought out & made search for Judas frēdes, & brought thē vnto Bachides: which auēged hi self vpō them wh greate dyspyte. And there came so great trouble i Israel, as was not sence the tyme that no prophete was sene there.

Then came al Judas frendes together, & said vnto Jonathas: for so much as thy brother Judas is dead, ther is none lyke hym to go forth agaynst our enemyes, agaynst Bachides, and such as are aduersaries vnto oure people. Wherfore, thys daye we chose þ for hi, to be oure prynce, & captayne to ordre oure battayl. And Jonathas toke the gouernaunce vpon him at þ same tyme & ruled in steade of his brother Judas. whē Bachides gat knowlege therof he soughte for ty ſle him. But Jonathas and Symon hys brother, perceaupnge þ fledde into the wyldernes of Thecua wyth all theyr companye, and pytched theyr tētes by þ waterpole of Haſpher.

D Whych when Bachydes vnderſtode, he came ouer Jordaine with al his hoſt vpon the Sabboth day. Nowe had Jonathas ſent his brother Jhon (a captaine of the people) to praye hys frendes þ Nabuthites, that they wolde lende them theyr ordinaunce, for they had muche. So þ childzen of Jambzy came out of Nadaba, & tooke Jhon & all þ he had, & wēt theyr waye with all. Then came worde vnto Jonathas & Symō his brother, þ the childzen of Jambzye made a great maryage, and brought the bryde from Nadaba wyth greate pompe: for ſhe was daughter to one of the nobleſt pryuces of Canaan. Wherfore they remembzed the bloud of Jhō theyr brother, & wente vp, & hyd them ſelues vnder þ ſhadowe of þ moūtaine

So they lyft vp theyr eyes, & loked and beholde there was much ado & great repayre: for the brydegrome came forth, and hys frendes and hys brethrē mete them with tympaynes, inſtrumētes of muſike, & many weapons. Thē Jonathas & they that were wyth hym, roſe out of theyr lurkynge places agaynſt them, and ſlewe many of them. As for the remnaunt, they fled into the mountaynes, and they toke al their ſubſtaunce. Thus the Maryage was turned to mourninge, & the noyſe of theyr melodye in to lamentacion. And ſo whē they had aduēged þ bloud of theyr brother, they turned againe vnto Jordane

E Bachides hearynge thys, came vnto the very border of Jordane with a great power vpon þ Sabboth daye. And Jonathas ſayde to hys companye, let vs get vp, and fight agaynſt our enemies: for it ſtandeth not wyth vs to daye as in tymes paſt: Beholde, our enemyes are in our waye, þ water of Jordane vpon the one ſyde of vs, with bāckes fennes and wodes of the other ſyde, ſo that there is no place for vs to departe vnto.* Wherefore crye nowe vnto he- 1. Par 10. & 1. Mac. 3. 4.
auen, þ ye may be deliuered from þ power of our enemyes. So they ſtroke þ battel. And Jonathas ſtretched oute hys handes to ſmyte Bachides, but he fled backewarde. Then Jonathas and they that were wyth hym, leapte into Jordane, & ſwymmed ouer Jordane vnto him & there were ſlayne of Bachides ſyde that daye a M. men.

Therfore Bachides with hys hoſte turned agayne to Jeruſalem, and buylte vp the caſtles & ſtronge holdes that were in Jewrye, Jerycho, Emaus, Bethoron, Bethel, Thamnata, Phara, and Topo, wyth hygh walles, wyth portes and wyth lockes: and ſet men to kepe them, that they myght vſe theyr malice vpon Iſrael. He walled vp the cytye Bethſurath, Gazarach, and the caſtel, and prouided them wyth men and vytayles. He toke alſo the cheleſte mens ſonnes in þ countrye for pledges, & put thē in þ caſtel at Jeruſalē to be kepte.

Afterwarde in the hundred fyftye & thre yeare in the ſeconde moneth Alcimus commaunded, that the walles of the innoſte Sanctuarie ſhulde be deſtroyed, and the buyldynges of the prophettes alſo. And when he beganne to deſtroye them, the thinges þ he wēt aboute, were hindred, for he was ſmytten wyth a palſye, and hys mouth ſhut ſo that he could no more ſpeake, nor cō maunde any of his houſe: concernynge f hys buſynes. Thus dyed Alcymus in greate miſeri at þ ſame tyme. And whē Bachides ſawe þ Alcimus was dead, he turned againe to the kyng and ſo þ lande was in reſte two yeares. Then all the vngodlye men helde a councell, ſayinge: Behold Jonathas and his cōpany are at eaſe & dwell without care. Wherfore, let vs bryng Bachides hether, & he ſhal take thē al in one neight.

So they went and gaue Bachides thys coūcel which arose to come with a great hooſt: and ſent letters priueiye to hys adherentes, whych were in Jewrye, to take Jonathas & thoſe that were with him: but they myght not, for þ other had gotten knowlege of theyr deuyce. And Jonathas toke fyftye mē of the countrye (whych were the rynglcaders of them) and ſlewe thē. Then Jonathas and Simon wyth theyr cōpany departed vnto the citie Bethbeſſen, whych lyeth in the wyldernes, and repayred the decaye thereof, and made it ſtrōge. When Bachides knewe this he gathered al his hooſt, and ſente worde to them that were of Jewry. Then came he and layde ſege to Bethbeſſen,

and foughte agaynst it a longe season, and made instrumentes of warre. Nowe Jonathas lefte his brother Simō in the citie, and wente forth him selfe in to ꝑ countrie, & came with a certayne nombre and slewe Odares and his brethren and the children of Phaleron in theyr tētes: so that he began to be strōge and to increase in power.

As for Symon & hys company, they went oute of the citie, and brente vp ꝑ instrumētes of warre, and foughte agaynst Bachides, and discomfited him And Bachides was sore vexed, because his councel and trauel was in vayne wherfore he was wroth at the wicked men (ꝑ gaue hym councel to come into theyr lande) and slewe many of them. Then purposed he with hys companie to go awaye into his owne coūtry whe reof whē Jonathas had knowlege, he sent ambassidours vnto him, for to make peace wyth hym, and that he shulde delyuer him his prysoners againe. To ꝑ whyche Bachides consented gladly, and dyd accordyng to hys desyre: yee & made an othe, ꝑ he shulde neuer do him harme al the daies of his life. So he restored vnto hym all the prysoners that he had taken oute of ꝑ lande of Juda, and then turned & went his waye into hys owne lāde, neyther proceaded any further to come vnto ꝑ borders of Juda. Thus Israell had nomore warre, and Jonathas dweit at Machemas, & beganne there to gouerne the people, & destroyed ꝑ vngodly mē out of Israel.

The x. Chapter.

Demetrius desyreth to haue peace with Jonathas. Alexander moueth warre agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is slayne. The frendes hyppe of Ptolomeus and Alexander.

IN the hundred and threscore yeare, came Alexander: the sōne of noble Antiochus & tooke Ptolomays, whose cytyzyns receaued hym, and ther he raygned. When Demetrius hearde therof, he gathered an exceadinge great hoost and wente forthe agaynste him to fyght. Wherefore Demetrius sēte letters vnto Jonathas, with louyng wordes and praysed hym greatly. For he sayde we wyl fyrst make peace with hym, before he bynde hym selfe wyth Alexāder against vs: elles he shal remembre the euel ꝑ we haue done agaynst hym, hys brother and his people. And so he gaue Jonathas leaue to gather an hoost to make weapons, & to be confederate wh him, & commaūded the pledges ꝑ were in the castell to be delyuered vnto hym.

Then came Jonathas to Jerusalem, B & red the letters in the audience of al ꝑ people: and of them ꝑ were in ꝑ castle. And therefore were they sore afrayed, because they hearde ꝑ the kinge had geuen them licence to gather an hoost. Thus were ꝑ pledgers deliuered vnto Jonathas, whych restored thē to theyr elders. Jonathas also dweite at Jerusalē, & beganne to buylde vp and to repayre the citie, cōmaundynge ꝑ worke men to wal it: & the mount Syon roūd about wh stone, to be a strong holde, & so they dyd. As for the Heathen ꝑ were in the castels whych Bachides had made vp, they fled: so ꝑ euery mā lefte ꝑ place, & went into his owne coūtre. Onelye at Bethsura remayned certayne of the Jewes, whyche had forsaken ꝑ lawe and commaūdementes of GOD, for Bethsura was theyr refuge.

Nowe whē kynge Alexander hearde of ꝑ promises that Demetrius hadde made vnto Jonathas, and whē it was tolde him of ꝑ battayles & noble actes, whyche he and his brethren had done, & of ꝑ great trauayles ꝑ thy had taken he sayde: where shall we fynde such a man? Well we wyl make him oure frende, & be confederate wh him. Upon thys he wrote a letter vnto hym: wyth these wordes: kyng Alexander saluteth hys brother Jonathas. We haue hearde of the, ꝑ thou art a baleaunt man and mete to be our frend: wherfore thys day we ordayne ꝑ to be our hygh Preast of thy people and to be called ꝑ kinges frend. (Upon thys he sent hym a purple clothyng & a krowne of golde) that thou mayest consider what is for our profyt, and kepe frendshyp towarde vs.

So in the seuenth moneth of the hūdred and three score yeare vpon the so- C lempne feaste day of the tabernacules, Jonathas put the holy rayement vpon him. Then gathered he an host and made many weapons. Whych when Demetrius hearde, he was marueious sorye, and sayde: Alas, what haue we done, that Alexander hath preuented vs in gettynge the frendeshyppe of the Jewes for hys owne defence.

yet wyl I wryte louyngely vnto thē
also: yee, and promyse them dignities and rewardes ꝑ they maye be of my sy de. Wherupon he wrote vnto them the se wordes: kynge Demetrius sendeth
gretinge vnto the people of the Jewes
where as ye haue kepte your couena-unt toward vs, and contynued in oure frendeshyp, not enclynynge to oure e-nemyes, we were glad, whē we hearde therof. Wherfore remayne styll, and be faythfull to vs: & we shall well recompense you for ꝑ thynges ꝑ ye haue done
our party: we shal release you of many charges, & geue you rewardes. And no
we I dyscharge you & all ꝑ Jewes fro me tributes: I forgeue you ꝑ customes
of salt, & release you of ꝑ crowne tares
of ꝑ thyrd part of ꝑ sede, & halfe of ꝑ fru te of trees whyche is myne owne du-
tye. These I leaue for you from thys daye forth: so that they shal not betakē
of the lāde of Juda, nor of ꝑ thre cities
whych are added therunto out of Samaria & Galyle from thys daye forthe
for euermore. Jerusalē also wt al thyn-ges belongynge therto, shalbe holy & free: yee the tythes & trybutes shal per-tayne vnto you. As for the power of ꝑ castel whyche is at Jerusalē, I remyt & geue it vnto ꝑ preast ꝑ he maye set in it such men, as he shal chose to kepe it.
I freely delyuer al ꝑ Jewes ꝑ are prysoners thorowoute all my realme, so ꝑ
euery one of them shalbe free fro payig
and tribute, yee, euen of theyr cattel.

Al the solempne feastes, Sabothes,
new mones, the dayes appoynted the thre dayes before & after ꝑ feast, shalbe
free for all the Jewes in my realme, so ꝑ
in them no man shal haue power to do anye thynge, or to moue any busynes agaynst anye of them in anye maner of cause. There shal thyrty thousande also of the Jewes be wrytten vp in ꝑ kin
ges host, & haue theyr wages payed as al other menne of warre of the kynges
shuld haue, & of them shalbe ordeyned
certayne to kepe ꝑ kynges stronge hol
des: yee & some of them shalbe set ouer
the kynges busynesse, ꝑ they may fayth fullye deale with ꝑ same. The Jewes also shal haue princes of theyr owne, &
walke in theyr owne lawes as ꝑ kyng hath cōmaunded in the lande of Juda.
And the thre cities that are fallen vn
to Jewry from ꝑ countre of Samaria and Galile: shal be taken as Jewrye, & be vnder one: nether be subiecte to any straunge Lorde, but to the hye preast.
As for Ptolomays & the lande pertaynynge therto, I geue it vnto the San ctuary at Jerusalem, for the necessari-expenses of the holy thynges. Moreo-uer, I will geue euerye yeare fyftene
thousande sycles of syluer out of ꝑ kyn
ges checker (whych partayneth vnto
me) to ꝑ worcke of the temple: yee, & loke what remayneth (whyche they that had our matters in hand in tyme paste
haue not payed,) ꝑ same shal they geue vnto them also. And besydes all thys ꝑ fyue thousande sycles whych they toke yearly of ꝑ rētes of ꝑ Sanctuary, shal
belonge vnto the preastes ꝑ do seruice.

Item whosoeuer they be, that fle vn-
to ꝑ temple at Jerusalem or wythin ꝑ lyberties therof where as they are fallen into the kynges daunger for anye
maner of busynes, they shalbe pardoned, & all ꝑ goodes ꝑ they haue in my realme, shalbe fre. For the buyldynge
also and repayrynge of the worke of ꝑ Sanctuarye, expēces shalbe geuē oute
of ꝑ kinges Checker: yee, and for ꝑ ma
kynge of the walles rounde aboute Je rusalem, for the breakynge downe of ꝑ
olde, and for ꝑ settynge vp of the stroge
holdes in Jewrye, shal ꝑ costes & charges, begeuē oute of ꝑ kiges Checker.

*But when Jonathas & the people
hearde these wordes, they gaue no credence vnto them, neyther receaued thē
for they remēbred the greate wyckednesse that he had doone vnto Israel, & howe sore he had vexed them. Where fore, thei agreed vnto Alexander, for he was a prince that had dealte frendly
with them & so they stoode by hym al-waye.* Then gathered kyng Alexander a great hoost, & brought hys army agaynst Demetrius. So the two kynges stocke battayle together, but Demetrius hoste fled, & Alexander followed after, and fell vpon them. I myghtye sooze felde was it, contynuing tyl ꝑ Sōne wente downe, and Demetrius
was slayne the same daye.

And Alexāder sente Ambasadoures
vnto Ptolomy the kynge of Egypte wt
these wordes, sayinge: Forsomuch as I am come agayne to my Realme, and amsette in the throne of my progeni-toures, and haue gotten the dominion ouercomed

ouercomed Demetrius, conquered the lande and stricken felde wᵗ hym, so that we haue discomfited both hym and hys hoost, and syt in the throne of his kyngdome: Lette vs nowe make frendeshype together, geue me thy daughter to wyfe: so shall I be thy sonne in lawe, & bothe geue the rewardes, and her greate dignitie. Ptolomie the kynge gaue answere, sayinge Happie be the daye wherein thou arte come agayne, vnto the lande of thy progenytours, and sette in the throne of theyr kyngdome. As now wyll I fulfyl thy writyng: but mete me a Ptolomays, that we maye se one another, & I may mary my daughter vnto the, according to thy desyre. So Ptolomy went out of Egypt with hys daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolomays in the clxij. yeare where kinge Alexander mette hym, and he gaue Alexander his daughter Cleopatra, and maryed them at Ptolomais wᵗ great worshyppe, like as the maner is of kinges to be. Then wrote kyng Alexander vnto Jonathas, that he shulde come & mete hym. So he wente honorably vnto Ptolomais & there he mete the two kinges, and gaue them greate presentes of golde and syluer, and founde fauoure in theyr syghte.

G And there came together against Jonathas certayne wycked men & vngracious persons of Israel, makyng complaintes of hym, but ỹ kynge regarded them not. As for Jonathas, the kynge commaunded to take of hys garmētes & to clothe him in purple, & so they dyd. Then the kinge appoynted hym to syt by hym, & sayde vnto hys Princes: Go with hym into the myddest of the citie, and make a proclamacion that no man cōplayne agaynst hym in anie matter, & that noman trouble hym for any maner of cause.

So it happened: that when his accusers sawe the worshyppe whyche was proclaymed of hym, and ỹ he was clothed in purple, they fled euerychone. And ỹ kinge made muche of hym, wrote him among hys chefe frendes, made hym a Duke, & partaker of his dominion. *Thus Jonathas went agayne to Jerusalem with peace & gladnes. In ỹ hundred. lxb. yere came Demetrius, ỹ sōne of Demetrius, frō Creta in to hys fathers lāde: whereof when Alexāder heard tel, he was ryghte sorye, & returned vnto Antioch. And Demetrius chose *Appolonius (whych had ỹ gouernaunce of Celosyria) to be hys captayne. 1.Mac.3.d.

So he gathered a greate hoost, and came vnto Jamnia, and sent worde vnto Jonathas, the hie Prest, saying: Darest thou withstāde vs, thy selfe alone? As for me, I am but laughed to scorne & shamed, because thou prouedeste thy strength agaynst vs in ỹ mountaines. Nowe therfore, yf thu trustest in thyne owne strength come downe to vs in ỹ playne felde, & there let vs proue our strenght together: thou shalte fynde, ỹ I haue valeaunt men of warre wyth me, and shalt knowe whom I am, and the other that stande by me.

Whyche saye: that youre foote is not H able to stande before our face, for thy fathers haue bene twyse chased into theyr lāde. And nowe, howe wylte thu be able to abyde soo greate an hoost of horsmen and fotemen, in ỹ felde where as is neyther rocke, stone, nor place to flie vnto? When Jonathas hearde the wordes of Appollonius, he was moued in hys mynde: wherefore he chose ten thousand men, and went out of Jerusalem & Simon hys brother met hym for to helpe hi. And they pytched theyr tentes at Joppa, but the citie kept hym forth, for Joppa was an holde of Appollonius: Then Jonathas laide seege to it, and they that were in the citie for very feare let hym in, and so Jonathas wāne Joppe. Appollonius hearinge of thys, toke. xij. thousāde horsmē, wᵗ a greate hoost of fote and went as though he wold go to Azotus, and came immediatly into ỹ playne felde: because he had so many horsemen, & put hys truste in them. So Jonathas folowed vpō hym to Azotus and there they stroke ỹ battayl. Nowe had Appolonius lefte a thousande horsemen behinde them prevely in ỹ tentes. And when Jonathas knewe that such wayte was layde behynd them, they went rounde aboute ỹ enemies hoost, and shotte dartes at the people from ỹ mourning to ỹ euening. As for Jonathas people, they kepte theyr order as he had cōmaūded thē, & ỹ enemyes horses were euer labourige

Then broughte Simon forth hys hoost, & set them agaynst the footemen for ỹ horsemen were wery alredy. So I he dis-

he dyſconfited them, and they fled. And they that were ſcatered in the feld gat them to Azotus, and came into the tẽple of Dagon theyr Idol, þ they myght there ſaue theyr lyues. But Jonathas ſet fyre vpon Azotus and al the cities round about it, and toke theyr goodes and *brente vp the temple of Dagon, with al them that were fled into it

1. Mac. 11.

Thus were ſlayne and brent wel nye viii. M. men. So Jonathas remoued þ hoſt from thence and brought them to Aſcolon: where the men of the citie came forth, & met hym wyth greate worſhyppe. After thys wẽt Jonathas and his hooſte agayne to Jeruſalem, wyth greate ſubſtaunce of good. And when kynge Alexãder hearde theſe thynges, he thoughte to do Jonathas moare worſhippe and ſente hym a colar of golde, as þ vſe is to begeuen vnto ſuch as are of the kinges nert bloude. He gaue hym alſo þ citie of Accaron (whyth the landes belonging thereto) in poſſeſſiõ.

The xi. Chapter.

¶ The diſcencion betwixt Ptolomeus and Alexãder hys ſonne in lawe. The death of Alexander. Demetrius raygneth after the death of Ptolomeus. Sion is beſeged of Jonathas. Demetrius feinge that no man reſiſted hym, ſendeth hys armie agayne. Triphon moueth Antiochus agaynſt Demetrius. Demetrius is deliuered by the ſuccour of Jonathas. After hys deliueraunce he breaketh hys couenaunt that he had made.

AND the kynge of Egypte gathered an hooſte (lyke þ ſande that lyeth vpon the ſee ſhore) and many ſhyps * and went aboute thorowe dyſceate to optayne the kyngedome of Alexander, and to ioyne it vnto hys owne realme. Vpon thys he toke his iourney into Siria, & was letten into þ cities, & men came forth to mete hym, for kinge Alexander had cõmaunded them ſo to do becauſe he was hys father in lawe. Now when Ptolomie entred into anye citie, he lefte men of warre to kepe it, & thys he dyd thorowe out al the cities. And when he came to Azotus *thei ſhewed hym the temple of Dagon & Azotus that was brent vp, with þ other thynges which wer deſtroyed, þ deade bodyes caſt abrode, & the graues that they had made by þ waye ſyde, for ſuch as were ſlayne in the feld. And tolde þ kynge that Jonathas had done al theſe thynges, to the intente they myght gett him euel wil. But the kynge layd not a word theretho. And Jonathas mete the kinge wt great honour at Joppa, where they ſaluted one another, & toke theyr reſte. So when Jonathas had gone wyth þ kinge vnto the water that was called Eleutherus he turned agayne to Jeruſalem.

Ioſeph. ca. 7. li. 13.

1. Mac. 10. c

Now Ptolompye had gotten the dominion of the cities vnto Selucia vpõ þ ſee coaſt, imagininge wicked coũceils agaynſte Alexander and ſente Ambaſadours vnto Demetrius, ſayinge: Come let vs make a bonde betwixte vs, ſo ſhal I giue the my doughter that Alexander hath, & thou ſhalt raygne in thy fathers kingdome. I repent that I gaue Alexãder my doughter, for he goeth aboute to ſlaye me. And thus he ſlaundred Alexander, becauſe he wolde haue had hys Realme.

Thus he toke hys doughter from hym, gaue her vnto Demetrius, & forſoke Alexãder, ſo that hys malicie was openly knowen. And Ptolomie came to Antioch, where he ſet two crownes vpon hys owne heade: the crowne of Egypt & of Aſia. In þ meane ſeaſon was kynge Alexander in Cycilia, for they þ dwelte in thoſe places, had rebelled agaynſt hym. But when Alexander hearde of thys, he came to warre agaynſte him. So kinge Ptolomie brought forthe hys hooſt and met hym wyth a myghtye power & chaſed hym awaye. Then fled Alexander in to Araby there to be defended, and kynge Ptolomayes honoure encreaſed. And Zabdyel þ Arabyan ſmote of Alexanders heade, & ſent it vnto Ptolomie. But the thyrde daye after, dyed kynge Ptolomie hym ſelfe: and they whom he had ſet in the ſtronge holdes, were ſlayne of thoſe that were wythin the cities. And Demetrius raygned in the hundred and ſeuen and ſyrtie yeare.

At the ſame tyme gathered Jonathas them that were in Jewry, to layege vnto the caſtel which was at Jeruſalem, and ſo they made manye inſtrumentes of warre agaynſt it. Then went ther certayne vngodly perſons (whyche hated theyr owne people) vnto kynge Demetrius: and tolde hym þ Jonathas beſeged the caſtel. So whẽ he hearde it, he was angry & vnmediatly vyatly came vnto Ptolemais, & wrot vnto Jonathas that he shuld laye no sege to the castell, but come and speake wyth hym in al the haste. Neuertheless, when Jonathas hearde thys, he cõmaunded to besege it. He chose also certayne of the elders and Preastes of Israell, and put hymselfe in the parell, and toke wyth hym golde, syluer, clothynge, and diuerse presentes, & wente to Ptolomais vnto the kynge, & found hym gracious.

And thoughe certaine vngodlie men of hys owne people made complayntes vpon hym, yet* the kyng entreated him as hys predecessours had dõne before, and promoted hym in the syght of all hys frendes, confirmed hym in the hye prest hod, with all the worshyp that he had afore, & made hym hys chefe frend. Jonathas also desired the kynge that he wolde make Jewrye fre * wyth the thre heade cities of Samaria, and the landes pertainynge thereto: vpon thys dyd Jonathas promise hym thre hundred talentes. Wherunto the kynge cõsented, and gaue Jonathas wrytynge of the same, conteinynge these wordes: kyng Demetrius sendeth greatynge vnto his brother Jonathas, and to the people of ỹ Jewes. We sende you here a copie of the letter which we dyd wryte vnto oure elders Lasthenus, concernynge you that ye shulde knowe it.

Kynge Demetrius sendeth greatynge vnto Lasthenus hys elder. For the layth fulnesse that our frendes the people of ỹ Jewes kepe vnto vs, & for ỹ louinge kidnes which they beare towardes vs: we are determined to do them good Wherfore we ordaine all the coastes of Jewrye wyth thre cities, Lydda ād Ramatha (whych are added vnto Jewrye from Samaria) & all the landes pertainynge thereunto, to be freely seperated for suche as do sacrifice in Jerusalem, bothe concernynge ỹ paymentes whyche the kinge toke yearlye afore tyme, & the fruytes also of the earthe and trees. As for other tythes and tributes that belongeth vnto vs, we discharge them thereof frome thys tyme forthe. In like maner we graunte vnto them al the costomes of salte, & crowne tares: whyche were brought vnto vs. And thys fredome shall they haue firme and stedefast, from this tyme forth for euermore. Therefore se ỹ ye make a copie of these oure letters, & delyuer it vnto Jonathas, ỹ it maye be kepte vpon ỹ holye mounte in a cõueniẽt place.

After thys when Demetrius ỹ kyng sawe that hys lande was in rest, & that no resistaunce was made hym: he sente away all hys hoste euerye man to his owne place, excepte an armye of straũgers, whome he brought frome the Iles of the Heathen, wherfore all hys fathers host hadde euell will at hym.* 1.Mac.11.c. Nowe was there one Triphon (ỹ hadde bene of Alexanders parte afore) why he when he sawe that al ỹ hoste murmured against Demetrius he wente to Emalcuel the Arabian (that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) and laye sore vpon hym to delyuer hym thys yonge Antiochus, that he myghte raygne in hys fathers steade. He tolde hym also what greate euell Demetrius had done, and howe hys men of warre loued hym not, and so remayned there alonge season.

And Jonathas sent vnto kynge Demetrius to dryue thẽ oute whych were in the Castel at Jerusalem, & in ỹ other refuges, for they dyd Israell greate harme. So Demetrius sẽt worde vnto Jonathas sayinge: I wyll not only do these thynges for the and thy people, but at tyme conueniente I wil do both the and thy people greate worshyppe. But nowe thou shalt do me a pleasure, yf thou wilt sende me men to helpe me, for al mine armye is goone frõ me. So Jonathas sent hym iij. M stronge men vnto Antioche, and they came vnto the kynge: wherfore the kynge was verye gladde at theyr commynge. But they that were of the citie (euen an C. and rr. M men) gathered them together, & wolde haue slayne ỹ kynge, whych fled into hys court, and the citizyns kepte the stretes of the citie, and beganne to fyght. Then the kynge called for ỹ Jewes helpe, whych came to hym altogether, and went abroade thorowe the citie, and slewe the same daye an C. M. men, set fyre vpon that citie, gat many spoyles in that daye: and delyuered the kynge. So when the citizyns sawe that the Jewes had gotten theyr will of the citie, and they them selues dysapoynted of theyr purpose, they made theyr supplicacion vnto the kynge, sayinge:

Graunt vs peace, and let the Jewes ceasse from troublyng vs and the citie, & vpon thys they cast away theyr weapens. Thus they made peace, and ꝑ Jewes gat greate worshyppe in ꝑ syghte of the kynge, and in the syghte of all that were in hys realme, and were spoken of thorowe out the kyngdome: and so they came agayne to Jerusalē wyth great goodes.

So the kynge Demetrius sat in the throne of hys kyngdome, and had peace in hys lande. Neuertheles, he dyssembled in al that euer he spake, and withdrewe hym selfe frome Jonathas, neyther rewarded hym accordynge to the benefites whiche he had doone for him, but troubled hym veryr sooze. After thys came Triphon agayne wyth ponge Antiochus: which raigned and was crowned kynge. Then there gathered vnto hym all the men of warre: whome Demetrius had put awaie, these sought agaynst Demetrius, whych fled and turned hys backe. So Triphon toke the Elephantes, and wanne Antioch. And ponge Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathas, sayinge: I confirme the in thy Prestehode, and make the ruler ouer foure countreyes, that thou mayest be a frende of the kynge.

Upon this he sent hym golden vessels to beserued in: and gaue hym leaue to drynche in golde, to be clothed in purple, and to weare a colar of golde. He made his brother Simō also captayne, from the coastes of Tyrus vnto ꝑ borders of Egypte. Then Jonathas toke hys pourney, & wente thorowe ꝑ cities beyonde the water of Jordane, and all ꝑ men of warre of Syria gathered thē vnto hym for to helpe hym. So he came vnto Ascalon, and they of ꝑ citie receaued hym honourably, and from thence went he vnto Gaza, but they wold not lette hym in, wherfore he layde sege vnto it, burnyng vp and spoylynge ꝑ places that were aboute the citie.

And the citizyns of Gaza submitted them selues vnto Jonathas, whyche made peace wyth thē, but toke of theyr sones to pledge, sent thē to Jerusalem, and went thorowe the coūtre vnto Damastus. Nowe whē Jonathas hearde that Demetrius prynces were come into Cades (whych is in Galile) wyth a greate hooste, purposynge to put Demetrius out from medlynge in the realme, he came agaynste them, and lefte Simon his brother in ꝑ lande, whyche came to Bethsura, & layd seege to it a longe season, and dyscōfyted them. So they desired to haue peace wyth hym, whiche he graūted them, & afterwarde put them oute frome thence, tooke the citie and set men to kepe it. And Jonathas wt his hooste came to the water of Genesar, and betymes in ꝑ morynynge gatte them to the playne felde of Asor.

And beholde, the hoostes of the Heathen mete them in the felde, and layde watche for them in the mountaynes: so that whē Jonathas came agaynst thē, ꝑ other (whyche were layed to watch) rose oute of theyr places and fought, & they that were of Jonathas syde fled, euery man, & there was not one of them lefte, excepte Mattathias the sonne of Absolomus, & Judas the sonne of Calphy the captayne of the hooste.

Then Jonathas rent hys clothes, layde earthe vpon his heade, made hys prayer & turned agayne vnto them in ꝑ felde: where they foughte together, & he put them to flyghte. Nowe when hys owne men: ꝑ were fled sawe this: they turned agayne vnto hym & helped hym to folowe vpon all theyr enemies vnto theyr tentes at Cades. So there were slayne of the Heathen the same daye iii. M. men: and Jonathas turned agayne to Jerusalem.

The xij. Chapter.

¶ Jonathas sendeth Ambassadours to Rome and to the people of Sparta, to renue theyr couenaūte of frēdshyp. Jonathas putteth to flyghte the princes of Demetrius. Triphon taketh Jonathas by disceat.

JOnathas seynge that ꝑ tyme was mete for hym, chose certayne men & sent thē vnto Rome for to stablyshe & to renue *ꝑ frēdeshyppe wythe thē. He sent letters also vnto Sparta & to other places in lyke maner. So they went vnto Rome, and entred into the councel, and sayde: Jonathas ꝑ hye preast & ꝑ people of ꝑ Jewes sent vs vnto you: for to renue ꝑ olde frendeshyppe & bond of loue: Upon thys the Romaines gaue thē frē pasporres, that men shulde leade them home into ꝑ lande of Juda peaciablie. And this is the copie of the letters that Jonathas wrote vnto the Spartians.

Jonathas the hye preast wt ꝑ elders, prestes

preastes, and the other people of ꝑ Iewes, sende greatynge vnto the Spartians theyr brethē. Ther were letters, sente longe agoo vnto Onias the hye preaste, from Arius: whiche than raigned amonge you: that ye are our brethren, as the wrytynge made thereupon specifieth. And Onias entreated ꝑ ambassadoure that was sent honourablie, and receaued the letters: wherin there was mencion made of the bōde of loue and frendshyppe: But as for vs, we nede no suche wrytynges: for why? we haue the holye bookes of scripture in D oure handes to oure cōfort. Neuertheless we had rather sente vnto you, for the renuynge of the brotherhod & frendshyppe: Lest we shuld be straunge vnto you, for it is longe synce the tyme that ye sent worde vnto vs. wherefore: in ꝑ sacrifices that we offer and other ceremonies vpon the hye solempne dayes & other, we alwaye remember you wyth oute ceassyng (lyke as reason is, and as it becommeth vs to thynche vpon oure brethren) yea, and are ryght glad of youre prosperous honour.

And though we haue had great troubles & warres, so ꝑ the kynges about vs haue foughten agaynst vs: yet wold we not be greuous vnto you, nor to other of oure louers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heauen, so that we are delyuered, & our enemies subdued. Wherfore we chose Numenius ꝑ sōne of Antiochus, & Antipater ꝑ sonne of Jason, & sente them vnto ꝑ Romās, for to renue ꝑ olde bōde of frendshyp & loue w̄ them. We commaunded thē also to come vnto you, to salute you, and to deliuer your our letters, concerning the renauacion of our brotherhod. And now ye shal do ryght well to gene vs an answere thereunto.

C And thys is the copie of the wrytynge, which Arius the kynge of Sparta sente vnto Onias: Arius kyng of the Spartians sendeth greatig vnto Onias the hyghe preaste. It is founde in wrytynge, that the Spartians and Iewes are brethren, and come out of the generacio of Abraham. And now for so much as thys is come to oure knowlege, ye shall do well, to wryte vnto vs of youre prosperite. As for vs, we haue wrytten oure mynde vnto you: Oure catell and goodes are youres, & yours. These thynges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

When Jonathas hearde that Demetrius princes were come forth to fight agaynst hym with a greater hoost then afore, he went from Jerusalem: & mete them in ꝑ lande of Hemath, for he gaue them not space to come into hys owne country. And he sente spyes vnto theyr tentes, whych came agayne and tolde hym, that they were appoynted to come vpon hym in the nyghte season. Wherefore when the Sunne was gone downe, Jonathas commaundeth hys men to watche al the nyghte, and to be readye wyth weapons for to fyghte: and set watchemen roūde aboute ꝑ hooste. But when the aduersaries hearde that Jonathas was readye wyth hys men to ꝑ battel: they feared, & were afrayed in theyr hertes, and kyndled fyres in theyr tentes, brake vp, and gat them awaye. Neuertheleſſe, Jonathas and hys company knewe it not tyll ꝑ morning, for they sawe the fyres burninge.

Then Jonathas folowed vpō them, D but he myghte not ouertake them, for they were goone ouer the water Eleutherus. So Jonathas departed into ꝑ Arabians (whyche were called Zabadei) slewe them and toke theyr goodes. He proceaded further also, & came vnto Damascus, and wente thorowe all the countre. But Simon hys brother toke hys iourney and came to Ascalon and to the nerte stronge holdes, departinge vnto Joppa, and wāne it. For he heard that they wolde stande of Demetrius parte, wherfore he sette men of warre in ꝑ citie to kepe it. After thys came Jonathas home agayne, & called ꝑ elders of ꝑ people together, and demysed wyth them for to buylde vp the stroge holdes in Iewrye, and the walles of Jerusalē, to set vp an hye wall betwyxte ꝑ castel and the citie, for to seperate it frome ꝑ Citie, that it myghte be alone, and that men shuld neyther by nor sell in it. Vpō thys they came together for to buylde vp the citie, and for so muche as ꝑ wall vpon the broke of the west syde (called Caphetheta) was fallen downe, they repayred it: And Simon set vp Idiadah in Sephelah, and made it stronge, settynge portes and lockes vpon it. Nowe when* Triphon purposed to raigne in Asia, to be crowned, and to slaye the kinge Antiochus: he was afrayed that Jonathas wolde not suffre hym: but fyghte agaynst hym: Wherfore he wēte aboute to take Jonathas, & to kyl him. So he departed, and came vnto Bethsan. Then wēte Jonathas forth agayn ste hym to the battel wyth xl. M. chosen men, and came vnto Bethsen also. But when Triphon sawe þ Jonathas came w so greate an hooste to destroye hym, he was afrayed, and therfore he receaued hym honourablie, commended him vnto all his frendes, and gaue hym rewardes and commaunded hys men of warre to be as obediente vnto hym as to hym selfe.

And sayd vnto Jonathas, why hast thou caused thys people to take such trauayle, seyng ther is yet warre betwyxte vs: Therfore sende them home agayne, & chose certayne men to wayte vpon the, and come thou w me to Ptolemais, for I wyll geue it the, wyth the other strong holdes, men of warre and theyr officers: As for me I must departe, thys is onely the cause of my comming. Jonathas beleued hym, and dyd as he sayd, puttynge awaye his hooste, whyche went into the lande of Juda. He kepte but thre thousande by hym, wherof he sent two thousande into Galile, & one thousande went w hym selfe.

Nowe assone as Jonathas entred into Ptolemais, the citizyns spared þ gates of the citie, and toke hym, and slewe all them wyth the swearde, that came wyth hym. Then sente Triphon an host of fote men and horsemen into Galile and into þ great playne, to destroye Jonathas company. But when they knewe that Jonathas was taken: and al they slayne that wayted vpon hym, they toke counceil together and came forth ready to the battell. So whē they whych folowed vpon thē, sawe that it was a matter of lyfe, they turned back agayne. As for the other they went into the land of Juda peceably, and bewayled Jonathas, and them that were wyth hym ryght sore. And Israell made greate lamentacion. Then all the Heathen that were round aboute them sought to destroye them. For they sayd: nowe haue they no captaine, nor any man to helpe them. Therfore, let vs ouercome them, and roote oute theyr name from amonge men.

The xiij. Chapter.

¶ After Jonathas was taken Simon is chosen captayne, of whome Triphon takynge hys children and monye for the redempcion of Jonathas, killeth hym and hys chyldre. The grave of Jonathas. Triphon killeth Antiochus, and possesseth the realme. Demetrius taketh truce wyth Simon. Simon wynneth Gaza. He possesseth the towre of Sion. He maketh his sonne Jhon captayne.

NOwe when Simon heard þ Triphon gathered a greate host to come into þ lād of Juda, & sawe þ people was in greate fearfulnesse and care: He cam vp to Jerusalem, & gathered the people together, and gaue them exhortacion, sayinge: ye knowe what great battayles I and my brethrē and my fathers house haue foughte for the lawe and the Sanctuarie, & what maner of troubles we haue sene: thorowe occasion, wherof * all my brethren are slayne for Israels sake, and I am lefte aloone. And nowe let me not spare myne owne lyfe in anye maner of trouble, for I am not better then my brethren, but wyll auenge my people and the Sanctuarie, oure chyldren & oure wyues: for all the Heathen are gathered together to destroy vs of verye malice. 1. Mac. 9.

At these wordes þ hertes of þ people were kyndled together, so þ they cryed with a loude voice sayinge: Thou shalt be our captayne in stead of Judas, and Jonathas thy brethren, ordre thou our battayle, & whatsoeuer thou commandest vs, we shall do it. So he gathered all the men of warre, making hast to finish all the walles of Jerusalē, whyche he made stronge round aboute. Then sent he Jonathas the sonne of Absalomus w a fresh hoost vnto Joppa, which dryue them oute that were in þ castell, and remayned there hym selfe. Triphon also remoued from Ptolemais wyth a great armye, to come into the land of Juda, & Jonathas wyth him in warde. And Simon pytched his tentes at Adus before the playne feld.

But when Triphon knewe that Simon stode vp in stede of hys brother Jonathas, and that he wolde warre agaynste hym, he sent messengers vnto hym sayenge: Where as we haue kept Jonathas thy brother, it is for money þ he is owynge in þ kinges accoumpt, concernyng the busynes þ he had in hande.

Wherfore,

wherfore sende nowe an hundred talentes of syluer, and his two sonnes for suretye, that when he is letten forth, he shal not forsake vs, & we shal sede him agayne. Neuertheiesse, Simon knewe, that he dissembled in hys wordes, yet commaunded he the money and childrē to be deliuered vnto hym, lest he should be the greater enemie agaynst the people of Israel, & say: because he sent hym not the money and the children, therefore is Ionathas dead.

C So Simon sent hym the children & an hundred talentes, but he dissembled, & wold not let Ionathas go. Afterwarde came Triphon in the lande to destroye it, and wente rounde aboute by the waye, that leadeth vnto Ador. But wheresoeuer they went, thether wente Simon and his hoost also. Nowe they that were in the castell, sente messengers vnto Triphon, that he shulde make hast to come by the wildernesse, and to sende them vitayles. And Triphon made ready al hys horsemen to come ỹ same nyght. Neuertheiesse, it was a very greate snow, so that he came not in Galaadithim. And when he drewe nye Baschama, he slew Ionathas and his sonnes there, and then turned for to go home into hys owne land.

Then sente Simon to fet hys brothers dead coarse, and buryed it in Modin his fathers citie. So all Israel bewayled hym with great lamentacion, & mourned for hym very lōg. And Simō made vpon the sepulchre of hys father and hys brethren, a buyldynge hye to loke vnto, of fre stone, behynd & before, and set vp seuen pyllers, one agaynste another (for hys father, hys mother, & foure brethren) and set greate pyllers round aboute wyth armes vpon them, for a perpetual memorie, & carued shyppes beside the armes, that they myght be sene of men sayling in the see. Thys sepulchre which he made at Modin: stāndeth yet vnto thys daye.

D *Now as Triphō wente forth to walke wyth the ponge kynge Antiochus, he slew hym trayterously, & raygned in hys steade, crowned hymselfe kynge of Asia, and dyd much euell in the lande. Simon also buylte vp the castels in Iewry makyng them strong wyth hye towres, great walles and portes and lockes, and layed vp vytayles in the strong holdes. And Simon chose certayne men, and sente them to kynge Demetrius, to desyre hym, that he wolde discharge the lande from all bondage, for Triphon had spoyled it very sore. Wherevpon Demetrius the kynge answered hym, and wrote vnto hym after thys maner:

Demetrius the kyng sendeth gretynge vnto Simon the hye preaste hys frēde, with the elders and people of the Iewes. The golden crowne and precious stone that ye sente vnto vs, haue we receaued, and are ready to make a stedfast peace with you: yee, & to wryte vnto our officers, for to release you, concernynge the thynges where in we made you fre, & the appointment that we make wt you, shalbe firme and stable. The stronge holdes whych ye haue buylded shall be youre owne. As for anye ouersyghte or faute committed vnto thys daye, we forgeue it and the crowne tare that ye ought vs also. And where as was any other tribute in Ierusalem, it shallbe now no tribute: and loke who are mete among you to be in our court, let them be wrytten vp, that there maye be peace betwyxte vs.

Thus the yock of the Heathen was E taken from Israel in the hundreth and seuententhe yeare. And the people of ỹ Iewes beganne to wryte theyr letters and actes on thys maner: *In the first 1.Mac.13.d. yeare of Simon the hye preaste, and prince of the Iewes.

In those dayes wente Simon vnto Gaza and beseeged it rounde aboute, where he set vp ordinaunce of warre. And wanne a towre, which he toke. So they gat into the towre, leapt into the citie, which was in a great feare: In so much that the people of the citie rente theyr clothes, and clymed vp vpon the walles wyth theyr wyues and children, beseechynge Simon to be at one with thē, sayinge:

O reward vs not after oure wycked F nesse, but be gracious vnto vs, and we shal do the seruice. Then Simon for very pitie wolde fyght nomore agaynste them, but put them out of the citie, and caused the houses (wherein the images were) to be clensed, and so entred the citie wyth Psalmes of prayse, geuynge thankes vnto the LORDE. So when he had cast all abhominations oute of the citie, he set suche men in it as kept ꝑ law of GOD, and made the citie strog & buylded a dwelling place for hym selfe.

Now, when they in the castell at Jerusalem were kepte so straytelie ꝑ they could not come forth into the countrie, & myght neyther by nor sell, they were verye hugry, and many of thē famished to death. In so much ꝑ they besought Simon to be at one wyth them, which he graūted them. So he put them oute from thence, and clensed ꝑ castell from fylthynesse. And vpon ꝑ thre & twentye daye of the seconde moneth in ꝑ Clxxi. yeare they entred into it with thankesgeuynge & braunches of Palme trees, wyth Harpes, Croudes, Cymbales, ād lutes, syngynge Psalmes and songes of prayse vnto GOD: for that the great enemie of Israell was ouercome.

And Simon ordained that the same day shulde be kept euery yeare in gladnesse, and made stronge the hyll of the temple that was besyde ꝑ castel, where he dwelte hymselfe with hys company. Simon also perceauing that Jhon his sonne was a myghty man of armes, made hym captayne of all the hoostes, and caused hym to dwell at Gaza.

The xiiij. Chapter.

¶ Demetrius is ouercome of Arsaces. Simon beyng captaine, there is greate quietenes in Israel: The couenaunt of frendshyppe wyth the Romāns, and wyth the people of Sparta is renewed.

A IN the Clxxij. yeare gathered king Demetrius his hoost, and departed vnto Media to get hym helpe for to fight agaynste Triphon. Nowe when Arsaces ꝑ kyng of Persia and Media heard, that Demetrius was entred wyth in hys borders, he sente one of hys princes, to take hym alyue: and to bryng hym vnto hym. So he went and slew Demetrius hoost, toke hym selfe, brought hym to Arsaces, whych kept hym in warde. And all the lande of Juda was in reste so longe as Simon liued, for he sought the welth of hys people, therefore were they glad to haue him for theyr ruler, and to do hym worshyp alway.

B Simon wanne the citie of Joppa also for an hauen towne, and made it an entraunce into the Iles of the see. He enlarged the borders of his people, and conquered them more land. He gathered vp many of theyr people that were prysoners: he had the dominion of Gaza, Bethsura, and the castell, whych he clensed from fylthynes, and there was no man that resisted hym. So that euery man tylled his grounde in peace, the land of Juda, and the trees gaue theyr frute and encreace. The elders sat all in Judgement, and toke theyr deuyce for the wealth of the lande, ꝑ yong men put on worshyp and harnesse vpon thē. He prouided vitayles for the cities, and made goodly stronge holdes of them, so that the fame of hys worshyppe was spoken of vnto the ende of the worlde. *For he made peace thorowe oute the lāde, & Israel was ful of myrth & Joye. 1. Mac. 14. ꝑ.

Euerye man sat vnder hys vine and fygge trees, & there was noman to fray them away. There was none in ꝑ land to fyght agaynste them, for then ꝑ kynges were ouercome. He helped those ꝑ were in aduersite among hys people, he was diligent to se the lawe kepte, as for such as were vngodly and wicked, he toke them awaye. He set vp the Sanctuarie, and encreased the holye vessels of the Temple.

When the Romans and the Spartians had gotten word, that Jonathas was dead, they were ryghte sorye. But when they hearde that Simon hys brother was made hye preaste in hys steade, and howe he had wonne the lande agayne wyth the cities in it, they wrote vnto him in tables of brasse, to renue the frendeshyp, & bonde of loue, whych they had made afore wyth* Judas and Jonathas hys brethren. Whyche wrytinges were red before the congregacion at Jerusalem. 1. Mac. 12. & 14.

C And thys is the copie of the letters that the Spartians sente: The Senators and citezins of Sparta sende gretyng vnto Simon the great preaste, wt the elders, Preastes, and the other people of the Jewes their brethren. Whan your ambassidours that were sente vnto our people certified vs of youre worshyppe, honour and prosperous welth, we were glad of theyr commynge, and haue wrytten the errande whych they spake before the counsall of the people, namly ꝑ Numenius the sonne of Antiochus & Antipater the sone of Jason ꝑ Jewes ambassidours are come vnto vs, for to renue ꝑ olde frēdeshyppe with vs. Upon

bys. Upon thys the people consented, ꝑ the men shulde be honorably intreated, and ꝑ the copy of theyr errand shuld be writtē in the special bokes of ꝑ people, for a perpetuall memorie vnto ꝑ Spartyans: yee, and that we shulde sende a copie of ꝑ same vnto Simon the greate preast. After thys dyd Simō sende Numenius vnto Rome, with a golden shylde of a thousande pounde weyght, to cōmende the frendshyp with them, which when the Romans vnderstode, they saide: what thankes shall we recompense agayne vnto Simon and his chyldren: For he hathe stablyshed hys brethren, ouercome the enemies of Israel. Wherfore they graunted hym to be free. And all thys wrote the Iewes in tables of brasse, and nayled it vnto the pylers vpon the mount Sion. The copie of the wrytynge is thys:

The eyhte and twentye daye of the Moneth *Elul, in ꝑ hundred lxxij. yeare, in the thyrde yeare of Simō the hye preaste, in the greate congregacion of the prestes, rulers of the people, and elders of the countrye at Asaram, were these wordes openly declared:

¶ For so much as there was much warre in oure lande, therefore Simon the sonne of Mattathias (come of the chyldren of Jarib) & hys brethren put thēselues in parel, & resisted the enemies of theyr people: that theyr Sanctuarie & law myght be mayntayned, & dyd theyr people greate worshyppe: Jonathas in lyke maner after that he had gouerned his people, and bene theyr hye preaste: dyed & lyeth buryed besyde hys elders. After that wolde theyr enemies haue troden theyr holy thinges vnder foote, destroyed theyr lande, & vtterly wasted theyr Sanctuarie. Then Simon withstoode them, and fought for hys people, spent much of his owne monye, weapened the valeaunt men of hys people, gaue them wages, made strong the cities of Juda, with Bethsura that lyeth vpō the borders of Jewry (where the ordinaunce of theyr enemies laye some tyme) & set the Iewes there for to kepe it. ¶ He made fast Joppa also, whych lyeth vpon the see, & Gaza that bordreth vpō Azotus (where ꝑ enemies dwelt afore) and there he set Iewes to kepe it: and what soeuer was mete for ꝑ subduinge of the aduersaries, that layd he therin.

Now when ꝑ people sawe the noble actes of Simon, & what worshippe he was purposed to do for thē hys godlye behauoure, and faythfulnesse which he kept vnto thē, & howe he sought by allwayes the welth of hys people, because he dyd all thys therfore they chose hym to be theyr prince, & hyepreaste. And in his tyme they prospered wel by hym, so ꝑ the Heathen were taken out of theyr land: & they also which were in the citie of Dauid at Jerusalē in the castel (where they went out & defyled all thynges that were aboute the Sanctuarie, and dyd greate harme vnto cleanlynesse) and Simon put men of the Iewes in it, for the defense of the lande and citie, and set vp the walles of Jerusalem.

And kinge Demetrius cōfirmed hym G in hys hye prestlhode, made hym hys frēde, and dyd hym great worshyp. For he hearde that the Romans called the Iewes theyr frendes, louers, and brethrē, how honorably they receaued Simōs ambassadours: howe the Iewes & preastes consented that he shulde be theyr prince and hye preaste perpetually (tyll GOD rayseth vp the true prophet) and that he shuld be theyr captayne to care for the Sanctuarie, & to set officers vpon the workes therof, ouer the lande, ouer the weapons, ouer ꝑ houses of defense, to make prouision for the holy thinges, and to be obeyed of euery man, and all the wrytynges of ꝑ lande to be made in his name: that he shuld be clothed in purple and golde, & that it shulde be lawfull for none of the people nor preastes to breake anye of these thinges, to withstande his wordes, nor to call any cōgregacion in the lande without hym, that he shulde be clothed in purple, and weare a colar of golde. And yf there were anye whych disobeyed or brake thys ordinaunce, that he shuld be punyshed.

So all the people consented to alow Simon, and to do accordīg vnto these wordes: Simon also hymself toke vpon hym, & was contente to be the hye Preaste, the Captayne, & Prince of the Iewes and preastes, & to gouerne them all. And they cōmaunded to make thys wrytyng in tables of brasse, and fasten it to the compasse of the Sanctuarie in an open place, and laye vp a copie of the same in the tresurye, that Simon & hys posteritie myght haue it.

The xv. Chapter.

¶ Antiochus maketh a couenaunt of frendshyppe with Simon, and Tryphon to persecuted. The Romans wryte letters vnto kinges and nacions in the defense of the Jewes. Antiochus refusinge the helpe that Simon sent him, breaketh hys couenaunt.

1 MOreouer kynge Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sente letters from the Iles of the see, vnto Simon the hye preaste & prynce of the Jewes, and to all the people, contaynynge these wordes: Antiochus the kyng sendeth greatyng vnto Simon the hye preast, and to the people of the Jewes. For so muche as certayne wycked men haue gotten ꝑ kyngdome of our progenitours, I am purposed to chalenge the realme agayne, and to restore it to the olde estate.

Wherfore I haue gathered a greate hooste, and made shippes of warre, that I may go thorowe the country, and be auenged of thē which haue destroyed our lande, and wasted manye cities in my realme. And therfore nowe I make the fre also from all the tributes, wher of all kynges my progenitours haue discharged the: and frō other customes (wher frō they haue released the) what soeuer they be: yee, I geue the leaue to smyte mony of thyne owne, within thy lande. As for Jerusalem, I will that it be holy & fre: and all the weapons and houses of defense, whych thou hast buyl ded, and kepeste in thyne handes, shall be thyne. Where as anye thynge is or shalbe owynge vnto the kynge, I forgeue it the, from thys tyme forth to euermore. And whē we haue obtayned oure kyngedome, we shal do the, thy people, and the temple greate worshyp: so that your honour shallbe knowen thorowe out the whole worlde.

13 In ꝑ Cxxxiij. yeare went Antiochus into hys fathers lande, and all the men of warre came together vnto hym, so ꝑ fewe were left with Tryphon. So the kyng Antiochus folowed vpō hym, but he fled vnto Doza, which lyeth by the see syde: for he sawe that there was my scheke commynge vnto hym, and that hys hoste had forsakē hym. Then came Antiochus vnto Doza with an C. and twentye thousande men of armes vpō foote, and eyght thousande horsemen. So he cōpassed the citie round aboute, and the shyppes came by the see. Thus they vexed the citie by land and by water, in so much that they suffred noman to go in or oute.

In the meane season came *Numenius (& they that had bene with hym) C from ꝑ citie of Rome, hauynge letters 1.Ma.
wrytten vnto the kynges & prouinces, wherein were contained these wordes: Lucius the Mayre of Rome sendethe greatynge vnto Ptolomie the kynge. The ambassadours of the Jewes oure frendes beyng sent from Simon ꝑ hye preast, and from the people of ꝑ Jewes, came vnto vs for to renue the olde frēdshyp and bond of loue, brought a shyld of golde weyinge a thousande pounde, whych we were contente to receaue of them. Wherefore we thoughte it good to wryte vnto the kynges and prouinces, to do them no harme, nor to take parte agaynste them, theyr cities, nor countrye, neyther to mayntayne theyr enemies agaynst them. yf there be any wycked personnes therefore fled from theyr countrye vnto you, delyuer them vnto Simon the preaste, that he maye punyshe them accordynge to theyr owne lawe.

The same wordes wrote ꝑ Romans D
also vnto Demetrius the kyng, to Attalus, Araba, Arsaces, & to all the regiōs, as Samsanes, to them of Sparta, Delo, Mido, Sidon, Caria, Samos, Pāphilia, Lycia, Halicarnassum, and to the Rhodes, to Faselis, Coo, Sida, Arado, Gortina, Gnidum, to Cypres and Cyren. And of euery letter they sent a copie to Simon the hye preast, and to the people of the Jewes: So Antiochus ꝑ kynge brought hys hooste vnto Doza ꝑ seconde tyme to take it: where he made diuerse ordinaunce of warre, and kepte Tryphon in, that he shulde not come forth. Then sent Simon to Antiochus two thousande chosen mē to helpe hym with golde, syluer, and other plenteous gere. Neuertheiesse, he wold not receaue them, but brake all the couenaunte which he made with Simon afore, and withdrewe himselfe from him.

He sent Athenobius also a frend of his vnto Simon, for to reason wh hym, sayinge: ye wytholde from me Joppa and Gaza (wyth the castel that is at Jerusalē) whych are cities of my realme, whose borders ye haue destroyed and done great euell in ꝑ lande, hauynge the domynacyō in many other places of my kyngdome. Wherfore nowe delyuer ꝑ cities whych ye haue taken, with ꝑ tributes of the places that ye haue rule vpon without the borders of Jewry: Or els geue me fyue hundred talentes of syluer: yee, & for the harme that ye haue done in the cities: and for the tributes of ꝑ same other fiue hūdred talētes. yf no, we shal come & fyght against you.

So Athenobius the kynges frende came to Jerusalem, and when he sawe ꝑ greate worshippe and honoure of Simon in golde, syluer, and so great plentye of ornamentes, he marualed & told Simon as the kynge commaunded hym. Then answered Symon and sayd vnto hym: *As for vs we haue neither taken other mens landes, nor wyt holden them, but onelye oure fathers heritage, whych our enemies had vnryghteouslie in possessyon a certaine time. Thys herytage of oure fathers haue we chalēged in processe of time. And where as thou cōplaynest concerninge Joppa & Gaza, they dyd greate harme to oure people & in oure lande, yet wyl we geue an hundred talentes for thē.

Neuertheles, Athenobius answered hym not one worde, but turned agayne wrothfullye vnto the king & told hym al these wordes, & the great dignitie of Simon, with all that he had sene & the kynge was verye angrye. In the meane time fled Tryphō by shyppe vnto Orthosaida. Then the kynge made Cendebeus captaine of ꝑ see coast, and gaue hym an hooste of fotemen and horsemen, commaundinge hym to remoue the hooste towarde Jewry, & to buylde vp the citie of Cedron, to make vp ꝑ portes, & to warre agaynst the people of the Jewes. As for the kynge himself: he folowed vpon Tryphon. So Cēdebeus came vnto Jamnia, and began to vexe the people, to tread downe Jewry, to take the people prysoners, to slay them & *to buylde vp Cedrō, where he set horsemen & other men of warre: that they myght come forth, and go thorowe the stretes of Jewry, lyke as the kynge had commaunded.

The xvi. Chapter.

¶ Cendebeus the captayne of Antiochus hoost is put to flight of the sonnes of Simō. Ptolomeus the sonne of Abobus fylleth Simon and hys two sonnes at a banket. Jhon fylleth them that lye in waye for hys lyfe.

Then came Jhon vp frō *Gaza, and tolde Simō his father what Cendebeus had done amonge theyr people. Upō this called Simon two of hys eldeste sonnes, Judas and Jhon, and sayd vnto them: I and my brethren, & my fathers house, haue euer from oure youth vp vnto thys daye foughten against ꝑ enemies of Israell, & GOD gaue vs good fortune to delyuer Israel ofte tymes. And nowe for so muche as I am olde, be ye in stead of me and my brethrē, to go forth and fyght for our people and the helpe of GOD be with you. So he chose twentie thousande fyghtinge mē of ꝑ country wyth horsmen also, which wente forth agaynst Cendebeus, and rested at Modin. A 1.Mac.16.f.

In the mornynge they arose, and wēte into the playne felde: and beholde, a myghty greate hooste came agaynst thē both of footemen and horsemē. Nowe was there a water broke betwyxt thē, and Jhon remoued the hooste to ward them. And when he sawe that the people was afrayed to go ouer the water broke, he went ouer fyrst hymself, and ꝑ men seing this, folowed hym. Then Jhon set hys horsemen and footemē in order, ꝑ one by the other, for theyr enemyes horsemen were verie manie. But when they blew vp ꝑ preastes trompettes, Cendebeus fled wyth hys hooste, whereof many were slayne, & the remnaunt gat them to their stronge holde. Judas also Johns brother was woūded at ꝑ same time. And Jhon folowed styl vpon the enemies, tyll he came to Cedron* which he buylded. The enemies fled also vnto the towers ꝑ were in the feldes of Azotus, and those dyd Jhō burne vp. Thus were slayne two thousande men of them, and Jhon turned agayn peaceably to Jewry.

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolomie ꝑ sonne of Abobus made captayne, which because he had aboundaunce of syluer & golde: (for he hadde maryed the daughter of Simon the hye preast) waxed proude in his mynde, & thought to conquere the lande, imagenyng falshed agaynst Simon and hys sonnes, to destroy thē. Nowe as Symon was goinge aboute thorowe the cytyes, that were in the country of Jewry, and carynge for them, he came downe to Jericho with Mattathias and Judas his sonnes, in the. Clxxviij. yeare in the xj. moneth called *Sabat. Then Ptolomie þ sonne of Abobus receaued them (but wyth disceate) into a strong house of his, called Doch, which he had buylded where he made them a bāket.

So when Simon & his sonnes, were merie and had droncken wel, Ptolomie stode vp wyth hys men (whom he had hyd ther) and toke theyr weapons, entred into the bancket house, & slewe Simon wyth hys two sonnes, & certayne of hys seruauntes. Suche greate vntayrthfulnesse dyd Ptolomie in Israel, & recōpensed euel for good. The wrote this Ptolomie the same vnto the kinge Antiochus requiring him that he shuld sende hym an hooste to helpe hym: and so shulde he delyuer hym the land with the cities and tributes of the same. He sente other men also vnto Gaza, for to take Jhon, and wrote vnto the captaynes to come to him, and he shulde geue them syluer, gold, and rewardes. And to Jerusalem he sente other to take it, and the Sanctuarie.

Then ranne there one before, & told Jhon in Gaza, that hys father and his brethren were slayne, and howe þ Ptolomie had sent to slay hym also. When Jhō hearde thys he was sore abashed, and layde handes of them that were come to destroy him, & slewe them, for he knewe, þ they wente about to kyl him.

As for other thynges concernynge Jhon: of his warres, of his noble actes (wherein he behaued him selfe manfully) of the buyldynge of walles whych he made, & other of hys deades. They are wrytten in the chronacles of hys preast stode, from þ time forth þ he was made hye preaste after hys father.

The ende of the fyrst booke of the Machabees.

The seconde booke of the Machabees.

The fyrste Chapter.

¶ An Epistle of the Jewes that dwelt at Jerusalē sente vnto them that dwelt in Egypte, wherein they exhorte them to geue thankes for the death of Antiochus. Of the fyre that was hyd in the pyt. The prayer of Nehemias.

THe brethren of the Jewes whych be at Jerusalem, & and in the land of Jewry, wysshe vnto those brethrē of the Jewes that are throwoute Egypte: good fortune, health and peace.

GOD be gracious vnto you and thynke vpon his couenaunte that he made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob hys faythful seruauntes: * and geue you all Deu. 6 such an hert, that ye maye loue & serue hym: yee, and perfourme hys wyll wyth an whole hert and of a wyllynge mynde. He open your hertes in hys lawe & in his commaundemētes, sende peace, hear your prayers, be at one with you, and neuer forsacke you in tyme of trouble. This is heare oure prayer for you:

What tyme as Demetrius raygned in þ Clxix. yeare, we Jewes wrote vnto you in the trouble & violence þ came vnto vs. In those yeres, after þ Jason departed oute of the holy & lande and kingedome, they brent vp the portes & shed innocente bloud. Then made we oure prayer vnto the LORDE, and were hearde: we offered, and lyghted the candels, settinge forth cakes & breade: * And nowe come ye vnto the feast of Leui. 23. Nu. 29.
tabernacles in the moneth ✠ Casleu.

In the. Clxxxviij. yeare, the people þ was at Jerusalem & in Jewry, the counsail & Judas him selfe sent his wholsome salutatiō vnto Aristobolus king Ptolomais master, whych came of the generacion of the anoynted preastes & to the Jewes that were in Egypte: In so muche as GOD hath deliuered vs from great parelles we thancke hym hyghly. In þ we relysted so myghty a king. And why? he brought men out of Persis by heapes, to fight agaynste vs & þ holy citie. For as he was in Persis (namely, þ captaine with þ great host) he perished in the temple of Naneas, beynge dysceaued throwowe the deuice of Naneas preastes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelt there. Antiochus & hys frēdes came thether to receaue much mony for adowry. So when Naneas preastes had layde forth þ money, he entred with a smal companie into the compasse of the temple, & so they shut the temple.

Nowe when Antiochus entred by opening þ preuie intraūce of þ temple, the preastes

the preastes stoned the captayne to death, hewed them in peaces that were wyth hym, smote of theyr heades, and threwe thē oute: In all thynges GOD be praised, whych hath deliuered ẏ wycked into oure handes.

Where as we are nowe purposed to kepe the purification of the temple vpō the fyue and twentie daye of ẏ moneth Casleu, we thought necessari to certifie you therof, ẏ ye also myght * kepe the tabernacles, feast daye, & the daye of ẏ fyre, which was geuen vs, when Nehemias offered, after that he had set vp ẏ temple and the aulter. For what tymes oure fathers were led awaye vnto Persis, the preastes (which thē sought the honoure of GOD) toke the fyre preuely from the aulter, and hid it in a valley, wher as was a drye pytte, and therein they kept it, so that the place was vnknowne vnto euery man.

D Nowe after manye yeares when it pleased GOD ẏ Nehemias shulde be sēte from the king of Persia, * he sent the children of those preastes (whych had hyd the fyre) to seke it. And as they tolde vs, they foūde no fyre but thycke water. Then commaunded he them to drawe it vp & to bringe it hym, and ẏ offerynges wythall. Nowe when the sacrifices were layd on, & ordred the preast, Nehemias commaunded to sprynckle them, & the wood wt water. When thys was done, & the tyme come ẏ the sunne shone, which afore was in ẏ cloude, there was a greate fire kidled. In so much ẏ euery man maruayled. Nowe all the preastes prayed, whyle ẏ sacrifice was a makinge. Jonathas prayed fyrst and the other gaue aunswere.

And Nehemias prayer was after this maner: O LORDE GOD maker of al thynges, thou fearfull, & strong, thou righteous & merciful, thou ẏ art onelye a gracious kynge, onely liberall, onlye iuste, Almyghtie and euerlastige, thou ẏ deliuerest Israel frō al trouble, thou that hast chosen the fathers, and halowed them, receaue the offerynge for ẏ whole people of Israel, preserue thyne owne porcion, & halowe it, gather those together, ẏ are scatered abrode from vs: deliuer them that are vnder ẏ Heathens bondage, loke vpon them whych are dyspysed & abhorred, ẏ the Heathē may knowe & se howe ẏ thou art oure GOD: Punish them that oppresse, and prondly put vs to dishonour. Set thy people agayne in thy holy place * lyke as Moses hath spoken. Deut.30.d.

And the Preastes songe Psalmes of thankesgeuynge, so longe as the sacrifice endured. Nowe when the sacrifice was brent, Nehemias commaunded ẏ greate stones to be sprynckled wyth ẏ residue of the water: * Whyche when it was done, ther was kyndled a flame of them also: but it was consumed, tho rowe the lyghte, that shyned from the aulter. So when thys matter was knowne, it was told ẏ kyng of Persia, ẏ in the place wherin ẏ preastes which were led awaye, had hyd fyre, there appeared water in the steade of fyre: and that Nehemias and hys compayne, had purified the sacrifices wythal. Then ẏ kynge considering and pondryng the matter diligently, made hym a temple to proue ẏ thyng that was done. And when he founde it so in dede, he gaue ẏ preastes many gyftes and diuers rewardes: yee, he toke them wyth hys owne hande and gaue them. And Nehemias called the same place Nephtar, whych is as moche to saye, as a clensynge: but manye men call it Nephi. Judit.6.d. 3.Reg.18.c. Eccle.48.d.

¶ Howe Jeremie hyd the tabernacule, the Arcke, and aulter in the hyll. Of the fyue bookes of Jason contayned in one.

IT is founde also in the wrytinges of Jeremie ẏ prophet ẏ he commaūded them which were caryed awaye to take fyre, * as it is sayde afore. & He cōmaunded them also, the shulde not forget the lawe and commaundementes of the LORDE, & that they shulde not erre in theyr myndes, when they se imagines of syluer & gold, wt theyr ornamentes. The iij. Chapter.

¶Of the honour done vnto the temple by the kynges of the Gentiles. Simon vttereth what treasures is in the temple. Heliodorus is sent to take them awaye. He is stryckē of GOD, and healed at the prayer of Onias.

IN What tyme as the holy citie was inhabited in all peace & welth, & when the lawes were yet very wel kept (For so was it ordeined by Onias the hye preaste and other godly men þ were enemies to wyckednes) It came ther to,* that euen the kynges & princes them selues dyd the place greate worshyppe, and garnyshed the temple wyth great gyftes: In so moche þ Seleucus kynge of Asia of hys owne rentes, bare all the coastes belongynge to the seruyce of þ offerynges. Then* Simon of the tribe of Ben Jamin, a ruler of the temple, laboured to worcke some myschefe in the citie, but the hye preaste resisted hym.

Neuertheles, when he myght not ouercome Onias, he gat hym to *Appolonius the sonne of Thersa (whych then was chefe Lorde in Celosyria & Phenices) and tolde hym that þ treasure in Jerusalem was full of innumerable mony, & how that the comē goodes (whyche belonged not vnto the offerynges) were exceadyng great also: yee, & howe it were possible þ althese myght come vnder the kynges powre.

Nowe whē Appolonius had shewed the kinge of the money, as it was tolde hym: the kynge called for Heliodorus hys stewarde, and sente hym wyth a cō maundement, to bryng hym the same money. Immediatly Heliodorus toke hys pourney, but vnder a colour, as though he wolde go thorowe Celosyria and Phenices to viset þ cities, but hys purpose was to fulfyll the kynges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem, and was louyngly receaued of þ hye preast into the citie: he tolde what was determined concernynge the money, and shewed the cause of hys commynge, he asked also yf it were so in dede. Then the hye preast tolde hym that there was such monye laied vp for þ vpholdynge of wyddowes and fatherles chyldren, and howe that a certayne of it belonged vnto Hyrcanus Tobyas a noble man, and that of all the monye (whych þ wycked Simon had bewrayed) There were iiij C. talentes of syluer, and two C. of gold: yee, and that it were vnpossible for those mēs meanynge to be dysceaued that had layed vp theyr money in the place and temple (whych is had in worshyppe thorow þ whole worlde) for the mayntenaunce & honoure of the same. Wherunto Heliodorus answered, that the kynge had commaūded hym in anye wyse, to bryng hym in the money.

So at the daye appoynted, Heliodorus entred into þ temple to order thys matter. But there was no small feare thorowoute the whole citie. The preastes fell downe before þ aulter in theyr bestimentes, & called vnto heauen vpō hym* whych had made a lawe, concernyng stuffe geuē to kepe, that they shulde be safely preserued, for such as commit them vnto keppynge. Then whoso had loked the hye preast in the face, it wolde haue greued hys herte. For hys countenaunce & the chaungynge of his coloure, declared the inwarde sorowe of hys mynde. The man was all in heupnes, and hys body in feare, wher by they that loked vpon hym, myght perceaue þ strefe of hys herte, þ other people came out of theyr houses by heapes vntot, he comen prayer, because the place was lyke to come into cōfusiō. The wemē came together thorow þ stretes wt hery clothes aboute theyr breastes.

The virgins also that were kepte in, ranne to Onias, some in the walles, other some loked out of the wyndowes: yee, they al held vp their handes towarde heauen, & prayed. A miserable thynge was it, to loke vpon the comen people, and the hye preast, brynge in suche trouble. But they besought almyghty GOD þ the godes whych were committed vnto thē, might be kept whole, for those þ had deliuered them vnto theyr keppyng. Neuertheles, the thyng þ Heliodorus was determined to do, that perfourmed he in the same place, he hym selfe personalye brynge aboute the tre asurye wyth hys men of warre. But þ spryte of almighty GOD shewed hym selfe openly, so that all they whych presumed to obeye Heliodorus, fel thorowe the power of GOD into a great fearfulnes and drede.

* For there appeared vnto them an horse horse, wyth a terrible man syttynge vpon hym, decked in goodlye araye, and ꝓ horse smote at Heliodorus wyth his fore fete. Nowe he that sat vpon ꝓ horse had harnes of golde vpon hym.

Moreouer, there apeared two fayre and bewtyfull yonge men in goodly araye, whych stode by hym & scourged hym on both the sydes, & gaue hym ma-
2. Mac. 3. nye strypes withoute ceassinge. * With D that fell Heliodorus sodenlye vnto the grounde. So they toke hym vp (beynge cõpassed aboute wyth greate darckenes se) & bare hym out vpon a bare. Thus he that came wyth so many runners & men of warre into the sayde treasurye, was borne out, where as no mã might helpe hym: & so the power of GOD was manifest & knowen. He laye styll downe also by the power of GOD destytute of all hope & lyfe. And they prayed the LORDE that had shewed hys power vpon hys place and temple, whych a lytle a fore was ful of feare and trouble: and that thorowe the reuelacion of the Almyghtye LORDE it was fylled wyth ioye and gladnes.

Then certayne of Heliodorus frendes prayed Onias, ꝓ in all hast he wolde call vpon GOD to graunt hym hys lyfe, whych was geuyng vp the ghoost. So the hye preast considerynge ꝓ matter, and least the kinge shulde suspect ꝓ the Iewes had done Heliodorus some euel. He offered an healthy offeringe for hym. Now when the hye preast had obtayned hys petition, the same yõge mẽ in the same clothinge appeared and stode besyde Heliodorus, sayinge: Thãcke
Act. 16. c. Onias ꝓ hye Preast, for * hys sake hath the LORDE graunted the thy lyfe: therfore seyng that GOD hath scourged ꝓ, geue hym prayse & thankes, and shewe euery mã hys myghte and power. And whẽ they had spoken these wordes they appered no more.

E So Heliodorus offered vnto GOD, made great vowes vnto hym, whyche had graunted hym hys lyfe, thancked Onias, toke hys hoste and went agayne to ꝓ kynge. Then testified he vnto euery man of ꝓ great workes of GOD that he had sene wyth hys eyes. And when ꝓ kinge asked Heliodorus who were mete to be sente yet once agayne to Ierusalem, he sayde: yf thou haste anye enemie or aduersarie vnto thy realme, sende him thyther, & thou shalte haue him punished, yf he escape wt hys lyfe: for in that place (no doubte) there is a spiciall power and worckynge of GOD. For he that dwelleth in heauen, vysiteth & defendeth ꝓ place, & all that come to do it harme, he punisheth and plageth them. This is nowe ꝓ matter concernynge Heliodorus, & the keppynge of the treasurye at Ierusalem.

The iiij. Chapter.

¶ Simon reporteth euel of Onias. Jason desyrynge the office of the hye preaste corrupteth the kynge wyth rewardes. The wycked intente of Jason.

THys Simon now * (of whõ I
1. Mac. we spake afore) beynge a bewrayer of the money and of hys owne natural countrye, reported the worste of Onias: as thoughe he had moued Heliodorus vnto this, & as thoughe he had bene a brynger vp of euell. Thus was he not ashamed to call hym an enemie of the realme: that was so faythfull an ouersear & defender of the citie and of hys people: yee, and so feruent in the lawe of GOD: But when the malice of Simon encreased so ferre, that thorowe hys frendes there were certayne mẽslaughters committed: Onias considered the parell that myghte come thorowe this stryfe, & howe that Appolonius (namelye the chefe Lorde in Celosyria and Phenices) was all set vpon tyranny, & Simons malice increased the same. He gat hym to the kynge, not as an accuser of ꝓ citezins, but as one that by him selfe intended the comen wealthe of the whole multitude.

For he sawe it was not possible to ly- B ue in peace, nether Simon to leaue of from his foolyshnes: excepte the kynge did looke thereto. But after the deathe of Seleucus, when Antiochus (whych is called the noble) toke the kingdome, Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hye preast: For he came vnto the kynge, & promised him iij. C. & lx. talentes of syluer, & of the other rentes lxxx. talentes. Beysdes thys he promised hi yet an C. & l. yf he myght haue the scole of the chyldren, and ꝓ he myght call thẽ of Ierusale Antiochians. Which whẽ they had graunted, and he had gotten the superiorzyte, he beganne immediatlye to brawe his kynsmen to ꝓ customs of the Heathen, put downe the thinges that the Iewes had set vp of loue, by Ihon the father of Eupolemius, which was sent ambassydour vnto Rome, for to make the bonde of frendshyp and loue. He put downe all the Iewes and libertyes of the Iewes, and set vp the wycked statutes. He durste make a hyghtyng scole vnder the castell, and set fyre yonge men to learne ꝑ maners of whores and brotheis.

of the

This was nowe the begynnynge of the Heathenishe and straunge conuersacion, brought in thorowe the vngracyous & vnheard wyckednes of Iaso, whych shuld not be called a prest, but an vngodlye personne. In so moch ꝑ ꝑ preastes were nowe no more occupied aboute ꝑ seruice of the aulter, but dispised the temple, regarded not the offrynges: yee, gaue theyr diligẽce to learne to fyght, to wrastle, to leape, to daunce, & to put at the stone, not settyng by the honoure of theyr fathers, but lyked the glorie of ꝑ grekes best of al: for ꝑ which they stroue parlously, & were gredy to folowe their statutes: ye, theyr luste was in al thinges to be lyke thẽ, which afore were their enemies & destroyers. Howbeit to do wickedly agaynst ꝑ lawe of GOD, shal not escape vnpunished, but of this we shal speake hereafter.

What tyme as ꝑ* Olympiades spores were playde at Tyrus (the kynge hym selfe beinge presente) thys vngracious Iason sent wicked men, beatyng from them of Ierusalẽ (which now were called Antiochãs) thre C. dragmas of syluer for an offerynge to Hercules. These had they that caryed them desired thẽ vnder such a fashyon, as tough they shuld not be offered but bestowed to other vses. Neuertheless he ꝑ sent them, sente them to ꝑ intente that they shulde be offred vnto Hercules. But because of those that were presente, they were geuen as to the makynge of shyppes. And Appolonius the sonne of Nesteus was sent into Egypt, because of ꝑ noble men of kyng Ptolomie Philometor. Nowe when Antiochus perceaued ꝑ he was put oute from medlynge in ꝑ realme, he soughte hys owne profite, departed from thence, came to Ioppa: and then to Ierusalem, where he was honourablie receaued of Iason, & of ꝑ citie, & was brought in wyth torch light and wyth greate prayse, & so he turned hys hooste vnto Phenices.

After iij. peare Iason sente Menelaus, the forlayd Simons brother, * to beare the money vnto the kynge, & to bringe hym answere of other necessary matters. But he (when he was praysed of the kynge for magnifyinge of his power) turned the preasthod vnto him selfe layinge vp iij. C. talentes of siluer for Iason. So when he had gotten the commaundementes from the kinge (he came haynge nothynge that becommeth a preaste) but bearynge the stomacke of a cruell tiraunte, and wrathe of a wyldebrute beaste. * Then Iason (whyche had dysceaued hys owne brother) seynge he hym selfe was begyled also, was fayne to fle into the lande of the Ammonites, and Menelaus gat ꝑ dominion. But as for the money that he had promised vnto the kynge, he dyd nothynge therein, when Sostratus ꝑ Ruler of the Castel required it of hym. For Sostratus was the man that gathered the customes, wherefore they were both called before ꝑ kynge. Thus was Menelaus put out of the preasthode, and Lysimachus hys brother came in hys stead. Sostratus also was made lorde of the Ciprians.

It happened in the meane season, ꝑ the Tharsians & Malacians made insurrection because they were geue for preasant vnto kyng Antiochus concubine. Then came the kinge in all ꝑ hast to stylle them agayne, and to pacifie the matter, leauige Andronicus therto be hys debite as one mete therfore. Now Menelaus supposynge ꝑ he had gottẽ a ryght conuenient tyme, stole certayn vessels of gold out of ꝑ tẽple, & gaue thẽ to Andronicus for a present: & some he solde at Tyrus, and in ꝑ cities therby.

Whych whẽ Onias knew of a suerty, he reproued him: but he kept hym in a Sanctuarie beside Daphnis ꝑ lieth by Antioch. Wherfore Menelaus gat hym to Andronicus, & prayd hym ꝑ he wold slaye Onias: so whẽ he came to Onias he counceled him craftely to come out of ꝑ Sãctuarie, geuyng hym his hãd wt an othe (howbeit he suspect him) & then he slew Onias without any regarde of ryghteousnes. For ꝑ which cause not only ꝑ Iewes but other nacions also toke indignacion, & were displeased for the

G ꝑ vnrighteous death of so godlie a mā.

And when the kynge was come agayne from Cilicia, the Jewes and certayne of the Gzekes went vnto hym, complaynynge foz the vnrighteous death of Onias. Yee, Antiochus hymselfe was sozy in hys mynd foz Onias, so that it pitied hym, and he wept remēbzinge hys sobernes and mauerly behaueour. Wherfoze he was so kyndled in hys mynd, that he commaunded Andronicus to be strypped out of hys purple clothing, and so to be let thozowout the citie: yee, and the vngratious man to be slayne in the same place, wher he committed thys wyckednes vpon Onias. Thus the Lozde rewarded hym hys punyshment, as he had deserued. Nowe whē Lysimachus had done many wycked dedes in ꝑ temple thozowe the counsell of Menelaus, and ꝑ voyce came abzoade, the multitude gathered them together agaynste Lysimachus: foz he had caryed out now much gold.

So when the people arose, and were full of displeasure, Lysimachus armed iij. M. vnthzyftes to defende hym: a certayne tyzannt beynge theyr captayne, whych was growen both in age and woodnesse. But when the people vnderstode the purpose of Lysimachus some gat stones, some good strōge clubbes, and some caste ashes vpon Lysimachus. Thus there were many of thē wounded, some beynge slayne, and all the other chaced away. But as foz the wicked church robber hymselfe, they kylled him besyde ꝑ treasury. Of these matters therfoze there was kept a court agaynste Menelaus. Nowe when the kynge came to Tyzus, they made a complaynt vnto hym of Menelaus, cōcernynge thys busynes and the ambassidours were iij. But Menelaus went H and promised Ptolomie to geue hym much money, yf he wold perswade the kynge. So Ptolomie went to the king into a courte (wher he was set to cole hym) and bzought him out of that mynde. In so muche ꝑ he dyscharged Menelaus from the accusacions, that not withstandig was cause of al myschefe: & those poore mē, whych yf they had tolde theyr cause: yee, before ꝑ Scithiās, thei shulde haue bene iudged innocent, them he condempned to death.

Thus where they soone punished, whych folowed vpō the matter foz the citie, foz the people, and foz ꝑ holye bessell. Wherfoze, they of Tyzus toke indignacion, and burped them honorably. And so thozow the couetousnes of them that were in power Menelaus remayned styll in auctozite, increasynge in malice, to the hurt of the citezins.

The v. Chapter.

¶ Of the sygnes and tokens sene in Jerusalem. Of the end and offense of Jason. The pursued of Antiochus against the Jewes. The spoylyng of the temple

AT the same tyme Antiochus made hi readye to go agayne into Egypt. Then were there sene at Jerusalem xl. dayes longe, hozsmen rūnynge to and fro in the ayze, whych had raymente of golde, and speares. There were sene also whole hoostes of men weapened, and hozses runnyng in an ozdze, how they came together, how they held fozth theyr shyldes, howe the harnessed men dzewe out theyr swerdes, and shote theyr dartes. The shyne of ꝑ golden weapons was sene, and of all maner of armure. Wherfoze euery man prayde, that those tokens myght turne to good. Nowe when there was gone fozthe a falle rumour, as though Antiochus had bene dead: Jason toke a M. men, and came sodenly vpon the citie. The citezins came vnto the walles at the last was the citie taken, & Menelaus fled into the castel. I

Js foz Jason, he spared not hys owne citezins in the slaughter, neyther considered he what greate euell it were, to destroye the prosperite of hys owne kynsmen: but dyd as one that had gotten the victozie of hys enemies, and not of hys frendes: Foz all thys gate he not the superiorite, but at the laste receaued confusion foz hys malice, * & fled agayne lyke a vagabounde in to ꝑ land of the Ammonytes.

Finally, foz a rewarde of hys wyckednes he was accused befoze Aretha ꝑ kynge of the Arabians. In so much ꝑ he was fayn to flee frō citie to citie, beynge despysed of euery man as a forsaker of the lawes, and an abhominable persone. And at the laste (as an open enemie of his owne natural countre & of ꝑ citezins) he was dzyuen into Egypte.

Thus he that afoze put many out of

of theyr owne natiue land, perished frō home hym selfe. He went to Lacedemon, thynckyng thereto haue gotten soccoure by reason of kynred. And he þ afore had casten many one out vnburyed, was throwē out himselfe, no man mournynge for hym, nor puttyng hym in hys graue: so þ he nether enioyed the buryall of a straunger, neyther was he partaker of hys fathers sepulchre.

C Nowe when thys was done, þ kynge suspecte, that the Iewes wold haue fallen frome hym: wherfore he came in a greate displeasure out of Egypt, * & toke the citie by violence. He commaunded hys men of warre also: that they shuld kyll and not spare, but slay downe such as wythstode them, or clymed vp vpon the houses.

Thus was there a greate slaughter of yong men, old men, wemen, chyldren and virgins. In thre dayes were there slayne lxxx. M. fourtye thousande put in prysō, and no lesse solde. yet was he not contēt wyth this, but durst go into the most holy temple (Menelaus that traytoure to the lawes and to hys owne naturall countre beynge hys guyde) and wyth his wycked handes toke the holy vessel, whych other kynges and cities had geuen thether, for the garnyshynge and honoure of þ place: them toke he in hys handes vnworthelye, and defyled them.

So mad was Antiochus, that he cōsidered not, howe that GOD was a lytle wrothe for the synnes of them that dwelte in the citie, for the whiche suche confusion came vpon that place. * And why: of it had not happened them to haue bene lapped in many synnes, thys Antiochus (as soone as he had come) had sodenly bene punished and shut out for hys presumption, * and lyke as Heliodorus was, whome Seleucus the kynge sente to robbe the treasurye. Neuertheles, GOD hathe not chosen the people for the places sake, but the place for the peoples sake: and therfore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterwarde shall it enioye the welth of thē. And lyke as is nowe forsaken in the wrathe of Almyghtye GOD, so whē þ great GOD is reconciled it shalbe set vp in hye worshyp agayne.

E So when Antiochus had take a M. and viij. hundred talentes oute of the temple, he gat hym to Antioch in al the hast, thynckyng in hys pryd þ he myght make men sayle vpon the dry land, and to go vpon the see, suche an hye mynde had he. He lefte debites there, to vexe þ people: At Ierusalem lefte he Philippe a Phrygian, in maners more cruel thē hym selfe that set hym there. At Garisym he lefte Andronicus and Menelaus, whyche were more grenous to the citizins then other. * Nowe as he was thus set in malice agaynst the Iewes, he sente Appolonius an hated prince, wyth xxij. thousand, cōmaundyng hym to slaye those that were of perfecte age, and to sell the wemen, maydens and chyldren. When he came nowe to Ierusalem, he fayned peace, and kepte hym styl vntyl þ Sabothe daye. And then he commaunded hys men to take them to theyr weapons (for þ Iewes kepte holye day) and so he slewe all them þ were gone forthe to the open place, runnynge here and there thorowe þ citie wyth hys men weapened, and murthered a greate nombre. * But Iudas Machabeus whych was the tenthe, fled into þ wyldernes, ledde hys lyfe there wt hys company amonge wylde beastes, and vpon the mountaynes: dwellinge there and eatynge grasse, least they shulde be partakers of the fylthynes.

The vi. Chapter.

¶ The Iewes are compelled to leaue the lawe of God. The tēple is defyled. The readers are monished that they shall not abhorre the aduersite, wherwith the Lorde afflicteth them. The grenous paine of Eleasarus.

MOt longe after thys, sent the kynge a messenger of Antioch, for to compell the Iewes, to alter the ordinaunces of the fathers, and the lawe of GOD, to defyle the temple that was at Ierusalem, & to cal it the temple of Iupiter Olympius: and that they shulde be in Garisim as those whyche dwell at the place of Iupiter the herberous. Thys wycked sedicion of the vngodlye was heauy vpō all the people, for the temple was ful of voluptuousnes, bybbinge and bollyngē of the Heathen, of rybbaudes and harlots togethers. The wemen went into þ holy place, and bare in, that was not lauful. The aulter also was full of vnlaufull thynges, whyche the lawe forbydeth to laye vpon it. The Sabbothes were not kept, the other solempne feastes of of the land were not regarded: To be playne, ther durst no man be knowen, that he was a Jewe. In the daye of the kynges byrthe they were cõpelled perforce to offre: & when the feaste of Bacchus was kept, they were constrayned to were garlandes of Juy, and so to go about to ỳ honoure of Bacchus. Moreouer thorowe the counceI of Ptolomie, there went out a commaundemente in B in ỳ nexte cities of ỳ Heathẽ, ỳ they shuld intreate the Jewes in lyke maner, namely to compel them for to do sacrifice after the lawes of the Gentiles: & who so wolde not, to put them to death. A pyteous thynge was it to se. Ther were two wemen accused to haue circumcised theyr sonnes, whom when they had led rounde aboute the citie (ỳ babes hãgyng at theyr breastes) they cast them downe headlynges ouer ỳ walles. Some that were crept in dennes, and had kept the Sabboth, were accused vnto Philip, & brent in the fyre, because ỳ for the feare of GOD they kept ỳ cõmaundement so styrtely, & wolde not defende them selues. Nowe I beseech all those whych reade thys booke, ỳ they refuse it not for these falles of aduersitie, and iudge the thynges (that are happened) for no destruccion, but for a chastenynge of our people: And why: Whẽ GOD

Pro.3.b. suffereth not synners longe to folowe theyr owne mynde, but shortely punished them, * it is a token of hys greate
C louyng kyndenes. For this grace haue we of GOD more thẽ other people, that he suffereth not vs lõge to synne vnpunished lyke as other nacions, ỳ when ỳ day of iudgement cõmeth, he maye punishe them in ỳ fulnes of theyr synnes. yf we synne, he correcteth vs, but he neuer withdraweth hys mercy from vs, & though he punish with aduersitie, yet doth he neuer forsake hys people. But lett thys that we haue spoken nowe wt fewe wordes be for a warnynge and exhortacion of the Heathen.

Nowe wyll we come to ỳ declaringe of the matter: Eleazar one of the principall Scribes, an aged man & of a wel fauored coũtenaũce, was constrayned
Leui.11. to gape wyth an open mouth, * and to eate swynes flesh. But he desiryng rather to dye gloriously then to lyue with shame, offered hym selfe wyllyngly to ỳ martyrdome. Nowe when he sawe that he muste nedes go to it, he tooke it pacientlie: for he was at a poynte wyth hym selfe, that he wolde consent to do no vnlawful thinge for any pleasure of lyfe. They that stode by beinge moued wyth pitie (but not a ryght) for the olde frendshyp of the man, toke hym aside priuelie and prayed hym that he wolde let such flesche be brought hym as were lawfull to eat, and then to make a contenaunce as though he had eaten of the flesche of the sacrifice lyke as the D kynge commaunded: for so he myghte be deliuered from death, and so for the olde frẽdeshyp of the man, they shewed hym thys kyndnes.

But he beganne to consider hys discrete and honourable age, hys noble & worshipful stocke, and howe that from hys youth vp he had bene of an honest, and good conuersacion, yee, and howe constantly he had kepte ỳ ordinaunces, lawes commaũded by GOD, wherfore he gaue them thys answere and sayde: yet had I rather fyrst be layde in my graue: * for it becõmeth not myne age L7 (sayde he) in any wyse to dyssẽble, whereby many yong persons myght thyncke, ỳ Eleazar being lxxv yeare olde and vi. were nowe gone to a straung lyfe, and so thorowe myne ypocrisye (for a lytle tyme of a transitory lyf) they myght be disceaued, by thys meanes also shuld I defyle myne age, & make it abhominable. For though I were now deliuered frõ ỳ tormentes of men, yet shuld I not escape ỳ hande of Almightie GOD, neAmbr. ther alyue nor deade, wherfore I will E die manfully, & do as it becõmeth myne age. Whereby I maye peraduẽture leaue an example of steadfastenes for such as be yonge, yf I wyth a readye minde and manfully dye an honest death, for the most worthy and holy lawes.

When he had sayde these wordes, immediatly he was drawen to a tormẽte. Nowe they that led him and were mylde a lytle afore, beganne to take displeasure: because of the wordes that he sayde: for they thoughte he had spoken them of an hye mynd. But whẽ he was in his martyrdome, he mourned & sayd: Thou (O LORDE) whych hast the holy knowlege: knowest openly ỳ where as I myght be deliuered from death, I suffer these sore paynes of my body.

but in my mynde I am well cõtente to ſuffre them, becauſe I feare the. Thus thys man dyed, leauyng the memoriall of hys death for an example, not onlye vnto yonge mẽ, but vnto all the people, to be ſteadfaſt and manly.

The vij. Chapter.

¶ The puniſhement of the ſeuen brethren, and of theyr mother.

IT happened alſo that there were ſeuen brethren (wyth theyr mother) taken, and compelled by the kynge* agaynſt ỳ lawe, to eate ſwynes fleſh, namely wt ſcourges and lethren whyppes. And one of them whych was the chefe ſayd: What ſekeſt thou and what requireſt thou of vs: As for vs, we are readye rather to ſuffer death, then to offende the lawes of GOD and the fathers. Then was the kynge angrye, and bad heate cauldrons and braſſen pottes.

Whych when they were made hote, immediatly he commaunded the tonge of hym that ſpake fyrſt to be cut out, to pul the ſkinne ouer his head, to pare of the edges of hys handes and fete: yee, and that in the ſyghte of hys mother, & the other of hys brethren. Nowe when he was cleane marred, he commaũded a fyre to be made, & ſo (whyl there was anye breathe in hym) to be fryed in the cauldron. In the whyche when he hadde bene longe payned: the other brethren wyth theyr mother exhorted hym to dye manfullye, ſaying: The LORDE GOD ſhall regarde the truthe: and cõforte vs, lyke as Moſes teſtifieth* and declareth in hys ſonge, ſayinge, and he wyll haue compaſſion hys ſeruauntes.

So when the fyrſte was dead after thys maner, they broughte the ſecond, to haue hym in deriſion, pulled ỳ ſkynne wyth the heare ouer hys heade, and aſked him yf he wolde eate ſwynes fleſhe, or he were payned in the other mẽbres alſo thorowout hys body: But he anſwered boldlye, and ſayde: I wil not do it. And ſo was he tormented lyke as the fyrſte, and when he was euen at the geuinge vp the ghoſt, he ſaid: Thou moſt vngracious perſonne putteſt vs nowe to death, but the kynge of the worlde ſhall rayſe vs vp (whych dye for hys lawes) in the reſurrection of euerlaſtynge lyfe.

After hym, was the thyrde had in deriſion, & when he was required he putte oute his tõge and that ryghte ſoone, holdynge forth hys handes manfullye, & ſpeake wyth a ſteadfaſt fayth: Theſe haue I of heauen, but nowe for the law of GOD I deſpyſe them: for my truſt is that I ſhal receaue thẽ, of hym againe. In ſo much that the kynge and they whyche were wyth hym, marueyled at the yonge mannes boldnes, that he nothynge regarded the paynes.

Nowe when he was dead alſo, they vexed the fourthe wyth the tormentes in lyke maner. So when he was nowe at hys deathe, he ſayde: It is better ỳ we beynge put to death of men, haue oure hoope & truſte in GOD, for he ſhall rayſe vs vp agayne. * As for the, thou thou ſhalte haue no reſurrection to lyfe.

And when they had ſpoken to ỳ fyrſte, they tormented him. Then loked he vnto the kynge, and ſayde: thou haſt power among men, for thou art a mortall man alſo thy ſelfe, to do what thou wylte, but thyncke not, that GOD hath forſaken oure generacion. Abide the, tary ſtyll a whyle, and thou ſhalt ſe the great power of GOD, howe he wyll punyſhe the and thy ſede.

After hym they broughte the fyrt, whyche beinge at the poynte of death, ſayde: Be not diſceaued (O kynge) for thys we ſuffer for our owne ſakes, becauſe we haue offẽded oure GOD, therefore meruelous thynges are ſhewed vpõ vs. But thynck not thou, whych takeſt in hand to ſtriue agaynſte GOD, that thou ſhalte eſcape vnpuniſhed.

Thys excellente mother (worthye to be well reported of, and had in remembraunce) ſawe her ſeuen ſonnes dye in one daye, & ſuffred it patientlie, becauſe of the hoope that ſhe had in GOD: yee, ſhe exhorted euerye one of them ineſpectall and that boldly and ſteadfaſtly wt perfect wiſedome, wakynge vp her wyttye thought wyth a manlye ſtomacke, and ſayde vnto them: I can not tell howe ye came in my whombe, for I nether gaue you breth nor ſoule, no nor lyfe. It is not I that ioyned the membres of youre bodyes together, but the maker of the worlde, whyche faſhioned the byrth of man, and beganne al thynges. Euen he alſo of hys owne mercye ſhall geue you breth & lyfe agayne lyke as ye nowe regarde not your owne selues for hys lawes sake.

Nowe thoughte Antiochus that she had despysed hym, therfore he let her go wyth her reproues, and beganne to exhorte the youngest sonne, (whych yet was leste not onlye wyth wordes but swore vnto hym wyth an othe that he shuld make hym a ryche & a welthy man (yf he wolde forsake the lawes of hys fathers) yee, and ỳ he shulde geue hym whatsoeuer were necessarie for hym. But when the younge man wolde not be moued for all these thynges, he called hys mother, & counsayled her to saue her sonnes lyfe. And when he had exhorted her w many wordes, she promised hym that she shulde speake vnto her sonne. So she turned her vnto hym (laughynge the cruell tyraunte to scorne) & spake wyth a bolde voice. O my sonne, haue pitie vpon me, that bare the nyne monethes in my wombe, that gaue the sucke, norysshed the and brought the vp vnto thys age.

I beseech the (my sonne) loke vpon heauen and earthe, and all that is therein, and cõsider that GOD made them, and mãs generacion of naught, so shalte thou not feare thys hangman, but suffere death stedfastlye, lyke as thy brethren haue doone: that I maye receaue the agayne in the same mercie wyth thy brethren.

Whyle she was yet speakynge these wordes the ponge man sayde: whome loke ye for: Wherfore do ye tary: I wyll not obeye the kynges commaundemente, *but the lawe that GOD gaue vs by Moses. As for thou that imaginest all myschefe agaynst the Iewes, thou shalte not escape ỳ hande of GOD, for we suffre these thynges, because of of oure synnes.

And thoughe GOD be angrye wyth vs a lytle whyle (for oure chastenynge and reformacion) yet shall he be at one agayne wyth hys seruaũtes. But thou (O shamefull and moost abhominable personne,) pryde not thy selfe thorowe bayne hoope, in beynge so malicious vpon the seruauntes of GOD: for thou haste not yet escaped the iudgement of the GOD, whych is Almyghtye and seyth all thynges. My brethren that haue suffered a lytle payne, are nowe vnder the couenaunt of euerlastynge lyfe: but thorowe the iudgement of GOD, thou shalte be punished ryghte ouslye for thy pryde.

As for me (lyke as my brethren haue done) I ofre my soule and my body for the lawes of our fathers, callynge vpõ GOD, that he wyll soone be mercyfull vnto oure people: yee, and wyth payne and punishement* to make the graunte, that he onely is GOD. In me nowe and in my brethren the wrath of Almyghtye GOD is at an ende, whych ryghteouslye is fallen vpõ oure people.

Then the kyng beynge kindled in anger, was more cruel vpon him then vpon all the other: and toke indignacio, that he was so lyghtelye regarded. So thys ponge man dyed vndefyled, & put hys truste styll in the LORDE. Laste of all after the sõnes, was the mother put to death also. Let this nowe be ynough spoken, concerning the offerynges, and extreme cruelnes.

The viij. Chapter.

¶ Judas gathereth together his hoost. Nicanor is sente agaynste Judas. Judas exhorteth his souldiars to cõstãnes. Nicanor is ouercome. The Jewes geue thanckes after they haue put their enemies to flyghte, deuidinge the spoyles vnto the fatherles & vnto the wyddowes. Nica. flieth vnto Antiochus.

WHen Judas Machabeus, & they ỳ were wyth hym, went pryuely into the townes, called their kynsfolkes and frendes together, tooke vnto them all suche as continued yet in the fayth and lawe of the Jewes, and brought forth bi. M. men. So they called vpon the LORDE that he wold haue an eye vnto hys people, whych was troden downe of euery man: to be gracious vnto the temple that was defyled of the vngodly: to haue compassion vpon the destruccion of the citie, whiche was shortlye lyke to be layed wast, to heare the voyce of the bloude that cryed vnto hym: to remembre the most vnryghteous deathes of ponge innocent chyldren, the blasphemies also done vnto hys name, and to punish them.

*Nowe when Machabeus had gathered thys multitud together, he was to mightie for the Heathen (for ỳ wrath of the LORDE was turned into mercy) he fell vpon the townes and cities vnwares, brent them, toke the most commodious places, and slewe manye of ỳ enemies.

enemies. But speciallie he made suche chases by nyghte, in so muche that hys mālynesse was spokē of euerie where.

So when Philippe sawe that ꝑ man increased by lytle and lytle, and that ꝑ matter prospered wyth hym for ꝑ most parte: he wrote vnto Ptolomie (whych was a captayne in Celosyria and Phenices) to helpe hym in the kynges busines. Then sent he Nicanor Patroclie a speciall frende of hys in all the haste, and gaue hym of the commen sorte of the Heathen no lesse then xx. M. harnessed men, to roote out the whole generacion of ꝑ Jewes, haupnge to helpe him one Gorgias a mā of warre, which in matters concernynge battayles, had greate experience. Nicanor ordeyned also the tribute (whych the Romaines shuld haue had) to be geuen vnto ꝑ kynge out of the captiuite of the Jewes, namely two thousande talentes. And immediatlie he sente to the cities of the see coast, requiring them for to bye Jewes, to be their seruauntes and bondemen, promisynge to sell them lxxx. and ten for one talente: but he considered not ꝑ wrathe of Almyghtye GDD, that was to come vpon hym.

When Judas knewe of thys, he tolde the Jewes that were wyth hym, of Nicanors comming. Nowe were there some of them fearefull, not trustynge vnto the ryghteousnesse of GOD, and fled theyr waye.

But the other that remayned, came together, and besoughte the LORDE, to delyuer them frome that wycked Nicanor, whyche had solde them, or euer he came nye them: & thoughte he wolde not do it for theyr sakes, yet for the couenaunte that he made wyth theyre fathers, and because they called vpon his holy and glorious name. *And so Machabeus called hys men togyther, namely about vj. M. exhortyng them not to agree, vnto theyr enemies, *neyther to be afrayed for the multitude of theyr aduersaries commynge agaynste them vnryghteouslie, but to fighte manfully. considerynge the reproue that they had done to the holy place wythoute cause, howe they had dyspysed and oppressed the citie: yee, and destroyed the lawes of the fathers. *For they (sayde he) trust in theyr weapōs and boldnes, but our confidence is in ꝑ Almyghtie LORDE, whych in ꝑ twynckelynge of an eye may both destroy them ꝑ come agaynst vs, and all the worlde.

He exhorted them also to call to remembraunce the helpe ꝑ GOD shewed vnto theyr fathers, * as when ther perished an C. & lxxxv. M. of Senacheribs people: And of a battayl that they had in Babylon agaynst ꝑ Galacians, how al the Macedonians that came to helpe them, stoode in feare, and howe they beynge but onely vj. M. slewe an C. and. xx. M. thorow the helpe ꝑ was geuen them from heauen, wherby they also had receaued many benefites.

Thorowe these wordes the mē toke good hertes vnto them, ready to dye for the lawe and the countrie. So he set vpon euery companye a captayne, one of hys owne brethren: Simon, Joseph and Jonathas, geuinge eche one xv. C. men. He caused Esdras also to reade ꝑ holy boke vnto them, and to geue them a token of the helpe of GOD.

*Then he hym selfe beinge Captayne in the fore front of the battayle, buckled wyth Nicanor. And GOD was their helpe, in so much that they slewe about ix. M. men and compelled ꝑ more parte of Nicanors hoost to flē: they wer so wounded and feble. Thus they toke ꝑ mony from those that came to by them, and folowed vpon them on euery syde. But when the tyme came vpon them they turned, for it was the Sabboth: & therefore they folowed nomore vpon them. So they toke theyr weapōs and spoiles, and kepte the Sabboth, geuinge thanckes vnto the LORDE, whych had delyuered them that daye, and shewed them hys mercie. After the Sabboth, *they distributed the spoyles to ꝑ sycke, to the fatherles, & to wyddowes, and the residue had they them selues with theyrs. When this was done, and they had made a generall prayer, they besoughte the mercifull LORD to be at one wyth hys seruauntes.

Of those also that were wyth Timotheus and Bachides, whych foughte agaynst them they slewe xx. M. wanne hye and strong holdes, and deuided mo spoyles: euer geuyng an equall portion vnto the sycke, to the fatherles, to wyddowes, and to aged persons.

And when they had diligently gathered theyr weapons together, they layd

them all in conueniente places, and the remnaunte of the spoyles brought they to Ierusalem. They slewe also Philarches that wycked personne, whyche was wyth Timotheus, and had vexed many Iewes. And when they helde the thankesgeuynge at Ierusalem for the victorie, they brente those that had set fyre on the portes of the temple: namelye Calisthenes, whych was fled into an house: and so they gat a worthye rewarde for theyr wyckednes. As for the moste vngracious Nicanor, which had brought a M. marchauntes, to bye the Iewes, he was thorowe the helpe of ꝑ LORDE broughte downe euen of them, whom he regarded not, in so much, that he put of hys glorious rayment, fled by see, and came alone to Antioch, wyth great shame and dyshonour, whych he gat thorowe ꝑ destruccion of his host. Thus he that promised the Romans to paye them theyr tribute, when he toke Ierusalē: beganne nowe to saye playnly: that GOD was the defender of the Iewes, & therefore not possible to wynne thē, because they folowed the lawes whych GOD had made.

The ix. Chapter.

¶ Antiochus wyllynge to spoyle Persipolis, is dryuen to flyght. As he persecuteth the Iewes, he is stryckē of the Lorde. The fayned repentaunce of Antiochus. He dyeth.

I 1. Mac. 6. 1. AT the same tyme, came * Antiochus againe wt dishonour out of Persis. For when he came to Persipolis, and vndertoke to robbe the temple: and subdue the citie, the people ranne together and defended them selues, in somuche that he and hys were fayne to flē wyth shame.

And so after that flyght, it happened that Antiochus came agayne wyth dishonoure: But when he came to Egbathana, he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Nicanor and Timotheus: Nowe, as he was auaūcynge him selfe in hys wrath, he thought he was able to aduenge the iniurie that was done to them, vpon the Iewes, and therfore commaunded to make readye hys charette, hastyng on hys iourney, without ceassynge, the iudgemente of GOD prouokynge hym, because he had spoken so proudelye, that he wolde come to Ierusalem, and make it a graue of the Iewes. But the LORDE GOD of Israel, that seyth all thynges, smote hym wyth an vnuisible plage, whych no mā coulde heale.

For assoone as he had spoken these wordes, there came vpon hym an horrible payne of hys bowels, and a sore greese of the armes: And that was but ryghte, for he had martyred other mēnes bowels with diuerse and straunge tormentes, howebeit he wolde in no wyse ceasse frome hys malice. yee, he was yet the prouder and more malicious agaynste the Iewes: But whyle he was commaundinge to make hast in the matter, it happened that he fell downe violentlie from the charette, so that it brosed hys bodye, and dyd hym greate payne. B

And so he that thought he myght cōmaund the floudes of the see, (so proud was he beyonde the condicion of man) and to weye the hye mountaynes in a payre of balaunce, was now brought downe to the grounde, and caried vpon an horselytter, knowlygynge the manifeste power of GOD vpō hym: so that the wycked bodye of hys was * full of wormes, whiche in hys payne fel quycke out of hys flesh: In so much that hys hoost was greued wyth the smell and stynche of hym. Mat.

Thus he that a lytle afore thought he myght reache to the starres of heauen, hym myghte noman nowe abyde nor beare for the behemencie of stynche: Therfore, he beynge brought frome hys greate pryde, beganne to come to the knowledge of hym selfe: for the punishemente of GOD warned hym, and hys payne encreased more and more. And when he hym selfe myghte not abyde hys owne stynche, he sayde these wordes: It is reason to be obedient vnto GOD, and that a man desire not to be lyke vnto hym. Thys wycked personne prayed also vnto the LORDE of whome he shuld haue optayned no mercie. And as for the citie that he came vnto so hastely, to bryngе it downe to ꝑ ground, & to make it a graue for deade men: nowe he desireth to delyuer it fre. C

And as touchynge the Iewes, whome he had iudged not worthie to be buryed, but wold haue cast thē oute for to be deuoured of ꝑ foules & wild beastes, saying:

saying: ꝑ he wold haue destroyed bothe olde and yonge. Nowe he promiseth, to make them lyke the citizins of Athen. And wher as he had spoyled the holy temple afore, now he maketh promise to garnishe it wyth great gyftes, to encrease the holy ornamentes, and of hys owne rentes to beare the costes and charges belōging to the offringes: ye, and that he wold also become a Jewe him selfe, to go thorowe euerye place of ꝑ world, & to preache ꝑ worde of GOD.

But when hys paynes wolde not cease, (for the righteous iudgement of GOD was come vpō hym) out of a very dyspayre he wrote vnto the Jewes, a letter of intercession, conteininge these wordes: The kyng & prince Antiochus wysheth vnto the vertevous citizins of the Jewes much helth and good prosperite, yf ye and your chyldrē fare wel, and yf all thynges go after your mynd, we geue great thanckes. In my sycknes also do I remember you louyngly: for as I cam out of Persia, and was taken with a sore dyscease, I thoughte it necessarie to care for ꝑ cōmē wealth. Nether dyspaire I in my selfe, but haue a good hoope to escape thys sycknes.

D But considerynge that my father led an hoost somtime in ꝑ hyer places, and shewed who shuld raygne after hym, ꝑ (yf there happened anye controuersie, or any heard thing were declared) they in the lande myght knowe theyr chefe lorde ꝑ there shuld be no insurrection: Agayne, when I ponder by my selfe, how ꝑ all the myghtie men, and neyghbours round about, are layinge waite, & loke but for oportunite to do harme: I haue ordeyned that my sonne Antiochus shall raygne after me, whō I ofte commended to many of you: when I was in the hyer kyngdomes, and haue wrytte vnto him as foloweth herafter.

E Therfore: I pray you & require you, to remember the benefites ꝑ I haue done vnto you generally, and inspeciall (and that euerye man wyll be faythful to me and to my sonne.) For I hoope that he shalbe of sobre and louyng behauoure, and yf ye folowe my deuice, he shall be indifferent vnto you.* Thus ꝑ murtherer and blasphemer of GOD was sore smytten, and lyke as he had intreated other men, so he dyed a miserable death in a straunge countrye vpon a mountayne. And hys bodye dyd Philip (that wēt wyth him) cary awaye: whyche fearynge the sonne of Antiochus, wente into Egypt to Ptolomie Philometor.

The x. Chapter.

¶ Judas Machabeus taketh the citie and the temple. He beginneth to shew the actes of Eupator. The Jewes fyght agaynst the Idumeans. Timotheus inuadeth Jewry, wyth whome Judas ioyneth battayle. Fyue men appeare in the ayre to the helpe of the Jewes. Timotheus is slayne.

MAchabeus nowe and hys A company (thorowe the helpe of the LORD) wan the temple and ꝑ citie agayne, destroyed the alters and scapels that ꝑ Heathen had buyld thorowe the stretes, clensed the temple, made an other aulter of bricke stone, and after two yeares they ofred sacrifices, set for the intente, the lightes & shewbread. When that was done they fel downe flat vpon the grounde, and besought ꝑ LORDE, that they myght come nomore into suche trouble: but yf they synned any more agaynste hym, he hym selfe to chasten them wyth mercy, and not to come in the handes of those aleauntes and blasphemous men. Nowe vpō the same B daye ꝑ the straungers poluted the temple, it happened that on the very same daye it was clensed agayne, namelye the xxv. day of ꝑ moneth called Casleu. They kept viij. dayes in gladnes lyke as in the feast of the tabernacles, remembrynge, that not longe afore they helde the feast of the tabernacles: vpon the mountaynes and in dennes lyke beastes. And to the same tokē they bare greane bowes, braunches and palmes, before hym that had geuen them good fortune to clēse hys place. They agreed also together, and made a statute that euery yeare those dayes shuld be solēplye kept of all the people of the Jewes.

Exo. 20. d.

1. Mac. 4. c.

Howe Antiochus then (that was called the noble) dyed: it is sufficiently tolde. Nowe wil we speake of Eupator the sonne of ꝑ wicked Antiochus, howe it happened wyth hym, and so wyth fewe wordes to comprehende the aduersite that chaunsed in the warres. When he had taken in the kyngdom, he made one Lisias (which had bene captayne of the hoost in Phenices and Syria) ruler ouer the matters of the realme. For

M iij Ptolomie

Ptolomie that was called Macron, beinge a ruler of ꝑ Jewes (& speciallie, to syt in the iudgement for such wrong as was done vnto them) vndertoke to deale peaciablie wt them. For ꝑ whyche cause he was accused of the frendes before Eupator: and when he was suspect to be a traytor (because he had left Cypres, that Philometor had committed vnto him: & because he departed from noble Antiochus, that he was come vnto) he poysoned hym selfe & dyed.

Nowe when Gorgias was gouernour of the same places, he toke straungers & vndertoke ofte tymes, to warre wyth the Jewes. Moreouer, the Idumeans that helde the stronge holdes, receaued those that were dryuen from Jerusalem, and toke in hand to warre also. * But they that were wyth Machabeus besought and prayed vnto the LORDE that he wolde be theyr helper, and so they fell vpon the strong holdes of the Idumeans, and wan many places by strēgth: Suche as came against them they slewe, and kylled noo lesse of all together then rr. M. Neuertheles some, no lesse then ir. M. were fled into two stronge towers, hauyng al maner of ordinaunce to withstande them.

Then Machabeus leauing Simon, Josephus, Zacheus, and those ꝑ were wyth them (which were very many) went to beseege thē, & to fyghte where most nede was. Now they that were wt Simon, being led wt couetousnes, were intreated for money, thorow certain of those that lay in ꝑ towers, toke lrr. M. dragmars: & let some of thē escape. But whē it was told Machabeus what had hapened, he called ꝑ captayns of ꝑ people together arcusyng those personnes, that they had sold the brethren for money, and let theyr enemies goo. So he slewe those traytours, and immediatly went in hand wyth the ij. towers. And whē they had ordred them selues manly, wyth theyr weapons & handes, they slewe in the ij. castels moo then rr. M.

*Nowe Timotheus (whom ꝑ Jewes had ouercome afore, gathered a multitude of straung people, brought an host also of horsme of the Asians, to wynne Jewrye by strengthe. But when he drewe nye, Machabeus & they that were wyth hym * fel to theyr prayer, sprinckled ashes vpon theyr heades, being gyrded wyth heary cloth about theyr loynes, fel downe before the aulter, and besought the LORD that he wold be mercifull to them, but an enemie vnto theyr enemies, and to take part agaynst their aduersaries, * accordyng as it is promised in the lawe. So after the prayer, they wēt on further from the citie: and when they came nye the enemies, they prepared them selues agaynst them. And by tymes in the mornyng at the breake of the day, bothe ꝑ hostes buckled together. * The one part had the LORDE for theyr refuge, whych is the geuer of prosperite strength and victorie. The other had a manly stomacke, whych is a captayn of warre. The battayle now beyng great, *there appeared vnto the enemies from heauen v. men vpon horsbackes, wyth bridels of golde, leading the Jewes, & two of thē hauing Machabeus betwyxt thē, that kept hym safe on euery syde with their weapons, but shote dartes and lyghtenynges vpon the enemies, where thorowe they were confoūded wyth blindnes, and so sore afrayed, that they fell downe. There were slayn of fotmen rr. M. and v. C. and vj. C. horsmen. As for Timotheus hym selfe, he fled vnto Gazara very stronge hold, wherin Chereas was captayne. But Machabeus and hys companie layed seege to it cherefullye foure dayes.

Nowe they that were wythin trusting to the strength of the place, cursed and banned exceadingly, & made great crakynge wyth wycked wordes. Neuertheles vpon the v. day in ꝑ mornyng rr. yong men of Machabeus company, beynge set on fyre in theyr mindes (because of ꝑ blasphemie) came manfullie vnto ꝑ wall, and wyth bolde stomakes, they and theyr other companions clymed vp vpon the towers, vndertaking to set fyre vpon the portes, & to burne those blasphemous persons quycke. Two dayes wer they destroying the castel, whych when they founde Timotheus (that was crept into a corner) they killed hym, and slew Chereas his brother in lyke maner wyth Apollophanes. When thys was done, they song Psalmes, wyth prayses and thankes gyuyng vnto the LORDE, which had done so great thynges for Israel, and geuen them the victorie.

The

The xi. Chapter.

¶ Lisias goeth about to ouercome the Jewes. Socour is sente from heauē vnto the Jewes. The lener of Lisias vnto the Jewes. The letter of king Antiochus vnto Lisias. A lener of the same vnto the Jewes. A letter of the Romans to the Jewes.

1 NOt long after this, Lisias, ꝑ kinges stewarde & a kinsmā of his (whych had the gouernaunce of hys matters) toke sore displeasure for ꝑ thynges that had happened, & when he had gathered lxxx M. men of sote, with al the hoste of the horsmen, he came agaynst the Jewes, thynckyng to wyn the citie, to make it an habitacion of the Heathen, * & the tēple wold he haue to be an house of lucre, lyke as the other gods houses of ꝑ Heathen are, and to sel Preastes office euery yeare. Not cōsidering the power of GOD, but was wild in hys mynd * trustyng in the multitude of foote mē, in thousandes of horsmen, and in hys foure score Elephantes.

2.Mac.5.b

2 So he came into Jewry, and then to Bethsura (a castel of defense) lieng in a narowe place v. furlonges from Jerusalem, and wanne it. Now when Machabeus and hys companie knewe ꝑ ꝑ strong holdes were taken, * they fel to theyr prayers wyth weppyng & teares before the LORDE. And all ꝑ people in lyke maner besought him, that he wold sēd a good angel to deliuer Israel. Machabeus himself was the fyrst ꝑ made him ready to ꝑ battail, exhortig ꝑ other ꝑ were wt hym to ieoperde the selues, and to helpe theyr brethren. And when they were goyng forth of Jerusalem together, with a ready & willing mynde, * there appeared before them vpon horsback a man in white clothyng wt harnesse of golde, shakynge hys spere. Then they praysed ꝑ LORDE altogether, which had shewed them mercy, & were comforted in theyr mindes, in so much that they were ready, not only to fight wt men, but wt the most cruel beastes: ye, & rūne thorow ꝑ walles of yrō.

C Thus they wēt on willigly hauyng an helper from heauē, & the LORD merciful vnto them. They fel myghtely vpon theyr enemies lyke Liōs, brought downe xi. M. fotmen, & vi. C. horsmen, put all the other to flyght, many of thē beyng wounded, & some gat away naked. yee, Lisias himself was fayne to flē shamfully & so to escape. Neuertheles, ꝑ man was not without vnderstādyng, but considered by himself ꝑ hys power was mynished, & pōdred how the Jewes being defēded by the helpe of Almightye GOD, were not able to be ouercome, wherefore he sent them worde, & promised ꝑ he wold consent to al thinges which were reasonable, & to make ꝑ kynge theyr frēde. To ꝑ which prayer of Lisias, Machabeus agreed, D seking in al thinges the comen wealth, and what soeuer Machabeus wrote vnto Lisias concernyng ꝑ Jewes, the kynge graunted it. For there were letters written vnto ꝑ Jewes frō Lisias contayning these words: Lisias sendeth greting vnto ꝑ people of ꝑ Jewes. Jhon & Abiolon which were sente frō you, delyuered me wrytynges, & required me to fulfyl the thynges, concernynge theyr errande. Therfore loke what myght be graunted I certified ꝑ kyng therof, & what soeuer was conuenient, I agreed therto. Yf ye now wyll be faythful in the matters, I shall endeuer myself therafter also to do you good. As cōcernyng other thynges by euery article therof: I haue committed thē to your messengers, & to those whō I sent vnto you, to cōmune wt you of the same, fare ye wel. In ꝑ C. & xlviij. yere, ꝑ xxv. day of ꝑ moneth Dioscorinthius. Now ꝑ kinges letter cōtained these words: King Antiochus sendeth greatyng vnto hys brother Lisias. For so much as our father * is now dead, our wyl is, ꝑ they whyche are in our realme, lyue without any insurrection, & euery man to be diligēt in his owne matters. We vnderstāde also ꝑ the Jewes wold not consent to our father, for to be brought vnto the custome of ꝑ Gentiles, but stil, to kepe theyr owne statutes, for the whiche cause they require of vs also to let thē remain stil by theyr own lawes.

wherfore our mynde is ꝑ this people E shalbe in rest: we haue concluded & determined also, to restore them theyr tēple agayne, ꝑ they may lyue accordig to the vse & custome of theyr forfathers Thou shalt do vs a pleasure therfore, yf thou sēd vnto them & agre wyth thē, ꝑ when they are certified of our mynd, they may be of good chere, and looke to theyr owne wealthe. And thys was ꝑ letter, ꝑ the king wrote vnto ꝑ Jewes:

kinge Antiochus sendeth greatyng vn to ꝑ counsell & the other people of ꝑ Je wes: yf ye fare well, we haue oure de syre: as for vs, we are in good health. Menelaus came and tolde vs howe ꝑ youre desire was to come down to you re people which are wyth vs. Wher for, those that wyl come, we geue them fre libertie, vnto the xxx. day of the mo neth of Apzil, that they may vse the me ates of the Jewes and theyr owne la wes, lyke as afore and none of them by any maner of wayes to haue harme for thynges done in ignozaunce. Me nelaus whome we haue sent vnto you, shall comen wyth you at large: fare ye well. In the C lvij. yeare, the xv. day of the moneth of Apzil.

The Romans also sent a letter con tainynge these wozdes. Quintus Me nius and Titus Manilius ambassa dours of the Romans, sende greatyng vnto the people of the Jewes. Loke what Lisias the kynges kynsmā hath graunted you, we graunte the same al so. But as concernyng the thynges whyche he referred vnto the kyng sen de hether some with spede, and ponder the matter diligently amonge your sel nes, that we maye cast the best to youre profite, for we must depart now vn to Antioch. And therfore wzyt shortely agayn, that we may knowe youre myn de. Fare well, in the C lvij. yeare ꝑ xv. daye of the moneth of Apzil.

The xj. Chapter.

¶ Timotheus troubleth the Jewes. The wycked deade of the Jepytes agaynst the Jewes. Judas is auenged of them. He setteth fyre on the gate of Ji nia. The persute of the Jewes agaynst Timothie. Timothie is taken and let goo vnhurte. Judas pur sueth Gozgias. Judas offeringe sacrifice for the dead, shweth the hoope of the resurrection.

A WHen these couenauntes were made, Lisias went vnto the kyng, and the Je wes tylled theyr ground. But Timotheus, Appolonius the sonne of Gemei, and Hemophon the prou de, Nicanor the captayne of Cypzes, & they that lay in those places, wold not let them liue in rest and peace. They of Joppa also dyd euen such a shamful de de. They prayed ꝑ Jewes that dwelt a mong them, to goo wyth theyr wyues and chyldzen into the shyppes whych they had prepared and dyd wyth them as though they had ought them none euell wyl, for so much thē as ther was gone forth a general proclamacion thz row the citie, because of peace they cō sented therto, and suspect nothing, but when they were gone forth into the de pe, they drowned no lesse then ij. C. of of them. When Judas knewe of thys cruelty shewed vnto hys people, he cō maunded those that were wyth him to make them ready, exhorting them to call vpon GOD the righteous Judge: wēt forth agaynste those murtherars of hys brethzen, set fyre in the hauen by night, brent vp ꝑ shyps, and those that escaped from the fyre, he slew with the B sweard. And whē he had done thys, he departed as though he wolde come a gayn, and rote out all them of Joppa. But when he had gotten wozd that ꝑ Jānites were minded to do in lyke ma ner vnto ꝑ Jewes whych dwelt amōg thē, he came vpon ꝑ Jānites by night, & set fyre on the hauen wyth the shyps, so that the light of ꝑ fyre was sene at Je rusalem, vpon a ij. C. and xl. furlonges. Nowe when they were gone from thē ce iz. furlonge, in theyr iourney towar de Timotheus, v. M. mē of fote, and v. C. horsmen of the Arabiās foughte wh hym. So when ꝑ battayle was earnest and prospered with Judas thorow the help of GOD: the residue of the Arabi ans beyng ouercome, besought Judas to be at one wyth them, & promised to geue hym certayn pastures, and to do hym good in other thiges. Judas thinc king ꝑ they shuld in dede be prouitab le concernyng many thinges, promised them peace, wherupon they shoke han des, and so they departed to theyr ten tes. Judas wēt also vnto a citie, which was very fast kept wyth bzidges, sēed round about the walles, and diuers kyndes of people dwellig therin, called C Caspin. They that were with in it, put such trust in the strength of ꝑ walles & in store of vittailes: that they were the slacker in theyr doinges, cursyng and reuiling Judas with blasphemies, and speaking such wozdes as it becometh not. But Machabeus calling vpon ꝑ great prince of the wozld (whych with oute any battell rammes, or ordinaūce of warre, dyd * cast downe the walles Iosue.6. of Jericho, in the tyme of Iosue) set mā fully vpō ꝑ walles, toke ꝑ citie thorow the

the help of ꝑ LORD, made an exceading great slaughter: In so much ꝑ a lake of two forlonges brode whych lay ther by semed to flow with blond of ꝑ slain. Then departed they from thence vij C. and l. furlonges, and came to Taracha vnto ꝑ Jewes that are called Tubiani. But as for Timotheus, they could not get him ther, for (not one matter dispat ched) he was departed frome thence, & had left certayne men in a very strong hold. But Dositheus, and Sosipater which were captaynes wyth Machabeus, slew those that Timotheus had left in the house of defense, euen v M. men. And Machabeus prepared hym wyth the vj. M. men that were about hym, set them in order by companies, & wēt forth agaynst Timotheus, whych had with hym an C. and xx. M. men of foote, two thousand and fyue hundred horsmen.

When Timotheus had knowlege of D Judas comming, he sent the women, chyldren, and the other baggage vnto a castel called Carnio (For it could not be wonne, and was hard to come vnto, the wayes of the same places were so narow) & when Judas company came fyrst in sight, the enemies were smyttē wyth feare, thorow the presēce of GOD which seeth all thynges: In so much ꝑ thei flynge one here, another there, were rather discōfited of theyr owne peo ple, * & wounded wyth the strokes of theiz owne swardes. Judas also was very carnest in folowyng vpon them punishing those vngodly, & slew xxx. M mē of them. Timotheus also hym selfe fel into the handes of Dositheus, & So sipater, whome he besought, wyth hys lyfe, because he had many of ꝑ Jewes fathers & brethren in prison, which (yf they put hym to death) myght be dis a pointed. So whē he had promised faith fully to deliuer them agayne accordig to the condition made, they let hym go wythout harme for the health of ꝑ bre thren. And whē Judas had slayne xxv. M. he went from Carnion.

E Now after that he had chased away & slayne hys enemies, he remoued that host towarde* Ephron a strong citie, wherin dwelt many diuers people of ꝑ Heathen, & the strong yonge men kept ꝑ walles defendyng thē myghtely. In hys citie was much ordinaunce & pro uisiō of dartes. But when Judas and hys company had called vpon almigh ty GOD (whych wyth his power brea keth the strenght of the enemies) they wan ꝑ citie, and slew xxv. M. of them ꝑ were wyth in. From thence went they to ꝑ citie of the Scithians, which lyeth vi. C. fourlongs from Jerusalem. But when ꝑ Jewes whych were in ꝑ citie testified, ꝑ the citezins dealte louyngly wyth them: yee, & intreated them kynd ly in ꝑ tyme of theyr aduersitie, Judas and his company gaue them thackes, desiring thē to be frendly styl vnto thē, and so they came to Jerusalem, the hye feaste of ꝑ weakes beyng at hand. And F after ꝑ feast of penticost they wēt forth against Gorgias the gouernour of Idumea wyth iij. M. men of fote & iiij. C horsmen. Whych when they met toge ther, it chaunced a fewe of the Jewes to be slaine. And Dositheus one of the Bachenors a mighty horsmā toke hold of Gorgias and wold haue taken hym quicke. But an horsman of Thracia fel vpon him & smote of his arme, so ꝑ Gor gias escaped & fled into Maresa, when they nowe ꝑ were of Gorgias syde, had foughten long & were wery: Judas cal led vpō ꝑ LORD, ꝑ he wold be theyr hel per, & captayne of the feld: & wyth ꝑ he began with a manly voyce to take vp a song of prayse, & a crye. In so much ꝑ he made the enemies afrayed, & Gorgi as men of warre toke theyr flight. So Judas gathered hys host, & came into the citie of Odulal. And when the vij. daye came vpon them, they clensed thē selues (as the custome was) & kept the sabboth in the same place. And vpon ꝑ day folowinge, Judas & hys company came to take vp the bodyes of them ꝑ were slayne, & to bury them in theyr fa thers graues. Now vnder ꝑ coates of certayne Jewes whych were slayne, they found iewels that they had taken out of the temple, and the ydols of the* Deu.7.a Iosue.7.b Jamniters: which thing is forbydden the Jewes by the lawe. Then euery man saw, ꝑ thys was ꝑ cause wherfo ze they wer slayne.

And so euery mā gaue thackes vnto G ꝑ LORDE for hys righteous iudgemēt whych had opened the thyng that was hyd. They fel downe also vnto theyr prayers, & besought GOD, ꝑ the faut whych was made, myght be put out of remem-

of remembraunce. Besydes ꝑ, Judas exhorted the people earnestly, to kepe them selues frō such synne: for so much as they sawe before theyr eyes, that these men were slayne for the same offense. So he gathered of euery one a certayne, in so muche that he brought together two M. dragmars of syluer whych he sent vnto Jerusalem, that there myght a sacrifice be offered for ꝑ myssdede. In ꝑ whych place he dyd wel and ryght: for he had some consideracion and pondrynge of the lyfe that is after this time. For if he had not thought that they, whych wer slayne, dyd yet lyue, it had bene superfluous and vayne, to make any vowe or sacrifice for them that were dead. But for so much as he saw, that they whych dye in the fauour and beleefe of GOD, are in good reste and ioy, he thought it to be good and honourable for a reconsiling, to do the same for those whych were slayne, that the offense might be forgeuen.

The xiij. Chapter.

¶ The commynge of Eupator into Jewrye. The deathe of Menelaus. Machabeus goinge to fyght agaynst Eupator, moueth hys soudiers vnto prayer. He killeth fourtene thousande men in the tentes of Antiochus. Rhodocus the betrayer of the Jewes is taken. Antiochus retayneth frendeshyp wyth the Jewes.

1.Mac.6.d.

IN the CRlix. yeare gat * Judas knowlege, ꝑ Antiochus Eupator was cōming wyth a great power into Jewrye, and Lisias the steward and ruler of hys matters wyth hym, hauyng an C. and x. M. mē of fote, v. M. horsmen, xxij Elephātes, and iij C. charettes. Menelaus also ioyned hym selfe wyth them (but with great dysceat) and spake fayre to the kyng, not for any good of the countrye, but because he thought to haue bene made some great man of auctorite. But the kyng of kynges moued

Antiochus mynd agaynst thys vngodly person, and Lisias informed ꝑ kyng * that thys Menelaus was the cause of all myschefe: so that the kynge commaunded to take hym, and (as the maner of them is) to put hym vnto death in the same place. There was also in the same place a tower of L. cubites hye heaped wyth ashes: but about, it was so made, ꝑ men might loke down on euerye syde. Whereunto he kinges cō maunded ꝑ shamefull persone to be caste among the ashes, as one that was cause of all vngraciousnesse. And reason it was that the vnthryft shuld dye such a death, and not to be buried: for he had done much mischefe vnto ꝑ aulter of GOD (whose fyre and ashes were holy) therfore was it ryght, that he B hiselfe also shuld be destroied wt ashes.

But the kynge was wood in hys mynd, and came to shew hymselfe more cruell vnto the Jewes, then hys fa- 1.Mac.
ther was. Whyche when Judas perceaued, * he commaunded the people to call vpon the LORDE night and day: that he wold now helpe thē also, lyke as he had done alway. For they were afrayed to be put from theyr lawe, frō theyr natural countrie, and from ꝑ holy temple: and not to suffre the people (whych alytle whyle afore began to recouer) to be subdued againe of the blasphemous nacions. So when they had done thys together, and besought the LORDE for mercy, wyth weping, and fasting iij. dayes long flat vpon the ground, Judas exhorted them, to make them selues ready. But he & the elders together deuised to go forth fyrst with theyr people, afore the kyng brought his hooste into Jewry, and afor he besieged the citie, and commit the matter C vnto GOD.

Wherfore, he ascribed the power of al thinges vnto GOD the maker of the world, exhorting hys people to fyght manfully (yee, euen vnto death) for the lawes, the tēple, the citie, theyr owne natiue countrie, and to defend the citizens: and set his hoste before Modin. He gaue them also that were wyth hym a token, of the victorie of GOD, chosing out ꝑ manliest yong men, wēt by night 2.Mac.
into the kynges pauelyon, slewe of the D hoost xiij. M. mē * and the greatest Elephantes with those ꝑ sat vpon them.

Thus when they had brought a great feare and romour among ꝑ tētes of theyr enemies, and all thynges went prosperously wyth them, they departed in the breake of the daye, GOD beynge theyr helper and defender. Nowe whē the kyng perceaued the manlynes of 1.Mac.
the Jewes, he went about to take the stronge places by crafte, and remoued hys hoste * vnto Bethsura, whych was a well kept house of defense of the Jewes:

wes:but they were chased away, hurt and discomfited. And Judas sent vnto them that were in it such thiges as were necessarie. In the Jewes hoste also there was one Rodochus which told ỳ enemies their secretes:but they sought him oute, & when they had gotten him they put him in prealo. After thys did ỳ kyng cõmen wyth them ỳ wer in Bethsura, toke truce wyth them, departed & stroke battayle wyth Judas, whyche ouercame hym.

But when he vnderstode, that Philippe (whome he had left to be ouersear of hys busines at Antioche) began to rebel agaynst him, he was astoined in his mynd: so that he yelded hymselfe to the Jewes, and made them an othe, to do whatsoeuer they thought ryght.

Nowe when he was reconsiled with them, he offered, made much of the tẽple, gaue great gyfts vnto it, embraced Machabeus, making hym a captayne, and gouernoure from Ptolomais vnto the Gerrenes. Neuertheless, when he came to Ptolomais, the people of ỳ citie were not content wyth the bonde of frendshyppe, for they were afrayed, that he wolde breake the couenaunt. Then went Lisias vp into ỳ seate and enfourmed ỳ people, shewed them the cause why: & pacified them. So he came againe vnto Antioch. This is nowe ỳ matter cõcernyng the kynges iourney, and hys returne.

The xiiij. Chapter.

¶ By the mocion of the Lorde Demetrius sendeth Nicanor to kyl the Jewes. Nicanor maketh a cõpact with the Jewes: whych he yet breaketh through the mocion of the kyng. Nicanor commaundeth Razis to be taken. The boldnes of Razis.

AFter thre yeres was Judas enfourmed how that Demetrius ỳ sonne of Seleucus was come vp wyth a great power and shyppes, thorowe the hauen of Tripolis, to take certayne commodious places and countryes against Antiochus and hys captayne Lisias. Now Alcimus (whych had bene hye preaste & wylfully defyled hym selfe, in the tyme of the mixting) seinge, that by no meanes he coulde be helped nor haue anymore entraũce to the auter: he came to kyng Demetrius in the C. and li. yeare, presentinge vnto hym a crowne of gold, a palme and an Olyue tree: whych (as men thought) belonged to the temple, and that daye he held hys tonge. But when he had gotten opportunite for hys madnes, Demetrius called hym to counsaile, and asked hym, what thynges or counsailes the Jewes leaned vnto. He answered: the Jewes that be called Asside (whose captaine is Judas Machabeus) mayntayne warres, make insurrectiõs, and wyll not let the realme be in peace.

For I beinge depryued of my fathers honoure (I meane the hye preasthode) B am come hether: partly because I was faythfull vnto the kyng, and partely because I sought the profite of the citizins. And why all oure people, thorow the wyckednes of them, are not a lytle troubled. Wherefore, I beseech the (O kynge) consider all these thynges diligently, and then make prouision for ỳ lande and the people, accordinge to the kyndnes that thou haste offered vnto them. For as longe as Judas hath the vpperhand, it is not possible that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes, other frendes also haupnge euell wyll at Judas, set the kyng Demetrius on fyre agaynst him: * whych immediatly sent Nicanor (ruler of the Elephãtes) 1.Mac.7.c a captayne into Jewry, commaunding hym to take Judas hymself alyue, but to slay them that were wyth hym, and to make Alcimus hye preaste of the great Temple.

Then ỳ Heathẽ which fled out of Je C wry from Judas, came to Nicanor by flockes, thynkynge the harme and decay of the Jewes to be theyr welfare. Nowe when the Jewes heard of Nicanors commyng, and the gatherynge together of the Heathẽ, they sprynkled them selues with earth * besought him 2.Mac.10.d
whyche made them hys people, & euer defended hys owne porcion wyth euident tokens, ỳ he wolde preserue them styl. So at the commaundement of the captayne, they remoued from thence, & came to a towne called Dessasan. And Simon Judas brother fel in hãd with Nicanor, but thorowe the sodaine comming of the enemies, he was afrayed.

Neuertheless, Nicanor hearyng the manlynesse of them that were with Judas, and the bolde stomakes that they had to fyght for theyr natural coũtrie,

durste not proue ꝑ matter wyth bloud sheddyng. Wherfore, he sent Possidonius, Theodotus, & Mathias before, to geue and to take peace. So when they had taken long aduisement thereupon, and the captayne shewed it vnto ꝑ multitude, they were agreed in one minde: to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to sytte vpō these matters quietly among thē selues, ꝑ stooles also were brought & set forth. Neuertheles, Judas cōmaunded certayne mē of armes to wayte in conueniente places, least ꝑ re should so daynly aryse anye euell thorowe the enemies. And so they commaunded reasonable together.

D Nicanor, whyle he abode at Jerusalem, ordred hym self not vnreasonably, but sent away the people that were gathered together. He loued Judas euer wyth hys herte, and fauoured hym. He prayed hym also to take a wife, and to to bring forth children.

So he maried, lyued in reast, & they led a comen lyfe. But Alcimus perceauing the loue that was betwirte them, and howe they were agreed together, came to Demetrius and told hym that Nicanor had taken straunge matters in hand, and ordened Judas (an enemie of the realme) to be the kynges successour. Then the kynge was sore displeased, and thorow the wycked accusacions, whych Alcimus made of Nicanor, sayenge: that he was very angry for the frendshippe & agrement, whych he had made with Machabeus. Neuertheles he commaunded hym in all the hast, that he shulde take Machabeus prysoner, and sende hym to Antioche.

E Whych letters when Nicanor had sene, he was at hys wittes end, and sore greued, that he shulde breake the thinges wherin they had agreed specially, seing Machabeus was the man that neuer dyd hym harme. But because he myghte not wythstande the kynge, he sought oportunite to fulfyll hys commaundement. Not withstandyng when Machabeus sawe that Nicanor begā to be churlysh vnto him, and that he intreated hym more roughlye then he was wont, he perceaued that such vnkyndnes came not of good, and therfore he gathered a fewe of hys men, & withdrewe hymselfe from Nicanor. Whyche when he knew that Machabeus had manfully preuented hym, he came into the great and most holy temple: & cōmaunded the preastes (whych were doinge theyr vsual offeringes) to delyuer hym the man. And when they sware that they could not tell where the man was whō he soughte, he stretched out hys hād, * and made an othe, saying: Yf ye wyll not deliuer me Judas captiue, I shall remoue thys temple of GOD into a playn felde. I shall breake downe the aulter, and consecrate thys temple vnto Bacchus. After these wordes he departed.

Then the preastes lyfte vp theyr handes towarde heauen, & besought hym that was euer the defēder of theyr people, sayinge: Thou O LORDE of all, whych hast nede of nothynge, woldest that the temple of thy habitaciō shuld be amonge vs: Therfore nowe O most holy LORD kepe thys house euer vndefyled * whych lately was clensed. Now was there accused vnto Nicanor, one Razis an alderman of Jerusalem, a louer of the holy citie, and a man of good report, whych for the kynde hert that he bare vnto the people, was called a father of the Jewes. Thys man oftymes, when the Jewes were minded to kepe them selues vndefyled, defended and delyuered them, beinge content stedfastly to spende hys bodye and hys lyfe for hys people.

So Nicanor wyllynge to declare the hate that he bare to the Jewes, sent v. C. men of warre to take hym: for he thought, yf he gat hym, he shuld bringe the Jewes in greate decaie. Now whē the people began to rush in at hys house, to breake the dores, and to set fire on it: he beinge now taken wold haue defended hymselfe wyth hys sweard, chosynge rather to dye manfullye, then to yeld hym self to those wicked doers: and because of hys noble stocke, he had rather to haue bene put to the extreme cruelty. Notwythstanding, what time as he mysled of hys strocke for hast, & the multitude fel in violently betwyxt the dores, he ran boldly to the wal, and cast hymselfe downe manfully among the heape of them, whych gaue soneplace to hys fall, so that he fell vpon hys bellye. Neuertheless whyle there was yet breth wythin him, he was kyndled in hys mynd, and whyle hys bloud gushed out shed out exceadingly (for he was verye sore wounded) he ran thorow the mydest of the people, and gat hym to the toppe of a rock. So when hys blonde was gone, he toke out hys owne bowels with both hys handes, and threw them vpon the people, callynge vpō the LORDE of lyfe and spirite to rewarde hym thys agayne, and so he dyed.

The xv. Chapter.

¶ Nicanor goeth about to come vpon Judas on the Sabboth daye. The blasphemie of Nicanor. Machabeus expoundynge vnto the Jewes the vision boldeneth theyr hertes. The prayer of Machabeus. After the boost of Nicanor is once overcome. Machabeus cōmaūdeth hys heed and hys hādes to be cut of, & hys tong to be geuen vnto the foules.

NOwe when *Nicanor knewe that Judas was in the countrie of Samaria, he thought with al his power to stryche a felde wyth him, vpō a Sabboth daye. Neuertheles, the Jewes that wer compelled to go wyth hym, sayd: O do not so cruelly and vnkyndly, but halowe the Sabboth daye, and worshyppe hym, that seeth al thynges. For al thys yet sayd the vngracious person: *Is ther a myghty one in heauen, that commaūded the Sabboth day to be kept: And when they sayd yea, the lyuyng GOD, the myghtye LORDE in heauen *commaunded the seuenth day to be kepte, he sayd: And I am myghty vpon earthe to commaund them, for to arme them selues, and to perfourme the kynges busmesse. Notwythstandyng he mighte not haue hys purpose.

Nicanor had deuised wyth greate pryde to ouercome Judas, and to bryng awaie the victori: But Machabeus had euer fast cōfidence & a perfecte hope in GOD, that he wold helpe hym, and exhorted hys people, not to be afrayed at the commyng of the Heathen: but al waye to remember the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen: yea, and to be sure now also, that Almyghty GOD wolde geue them the victorie. He spake vnto them out of the lawe and prophetes: putting them in remembraunce of the battels that they had strycken afore, and made them to be of a good corage.

So when theyr hertes were plukte vp, he shewed them the discreatfulnes of the Heathen, and howe they wolde kepe no couenaunt nor othe. Thus they weaponed them, not with the armoure of shylt, and speare, but with wholsom wordes, and exhortacions. He shewed them a dreame also, wherthorow he made them all glad, whych was thys: he thought that he saw Onias (whych had bene hye preaste, a verteous and a louynge man, sat, and of honest conuersacion, well spoken, and one that had bene exercised in godlynes frome a childe) holdyng vp his handes toward heauen, and prayng for hys people. After thys ther appered vnto hym another mā whyche was aged: honorable, and glorious. And Onias sayd: Thys is a louer of the brethrē, and of the people of Jsraell. Thys is he that prayeth much for the people and for all the holy citie, Jeremie the prophete of GOD. He thoughte also that Jeremie helde out hys tryght hand, and gaue vnto Judas a swerde of gold, saing: Take this holy swerd a gyfte from GOD, wherewyth thou shalt smytte downe the enemies of the people of Jsraell.

And so they were well confortes tho rowe the wordes of Judas, and toke courage vnto them, so that the yonge men were determined in theyr mindes to fyghte, and to byde stylye at it: Jnsomuche that the thinges whych they tooke in hande, theyr boldnesse shewed the same, because the holy citie, and the temple were in perel: for ꝑ whych they tooke moare care, then for their wiues, chyldren, brethren and kynsfolkes.

Agayne they that were in the citie, were most carefull for those whyche were to fyghte. Nowe when they were all in a hoope, that the Judgemente of the matter was at hande, and the enemies drewe nye, the hoste beinge sette in a raye, the Elephantes, and horsmen euery one standinge in hys place: Machabeus considerynge the commynge of the multitude, the ordinaunce of diuers weapons, the cruelnes of the beastes, and helde vp hys handes towarde heauen callynge vpon the LORDE that doth wonders, whych geueth not the victorie after the multitude of the weapons, and power of the hoost (but to them that please hym) accordinge to hys owne wyll. Ther fore in hys prayer he sayde these wordes:

2. Par. 14. c. Iudi. 8. b.

O LORDE

O LORDE,* thou that dydest sende thyne Angell in tyme of Ezekiah kynge of Juda, and in the hooste of Sennacherib sleweste an C.lxxv. and fyue thousande, sende nowe also they good Aungell before vs (O LORDE of heauens) in the fearfulnesse and drede of thy myghtie arme, that they whyche come agaynste thy holye people to blaspheme them, maye be afrayed. So he made an ende of hys wordes.

2 Re.19.c. Esay.37.f. 1.Mac.6.c.

Then Nicanor and they that were wyth hym, drewe nye wyth shawmes and songes: but Judas and hys company wyth prayer and calling vpon GOD. Wyth theyr handes they smoote, but wyth theyr hertes they prayed vnto the LORDE, and slewe no lesse then xxxv.M.men: For thorowe the present helpe of GOD they were gloriously comforted.

Nowe when they lefte of, and were turnynge agayne wyth ioye, they vnderstoode that Nicanor hym selfe was slayne wyth the other. Then they gaue a greate shoute and a crye, praisynge the Almyghtye LORDE wyth a loude voice. And Judas (whyche was euer readye to spēde his bodye and lyfe for hys citizins) commaūded to smyte of Nicanors head, wyth hys arme and hande, and to be brought to Jerusalem. When he came there, he called al the people, and the prestes to the auter wyth those that were in the castell, and shewed them Nicanors head, and hys wycked hand whyche he had presumptiously holden vp agaynst the Temple of GOD. He caused the tonge also of ꝑ vngodly Nicanor to be cut in lytle peces, and to be caste vnto the fowles, and the cruelmans hande to be hāged vp before the temple.

So euery man gaue thankes vnto the LORDE, sayinge: blessed be he, that hath kepte hys place vndefyled. As for Nicanors heade, he hanged it vpon the hye castel, for an euidente and plaine token of the helpe of GOD. And so they agreed al together, to kepe that daye holye, namelye the thyrtene daye of the moneth Adar, whych in the Syrians language is called the nerte daye before Mardocheus day. Thus was Nicanor slayne, and frome that time forth ꝑ Jewes had the citie in possession. And here wyll I nowe make an ende.

¶ The Gospell of S. Matthewe.

¶ The first Chapter. ✠

The genealogy of Christe, & mariage of his mother Mary. The Angel sanctifieth Josephs mynde.

THys is the booke of the generacio of Jesu Christ the sonne of Dauid, the sonne of Abraham.

* Abraham begat Isaac, ‡ Isaac begat Jacob, * Jacob begat Judas and his brethren: ‡ Judas begat Phares & Zaram of Thamar: * Phares begat Estrom: ‡ Estrom begat Aram: * Aram begat Aminanab: ‡ Aminadab begat Naasson: * Naasson begat Salmō: ‡ Salmō begat Boos of Rahab: * Boos begat Obed of Ruth: ‡ Obed begat Jesse: * Jesse begat Dauid the king:

‡ Dauid the king begat Salomon of her that was the wyfe of Urye: * Salomon begat Roboā: ‡ Roboā begat Abia: * Abia begat Asa: ‡ Asa begat Josaphat: * Josaphat begat Joram: ‡ Joram begat Ozias: * Ozias begat Joatham: ‡ Joatham begat Achas: * Achas begat Ezechias: ‡ Ezechias begat Manasses: * Manasses begat Amon: ‡ Amon begat Josias: * Josias begat Jeconias & his brethren aboute the tyme they were caryed awaye to Babylon.

And after they were brought to Babilō: ‡ Jeconias begat Salathiel: * Salathiel begat Zorobabell: ‡ Zorobabell begat Abiud: * Abiud begat Eliachim: Eliachim begat Azor: Azor begat Sadoc: Sadoc begat Achim: Achim begat Eliud: Eliud begat Eleazar: Eleazar begat Matthan: Matthan begat Jacob: Jacob begat Joseph the housband of Mary: of whom was borne Jesus, euen he that is called Christe. ✠

And so all the generacions from Abrahā to Dauid, are fourtene generacions: And from Dauid vnto the captiuitie of Babilon, are fourtene generacios. And from the captiuitie of Babilon vnto Christe, are fourtene generacions.

The birthe of Jesus Christe was on C this wise. ✠ Whē his mother Mary was maryed to Joseph (before they came to dwell together) she was founde wt child by thy holy gost. Then Joseph her housbande (because he was a righteous man and would not put her to shame) he was mynded priuely to depart from her. But whyle he thus thought, beholde the Angell of the Lorde appeared vnto hym in slepe, saying: Joseph thou sonne of Dauid, feare not to take vnto thee Mary thy wife. For that which is conceyued in her, commeth of the holy gost. She shall bryng forth a sonne, and thou shalt call his name * Jesus. For he shall saue his people from theyr sinnes. *Philip. ii. b Actes. iiii. b

All this was done, that it myght bee D fulfilled, which was spoken of the Lord by ỹ prophete, saying: * Behold, a maide shall be with child, and shall bryng forth a sonne, and they shall call his name Emanuell, which yf a manne interprete, it is almuche to saye, as God with vs. ✠ *Esa. vii. c

¶ The. ii. Chapter.

The tyme and place of Christes birth. The wysemen offre theyr presentes. Christe flyeth into Egypt, the yong children are slayne, Christe returneth into Saule.

WHē ✠ Jesus was borne at Bethleem a citie of Jury, in the tyme of Herode the kyng: Beholde, there came wysemen from the East to Jerusalem, saying: where is he that is borne king of the Jewes? For we haue sene his * starre in the East, and are come to worshyp hym. E *Nu. xxiiii. c

When Herode the kyng had hearde these thynges, he was troubled, and all the citie of Jerusalem with hym. And when he had gathered al the chiefe priestes & Scribes of the people together, he demaunded of them, where Christe should be borne: And they said vnto him: at Bethleem in Jewrye. For thus it is writtē by the prophete: * And thou Bethlee in the land of Juda, art not the leaste emong the princes of Juda. For * out of the shall there come vnto me the captaine, ỹ shall gouerne my people Israel. *Micha. v. a *Iohn. vii. f

Then Herode (whē he had priuely called the wysemen) he enquired of them diligently, what tyme the starre appeared, and he bad them go to Bethleem, & sayd: Go your waye thyther, and searche dili- F

gently for the childe. And when ye haue found him, bring me worde agayne, that I may come and worship him also.

✣When they had heard the kyng, they departed: & loe, the starre which they sawe
in the East, went before them, till it came & stode ouer the place, where in the childe was: whē they sawe the starre, they were exceedyng glad: and went into the house,
and found the childe with Mary his mother * and fell downe flatte and worshipped him, and opened their treasures, and offred vnto hym giftes: golde, franckynsence, and mirre. And after they were warned of God in slepe that they should not go agayn to Herode they returned into their owne countrey another waye. ✣

thou there, tyll I bryng the woorde. For it wyll come to passe, that Herode shall seke the childe to destroye him. So when he awoke, he toke the childe and his mo-

go into the land of Israel. * For they are dead which sought the childes lyfe. And he arose, and toke the childe and his mo-

But when he heard, that Archelaus dyd
reigne in Jury, in ꝓ roume of his father
Herode, he was afrayde to goe thither.
Notwithstanding, after he was warned of God in a slepe, he turned aside into the partes of Galile, and wente and dwelte
in a citie whiche is called Nazareth: that it might be fulfilled whiche was spoken
by the prophetes: he shall be called a Na-

The.iii. Chapter. ✣

The baptysme, preachyng, and offyce of Johan, and howe Christe was baptised of hym in Jordane.

IN those dayes came John the Baptist, preachyng in the wyldernes of Jury, & saying: Repent of the lyfe that is past, for the kyngdome of heauen is at hande. *
For this is he, of whō the prophete Isay
spake, which sayth: The voice of a cryer
in the wildernes, prepare ye the waye of the Lord: and make his pathes straight.
This John had his rayment of camels
heare. And a gyrdell of a skynne aboute his loynes. His meate was locustes * & wylde hony. Then went out to hym Jerusalem and all Jury, and all the region round about Jordan, & were baptised of him in Jordan, confessing their sinnes. ✣

✣But when he sawe many of the Pha-
B rises & Saduces come to his baptisme, he sayde vnto them: * O generacion of vipers: who hath taught you to flie from ꝓ vengeaunce to come? Bring forth therfore the frutes that belong to repentaūce.
And be not of suche minde that ye would saye within your selues: we haue Abraham to oure father. For I saye vnto you that God is able to bryng to passe, that of these stones there shall ryse vp chyldren vnto Abrahā. Euen nowe is the axe also put vnto the roote of the trees: so ꝓ *
euery tree which bringeth not forth good frute, is hewē downe, & cast into the fyre.

I baptise you with water * vnto repentaunce, but he that shall come after me, is myghtier thē I, whose shooes I am not worthy to beare: he shall baptise you with the holy goste and with fyre: * Whose fanne is in his hand, and he wyll purge
C his flooze, and gather his wheate into the barne, but will burne the chaffe with vnquencheable fyre. ✣

✣Then commeth Jesus from Galile to Jordan vnto John * to be baptised of hym. But John forbad hym, saying: I haue nede to be baptised of thee: and comest thou to me? Jesus answered & sayd vnto hym: Let it be so nowe. For thus it becommeth vs to fulfyll all ryghteousnes. Then he suffered hym. And Jesus
when he was baptised, came straight waye out of the water. And loe ✠ heauen was open vnto him: and he sawe ꝑ spyrite of God descending like a doue, and lighting vpō him. And loe, there came a voice from heauen saying. ✠ This is my beloued sonne, in whom I am wel pleased. ✠

The. iiii. Chapter. ✠

Christ taketh, & is tempted: he calleth Peter, Andrew, James, and John, and healeth the sicke.

THen was Jesus ✠ led awaye of the spirite into wildernes: to be tempted of the deuil. And when he had fasted fourty dayes and fourty nightes, he was at the last an hūgred. And whē the tēpter came to hym he sayed: if thou be the sonne of God, commaund, that these stones be made bread. But he answered and sayd: it is written ✠ man shal not lyue by bread only, but by euery woorde that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

Then the deuill taketh him vp into the holy citie, and setteth him on a pinacle of the tēple, & sayth vnto him: if thou be the sōne of God, cast thy self downe hedlyng. For it is written ✠ he shall geue his Angels charge ouer thee, & with their hādes they shal hold thee vp, least at any time ꝑ dash thy fote against a stone. And Jesus sayd to him: it is written againe. ✠ Thou shalt not tempt the Lorde thy God.

Agayn, the deuill taketh him vp into an exceedyng hye mountaine, & sheweth hym al the kingdomes of the world, & the glory of them, and sayeth vnto him: all these wil I geue thee, if thou wilt fal downe, & worshippe me. Then sayeth Jesus vnto hym: Auoyde Satan. For it is written: ✠ Thou shalt worshippe the Lord thy God and hym onely shalt thou serue.

Then the deuill leaueth hym, & behold ✠ Angels came, & ministred vnto him. ✠

✠ When Jesus had herde that John was taken, he departed into Galile, and left Nazareth, & wente and dwelt in Capernaū, which is a citie vpon ꝑ sea coast, in the borders of Zabulon & Nephtalim that it myght bee fulfilled whiche was spoken by Esay the Prophete, saying: ✠ The land of Zabulon & Nephtalim by the way of ꝑ sea beyond Jordā, Galile of the Gentyles: the people whiche sate in darknes & in the shadowe of death sawe great light, and to them whiche sate in the region and shadowe of death, is the light sprong vp.

From that tyme Jesus begaune to ✠ preache, and to saye: repente, for the kyngdome of heauen is at hande. ✠ Mat. iii. Marthe. i Marth. Marth. Marth. ✠ Marth.

✠✠ As Jesus walked by the sea of Galile, he sawe two brethren: Simon, which was called Peter, and Andrewe his brother, castyng a nette into the sea (for they were fishers) & he sayth vnto thē: folowe me, and I will make you (to become) ✠ fishers of men. And they streight waye left the nettes, and folowed hym. Jere. xvi. Ezec. xlvii.

And when he was gone forth frō thence he sawe other two brethren. James the sonne of zebede, and John his brother, in the shyppe with zebede their father, mendyng their nettes, & he called them. And they immediatly ✠ lefte the shyppe and their father, and folowed hym. ✠ Luke. v.

✠ And Jesus went about al Galile, teachyng in their synagoges, & preachyng ꝑ gospell of the kingdom, & healing al maner of sickenes, and all maner of disease emong the people. And his fame spred abroade throughout all Syria. And they brought vnto him al sicke people, ꝑ were taken with dyuerse diseases & gripinges and thē that were possessed with deuils: & those which were lunatyke, & those that had the palsye: & he healed them. ✠ And there folowed hym great multitudes of people from Galile, ✠ and from the ten cities, and from Jerusalem, and from Jewrye, and from the regions that lye beyond Jordane. Mat. iii. 4.

The. v. Chapter.

In this Chapter and in the two next folowyng is contayned the moste excellente and loueng Sermon of Christ in the mounte: which Sermon is the the very keye that openeth vnderstandyng into the lawe. In this fyrst Chapter, specially he preacheth of the. viii. beatytudes or blessyngs of mouthagyuer, wrathe and anger: of aduoutrye, of swerying wrong, and of loue, euen towarde a mans enemyes.

WHen he sawe the people, he went vp into a mountaine and when he was set, his disciples came vnto him: And after that he had opened his mouth he taught thē, saying: ✠ Blessed are ꝑ poore in spirite, for theirs is the kyngdome of heauen. Blessed are they that mourne: for they shall receyue comforte. Blessed are the meke for they shall receyue the inheritaūce of the earth. Blessed are they whiche ✠ honger & thirst after rightwysnes: for they shalbe satisfyed. Blessed are the mercyfull: for they shall obteyne mercy. Blessed are the pure in herte, for they shall see God. Blessed are the peace makers: for they shalbe Luke. vi. d ✠ Esa. lxvi. a and. lxi. d. Jere. xxxi. c called the childzen of God. Blessed are they which suffer persecucion for ryghteousnes sake, for theirs is the kyngdome

of heauen. ‡ Blessed are ye when men reuile you, and persecute you, and shal falsly saye all maner of euyll sayinges against you, for my sake. ‡ Reioyce and bee glad, for greate is your rewarde in hea-
uen. ✠ For so persecuted they the Prophetes, whiche were before you.

✠ Ye are the salt of the earth: * But yf
the salt haue lost the saltnes, what shal be seasoned therwith? It is thence forth good for nothyng, but to be cast out, and to be troden downe of menne: ye are the light of the worlde. A citie that is set on an hyll, cannot be hyd, * neither doe men
light a candel, and put it vnder a bushel,
but on a candelsticke, and it geueth light
vnto all that are in the house. Let youre light so shine before menne, * that they may see youre good workes, and glorifie
youre father whiche is in heauen. ✠

✠ Thinke not þ I am come to destroye
the lawe, or the Prophetes: no, I am not come to destroye, but * to fulfill. For true-ly I saye vnto you: till heauen and earth passe, one iotte or one title of þ lawe shall not scape, till all bee fulfylled. Whosoeuer therfore breaketh * one of these least commaundementes, and teacheth menne
so, he shalbe called the leste in the kyngdome of heauen. But whosoeuer doeth and teacheth the same, shalbe called great
in the kyngdome of heauen. ✠

✠ For I saye vnto you: excepte youre
ryghteousnes exceade the righteousnes
of the scribes and pharises, ye cannot entre into the kyngdome of heauē. Ye haue heard that it was sayed vnto them of the olde tyme: ‡ Thou shall not kill: whosoeuer killeth, shall bee in daunger of iud-gement. But I saye vnto you: that whosoeuer is angry with his brother (vnad-uisedly) shalbe in daunger of iudgement.
And whosoeuer sayeth vnto his brother,
Racha, shalbe in daunger of a councell.
But whosoeuer sayth, thou foole, shalbe
in daunger of hell fyre. Therfore yf thou offrest thy gifte at the aultare, and there remembrest that thy brother hath ought against the: leue there thyne offryng before the aulter, * and go thy waye first ‡ bee reconciled to thy brother, and then come, and offre thy gyfte. ✠

✠ * Agree with thine aduersarie quickly, whilest thou art in the way with him, least at any tyme þ aduersary deliuer the
to the iudge, and the iudge deliuer the to the minister, and then thou bee caste into prison. Verely I say vnto the: thou shalt not come out thence, till thou haue payed
the vtmoste farthyng.

Ye haue herde that it was sayde to thē of old time: * Thou shalt not cōmyt aduou-trie. But I saye vnto you: ‡ þ whosoeuer loketh on another mans wyfe to lust after her, hath committed aduoutrye with her already in his heart. * If thy ryght eye hynder thee, plucke him out: and cast
hym frō thee. For better it is vnto thee, þ one of thy membres perishe, then that thy whole body should be cast into hell. And yf thy right hand hynder the, cut hym of and cast hym frō the. For better it is vnto the, þ one of thy membres perishe, then that al thy body should be cast into hel. ✠

It is sayde, whosoeuer putteth awaye
his wife, * let hym geue her a lettre of the deuorcement. ‡ But I say vnto you: that whosoeuer doth put awaye his wife (excepte it be for fornicacion) causeth her to breake matrimony. And whosoeuer ma-rieth her, þ is deuorced, cōmitteth aduoutrye. Againe, ye haue herde howe it was sayd to thē of olde time: * thou shalt not forsweare thy selfe, but shalt performe vnto þ Lord those thinges that thou swe-rest. * But I saye vnto you: sweare not at all, neyther by heauen, ‡ for it is Gods seat, nor by þ earth, for it is his fote stole:
neyther by Ierusalem, for it is the citie of the great kyng: neyther shalt thou swere
by thy head, because thou canst not make one heere white or blacke. But your cō-municatiō shalbe, yea, yea: nay, nay. For whatsoeuer is added more then these, it cometh of euyll. Ye haue herd þ it is sayd
* an eye for an eye: and a toth for a toth.
But I saye vnto you, that ye resist not euyll. But * whosoeuer geue the a blowe on the right cheke, turne to him the other also. And yf any man wyll sue thee at the lawe, ‡ take away thy coate, let him haue thy cloke also. And whosoeuer wil cōpell thee to goe a myle, go with hym twayne.
Geue to hym that asketh thee: ‡ frō hym
that would borow, turne not thou away.

¶ Of Almes, prayer, and fasting. He forbiddeth the carefull seking of worldly thynges.

TAke hede, that ye geue not your almes in the sight of men, to the intent that ye woulde be sene of thẽ: Or els ye haue no reward with youre father whiche is in heauen. Therfore when thou geuest thyne almes, let not trompettes be blowne before the, as the ypocrytes do in the synagoges and in the stretes, for to be praysed of menne. Verely I saye vnto you, they haue their reward. But when thou wilt geue almes, let not thy lyft hand know what thy right hande doth, that thyne almes may bee in secret: and thy father which seeth in secret, shall rewarde the openly. ✠

And when thou praiest, *thou shalte not bee as the ypocrytes are. For they vse to stande praying in the synagoges, & in the corners of the stretes, that they maye bee sene of men. Verely I say vnto you, they haue theyr reward. But when thou prayest * enter into thy chaumber, and whan thou hast shut the doze, pray to thy father whiche is in secret: and thy father whiche seeth in secret, shal rewarde the openly.

But when ye praye, *bable not muche as the Hethen dooe: for they thinke it wyll come to passe, that they shalbe hearde for their muche bablynges sake. Bee not ye therfore lyke vnto them. * For your father knoweth what thynges ye haue nede of, before ye aske of hym: after thys maner therfore, praye ye.

* Our father whiche art in heuen, halowed bee thy name. Let thy kyngdome come: thy will be fulfilled, as well in erth as it is in heauen. Geue vs this daye our dayly breade. And forgeue vs our dettes, as we forgeue our detters. And lede vs not into temptacion: but deliuer vs from euell. For thyne is the kyngdome and the power, & the glory for euer. Amen. Therfore * if you forgeue other men theyr trespases, youre heauenly father shall forgeue you (your trespasses.) But yf ye will not forgeue menne theyr trespases, no more shall your father forgeue you your trespases. ✠ Moreouer * when ye fast, be not sad as the ypocrites ar. For they disfigure theyr faces, that it may apere vnto menne howe that they fast. Verely I say vnto you, they haue theyr rewarde. But thou when thou fastest, anoynt thyne head, and washe thy face, that it apere not vnto menne howe ỳ thou fastest: but vnto thy father, which is in secret: and thy father whiche seeth in secret, shall rewarde thee openlye.

AND when hys * .xii. disciples were called vnto him, he gaue them power against vncleane spirites, to caste them out: and to heale all maner of sickenesse, & al maner of disease.

The names of the .xii. Apostles are these: The first, Simon which is called Peter, and Andrew his brother: James the son of Zebede, of zebede, and John hys brother: Philyp and Bartholomew: Thomas and Matthew, whiche had ben a publican. James the sonne of Alphe, and Lebbeus (whose syrname was Taddeus) Symon of Canaan, and Judas Iscariothe, whiche also betrayed hym. * Jesus sent forth these .xii. in numbre, whō he commaunded, saying: Go not into the waye of the gentils, & into the citie of the Samaritanes enter ye not. But go rather to the lost shepe of ỳ house of Israell. Goo and preache, saying: The kingdome of heauen is at hand. Heale the sicke, cleanse the lepers, rayse the dead, cast out deuels. * Freely ye haue receaued: geue freely. ‡ Possesse not golde nor syluer nor brasse in youre purses, nor yet scrippe towardes your iorney: nether two cotes, nether shoes, nor yet a rod. * For ỳ workmā is worthy of his meate. But to whatsoeuer citye or towne ye shal cō, enquire who is worthy in it, and there abyde tyll ye go thence. * And when ye come into an house, salute the same. And yf the house bee worthy, let your peace come vpon it. But yf it be not worthy, let your peace retourne to you agayne.

And whosoeuer shal not receaue you, nor wyll heare your preachyng: when ye depart out of ỳ house or that citie, * shake of ỳ dust of your fete. Verely, I saie vnto you: it shalbe easyer for the lād of Sodoma & Gomorra in the day of iudgement, then for that citie.

* Behold, I send you forthe, as shepe amōg wolues. Be ye therfore wyse as serpentes & innocēt as doues. * But beware of menne, for they shall delyuer you vp to the councels, and shal scourge you in their synagoges. And ye shall be brought to the head rulers & kinges, for my sake, in witnes to them and to the Gentyles.

But * when they delyuer you vp, take ye no thought, how or what ye shall speake: for it shalbe geuen you, euen in that same houre: what ye shal speake. For it is not ye that speake, but the spiryte of your father which speaketh in you * The brother shal deliuer vp the brother to death, and the father the sonne. And the childzen shal aryse agaynst theyr fathers & mothers: and shal put them to death, and ye shalbe hated of al mē for my names sake. ‡ But he that endureth to the end, shalbe saued.

But * when they persecute you in thys citie, flye ye into another. For verely, I saie vnto you: ye shall not go thorow all the cities of Israel, till the son of man be come.

* The disciple is not aboue the master: nor the seruaunt aboue hys Lord. It is ynough for ỳ disciple, ỳ he bee as hys master is, & that the seruaunt be as his Lord is. If they haue called the Lord of ỳ house Belzebub: how muche more shall they cal them of his houshold so. Feare them not therfore. * For there is nothyng close, that shall not be opened: and nothyng hid, that shall not bee knowen. What I tell you in darknes that speake ye in light. And what ye heare in the eare, that preache ye on the house toppes. * And feare ye not thē which kil the body but are not able to kil ỳ soule. But rather feare hym, whiche is able to destroye both soule and body into hel. Are not twoo litle sparowes solde for a farthing? And one of them shall not light on the ground without your father. Yea, euē all the heares of your head are numbred. Feare ye not therfore: ye are of more value thē many sparowes. ‡ Euery one therfore that shall knowelage me before men, hym will I knowlage also before my father, whiche is in heauen But whosoeuer shall deny me before men, hym wil I also denie before my father, whiche is in Heauen.

Thinke not * ỳ I am come to sende peace into ỳ earth. I came not to send peace, but a swearde. For I am come to set a man at variaūce * against his father, & the doughter against her mother, and the doughter in lawe against her mother in lawe. And a mannes foes shalbe they that are of hys owne houshold.

* He that loueth father or mother more then me, is not worthy of me. And he that loueth sonne or doughter more then me, is not worthy of me. And he that taketh not hys crosse and foloeth me, is not worthy of me. * He that hyndeth hys lyfe, shal lose it: & he that loseth hys lyfe for my sake shal finde it. ‡ He that receaueth you, receaueth me: and he that receaueth me, receaueth hym that sent me. He that * receaueth a prophet in the name of a prophet, shal receaue a propheres rewarde. And he that receaueth a righteous man, in the name of a righteous man, shal receaue a righteous mans reward: ‡ And whosoeuer shal geue vnto one of these lytle ones to drynke a cuppe of colde water onely (in the name of a disciple) verely I saye vnto you, he shall not lose hys rewarde.

Wo here-

Wherefore, yf ye wiste what thys meaneth, * I requyre mercy and not sacrifice: ye wolde not haue condempned innocentes. ‡ For the sonne of manne also is Lord, euen of the Saboth daye.

And he departed thence, * and wente into their synagoge: and beholde, there was a manne whiche had hys hande dryed vp. And they asked hym, saying: * is it lawful to heale vpon the saboth dayes? that they myght accuse hym. And he sayd vnto thē: whyche of you wyll it bee, that shall haue * a shepe, and yf it fall into a pyt on the saboth day: wyll he not take it & lyfte it out? Howe muche more then is a man better then a shepe? Wherfore, it is lawfull to do a good dede on the saboth dayes. Thē sayeth he to the manne: Stretche forthe thy hande. And hee stretched it forthe. And it was restored vnto health, like as the other.

‡ Then the Pharises went out, and helde a counceil agaynste hym, howe they myghte destroye hym. But when Jesus knewe it, he departed thence, and muche people folowed hym: and he healed them al, and charged them, that they should not make hym knowne: that it myght be fulfilled which was spoken by Esay the prophet whiche sayeth: * Beholde, my child, whō I haue chosen, my beloued, in whō my soule delyghteth: I wyl put my spirite vpon hym, and he shall shewe iudgement to the Gentiles. He shal not striue nor crie, neither shall any mayne heare hys voyce in the streetes, a bruised reede shall hee not breake, & smoking flax shal he not quēche, til he sende forth iudgement vnto victorie: and in his name shal the Gentiles truste. ‡

* Then was brought to hym a blind and a dūme man, that was vexed with a deuell, and he healed hym, in so much, that the blinde & dūme, both spake and sawe. And al the people were amased, and saide: Is not this that sonne of Dauid? * But when the phariſes heard it, they sayed. This felowe driueth the deuels no nother wyse oute, but by the helpe of Belzebub the chiefe of the deuels.

But when Jesus knew their thoughtes he sayde vnto them: Euerye kingdome deuided agaynst it selfe, shalbe brought to thought. And euery citie or house deuided agaynst it selfe shall not stande. And yf Satan caste out Satan, then is hee deuided against hymselfe. Howe shall his kingdom endure? Also if I by the help of Belzebub caste out deuels, by whose helpe do your children caste them out? Therefore they shalbe your iudges. But yf I cast out the deuels by the spirite of God: then is the kyngdome of God come vnto you. Or els * howe can one enter in to a strong mans house, & spoyle hys iewels, excepte he first bynde the strong man, and then spoyle his house? * He that is not with me, is against me. And he that gathereth not with me, scattereth abrode. Wherfore I saye vnto you, al maner of sinne & blasphemy shalbe forgiuen vnto men * but the blasphemy against the spirite, shal not be forgiuen vnto mē. * And whosoeuer speaketh a worde against the sonne of man, it shalbe forgiuen him. But whosoeuer speaketh against the holy ghost, it shal not be forgiuen him, neyther in this worlde, nether in the worlde to come. ‡ Either make the tree good & hys fruit good, or els make the tre euel and his fruit euel. * For the tree is knowne by his fruit. O generacion of vipers, how can ye speake good thynges when ye your selues are euel? * For out of the aboundaunce of ỹ heart, the mouth speaketh. A good man out of the good tresure of the heart, bryngeth forth good thinges. And an euel mā, out of the euell tresure, bryngeth forthe euel thynges. But I saye vnto you: of euery vdle worde that men shall haue spoken, they shall geue accountes in the day of iudgement. * For out of thy wordes thou shalt bee iustified, and out of thy wordes thou shalt be condemned. ‡

But he aunswered and sayde to them, * The euell & aduouterous generatiō asketh a sygne and there shal no sygne be geuen to them, but the signe of the prophet Jonas, * For as Jonas was thre dayes & thre nightes in the whales belly, so shall the sonne of manne bee thre dayes and thre nightes in the hearte of the earth. The menne of Ninue shal rise in the iudgemente with this nacion, and condempne it, because they amended at the preachyng of Jonas. * Beholde here is one greater then Jonas. The quene of the southe shall ryse in the iudgement with this generacion, and shal condemne it: for she came from the vttermoste partes of the worlde to heare the wysedome of Salomon. Therfore speake I to them by similitudes: for they seyng, see not: and hearyng, they heare not: neyther do they vnderstande. And in them is fulfilled the prophecie of Esaias, which sayeth * with the eares ye shall heare, and shal not vnderstand, & seyng ye shal see and shal not perceaue. For these peoples hartes is waxed grosse, and their eares are dull of hearing, and theyr eies haue they closed lest at any time they should see with their eyes, and heare with their eares, & shoulde vnderstand with their hearte, and be conuerted, that I also myght heale them.

When one heareth the woorde of the kyngdome, and vnderstandeth it not, then commeth the euill manne, and taketh awaye that whiche was sowne in his hearte: this is he which was sowne by the waye syde. But he that receyued the seede whiche was caste into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anone with ioye receyueth it, yet hath he no rote in hymselfe but dureth for a season: for when tribulation or persecucion happeneth because of the woorde, by and by he falleth. He also that receiued sede into the thornes, is he that heareth the woorde: and the care of this world, and the deceytfulnes of riches, choke vp the woorde, and so is he made vnfrutefull. But he that receyued seede into the good ground, is he that heareth the word & vnderstandeth it: which also beareth frute, and bringeth forth, some an hundred fold, some sixty folde: some thirty fold.

vnto hym: wylt thou then that we goe and weede them vp? But he sayed, naye: lest whyle ye gather vp ꝑ tares, ye plucke vp also the wheate with them, let bothe growe together vntyll the harueste: and in tyme of harueste, I will saye to the repers: gather ye first the tares, and bynde them together in sheues to be brente: but gather ꝑ wheate into my barne. ✠ Another parable put he forth vnto them, saying: ✠ The kingdom of heauē is like vnto a grain of mustarde sede, which a man tooke & sowed in his fielde, whiche is the leste of all seedes. But when it is growne it is ꝑ greatest emong herbes, & is a tree: so that the byrdes of the ayre come, and make theyr nestes in ꝑ braunches therof.

Another similytude spake he vnto thē: * The kingdom of heauē is like vnto leuen whiche a woman taketh & hydeth in three peckes of meale, tyll all be leuened.

* All these thinges spake Jesus vnto the people by similitudes, and without a parable spake he nothyng vnto thē: that it myght be fulfilled, whiche was spoken by the prophete, that sayth: * I will open my mouthe in parables: I wyll speake forth thynges whiche haue been kept secrete from the beginning of the worlde. ✠

When the people were sent away, then came Jesus into the house. * ✠ And his disciples came vnto him, saying: declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the fielde. He answered & sayed vnto thē: He that soweth the good sede, is the sonne of man. The felde is the worlde. And ꝑ children of the kyngdome, they are the good sede: the tares are the children of ꝑ wicked: the enemy that soweth them, is the deuill: The harueste is the end of ꝑ worlde: the reapers be the Angels. Euen as the tares therefore are gathered and brente in the fyre: so shall it be in ꝑ ende of thys worlde. * The sonne of manne shall sende forth his Angels, and they shall gather out of his kyngdome all thynges that offende, and them whiche doe iniquitie, & shall cast thē into a furnes of fyre. There shalbe waylyng and gnashyng of teethe. * Then shall ꝑ righteous shine as ꝑ sōne in the kyngdome of their father: whosoeuer hath eares to heare, let hym heare. ✠

Agayn, the kingdom of heauen is like vnto a marchaunt man, seekyng goodlye pearles, whiche (when he founde one precious pearle) wente and solde all that he had, and bought it.

Again the kingdom of heauē is like vnto a net, that was cast into ꝑ sea & gathered of all kynde (of fishes) whiche when it was ful, men drewe to land, & sat downe and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away. So shal it be at thend of the worlde. The Angels shal come and seuer the bad from emong the good, and shal cast thē into a furnace of fyre * there shalbe waylyng and gnashyng of teeth.

Jesus sayth vnto them: haue ye vnderstand all these thynges? They sayd vnto hym: yea Lord. Then sayd he vnto them: Therfore euery scribe whiche is taught vnto the kingdom of heauē, is like vnto a man that is an housholder, which bringeth forthe out of his treasure, thynges newe and olde. ✠

And it came to passe, ꝑ when Jesus had finished these similitudes, * he departed thence. And when he came into his owne countrey, he taught thē in theyr synagoges, insomuche, ꝑ * they were astonnied & sayed: whence cōmeth this wisdome and powers vnto hi, * is not this ꝑ carpēters sōne? Is not his mother called Mary? & his brethren, James & Joses, & Symon and Judas? And are not all his systers with vs? Whence hath he then all these thinges? And they were offended at him. Jesus sayd vnto thē: * A prophete is not wout honour, saue in his owne coūtrey & in his owne house. And he did not many miracles there, because of their vnbeleefe.

¶ The. xiiii. Chapter.

John is taken & beaded. Christe feedeth fyue thousande men with. v. loues, and two fyshes, and appeareth by nyght vnto his disciples vpon the sea.

AT that time * Herode ꝑ Tetrarcha heard of the fame of Jesu, & sayde vnto his seruaūtes: this is John the Baptist. He is risen frō the dead, and therefore are miracles wrought by hym. For Herode * had taken John, & bounde hym, & put hym in prison because of Herodias, his brother Philippes wyfe. For John sayd vnto hym: * it is not lawfull for the to haue her. And when he woulde haue put him to death, he feared ꝑ people * because they coūted him as a prophete.

But when Herodes * byrth daye was kept, the doughter of Herodias daunsed before them, & pleased Herode. * Wherfore he promysed with an othe, that he woulde geue her whatsoeuer she would

aske,

aske. And she beyng instructe of her mother before, said: geue me here Johan baptistes head in a platter. And ỳ kyng was sory. Neuertheiesse, for the othes sake, & them whiche sate also at the table, he cõmaunded it to be geuē her: & sent tormenters, & beheaded Johan in the pryson, and his head was brought in a platter, & geuen to the damsel, & she brought it to her mother. And his disciples came & toke vp his body, and buried it: and wente and tolde Jesus.

B When Jesus heard of it, he * departed thence in a ship vnto a desert place, out of the way. And when the people had heard therof, they folowed him on fote and left the cities. And Jesus went forth, & sawe muche people, & was moued with mercy towarde them, & he healed of them those that were sicke. And when the euen drew on, his disciples came to hym, saying: this is a desert place, & the houre is nowe past, let the people depart, that they may go into the townes, & bye them vitayles. But Jesus sayd vnto them: They haue no nede to goe awaye. Geue ye them to eate. They saye vnto hym: we haue here but fyue loues and two fyshes. He sayed: bryng them hyther to me. And he commaunded the people to syt downe on the grasse, & he tooke the fyue loaues and the two fishes, and lift vp his eyes towarde heauen and blessed: And when he had C broken them, he gaue the loaues to his disciples, and his disciples gaue them to the people. And they dyd all eate, & were fulfilled. And they gathered vp (of ỳ fragmentes that remained) twelue basshettes full, and they that dyd eate were about. v M. men, beside wemen and children.

* And straight way Jesus made his disciples to gette vp into a ship, & to go before hym vnto the other syde, whyle he sent the people awaye. And when ỳ people were sent awaye, he * wente vp into a mountaine to pray alone. And whē night was come, he was there hymselfe alone. But the ship was nowe in the myddes of the sea, & was tosted with waues, for it was a contrary winde. And in the forth watch of the night, Jesus went vnto them walkyng on the sea. And when the disciples sawe hym walkyng on the sea, they were troubled, saying: it is some spirite, and they cryed out for feare. But streight way Jesus spake vnto them, saying: be of good cheare, it is I, be not afrayed.

Peter answered him, and sayd: Lorde yf it be thou, byd me come vnto the on ỳ water. And he sayd: come. And when Peter was come downe out of the shippe, D he walked on the water, to goe to Jesus. But when he sawe a mightie wynde, he was afrayed. And when he beganne to syncke, he cryed, saying: Lorde saue me: And immediatly Jesus stretched forthe his hand & caught him, & sayd vnto him. O thou of lytle fayth, wherefore dyddest thou dout? * And whē they were come in to the ship, the wind ceased. Then they ỳ were in the ship came & worshipped him, saying: of trueth thou arte the sonne of God. And whē they were gone ouer, they came into the land of Genesareth. And when the men of the place had knowlage of hym, they sente out messaungers into al that countrey rounde about the coast, and brought vnto him al that were sick, and besought hym, that they myght touche the hēme of his vesture only. And as many as touched it, were made sake.

The. xv. Chapter.

Christe reuileth his disciples, and rebuketh the Scribes and Pharises for transgressyng Gods commaundement, throwe their owne traditions. The thyng that goeth into the mouth defyleth not the man. He delyuereth the woman of Canaanes daughter, healeth the multytude, and with. vii. loaues and a fewe lytle fyshes, fedeth. iiii. M. men, beside wemen and chyldren.

THen * came to Jesus scribes & Pharises (which were come frō Jerusalem) saying: why do thy dysciples transgresse the tradicion of the elders? for they wash not their handes when they eate bread. But he answered and said vnto them: why do ye also transgresse the cōmaundement of God because of your owne tradicions? For god commaundeth, saying: * honoure father and mother, and he that curseth father and mother: let hym dye the death. But ye say: euery one shall saye to his father & mother * what gift soeuer shoulde haue come of me, the same is turned vnto thy profite: and so shall he not honoure his father or his mother. And thus haue ye made the commaundemente of God of none effect, because of youre owne traditions. Ypocrites, full well dyd Esaye prophecie of you, saying: * This people draweth nye vnto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lyppes, howbeit, their heartes are farre from me: but in vaine doe they serue me teachyng the doctrines and preceptes of menne.

And he called the people vnto him, and B sayed

sayde vnto them: heare and vnderstand. That which goeth into the mouth, defyleth not the manne: but that which cometh out of the mouth, defileth the man.

Then came his disciples, & sayed vnto him: knowest thou not, that the Phariſes were offended at this saying? But he answered & sayed. Euery plante which he my heauenly father hath not planted, shalbe pluckt vp by the rootes. Let them alone, they bee the blynde leaders of the blynde. If the blynde leade the blynde, both shall fall into the dytche.

Then answered Peter and sayed vnto him: declare vnto vs this parable. Jesus sayde, are ye also yet without vnderstandyng? Do ye not yet vnderstande, that whatsoeuer entreth in at the mouth, goeth into the bellye, and is caste oute into the draught? But those thynges whiche procede out of the mouthe, come forthe from the herte, and they defyle the man. For out of the herte procedeth euyll thoughtes, murders, breakyng of wedlocke, whoredomes, theftes, false witnes, blasphemies. These are ỹ thinges, which defyle a manne. But to take meate with vnwashen handes, defileth not a man.

C And Jesus went thence, and departed into the coastes of Tyre and Sydō, and behold, a woman of Canaan (which came out of the same coastes) cryed vnto hym, saying: haue mercye on me O Lord, thou sonne of Dauid: My daughter is piteously vexed with a deuill. But he answered her nothyng at all, and his disciples came, and besought hym, saying: sende her awaye, for she cryeth after vs: But he answered and sayde: I am not sente * but vnto the loste shepe of the house of Israel. Then came she and worshypped hym, saying: Lorde helpe me. He aunswered and sayde: it is not mete to take the childrens breade, and caste it to dogges. She aunswered and sayed: truth Lord, for the dogges eate of the crummes, which fall from their masters table. Then Jesus aunswered and sayde vnto her. O woman, greate is thy fayth, be it vnto thee, euen as thou wylt. And her daughter was made hole euen at the same tyme.

And Jesus wente awaye from thence and came nye vnto the sea of Galile, and wente vp into a mountaine, & sat downe therr. And muche people came vnto him, D bryngyng wyth them those that were lame, blynde, deafe, maymed, and other many: and cast thē downe at Jesus feete. * And he healed them: insomuche that the people wondered, when they sawe the dūme speake, the maimed to be hole, the lame to walke, and the blynde to see. And they glorifyed the God of Israel. Esai. xxxv. b

* Then Jesus called his disciples vnto hym, and sayed: I haue compassion on the people, because they continue with me nowe. iii. dayes, and haue nothyng to eate: and I will not let them departe fastyng, least they myscarye by the waye. And his disciples saye vnto him: whence should we get so muche bread in the wildernesse, as to suffyce so greate a multitude? And Jesus sayth vnto them, howe many loaues haue ye? And they say * seuen, and a fewe lytle fyshes. And he commaunded the people to sit downe on the grounde: & he toke the seuen loaues, and the fishes, & after that he had geuen thākes, he brake them, and gaue to his disciples: & the disciples gaue them to the people. And they did al eate, & were suffysed. And they toke vp of the (broke meate that was lefte,) seuen baskettes full. And yet they that dyd eate were. iiii. M. men, beside wemen and children. And he sente awaye the people, and tooke shippe and came into the parties of Magdala. mar. viii. a mach. xv. b

THe * Phariſes also with the Saduces, came and tempted hym, and desyred hym that he woulde shewe them a signe frō heauen. He answered and sayd vnto thē: whan it begynneth to drawe towarde *euen, ye say: it wylbe fayre wether, for the skye is red. And in the morning: It wyll be foule wether to daye, for the skye is glowming red. The.xvii. Chapter.

The transfiguracion of Christ. He healeth the lunatyke, and ꝑ fyfth tribute.

AND *after sixe dayes, Jesus taketh Peter, James and John his brother, & bringeth them vp into an hye mountayn out of the way, & was transfigured before thē.
*and his face did shyne as the sūne, and his clothes wer as whyte as the light.
And behold, there appeared vnto them
Moses and Helias talkyng with hym.
Then answered Peter, & sayed vnto Jesus: Lord here is good beyng for vs. If thou wilt, lette vs make here thre tabernacles: one for the, & one for Moses, and one for Helias. Whyle he yet spake, behold, a bryght cloude shadowed them.
And behold, there came a voyce out of the cloud whiche sayed: * This is my beloued sonne, & in whom I delyte, hear
*hym: And when hys Disciples heard
these thynges, they fell on they faces, and were sore afrayde. And Jesus came,
and touched them, and sayd: aryse and be not afrayde. And when they had lyfte vp their eyes, they saw no man saue Jesus only. And whē they came downe frō
ꝑ mountaine, Jesus charged thē, saying:
shew ꝑ vision to no man, vntyll the sonne
of manne be risen agayn from the dead.
✣ And his disciples asked hym, saying:
why thē say the scribes, that Helias must first come? Jesus answered, & sayd vnto them: * Helias truely shal first come, and restore all thynges. But I say vnto you ꝑ Helias is come alredy, and they knew hym not: but haue doone vnto hym what soeuer they lusted. In lyke wyse shal also the sonne of manne suffre of them. Then the disciples vnderstode, ꝑ he spake vnto theym of John Baptist. And when they were come to ꝑ people, there came to hym
a certaine manne kneling downe to him,

and

and saying: Master, haue merrye on my sonne, for he is lunatiche and sore vexed: for oft tymes he falleth into the fyre and oft into the water. And I brought hym to thy disciples, and they coulde not heale him. Jesus answered and saide: O faithles and croked nacion: how long shall I be with you? how longe shall I suffre you? bringe hym hither. And Jesus rebuked the deuill, and he departed oute of hym. And the childe was healed euen that same tyme. ✠ Then came the disciples to Jesus secretelye, and sayed: Why coulde not we caste him out? Jesus sayde vnto them: Because of your vnbeleife. For verelye I saye vnto you: * if ye haue faith as a grain of mustarde seede, ye shall saye vnto thys mountayne, remoue hence to yonder place, and it shall remoue, neyther shall anye thing be vnpossible vnto you. Howbeit this kynde goeth not out, but by prayer and fastyng. Whyle they were occupied in Galile, Jesus sayde vnto them: ‡ it will come to passe, that the sonne of man shall be betrayed into the handes of menne, and they shal kill him, and the thyrde daye shall he rise again. And they were exceading sory. ✠ And when they were come to the citie of Capernaum, they that vse to receyue tribute money, came to Peter, and saide. Doeth youre master paye tribute? He sayeth: yea. And whē he was come into the house, Jesus preuented him, saying: What thinkest thou Simō? of whom do the kinges of the yearth take tribute or toll, of their childrē, or of straūgers? Peter sayeth vnto hym: of straungers. Jesus saieth vnto hym: Then are the children free. Notwythstandyng, lest we should offende them, go thou to the sea, and caste an angle, and take the fishe that first commeth vp, and when thou haste opened hys mouth, thou shalt fynde a piece of twenty pence: that take, and geue it vnto them for me ✠ thee. ✠

The .xviii. Chapter.

He teacheth hys disciples to be humble and harmles: to auoyde occasions of euill and one to forgeue anothers offence.

AT the same tyme cam the disciples vnto Jesus, saying: who is the greatest in ✠ kingdome of heuen? Jesus called a childe vnto hym, and set hym in the middest of them, and sayed: Verely I say vnto you: except ye turne, and become * as children ye shall not enter into the kyngdome of heauen. Whosoeuer therefore humbleth hymselfe, as thys childe, the same is the greatest in the kyngdome of heuē. And whoso receiueth suche a childe in my name, receiueth me. * But whoso dooeth offende one of these litleons which beleue in me: it were better for him, that a mylstone were hanged aboute hys necke, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea. Wo vnto the worlde because of offences. * Necessary it is that offences come: But wo vnto the manne, by whom the offence commeth.

‡ Wherfore if thy hāde or thy foote hynder thee, cut hym of, ✠ cast it from thee. It is better for thee to enter into life halte or maimed, rather thē thou shouldest (hauyng two hādes or two fete) be caste into euerlastyng fire. And if thyne eye offende thee, plucke it out, ✠ cast it from thee. It is better for thee to entre into life with one eie, rather then (hauyng twoo eies) to bee cast into hel fire. Take hede ✠ ye despyse not one of these litleons. For I saye vnto you, ✠ in heuē theyr angels dooe alwaies beholde ✠ face of my father, whyche is in heauen. ✠

For ✠ sonne of mānes is come to saue ✠ whiche was lost. How thynke ye? * If a manne haue an .c. shepe, ✠ one of them be gone astray, doth he not leaue nintie and nine in the mountaines, ✠ goeth ✠ seketh that was gon astraie? And if it happē ✠ he fynde it, verely I saye vnto you: he reioyseth more of ✠ shepe then of the ninty ✠ ix which went not astraye. Euen so it is not the will of your father in heauen, that one of these litleones should perysshe.

✠ Moreouer if thy brother trespasse a gaynst the, go ✠ tel him his faut betwene hym ✠ the alone. yf he heare the, thou hast won thy brother: But if he heare the not, then take yet wt the one or two, that * in the mouth of two or thre witnesses, euery matter may be stablished. yf he heare not thē, tell it vnto the congregaciō: yf he heare not ✠ cōgregaciō, let him be to thee as an heathē man and as a publican. Verely I saye vnto you * whatsoeuer ye bind on yearth, shalbe bounde in heauen. And whatsoeuer ye leuse on yearth, shalbe leused in heauen. Againe I saie vnto you, ✠ yf ii. of you agree on yearth vpon anye maner of thing, whatsoeuer they desire they shal haue it of my father whiche is in heauen. For where .ii. or .iii. are gathered together in my name, ther am I in ✠ middest of thē. Then came Peter to him, and said: Lord, how oft shal I forgeue my brother, yf he sinne against me, till seuen times? Jesus sayeth vnto hym: I say not vnto the vntil vii. times: but seuēty times seuen times.

Therefore is the kingdome of heauen likened vnto a certayn manne that was a kyng, which would take accoūtes of hys seruaūntes. And whē he had begon to reken, one was brought vnto hym, whiche ought him.x. thousand talentes, but forasmuche as he was not able to paye, hys lorde cōmaunded hym to be sold, and hys wyfe & chyldren and all that he had, and payment to be made. The seruaunte fell downe and besought him saying: sir, haue pacience with me, and I will pay the al. Thē had the Lorde pitie on that seruaunt, and loused hym, and forgaue him the debte.

So the same seruaunte went out & found one of his felowes, which ought hym an hundred pence: & he layed handes on hym and tooke him by the throte, saying: paye that thou owest. And his felow fell downe, & besought him, saying: haue pacience with me, and I will paye the al. And he would not, but went, and cast hym into prison, till he should paye the debt. So when his felowes sawe what was done, they were very sory, & came & tolde vnto theyr lorde all that had happened. Then hys Lorde called him, and said vnto him: O thou vngracious seruaunt, I forgaue the all that debte, when thou desiredst me: shouldest not thou also haue had compassion on thy felow, euē as I had pitie on the? And his lorde was wroth, & deliuered hym to the iaylers, tyll he shoulde paye all that was due vnto hym. So * lykewyse shall my heauenlye father doe also vnto you, yf ye from your heartes, forgeue not (euery one his brother) their trespasses.

Mat. 6.b. Mar. 11.d Jacob. 2.c.

The. xix. Chapter.

Christ geueth answere concernyng mariage, & teacheth not to be carefull, nor to loue worldlye riches.

AND it came to passe, when Jesus had finished these sayinges, he gat hym from Galile, and came into the coastes of Jewrye beyonde Jordane, and muche people followed him, & he healed thē there.

Mat. 19.a

The Pharises also came vnto him tempting hym, and saying vnto hym: Is it lawfull for a man to make deuorcement with his wyfe for anye maner of cause? He answered & sayde vnto them: Haue ye not read, how that he which made man at the beginning * made them man and woman, and sayde, For this cause shall a man leaue father and mother, and shal cleue vnto his wyfe, and they twayne shalbe one flesshe. Wherfore now, they are not twaine, but one flesshe: Let not mā therfore put asūder that which God hath coupled together. They say vnto him: why did Moses then cōmaūd to geue a testimonial of deuorsemente, & to put her awaie? He sayd vnto them: Moses (because of the hardnes of your hertes) * suffred you to put awaye your wiues: But from the begynnyng it was not so. & I say vnto you: whosoeuer putteth awaie his wife (except it be for fornication) & maryeth another, breaketh wedlocke. And whoso marieth her which is deuorsed, doth commyt aduoutry.

Gen. 1.d. Gen. 2.b. Mat. 5.c. Luc. 16.d

His disciples saye vnto him: if the matter be so betwene man & wife, then is it not good to mary. He said vnto them: all menne cannot comprehend this sayinge, * saue they to whō it is geuē: for ther are some chaste whiche are so borne oute of their mothers wōbe. And there are some chast, whiche be made chast of men. And there be chaste which haue made them selues chast for the kyngdō of heauēs sake. He þ can comprehende it, let hym comprehende it. * Then were there brought vnto hym yonge childrē, þ he shoulde put hys handes on thē, & praye. And the disciples rebuked them. But Jesus said vnto thē: Suffre the children and forbid them not to come vnto me: for of suche is the kyngdō of heauen. And when he had put his handes on them, he departed thence.

Mat. 19.c Mar. 10.c Luc. 18.c

And beholde, one came, & said vnto hym: * good master, what good thyng shall I do þ I may haue eternall life? He sayd vnto hym: why callest þ me good? there is none good but one, & that is God. But if thou wilte entre into life, kepe the commaūdemētes. He saieth vnto hym: whiche Jesus sayde: * Thou shalt not commytte manslaughter. Thou shalt not cōmyt aduoutry: Thou shalt not steal: Thou shalt not beare false witnes: Honour father & mother: * & thou shalte loue thyne neighbour as thy selfe. The yonge man sayth vnto hym: All these thynges haue I kepte from my youth vp: what lacke I yet? Jesus said vnto him: if thou wilt be perfecte, * go and sell (all) that thou hast & geue to the poore, & thou shalt haue treasure in heauen: & come & folow me. But whē the yong man heard þ saying, he went awaie sorie. For he had great possessions.

Exo. 20.d. Deu. 5.d. Mat. 22.c. Mar. 12.c. Luc. 10.c. Rom. 13.c. Gala. 5.c.

Thē Jesus said vnto his disciples: Verily,

verely, I say vnto you: *it shalbe hard for the rich to entre into ꝑ kingdō of heauē:
And againe I say vnto you: it is easier for a camel to go throughꝑ eye of a nedle, then for ꝑ riche to entre into ꝑ kingdō of god. Whē the disciples herd this, they were exceadingly amased saying: who thē cā be saued? But Jesus behold thē, & said vnto thē: wt mē this is vnpossible * but wt god al thiges are possible.

+ Then answered Peter, & saide vnto him: Behold * we haue forsaken al, & followed the, what shal we haue therfore? Jesus said vnto thē: verely, I say vnto you, that whē the sōne of mā shal sit in ꝑ seate of his maiestie, ye ꝑ haue followed me in the regeneracion * shall sit also vpon twelue seates, & iudge the twelue tribes of Israell. * And euery one ꝑ forsaketh house, or brethrē, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or childrē, or landes, for my names sake * shal receiue an hundred fold, & shall inherite euerlasting life. + * But many that are fyrste, shalbe last, and the last shalbe first.

¶ The. xx. Chapter.

Christe teacheth by a symilitude that God is debter vnto no man. He teacheth hys disciples to be lowlie, & geueth two blynd men their syghte.

For the kingdō of heauē is like vnto a mā that is an housholder, whiche wēt out early in ꝑ morning to hire labourers into his vineyard. And whē ꝑ agremēt was made wt the labourers for a penye a day, he sent thē into his vineyard. And he wēt out about the third houre, & sawe other stōding ydle in the market place, & sayd vnto them: go ye also into the vineyard, & whatsoeuer is right, I wil geue you. And they went their way. Again he wēt out about the sixth & ninth houre, & did likewise. And about the eleuenth houre he wēt out, & foūd other standing ydle, and sayd vnto them: Why stande ye here al the day ydle? They say vnto him: because no mā hath hired vs. He saith vnto them: goe ye also into the vineyarde: & whatsoeuer is right, ꝑ shal ye receiue.

So, when euē was come, the lord of the vineyarde sayeth vnto his steward: call the labourers, and geue them their hyer, beginning at the last vntil ꝑ firste. And whē they did come, that cam about the eleuenth houre, they receiued euery man a peny. But whan the first came also, they supposed that they should haue receiued more, and they lykewise receiued euery man a penye. And when they had receiued it, they murmured against the good man of the house, saying: these last haue wrought but one houre, and ꝑ hast made them equall vnto vs, whiche haue borne the burthē & heat of the day.

But he answered vnto one of them and said: frend, I do thee no wrong, diddest thou not agree with me for a penye? Take that thyne is, and goe thy way: I will geue vnto thys laste, euen as vnto the. Is it not lawful for me to do as me listeth wt myne owne goodes? Is thine eye euil, because I am good? * So ꝑ last shalbe first, and the first shalbe last. For many bee called, but fewe be chosen. + Mat. xix. d Marke. x. e Luke. xvi. f

+ And Jesus going vp to Jerusalem, tooke the twelue disciples aside in the way, and said vnto them: * Behold, we go vp to Jerusalē, and the sonne of mā shalbe betraied vnto the chiefe priestes, and vnto the scribes, and they shal condemne hym to deathe, and shall deliuer hym to the Gentiles, to be mocked and to be scourged, and to be crucifyed: and the. iii. day he shall ryse agayne. + Mar. xi. c Mar. x. c Luk. xviii. c Marke. x. f

+ * Then came to him the mother of Zebedes childrē, with her sonnes, worshipping him, & desyring a certain thing of hym. And he sayeth vnto her: what wilt thou? She sayd vnto him: Graunt that these my two sonnes may syt, the one on thy right hande, and the other on thy left, in thy kingdome.

But Jesus answered & sayde: ye wot not what ye aske. Are ye able to drinke of the cup that I shall drinke of, and to be baptised with the baptysme, that I am baptised with? They said vnto him, we are. He sayd vnto thē: ye shal drinke in deede of my cup, and be baptised with the baptisme that I am baptised with: But to sit on my ryghte hand and on my lifte, is not myne to geue: but it shall chaunce vnto them, that it is * prepared for of my father. + D Mat. xxv. a Mar. x. f

And when the tenne heard thys, they disdained at the. ii. brethren: But Jesus called thē vnto him, and sayd: * ye know that the princes of the nations haue dominion ouer them. And they ꝑ are great men, exercise authoritie vpon them. It shall not be so among you. But whosoeuer will be great among you, let hym be your minister, & whoso will be chiefe Luk. xxii. g

And Jesus stode stil & called thē, & said:

& touched their eyes, & imediatly their

Mat.xxiii.a ✠ And when he was come to Jerusalē, al the citie was moued, saying: who is this? And ỹ people said: This is Jesus *the prophete of Nazareth (a citie)

ple of God, and caste out all them that sold and bought in the tēple, and ouer-threw the tables of ỹ money chaūgers,

said vnto thē: It is writtē: *my house

ye haue made it *a denne of theues. And the blynde and the halte came to hym in the temple, and he healed them.

When the chiefe Priestes and Scribes sawe the woonders that he dyd, and the childzen crying in the temple (and saying: Hosanna to the sonne of Dauid) they disdayned, and sayde vnto him: heareste

vnto them: why not? haue ye neuer red. *
Oute of the mouth of babes and suckelynges thou haste ordayned prayse. And he lefte them, and wente out of the citie *
vnto Bethanie, and had hys abydyng
there. ✠

*In the morning as he returned into the citie againe, he hungred: and when he had spyed a fygtree in the waye, he came to it, and founde nothyng thereon
but leaues onely, and sayde vnto it. Neuer fruit grow on thee hēceforwardes.
And anone the fygtree withered awaye.
And when his disciples sawe it, they mer-ueiled, saying. Howe soone is the figgetree withered awaye? Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: Uerely I saye vn-
to you *if ye haue fayth and doubte not,
ye shall not onely do this that is happened vnto the fygtree: but also, if ye shall saye vnto thys mountayne, remoue and caste thy selfe into the sea, it shalbe done *
And all thynges whatsoeuer ye aske in prayer (if ye beleue) ye shall receiue them. *

✠ And when he was come into the temple, the chiefe priestes and the elders of the people came vnto him (as he was teachyng) and saide: By what authori-tie doeste thou these thynges? And who gaue the this power? Jesus answered and sayd vnto theym: I also will aske of you a certayne thyng, whiche yf ye tel me
I in lykewyse wyll tell you by what au-thoritie I doo these thynges. The bap-tisme of John: whence was it? from

mong themselfes, saying: yf we saye frō heuē, he wil say vnto vs: why did ye not then beleue hym? But yf we shall saye of mē, then feare we ỹ people. * For al men hold John as a prophet. And they answered vnto Jesus & said: we cānot tel. And he sayed vnto them: neither tel I you, by

what

what authoritie I dooe these thynges. ✠ What say ye to this? ✠ A man had two sõnes, and came to the first, & saied: Sonne go & worke to day in my vineyard. He answered & saide, I wil not: but afterwarde, he repẽted, & went. Then came he to ꝑ second & sayed likewise. And he answered, & sayed: I wil sir, & went not. Whether of thẽ twaine did the wil of the father. And they saie vnto him: the first. Jesus saieth vnto thẽ: verelye I saye vnto you, ꝑ publicans & harlotes goe into the kingdome of God before you. For * John came vnto you by the waye of righteousnes, and ye beleued him not: but publicans & harlottes beleued him. And ye (when ye had sene it) were not moued afterwarde with repentaunce, that ye might haue beleued him. ✠

✠ Herken another similitude. * There was a certaine man an housholder, which planted a vineyarde, and hedged it rounde about, and made a vine presse in it, & built a tower, and let it out to husbandemen, & went into a straunge countrie. And when the time of the fruit drewe neare, he sent his seruauntes to the husbandmenne ꝑ they might receiue ꝑ fruites of it. And ꝑ husbandmen caught his seruauntes, & beat one, killed another, and stoned another. Again, he sent other seruauntes, mo then the first: and they did vnto them likewise. But laste of all, he sente vnto them his owne sonne, saying: they wil stande in awe of my sonne. But when the husbandemenne sawe the sonne, they saide emonge themselues: ‡ This is the heire: come, let vs kill hym, & lette vs enioye his inheritaunce. And they caught him, & thrust him out of the vineyard, & slewe him. Whẽ the Lord therfore of the vineyard commeth, what wil he do vnto those husbandmen? They sayde vnto him: For asmuche as they bee euill, he will cruelly destroie them, & will let out his vineyard vnto other husbandmen, whiche shal deliuer him the fruite in due seasons. Jesus sayeth vnto them: dyd ye neuer rede in ꝑ scriptures: ‡ The stone which ꝑ builders refused, the same is become the hed of the corner: this is the lordes dooing, and it is merueilous in your iyes. Therfore I say vnto you, ꝑ kingdõ of God shalbee taken from you, & geuen to a nacion which shal bring forth ꝑ fruites therof. And * whosoeuer falleth on this stone, shalbee broken in peces: but on ‡ whomesoeuer it falleth, it shall al to grynde him. And when the chiefe priestes and pharisees had heard his parables, they perceyued that he spake of them. * And they wente about to laye handes on hym ‡ but they feared the people, because they tooke hym as a prophete. * John. ‡ Mat. ¶ The mariage of the kinges sonne. Tribute to be geuen to the Emperour. Christ confuteth the opinion of the Saduces concerning the resurrectiõ, and answereth the Scribe vnto his question.

THe ✠ kingdome of heauen is like vnto ‡ a man that was a king, whiche made a mariage for his sonne, and sente foorthe his seruauntes, to call them that were bid to the wedding: and they would not come. Again he sent forth other seruauntes saying: Tel them whiche are bidden: Beholde, I haue prepared my dinner: myne oxen and my fatlynges are killed, and all thynges are redy: come vnto the mariage. But they made lighte of it, and wente theyr wayes, one to his farme place, another to his marchaundise, and the remnaunte toke hys seruauntes, and intreated them shamefullye, and slewe them. But when the kynge heard thereof, he was wrothe, and sente forth hys menne of warre, and destroyed those murtherers, and brente vppe theyr citye. Luke. xiii.

Then saide he to his seruauntes: the mariage in deede is prepared. But they which wer bidden, were not worthy. Go ye therfore out into the hye wayes: and as manye as ye finde, bid them to the mariage. And the seruauntes wente out into the hye wayes, and gathered together all, as manye as they coulde fynde, bothe good and bad, and the weddyng was furnished with gestes. Then the kynge came in, to se the gestes, and when he spied there a manne: whiche had not on a * weddyng garment, he sayde vnto hym: frende, how camest thou in hither not hauyng a weddinge garmente? And he was euen speche- les. Then saide the kinge to the ministers take and binde hym hande and foote, and caste him into vtter darkenesse * there shal bee wepinge and gnashynge of teeth. Last of al the woman died also. Therfore in the resurrecció, whose wife shal she bee of the seuen? For they all had her. Jesus answered and saied vnto them: ye doo erre, not knowyng the scriptures, nor ỹ power of God. For in the resurrection, thei neither mary nor are maryed: but are as the angels in heuen. But as touchyng the resurrection of the dedde, haue ye not red ỹ whiche is spoken vnto you of God, whyche sayeth:

come. * When ye therfore shall see ꝑ abomination of desolacion (ꝑ was spoken of, by Daniel the prophet stand in the holye place: whoso readeth it, lette hym understand. Then let them whiche be in Jewry flye into the mountaynes. And lette hym whiche is on the house toppe, not come downe to fet any thing out of hys house. Neyther let hym whiche is in the fielde, returne backe to fetche his clothes.

Woo shalbe in those daies to the̅ that are wyth child, and to them ꝑ geue sucke. But prai ye that your flight be not i the winter, neyther on the Sabboth daye. For then shalbe greate tribulacions * suche as was not sence the begynnynge of the worlde to thys tyme, nor shalbee. yea, and except that those daies should be shortened, there shoulde no fle she bee saued: but for the chosens sake, those dayes shalbe shortened. * Then yf any maane saie vnto you: loe, here is Christe, or there: beleue it not. For there shall aryse false Christes, and false prophetes * and shall shewe greate miracles, and wonders. In so much (that yf it were possible,) the very elect should bee deceaued: beholde, I haue tolde you before. Wherefore, yf they saye vnto you: beholde, he is in the desert, go not ye forth: beholde, he is in the secrete places, beleue it not. For as the lightenyng commeth oute of the easte, and apereth into the weste: so shal the commyng of the sonne of man bee.

* For wheresoeuer a dead karkas is, euen thether wyll the Egles also be gathered together. Immediatly * after the tribulacions of those dayes, shal the Sunne be derkened: and ꝑ mone shall not geue her lyght, and the starres shall fall from heauē, and the powers of heauen shalbe moued. And then shal appere the token of the sonne of man in heauen. And then shall all the kynredes of the yearthe mourne, and they shal see * the sonne of man commyng in the cloudes of heauen, wyth power and great glory: And he shall send hys angels wyth the greate voyce of a trompet, and they shal gather together his chosen from the foure wyndes: euen from the hyeste partes of heauen, vntyll the endes therof.

* Learne a symilytude of the fygge tree: when hys braunche is yet tender, and the leues sprong, ye know that summer is ny. So lyke wyse ye, when ye se al these thynges, bee ye sure that it is nere, euen at the doores. Verely I saye vnto you, thys generacion shall not passe, tyll all these thynges be fulfilled. * Heauen and yearth shall passe, * but my woordes shall not passe. But of that daye and houre knoweth no manne, no not the angels of heauen: but my father onelye. * But as the dayes of Noe were, so shall also the commynge of the sonne of man bee. For as in the dayes (that wente before the floude) they dydde eate and drynke, marye, and were maryed, euen vntyll the daye that Noe entred into the shyppe, and knewe not tyll the floude came and toke them all away: So shall also the comming of the sonne of man be. Then shal twoo be in the fyelde, the one receaued, and the other refused: * twoo women shalbee grynding at the myll, the one receaued and the other refused: (Two in a bed, the one shalbee receyued, and the other refused.) * Watche therefore, for ye knowe not what houre youre lorde wyll come. Of thys yet bee sure, that yf the good man of the house knewe what houre * the thefe woulde come: he would surely watche, and not suffre hys house to bee broken vp. Therefore, be ye also redye, for in suche an houre as ye thynke not: will the sonne of manne come.

Who is a faythfull and wyse seruaunte whome hys Lorde hathe made ruler ouer hys housholde, to geue them meate in season: Blessed is that seruaunt whom hys Lorde (when he commeth) shal fynde so dooynge. Verelye I saye vnto you, that he shall make hym ruler ouer all hys goodes. But and yf that euyll seruaunte saye in hys hearte: my Lorde wyll bee longe a commynge (and so bregynne to smyte hys felowes, yea, and to eate and drynche wyth the droncken) the same seruauntes Lorde shall come in a daye when he looketh not for hym, and in an houre that he is not ware of, and shal hewe hym in peaces, and geue him hys porcion with the Ipocrytes, there shalbee wepyng and gnashyng of teeth.

¶ The .xxv. Chapiter.

The ten virgins. The talentes delyuered to the seruauntes, and of the generall iudgement.

THen shall the kyngedome of heauen be lyke vnto tenne vyrgyns, whiche tooke theyr lampes and went to mete the bridgrome, (and the bryde.) But fyue of them were foolishe, and fyue were wyse. They that were foolishe tooke theyr lampes but tooke none oyle wyth them. But the wyse tooke oyle with them in their vessels, with the lampes also. While the bridgrome taryed, they all slumbred and slepte. And euen at mydnyght, there

B was a crye made: behold, the bridgrome cometh, go out to mete him. Then al those virgyns arose, and prepared theyr lampes. So the foolishe sayde vnto the wyse, geue vs of youre oyle: for our lampes are gone out. But the wyse answered, sayyng: not so, least there bee not ynough for vs and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and by for youre selues. And whyle they went to by, the bridgrome came: and they that were ready, went in wyth hym to the mariage, and the gate was shut vp. Mat.xxv.c. Afterwarde came also the other virgyns saying: * Lorde Lorde, open to vs. But he answered and sayde: Verely I saye vnto you: I knowe you not. ‡ Watche therfore, for ye knowe neyther the daye nor yet the houre wherin ỹ sonne of man shall come. +

++ Likewyse a certayne man readye to take hys iourneye to a straunge countrey, Mat.xxv.d. Mar.xiii.d. called hys seruauntes, and deliuered vnto them hys goodes. And vnto one he gaue v. talentes, to another two, & to another one: to euery man after hys habilitye, and streight wale departed. Then he that had receaued the fyue talentes, wente, and occupyed wyth the same, and wanne other fiue talentes: Lykewyse also, he that receiued two, gayned other two. But he that receyued that one, wente and dygged in the yearth, and hyd his lordes monye. After a longe season, the Lorde of those seruauntes came, and reckened with them. And so he that hadde receyued fyue talentes, came and broughte other fyue talentes, saying: Sir, thou deliueredst vnto me fyue talentes: behold, I haue gained with them fyue talentes mo. Hys Lorde sayde vnto hym: well thou good and faythfull seruaunte, thou haste beene faythfull ouer fewe thynges, I wyll make the ruler ouer manye thynges: enter thou into the ioye of thy Lorde. He also that had receyued two talentes, came and sayde: Syr thou delyueredst vnto me two talentes: beholde I haue wonne twoo other talentes wyth them: hys Lorde sayde vnto hym: well good and faythfull seruaunte, thou haste beene faythfull ouer fewe thynges, I wyl make the ruler ouer many thynges: Enter thou into the ioye of thy Lorde. +

Then he which hadde receiued the one talente came, and sayde: Sir, I knewe the that thou art an harde man repyng where thou haste not sowē, and gathering where thou haste not strawed, and therefore, was I afrayed, and wente and hydde thy talente in the yearthe: loe, there thou haste that thyne is. Hys Lorde answered and sayde vnto hym: thou euyll and slouthfull seruaunte, thou knewest that I repe where I sowed not, and gather where I haue not strawed: thou oughtest therefore to haue delyuered my monye to the exchaungers, and then at my comminge shoulde I haue receyued myne owne with vauntage. Take therefore, the talente from hym, and geue it vnto hym which hathe tenne talentes. * For vnto euerye one that hathe, shalbee geuen, and he shal haue aboundaunce. But he that hath not, from hym shalbee taken awaye euen that which he hath. And cast the vnprofitable seruaunt into vtter darkenes * there shalbe wepyng and gnashyng of teethe. Mat.xxv.d. * Then one of the twelue (whiche was called Judas Iscarioth) wente vnto the chiefe priestes, and saide vnto them: what will ye geue me, and I will deliuer hym vnto you? And thei appointed vnto hym thirtie peces of siluer. And from that time forth, he sought opportunitie to betraye him. * The firste daye of sweete breade, the disciples came to Jesus, saiyng vnto him: wher wilt thou that we prepare for ther, to eate the passeouer? And he said: go into the citie, to suche a manne, and saye vnto him: the master saith, my time is at hand: I will kepe mine Easter by thee, with my disciples. And the disciples dyd as Jesus had apointed them, and thei made ready the passeouer.

Mat. xxvi. a. Luke. xxii. a.

* When the euen was come, he sat downe with the twelue. And as they dyd eate, he saide: Verely I saye vnto you, that one of you shall betraye me. And thei were exceading sorowfull, and beganne euery one of them to saye vnto hym: Lorde is it I? He answered and sayde: he that dyppeth his hande wyth me in the dishe, the same shall betraye me. * The sonne of manne truely goeth, as it is written of hym: but wo vnto that man, by whom the sonne of manne is betrayed. It had been good for that man, if he had not been borne. Then Judas whiche betraied him, answered, and saide: maister, is it I? He saide vnto him: thou hast saied. When thei were eatyng, Jesus toke bread, and when he had geuen thankes, he brake it, and gaue it to the disciples, and saide: ‡ Take, eat, this is my bodie. And he toke the cup, and thanked, and gaue it them, saying: drinke ye all of this: For this is my bloud (which is of the new testamente) that is shed for many, for the remission of sinnes. But I saye vnto you: I will not drinke hencefoorth of this fruite of the vyne tree, vntill that daye, when I shal drinke it new with you in my fathers kingdom. ‡ And when thei had said grace, thei went out vnto mount Oliuete. Then sayeth Jesus vnto them: al ye shalbe offended because of me this nighte. For it is writen: * I will smite the shepeheard, and the shepe of the flocke shalbee scattered abroade. But after I am risen agayne, I will goe before you into Galile. Peter answered, and saide vnto hym: ‡ thoughe all menne be offended because of thee, yet will not I bee offended. Jesus sayde vnto him: Verely, I saie vnto ther, that in this same nighte, before the cocke crowe, thou shalt denie me thrise. Peter saide vnto him: Yea, thoughe I shoulde die with ther, yet will I not denie ther. Likewise also sayed all

all the disciples.
* Thē came Jesus with thē vnto a farme place (which is called Gethsemane) & saide vnto the disciples: Sit ye here while I go and praye yonder. And he tooke with him Peter & the two sonnes of zebede, and began to wexe sorofull and heuy. Then saide Jesus vnto them: * my soule is heuy, euen vnto ꝑ death. Tary ye here, & watch with me. And he went a litle farther, and fel flat on his face, and praied saying: O my father if it be possible, * lette this cuppe passe from me: neuertheles, not as I will, but as thou wilte. And he came vnto the disciples, and found them a slepe, and saieth vnto Peter: what coulde ye not watche with me one houre? watch, and pray, that ye enter not into temptacion. * The spirite is willyng, but the flesche is weake.
* He wente away once againe and praied, saying: O my father, yf this cup maie not passe away from me, excepte I drynke of it, thy will bee fulfilled. And he came, and found them a slepe agayne, for their eyes wer heuy. And he lefte them and wente againe and prayed the thyrde time, sayinge the same wordes. Then commeth he to his disciples, and sayeth vnto them: Slepe on nowe, and take youre reste. Beholde, the houre is at hand, and the sonne of man is betrayed into ꝑ hādes of synners: Rise, let vs be goyng: beholde, he is at hande, that doeth betraye me. * While he yet spake: lo, Judas one of ꝑ numbre of the twelue came, & with hym a greate multitude, with sweardes & staues, sent from the chief prestes and elders of ꝑ people. But he that betrayed hym gaue them a token, saying: whome soeuer I kysse, ꝑ same is he: holde hym fast. And furthwith he cam to Jesus and sayd: hayle Master: & kissed him. And Jesus sayde vnto hym: frende, wherfore art thou come? Then came they, & layed handes on Jesus and toke hym.
And beholde one of thē which were with Jesus, stretched out his hāde & drue his sweard, & stroke a seruaunt of ꝑ hie priest and smote of his eare. Then said Jesus vnto him: put vp thy sweard into his sheth. * For all they that take the swearde shall perishe with the swearde. In that same houre saide Jesus to the multitude: * ye be come out as it were vnto a theefe, with sweardes and staues, for to take me: I sat daily with you, teaching in the temple, and ye toke me not. * But all this is done, that ꝑ scriptures of the prophetes myght bee fulfilled. * Then all the disciples forsoke hym, and fled. And they toke Jesus, and led hym to Caiphas ꝑ hie priest, wher the scribes and the elders wer assembled. But Peter folowed hym a far of, vnto the hie preistes palace: & went in, and sate with ꝑ seruauntes, to see the end.
* The chiefe preistes and the elders, & all the counsell, sought false witnes agaynste Jesus (for to put him to death) but found none: yea whē many false witnesses came, yet found they none. At the last came two false witnesses, and saide: This felow said: * I am able to destroy the tēple of God, & to builde it agayne in thre daies. And the chiefe prest arose and sayde vnto hym: answerest thou nothig? Why do these beare witnes against thee: But Jesus helde his peace. * And the chefe priest answered and sayed vnto hym: I charge thee by the lyuing God, ꝑ thou tel vs, whether thou be Christ the sonne of God. Jesus saith vnto him: thou hast said. Neuertheles I say vnto you: * hereafter shall ye see the sonne of man sittyng on the right hande of power, and comming in the cloudes of the saye.
* Then the hy priest rente his clothes saiyng: he hath spokē blaspheme: what nede we of any mo witnesses? Beholde, nowe ye haue heard his blasphemy: what thinke ye? They answered, and saide: he is worthye to dye: * Then dyd they spytte in hys face, and buffeted him with fistes. And other smote him on the face with the palme of their hādes, saying: tel vs thou Christ who is he that smote thee?
Peter sat without in the palace. And a damsell came to hym, saying: Thou also waste with Jesus of Galile: but he denyed before them all, saying: I wote not what thou saiest. When he was gone out into the porche, another wenche saw him, and said vnto them that were there: This felow was also with Jesus of Nazareth. And again he denied with an oth (saying) I do not know ꝑ man. The .xxvii. Chapter.

¶ Christ is deliuered vnto Pilate. Judas hangeth himselfe. Christ is crucified among theues. He dyeth and is buried, watchmē kepe ỹ graue.

WHen the morning was come, al the chiefe prestes and elders of the people, held *a counsaile against Jesus, to put him to death: & brought him bounde & deliuered him vnto Pontius Pilate the debitie.

Psal. ii. Mat. xv. ac Luke xxiii. a Joh. xviii. c Actes. iii. c.

Then Judas (which had betraied him) seing ỹ he was condemned, repented him selfe & brought againe ỹ thirtie plates of siluer to the chiefe prestes and elders, saying: I haue sinned, betraying the innocent bloud: And they sayd, what is that to vs? See thou to that. And he caste downe the siluer plates in the temple, and departed, *and went and hanged himselfe.

Mat. xxvii. ỹ Actes. i. c.

And the chefe priestes toke the siluer plates, & said: it is not lawful for to put them into the treasure, because it is the price of bloud. And they toke counsell, and bought with them a potters felde to bury straungers in. Wherfore that felde is called (Haceldema, that is) the felde of bloud, vntill thys day. Then was fulfilled, that which was spoken by Jeremie the prophete, saying: *and they tooke thirtye siluer plates, the price of hym that was valued, whom thei bought of the children of Israel, and gaue theym for the potters felde, as the Lorde appointed me. * Jesus stoode before the debitie, and the debitie asked hym, sayinge: art ỹ the kyng of the Jewes? Jesus saith vnto him: Thou saiest. And when he was accused of the chefe priestes and elders, he answered nothynge. Then sayeth Pilate vnto hym, heareste thou not howe many witnesses thei lay against the? * And he answered hym to neuer a worde, insomuche that the debitie meruailed greatly.

Zacha. xi. c. Mark. xv. a Luk. xxiii. a Joh. xviii. Esay. liii. c. Mat. xv. a

¶ At that feast, the debitie was wonte to deliuer vnto the people a prisoner, whom they would desyre. He had then a notable prisoner, called Barrabas. Therfore whē they were gathered together, Pilate saide: *whether wyll ye that I geue leuse vnto you, Barrabas, or Jesus which is called Christe? For he knewe, that for enuye they had deliuered hym.

Mark. xv. a Luk. xxiii. g

When he was sette down to geue iudgemente, hys wyfe sente vnto hym, sayinge: haue thou nothing to do with ỹ iust man. For I haue suffered many thinges this daie in my slepe because of him. * But ỹ chiefe priestes and the elders perswaded the people that they shoulde aske Barrabas, and destroie Jesus. The debitie answered, and said vnto them: whether of the twain will ye that I let leuse vnto you? They sayde: *Barrabas. Pilate said vnto them: what shall I do then wt Jesus, whiche is called Christ? They also sayd vnto hym, let hym be crucified. The debitie saide: what euyll hath he done? But thei cried the more, sayinge: Lette hym bee crucified. When Pilate sawe ỹ he could preuayle nothyng, but that more busines was made, he toke water and washed hys handes before the people, sayinge: I am innocente of the bloude of this iust person, ye shall se. Then answered all the people, and sayed * his bloude be on vs, & on our children. ¶ Then let he Barrabas leuse vnto them, and scourged Jesus, and delyuered hym to be crucified.

Mat. xxvii. a Luke xxiii. a Joh. xviii. a

* Then the souldiours of the debitie toke Jesus in the commen hall, and gathered vnto hym al the cōpany: And they stripped hym, and put on hym a purple robe, and platted a croune of thornes, and put it vpon his head, and a rede in his ryght hande: and bowed the knee before hym, and mocked hym, saying: hayle kynge of the Jewes: & whā thei had spitte vpō him thei toke the rede, & smote hym on the hed. And after that they had mocked him, they tooke the roabe of hym agayne, and put hys owne rayment on hym, and led hym awaye to crucifye hym. And as they came out, *they found a man of Cirene (named Symon) him they compelled to beare his * crosse. * And they came vnto the place whyche is called Golgotha (that is to saye, a place of dead mennes sculles) and gaue hym vineger to drynke, myngled wyth gall. And when he had tasted therof, he would not drynke.

Mat. xxvii. a Luke xxiii. a Joh. xix.

When they had crucified him, they parted hys garmentes, and dyd caste lottes: that it myghte be fulfylled whyche was spoken by the prophete. * They parted my garmentes emonge them: and vpon my vesture dyd they caste lottes. And they sat and watched hym there, and *set vp ouer hys head the cause of hys death written: This is Jesus the kynge of the Jewes. * Then were there .ii. theues crucified wt hym, one on the right hād & another on the lift. * They ỹ passed by, reuiled hym waggynge their heades, & saying: thou that distroyedst the temple of God, and diddest build it in three dayes, saue thy self. If thou be the sonne of God, come down from the crosse. Likewise also the hy priestes, mockyng him with the scribes & elders, sayde: He saued other, himselfe can he not saue. If he be the kinge of Israel, let hym now come downe frō the crosse, & wee wyl beleue him. * He trusted in God, let hi deliuer hi nowe, yf he will haue hym: for he sayde: I am the sonne of God. The theues also, whiche were crucified wt him, cast ye same in his teeth. * From the syxte houre was there darkenes ouer al the lande, vnto the .ix. houre. And about ye .ix. houre, Jesus cryed wt a loude voyce, saying: Eli, Eli, lamasabathani. That is to saye: * my God, my God, why haste thou forsakē me? Some of them that stode there, when they herd that, sayde: This man calleth for Helyas. And straight waye * one of them ran and tooke a sponge, and when he had filled it full of vinegre, he put it on a rede, and gaue hym to drinke. Other sayd, let bee, let vs se whether Helias wyl come and deliuer him. Jesus, when he hadde cried agayne with a loude voyce, yelded vp the ghost.

And beholde, the * vayle of the temple did rent in two partes, from the top to the bottome, and the earthe did quake, & the stones rente, and graues did open: & many ye bodies of Sainctes which slepte arose, and went out of the graues after his resurrection, and came into the holy citie: and appeared vnto many. * When the Centurion and they that were with him watchyng Jesus, sawe the yearthequake, and those thinges whiche happened, they feared greatly, saying: Truely this was the sonne of God.

* And many wemen were there (beholding hym a farre of) which folowed Jesus from Galile, ministring vnto him. Emong whiche was Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James & Joses, and the mother of zebedes children. When the euen was come, * there came a ryche man of Aramathia named Joseph, whiche also was Jesus Disciple. He went to Pilate and begged the bodye of Jesus. Then Pilate commaunded the body to bee deliuered. And whā Joseph had taken the bodye, he wrapped it in a cleane lynnen clothe, and layed it in hys newe toumbe, which he had hewen out, euen in the rocke, and rolled a great stone to the dooze of the sepulchre & departed. And there was * Mary Magdalene and the other Mary sittyng ouer agaynst the sepulchre. Mar. xv.

The nexte day that folowed the daye of preparing, the hie priestes and pharises came together vnto Pilate, saying: Sir, we remember that thys deceauer sayde whyle he was yet alyue. & After three dayes I will ryse agayne. The. xxviii. Chapter.

¶ The resurrection of Christe. The hie priestes geue the souldiers money, to say that Christe was stollen out of his graue. Christ appeareth vnto hys disciples, and sendeth them forth to preache and to baptise.

In the ende of the Sabothes which dawneth the first daye of the Sabothes, came Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary to ye sepulchre. And behold, there was a great earthequake. For the angel of the lord discended from heauē, and came and rolled backe the stone frō the doze, & sat vpon it. His countenaūce was lyke lightning, and hys raymente whyte as snow. this. For with auctoritie commaunded he the foule spirites, and thei obeyed him. And immediatlye his fame spred abroade throughoute all the region bordering on Galile. And forth with, when they were come out of the sinagoge *they entred into the house of Simō and Andrew, with James and Jhon. But Simons mother in lawe laye sicke of a feuer. And anone they tell hym of her. And he came and toke her by the hande, & lifte her vp: and immediatlye the feuer forsoke her, and she ministred vnto them. And at euen when the sunne was down, they brought vnto him all that were diseased, and them that were vexed with deuels. And all the citie was gathered together at the dore, and he healed manye that were sicke of dyuerse diseases, and *caste oute manye deuels, and suffred not the deuels to speake, because they knewe hym.

And in the morning verye earlye, Jesus (when he was risen vppe) departed, and wente oute into a solitarye place and there prayed. And Symon and they that were with hym, folowed after hym. And when they hadde founde hym, they saye vnto hym: all menne seke for thee. And he sayed vnto them: lette vs goe into the next townes, that I maye preache there also, for therfore am I come. And he preached in their sinagoges, in all Galile, and caste the deuels out. * And there came a leper to hym, beseching hym, and kneling down and saying vnto hym: yf thou wilte thou canneste make me cleane. And Jesus had compassion on hym, and put forth his hande, touched hym, & sayeth vnto hym: I will, bee thou cleane. And assone as he hadde spoken, immediatelye the leprosye departed from hym, and he sente hym away forthwith, and sayeth vnto him. * See thou saie nothyng to any man, but get thee hence, shew thy self to the priest, & offre for thy cleensing, those thinges which Moses commaunded, for a witnesse vnto the. But he (assone as he was departed) began to tell many thynges, and to publishe the saying: insomuch that Jesus could no more openly enter into the citie, but was without in desert places: And they came to hym from euerye quarter.

¶ The. ii. Chapter.

¶ He healeth the man of the palsy, called Leui the customer, eateth with open synners, and excuseth his disciples.

AFter a fewe daies also he entred into Capernaū again, & it was noised that he was in the house. And anone manye were gathered together, insomuche that nowe there was no roume to receyue them, no not so much as about the dore. And he preached the worde vnto them. * And they came vnto him, bringing one sicke of the palsy which was borne of foure menne. And when they could not come nie vnto hi for preasse, they vncouered the roofe of the house that he was in. And when they had broken vp the roofe, they dyd (with cordes) lette downe the bedde wherin the sicke of the palsye laye. When Jesus sawe their faithe, he sayed vnto the sicke of the palsye: * sonne thy sinnes bee forgeuen thee.

But there were certayne of the scribes sytting there, and thinking in their heartes: why dothe he speake these blasphemies? * Who can forgeue synnes, but God onely? And immediatlye when Jesus perceyued in his spirite, that they so thoughte within themselues, he sayeth vnto them: why thinke ye such thinges in your hertes? Whether is it easier to saye to the sicke of the palsye, thy synnes bee forgeuen thee: or to saye, aryse, take vp thy bed, and walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of manne hath power in earth to forgeue synnes, he spake vnto the sicke of the palsey: I say vnto thee: * aryse, and take vp thy bed, & get thee hence vnto thine owne house. And immediatly he arose, toke vp the bed, and went forth before them all: in so much that they were all amased, & glorified God, saying: we neuer sawe it on this fashion.

* And he wente agayn vnto the sea, and all the people resorted vnto hym, and he taughte them. And as Jesus passed by, he sawe Leuye the sonne of Alphe, sytting at the receyte of custome, and sayde vnto hym: folowe me. And he arose, and folowed hym. And it came to passe that when Jesus satte at meate in his house, many publicanes and sinners satte also together at meate with Jesus and his disciples. For there were manye, that folowed hym. And when the scribes and pharises sawe hym eate with publicans and sinners, they saide vnto his disciples: how happeneth it, that he eateth and drynketh with publicans & sinners? When Jesus heard it, he said vnto them: They that bee whole, haue no neede of the phisicion, but they that are sicke. * I came not to call the righteous

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

The parable of the sower. Christ stilleth the tempest of the sea, whiche obeyed hym.

AND he begã again, to teache by the sea syde. And ther gathered together vnto hym muche people, so greatly þ he entred into a shippe * and sat in the sea, and al the people was by the sea syde on the shore. And he taught them many thinges by parables, and said vnto them in his doctryne: Herken to, beholde * there went out a sower to sowe. And it fortuned as he sowed, that some fel by the waye syde, & the fowles of the ayre came, and deuoured it vp: Some fell on stony grounde where it had not muche earth, & immediatly sprange vp, because it had not depth of earthe: but as sone as the sunne was vp, it caught heat: and because it had not rotyng, it wyddred away. And some fel amonge thornes, and the thornes grewe vp, and choked it, & it gaue no frute. And some fell vpon good grounde, and did yeld frute that sprong vp, & grewe, & brought forth, some thyrty folde, and some sixtie folde, and some an hundred folde. And he sayde vnto them: he that hathe eares to heare, let hym heare.

And when he was alone, they that wer about hym with the twelue, asked him of the parable. And he saide vnto them: * To you is it geuen to knowe the mystery of þ kingdom of God. But vnto them that are without, al thynges happen by parables: that when they see, they may see, & not discerne: & whē they heare, * they may heare, and not vnderstand: leste at any tyme they should turne, and their synnes shoulde bee forgeuen them. And he sayde vnto them: Knowe ye not this parable, and how then will ye knowe all other parables?

* The sower sowth the woorde. And they (where of some be rehearsed to be by the way side) are those, where the word is sowen: And whē they heare, Satan cõth immediatly, & taketh away the word that was sowen in their hearttes. And likewise the other that receiue sede into the stonye ground, are they, which whē they heare þ word, anone receyue it with gladnes, yet haue no roote in them selues, & so endure but a time: & anone whan trouble & persecucion ariseth for the wordes sake, they fal immediatly. There bee other also, that receaue sede into thornes, & those are suche as heare þ word, & þ cares of this world, and the deceatfulnes of richesse, and the lustes of other thinges, enter in, & choke þ word, & it is made vnfrutful: & other there bee, that haue receyued seede into a good ground, they are suche þ heare the word, & receaue it, so þ one corne doth bryng forth thyrtie, some sixtie, some an hundred.

And he sayde vnto them: * is the candel lyghted, to bee put vnder a bushell, or vnder the tabell? Is it not lighted to bee put on a candelstycke? * For there is nothyng so priuie, that shall not bee opened, neither hathe it ben so secret but that it shall come abrode. Yf any man haue eares to heare let hym heare. And he sayde vnto them: take heede what ye heare. * With what measure ye meete, with the same shall other menne measure vnto you againe. And vnto you that heare, shall more bee geuen. For * vnto hym that hath, shal it be geuen, and from hym that hathe not shal be taken away euen that whiche he hath.

And he sayd: so is the kyngdome of god, euen as * yf a man shoulde sowe seede in the grounde and shoulde slepe, and ryse vp nyght and daye, and the seede shoulde spryng and growe vp, whyle he is not aware. For the earth bryngeth forth frute of her selfe: first the blade, then the eare, after that the full corne in the eare. But whā the frut is brought forth, anone he thrusteth in the sikel, because þ haruest is come.

And he sayde: wherevnto shall we lyken the kyngdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it? * It is

lyke a grayne of musterdseede, whiche when it is sowne in the earth, is lesse then all seedes that bee in the earthe: when it is sowne, it groweth vp, & is greater then all herbes: and beareth great braunches, so that the foules of the ayre maye make their nestes vnder the shadowe of it.

Mat. xiii. c * And with many suche parables spake he the worde vnto them, after as theye myghte heare it. But without a parable spake he nothyng vnto them. But when Mat. xiii. c. they were alone, * he expoũded all thinges to his disciples. And the same daye when euen was come, he sayde vnto them: let vs passe ouer vnto the other syde. And they left the people, and tooke hym euen as he was in ỹ shippe. And ther were also with hym other shyppes.

Mat. viii. a Luke. viii. c * And there arose a greate stormе of wynde, and the waues dashed into the shippe, so that it was nowe full. And he was in the sterne a slepe on a pelow. And they awaked hym, and sayde vnto hym: Master, carest thou not, that we perysche? And he arose vp, and rebuked the winde, and sayde vnto the sea: peace, bee stil. And the windes ceased, and there folowed a greate calme. And he sayde vnto them: why are ye so fearfull? howe happeneth it that ye haue no faythe? And they feared exceedingly, and sayde one to a nother: who is this? for both wind and sea obey him.

The. v. Chapter. *

Christ deliuereth the possessed from the vncleane spirite, the woman from the bloudye yssue: and reysseth the captaynes doughter.

Mat. viii. b Luke. viii. c AND they came * ouer to ỹ other syde of the sea, into ỹ coũtre of the Gadarenites. And when he was comme out of the shyp, immediatly there met hym out of the graues a man possessed of an vncleane spirite, which had hys abydyng amonge the graues. And no mã could binde him, no not with cheynes, because that when he was often bounde with fetters and cheynes, he plucked the cheynes asunder and brake the fetters in peces. Neither coulde any man tame him. And alwaies, night and day he was in the mountaynes and in the graues, cryng & beatyng hym selfe with stones. But whẽ he had spyed Jesus afarre of, he ranne, and worshipped hym, and cryed with a loude mat. viii. d. Acts. xvi. c voice, and sayde * what haue I to do with the, Jesus thou sonne of the moste hyest GOD, I requite thee in the name of God, that thou tormente me not. For he sayde vnto hym: come out of the man thou foule sprite. And he asked hym: what is thy name? And he answered & sayde vnto hym: my name is Legion, for we are many. And he prayed hym instantly that he woulde not sende them awaye oute of the countrye.

But there was there nye vnto the mountaynes * a greate heerde of swine feding, & Mat. viii. c Luke. viii. c al the deuels besought hym, saying: sende vs into the heerd of swyne, that we maye enter into them. And anone Jesus gaue them leaue. And the vncleane spirites went oute, and entred into the swyne. And the heerde was carryed hedlynge into the sea. They wer almost two .M. & were drowned in the sea. And the swyneheerdes fled, and tolde it vnto the citie, and in the feldes. And theye wente out for to see, what had happened: and came to Jesus, and sawe hym that was vexed with the fende and had the Legion, syt, both clothed & in hys right mynde, and they were afrayed. And they that sawe it tolde them, howe it had happened to him that was possessed with the deuell: and also of the swyne. * And Luke. viii. they begaune to praye him, that he would departe out of theyr coaste. *

* And when he was come into the shyp Mar. v. he that had the deuel prayed hym, that he myghte bee with hym. Howbeit, Jesus would not suffer him, but sayde vnto him: go to thine owne house and to thy frendes, and shewe them howe greate thynges the Lord hath doone for the, and how he hath had compassion on the. And he departed, and began to publishe in the .x. cities, how greate thynges Jesus had done for hym, and all menne did maruell.

And when Jesus was come ouer again by shyp vnto the other syde, muche people gathered vnto hym, and he was nye vnto the sea. * And beholde, there came one of Mat. ix. a Luke. viii. a the rulers of the synagoge, whose name was Jairus: and when he sawe hym, he fell downe at hys feete, and besought him greatly, saying: my daughter lieth at point of deathe, I praye the come, and lay thy hand on her, that she may be safe and liue. And he went with hym, and muche people folowed hym, and thronged hym. Mar. v. a Luke. viii. b

* And there was a certayne woman, which had bẽ diseased of an yssue of bloud xii. yeres, and had suffered many thinges of many physicions, and had spente al that she had, and felte none amendement at all, but

but rather was worse and worse. When she had heard of Jesus, she cam in ỹ prese behynd hym, and touched his garmente. For she sayed: yf I maye but touche hys clothes, I shall be whole. And streyght waye the fountayne of her bloude was dryed vp, and she felte in her bodye, that she was healed of that plage. And Jesus immediatly felyng in hymselfe, that vertue proceded from hym, turned hym about in the prese, and sayed, who touched my clothes? And his disciples sayd vnto him: ỹ seest the people thrust the, & askest thou who did touche me? And he looked roũde about for to see her ỹ had done this thing. But the woman fearing and trembling (knowyng what was done within her) came, & fel downe before him, & tolde him all the trueth. And he sayd vnto her: Doughter * thy faythe hath saued the: go in peace, and be whole of the plage.

D ‡ Whyle he yet spake, there came frõ the ruler of the Synagoges house, certayne which sayed: thy doughter is dead: why diseasest thou the master? Assone as Jesus heard the worde that was spoken, he sayd vnto the ruler of the Synagoge: be not afrayed, only beleue. And he suffered no man to folowe hym, saue Peter and James, & John the brother of James. ‡ And he came vnto the house of the ruler of the Synagoge, & sawe the wondryng, and them that wept and wayled greatly, and went in and sayed vnto them: why make ye this a do, and wepe? The damosell is not dead, but slepeth. And they laughed hym to scorne. But he put them al out, and taketh the father and the mother of the damosell, and them that were with him, and entred in where the damosell lay, & taketh the damosell by the hãd, and sayeth vnto her. Tabita cumi, which is (if one doe interprete it) damosell I say vnto thee, aryse: And streight waye the damosell arose, & walked. For she was of the age of twelue yeres. And they were astonied out of measure. And he charged thẽ straightly, that no man should know of it, and commaũded to geue her meate.

¶ The. vii. Chapter.

The disciples eate with vnwaschen handes. The commaundemente of GOD is transgressed by mennes traditions. Of the woman of Syrophenycia. Of the Sauoth.

AND the pharises came togethe vnto him, & diuers of the scribes whiche came from Jerusalem. And when they saw certayne of hys disciples eate breade with commen (that is to saye with vnwaschen) handes, they complayned. For the pharises and all ỳ Jewes except they washe their handes often, eat not: obseruyng the traditions of the elders. And when they come from the market, except they washe, they eate not: And many other thynges there be, whiche they haue taken vpon them to obserue, as the washyng of cuppes and cruses, & brasen vessels, and of tables.

Then asked hym the pharyses and scribes: why walke not thy disciples accordyng to the custome, ordeyned by the elders, but eate breade with vnwaschen handes? He answered and sayd vnto thē: wel prophesied Esaias of you ypocrites, as it is written: * This people honoreth me with their lippes, but their hearte is farre from me: howbeit, in vayne do they serue me, teachyng the doctrines and commaundementes of men. For ye laye the cōmaundement of God apart, & obserue the constitucions of menne. as the washing of cruses and of cuppes, & many other suche lyke thynges ye do.

And he sayde vnto thē: wel, ye cast aside the cōmaundement of God to mayntayne your owne constitucions * For Moses sayed: honour thy father & thy mother: at who so curseth father or mother, let hym dye the deth. But ye saie: a man shal saye to his father or mother, Corban: whiche is, what gift soeuer commeth fro me, shalbe for thy profite. And so ye suffre hym no more to do ought for his father or his mother, and make the worde of God of none effecte, through youre owne constitucion whiche ye haue ordeyned. And many such thynges do ye.

And when he had called all the people vnto him, he said vnto them: hearken vnto me, euery one of you, & vnderstand * There is nothyng without a man that can defyle hym, when it entreth into hym: but the thinges which procede out of a man those are they that defyle the man. If any man haue eares to heare, let hym heare. And when he came into the house away from the people hys disciples asked hym of the similitude. And he sayd vnto them: are ye also so greatly without vnderstandyng? Do ye not yet perceaue, that whatsoeuer thing from without entreth into a man, it cannot defile hym, because it entreth not into his hart, but into the belly: and goeth oute into the draughte, purgyng oute all meates?

And he sayde: that which commeth out of a man defyleth the mā. For from within euen out of the heart of men, procede euill thoughtes, aduoutry, fornicatyon, murther, theft, couetousnes, fraude, deceyte, vncleannes, a wycked eye, blasphemies, pride, folishnes: al these euel thinges come from within, & defile a man. * And from thence he rose, & wente into the borders of Tyre and Sidon: & entred into an house & would that no man shoulde haue knowen. But he coulde not be hyd. For a certayne woman (whose daughter had a foule spryte) as soone as she hard of hym, came & fell at hys fete. The woman was a Greke out of the nacion of Syrophenicia, and she besought him, that he woulde cast out the deuil from her doughter. But Jesus sayd vnto her: let the chyldren first be fed. For it is not mete, to take the chyldrens bread, and to cast it vnto whelpes. She answered and said vnto him: euen so lorde, * neuertheles the whelpes also eate vnder the table of the childrens croumes. And he sayde vnto her: for thys saying go thy waye, the deuyll is gone oute of thy doughter. And when she was come home to her house, she found that the deuil was departed, & her doughter lying on ỳ bead.

+ * And he departed agayne from the coostes of Tyre & Sidon, & came vnto the sea of Galile thorowe the myddes of the coastes of the x. cities. * And they brought vnto him one that was deafe & had an impediment in hys speche, and they prayed hym to put his hand vpon hym. And whē he had taken hym aside from the people, he put hys fyngers into his eares, and did spit, and touched his tong. and loked vp to heauen, and syghed, and sayd vnto hym: Ephata, that is to saye, be opened. And strayght way hys eares wer opened, and the stryng of hys tonge was loused, and he spake plaine. * And he cōmaunded thē that they should tel no man. But the more he forbad them, so much the more a great deale they publyshed, saying: he hathe done done al thynges wel, he hath made both the deafe to heare, & the dume to speake. ✠

¶ The miracle of the seuen loues. The Pharyses aske a sygne. The leuen of the Pharyses. The blynde receaueth hys syght.

IN those dayes when ther was a very great company, and had nothyng to eate, Jesus called hys disciples to hym, and sayde vnto them: I haue compassion on the people, because they haue nowe bene with me .iii. daies and haue nothing to eate: and yf I sende them awaye fastyng to their owne houses, they shal fayute by the way. * For diuers of them came frō farre. And his disciples answered him: where should a man haue breade here in the wildernes to satisfie these? And he asked them, how many loues haue ye? They sayde: seuen. And he cōmaunded ỳ people to sit downe on the ground. And he toke the seuē loues: and when he had gruē thankes, he brake, and gaue to hys disciples, to set before them. And they dyd set them before the people. And they had a fewe smal fyshes. And when he had blessed, he cōmaunded them also to be set before them. And they did eate, and were suffised. And they tooke vp of the broken meate that was left, seuē basketes ful. And they that did eate, were about foure thousand. And he sent them awaye. ✠

And anone he entred into a shyp with hys disciples, and came into the parties of Dalmanutha. * And the pharises came forthe and beganne to dysputе with hym, seking of him a signe from heauen, tempting hym. And when he had sighed in hys spirite, he sayeth: why doth this generacion seke a signe? Verely, I saye vnto you, ther shal no signe be geuen vnto this generacion. And he left them and went into the shyp agayn, and departed ouer the water.

And they had forgotten to take breade wt them, neither had they in ỳ shippe with them more then one loafe. And he charged thē, saying. ✠ * Take hede, beware of the leuen of the pharises, and of the leuen of Herod. And they reasoned amonge them selues, saying: wee haue no breade. And Jesus knew it, & sayeth vnto them: Why take ye thoughte, because yee haue no breade? perceyue ye not yet nether vnderstande? Haue ye your hearte yet blinded? Haue ye eyes & see not? and haue ye eares and heare not? Do ye not also remember? * When I brake .v. loues amonge fyue thousand men, howe many basketes full of broken meate tooke ye vp? They sayde vnto hym, twelue. * When I brake seuen among foure thousande, howe many basketes of the leauinges of ỳ broken meate tooke ye vp? They saide seuen: And he said vnto them: howe happeneth it that ye do not vnderstande. ✠

✠ And he came to Bethsaida, and they broughte a blynde man vnto hym, and desired hym to touche hym. And he caughte the blinde by the hande and led hym out of the towne: and whan he had spytte in his eyes, and putte hys handes vpon hym, he asked him if he sawe ought. And he looked vp and sayed: I se the men: for I perceaue them walke as they were trees. After that he put hys handes agayn vpon hys eyes, and made hym see. And he was restored, and sawe euerye man clearely. And he sent hym home to hys house, saying: neyther go into the towne, nor tell it to any in the towne. ✠

* And Jesus wente out, and his disciples into the tounes that long to the citie called Cesarea Philippi. And by the way he asked hys disciples, saying vnto them: whom do menne say that I am? And they answered: some saye that thou art John Baptiste, and some saye Helyas. Againe some saye thou arte one of the number of the prophetes. And he sayed vnto them: But whome saye ye that I am? Peter answereth and sayeth vnto hym: * thou art very Christ. And he charged them, that they shoulde tel no man of hym. And he beganne to teache them how that the sonne of manne must suffer many thynges, and bee reproued of the elders, and of the hye Priestes, and Scrybes, and bee kylled, and after thre dayes aryse agayne. And he spake that saying openly.

And Peter tooke hym aside, and began to chide hym. But he tourned about, and looked on hys disciples, and rebuked Peter, saying: Go after me Satan, For thou sauerest not the thynges that bee of God but the thynges that bee of menne.

* And when he had called the people vnto hym with his disciples also, he sayed vnto them: Whosoeuer wyll folowe me, let hym forsake hym selfe, and take vp his crosse, and folow me. For whoso euer wil saue hys lyfe, shall lose it. But whosoeuer shall lose his life for my sake & the Gospels, the same thesame shall saue it. For what shall it profyte a man, if he wynne all the worlde, and loose his owne soule? or what shal a man geue to redeme his soule withall a-gaine. * Whosoeuer therfore shall be a-shamed of me and of my wordes, in this aduouterous and sinfull generacion: of hym also shall the sonne of man be asha-med, when he commeth in the glorye of his father with the holy angels.

AND he sayd vnto them: Uerely I saye vnto you: * There be some emong the, that stand here, which shall not tast of death, tyll they haue seen the kyngdome of God come with power.

* And after. vi. dayes Jesus taketh Pe-ter, and James, & John, and ledeth them vp into an hye mountaine out of the way alone, and he was transfygured before them. And hys rayment dyd shyne, and became verye whyte, euen as snowe: so white as no fuller cā make vpon ỹ earth. And there apered vnto them Helias with Moses, and they talked with Jesu. And Peter answered, and sayth to Jesu: Ma-ster, here is good beig for vs: let vs make also. iii. tabernacles, one for the, and one for Moses, and one for Helias. For he wyst not what he sayed: for they were a-frayed. And there was a cloude that sha-dowed them. And a voice came out of the cloude, saying: * This is my beloued sonne, heare hym. And sodenlye whan they had looked rounde about they sawe no mā moze then Jesus only with them.

And as they came downe from the hill he charged them, that they shoulde tell noman those thynges that they had sene, tyll the sonne of manne were rysen from death agayne. And they kepte that say-inge wyth them, and demaunded one of another, what the rysyng from death agayne shoulde meane: And they asked hym, saying: why then say the Scrybes that Helias muste firste come? He an-swered and sayed vnto them: * Helyas verely whan he commeth firste, restoreth all thynges. And the sonne of manne (as it is * written of hym) shall suffer many thynges, and be sette at naught. But I saye vnto you, that Helyas is come, and they haue doone vnto hym whatsoeuer they woulde, as it was wrytten of hym.

And when he came to hys dysciples, he sawe muche people about them, and the scribes disputyng with the. And streight waye all the people (when they beheld hym) were amased, and ranne to hym, & saluted hym. And he asked the scrybes, what dyspute ye amonge them?

C * And one of the companye answe-red and sayde: Master, I haue broughte vnto the my sonne, whiche hath a dume spirite. And whensoeuer he taketh hym, he teareth hym, and he foometh, and gna-sheth with hys teeth, and pyneth awaye. And I spake to thy dyscyples that they shoulde cast him out, and they could not. He answereth hym and sayeth: O fayth-les nacion, howe longe shall I be with you? How long shall I suffer you? Bring hym vnto me. And they brought hym vn-to him. And assone as ỹ spirite sawe him, he tare him. And he fel doune on ỹ grou̇d walowig & foming. And he asked his fa-ther, how lōg it is ago, sence this hapned him? And he sayd: of a chyld, & oft times it hath cast him into ỹ fyre & into the water to destroye him. But yf thou canst do any thyng, haue mercy on vs and helpe vs. Jesus sayde vnto hym: yf thou coulde-ste beleue * all thynges are possible to hym ỹ beleueth. And streyght waye the father of the chylde cryed with teares, saying: Lorde, I beleue, helpe ỹ myne vnbelefe.

D When Jesus sawe ỹ the people came runnyng together vnto hym, he rebuked the foule spirite, saying vnto him: Thou dumme and deafe spirite, I charge thee come out of hym, and enter nomore into hym: And the spirite (when he had cryed & rente hym sore) came out of hym, and he was as one ỹ had been dead, in so much that many sayde: he is dead. But Jesus caught his hand, & lift hym vp: & he rose. And when he was come into ỹ house * his dysciples asked hym secretly: why coulde not we cast hym out? And he sayed vnto them: this kynde can come forth by no-thyng, but by prayer and fastyng.

* And they departed thence, & toke their iorney through Galile, & he would not ỹ any man should knowe it. For he taught his dysciples, & sayd vnto them: ỹ sonne of man shalbe deliuered into the hādes of men, & they shall kyll hym: and after that he is killed, he shall ryse again the thirde daye. But they wiste not what he sayed, & were afrayed to aske him. And he came

And they helde their peace, for by the waye they had reasoned emong them selues, who should bee the chiefest. And when Jesus had loked roūd about, he said vnto his disciples. *Howe vneasy shal they that haue money, entre into the kingdom of God. And the disciples were astonnyed at his wordes. But Jesus answereth again, & sayeth vnto them: chyldren, howe harde is it for thē that trust in money, to entre into ỹ kingdom of God. They sayd vnto hym: graunt vnto vs, that we may syt, one on thy ryghthand, and the other on thy lift hand, in thy glorye. But Jesus sayd vnto thē: ye wote not what ye aske. Can ye drynke of the cup, that I drynke of, & be baptised with the baptysme, that I am baptised with. And they sayd vnto hym: that we can. Jesus sayd vnto them: ye shall in dede drynke of the cup that I drynke of: & with the baptisme that I am baptised withall shall ye be baptised in: but to sit on my ryght hand & on my lyfte hand, is not mine to geue, but it shal happen vnto them, for whom it is prepared.

*And whē the ten heard it, they began to disdain at James & John. But Jesus when he had called them to him, sayd vnto them: ye knowe, that *they whiche are sene to beare rule among ỹ people reigne as lordes ouer them, & they that be great among thē, exercise authoritie vpon thē. Neuertheles, so shall it not bee among you: but whosoeuer of you will be great among you, shall be youre minister. And whosoeuer will be chiefe, shalbe seruaunt of all. For *the sōne of man also came not to be ministred vnto, but to minister: & to geue his lyfe for the redemcion of many.

And they came to Jerico: & And as he wente out of the citie of Jerico with hys disciples, and a great numbre of people: blynd Bartymeus the sonne of Timeus sate by the hye wayes syde, begging. And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to crye, & to saye: Jesus thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me. And many rebuked him, ỹ he shuld hold his peace. But he cryed the more a greate deale: thou sonne of Dauid haue mercye on me. And Jesus stode styl, & commaunded hym to bee called: And they called the blynd, saying vnto hym: Be of good comfort: rise, he calleth the. And he threw awaye his cloke, & rose, and came to Jesus. And Jesus answered, and sayed vnto hym: what wylt thou that I doe vnto thee? The blynd sayd vnto hym: Master, that I myght see. Jesus sayd vnto hym: goe thy waye, thy fayth hath saued thee. And immediatlye he receyued his sight, and folowed Jesus in the waye.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.

Christ ryderh to Jerusalem. The frygge tree wyrh vp. The byers & sellers are cast out of the temple. The Pharisens question with Christe.

And when they came nye to Jerusalem vnto Bethphage and Bethanie, besydes mounte Oliuete, he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and sayeth vnto them: Goe

poure waye into the toune, that is ouer against you. And as sone as ye be entred into it: ye shall fynde a colt bounde, wher-
on neuer man sate: lowse hym, and bryng
hym hyther. And yf any man saye vnto you: why doe ye so? Saye ye: that the Lorde hath nede of hym: and straycht waye he wyll sende hym hyther. And they went their way, and found the colte tyed by the doore without in a place where two wayes met, and they losed him. And dyuers of the that stode there, sayed vnto them: *what do ye losyng the colte? And they sayed vnto them, euen as Jesus had commaunded. And they let them goe. And they brought the colte to Jesus and cast their garmentes on him: and he sate vpon
him. And manye spred theyr garmentes
in the waye. Other cut downe braunches
of the trees, and strawed the in the waye.
And they that went before and they that folowed: cryed, saying: Hosanna *blessed is he that commeth in the name of the Lorde.
Blessed be the kingdom, that commeth in the name of hym that is Lorde of our father Dauid: Hosanna in the hyest.

And the Lorde entred into Jerusalem and into the temple. And when he had loked round about vpon all thinges, and now
the euentyde was come, he went out vnto Bethany with the twelue. And on the morowe when they were come out from Bethany, he hungred. And when he had spy-ed a fygge tree a farre of, hauing leaues,
he came to see, if he might fynde any thing
theron. And when he came to it, he found nothyng but leaues: for the tyme of fyg-ges was not yet. And Jesus answered, and sayd vnto the fygge tree: neuer man eate
frute of thee hereafter whyle the worlde standeth. And his disciples heard it.

C And they came to Jerusalē. And Jesus went into the temple, and began to * cast
out them that sold and bought in the tēple,
and ouerthrewe the tables of the money
chaungers, and the stoles of the that sold doues: and would not suffer, that any man should cary a vessell thorowe the temple.
And he taught saying vnto them: * is it not wrytten: my house shalbe called the house of prayer vnto all nacions? But ye haue made it a den of theues.

And the scribes and hye prestes hearde it and sought howe to destroye hym. * For they feared hym, because all the people marueiled at his doctrine. And when euē was come, Jesus wente out of the citie

* And in the morynyng as they passed by,
they sawe the fygge tree dryed vp by the rotes. And Peter remembred, and sayd vnto hym: Master, beholde the fygge tree
which thou cursedest, is wydered awaye.
And Jesus answered and sayd vnto them:
haue confidens in God. * Verely I saye
vnto you, that whosoeuer shall saye vn-
to this mountaine: remoue, and cast thy self
into the sea, and shall not doubt in his hert
but shal beleue that those thinges which he sayeth shall come to passe, whatsoeuer he sayeth, he shall haue. Therfore I saye vnto you, * what thinges soeuer ye desyre when ye prayе, beleue that ye receyue them, and ye shall haue them. And when ye stande and prayе * forgeue yf ye haue ought against any man, that youre
father also whiche is in heauen, maye
forgeue you youre trespasses.

And they came agayne to Jerusalem.
* And as he walked in the temple, there came to him the hye prestes and the scrip-
bes, and the elders, and saye vnto hym:
by what auctoritie doest thou these thin-ges? and who gaue the this auctoritie, to dooe these thynges? Jesus answered and sayed vnto them: I wyll also aske
of you a certain thing, and answer yeme,
and I wyll tell you by what auctoritie
I dooe these thynges. The baptisme of John, whether was it from heauen or of men? Answere me. And they thought in them selues, saying: if wer saye, from heauen: he wyll saye, why then dyd ye not beleue hym? but if they had sayde, of men, they feared the people. For all men counted John, that he was a verye Prophet. And they answered and sayde vnto Jesu: we cannot tell. And Jesus answered, and sayed vnto them: neyther wyll I tell you by what auctho[r]ytye, I dooe these thinges.

C The. xii. Chapter.

The vyneyarde is let out. Gyue to Cesar that belongeth to Cesar. Of the Sadduces, of the doctors of lawe: Ypocrysye must be eschewed: the offrynge
of the poore wydowe.

AND he begā to speake vnto thē
by parables. A certain mā plāted * a vineyarde, and compassed
it aboute with an hedge, and dy-gged a wine presse, and built a toure, and let it out to herbet vnto husbandmen, and went into a straunge countrey. And when the tyme was come, he sente vnto the hus-bandmen a seruaunte, that he myght
receyue

receyue of the husbandemen of the frute of the vineyarde. And they caught hym, & bet him, and sent hym away agayne empte. And moze ouer, he sente vnto them another seruaunte: and at hym they caste stoones, and brake hys headde, and sente hym awaye agayne all to reuyled. And agayne he sente another, and hym they killed: and many other, beatynge some, and kyllynge some.

And so whan he had yet but one beloued sonne, he sente hym also at the last vnto them, saying: they wyll feare my sonne. * But the husbandemen sayed amongest them selues, thys is the heyze: come * let vs kyll hym, and the inherytaunce shal be ours. And they toke hym and killed him, and they caste hym oute of the vineyarde. What shal therefore the Lord of the vineyarde doo? he shall come, and destroy the husbandemen, and let out the vineyarde vnto other. Haue ye not redde thys scripture? * The stone whiche the buylders did refuse, is becumme the chefe stone of the corner: this is the Lordes dooyng and it is merueleus in our eyes. They wente about also to take him, & feared the people. For they knewe, that he had spoken the parable agaynst them. And they lefte hym and wente their waye.

* And they sente vnto hym certayne of the pharises and Herodes seruauntes, to take hym in hys wordes. And assone as they were come, they sayed vnto hym: Master wee knowe that thou arte true, and carest for no manne: for thou considerest not the outward apperaunce of men, but teachest the waye of God truly: Is it lawfull to paye tribute to Cesar or not? Ought we to geue, or ought we not to geue? But he vnderstoode their symulacion, and sayed vnto them: Why tempt ye me? Bryng me a peny, that I may se it. And they broughte it. And he sayeth vnto them: Whose is this ymage, and superscripcio? And they sayed vnto him, Cesars. And Jesus answered and sayde vnto the: * Geue to Cesar the thynges that belonge to Cesar: & to God, the thynges whiche pertayne to God. And they marueled at hym.

There came also vnto hym the sadducees, * whiche saye that there is no resurrection. And they asked hym saying: Master Moses wrote vnto vs, yf any mans brother dye, and leaue hys wyfe behynde hym, and leaue no chyldren, that hys brother should take his wyfe, and reyse vp seede vnto his brother. There were seuen brethren, and the fyrste toke a wyfe: and when he dyed, left no seede behynd hym. And the second toke her, & dyed: neyther left he any seed. And the thirde lykewyse. And vii. had her, and left no seed behynd the. Last of all the wyfe dyed also. In the resurrection therfore when they shall rise again: whose wife shall she be of the? For vii. had her to wyfe. And Jesus answered, and sayd vnto them: Do ye not therfore erre, because ye vnderstande not the scriptures, neyther ỳ power of God? For when they shall rise again frō death, they neither mary, nor yet are maryed: but are as ỳ angels, which are in heaue. As touching ỳ dead, that they rise againe: haue ye not red in the boke of Moses, howe in the bushe, God spake vnto hym, saying: I am the God of Abrahā and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? he is no God of dead, but the God of lyuyng. ye are therfore greatly dyscepued.

* And when there came one of the scribes, & had heard them disputing together (& perceyned that he had answered them well) he asked hym: whiche is the firste of all the cōmaundementes? Jesus answered him: The first of al the cōmaūdementes is: Heare, O Israel: The Lorde our God, is Lord only: And thou shalt loue ỳ Lord thy God w all thy herte, & with all thy soule, & with all thy mynde, & with all thy strength. This is the first cōmaundemente. And the seconde is lyke vnto this. * Thou shalt loue thy neyghbour as thy selfe. There is none other cōmaundemēt greater then these. And the scribes sayed vnto him: wel master, thou hast sayed the trueth, for there is one God, and there is none but he. And to loue him with all the heart, and with all the mynde, and with all the soule, and with all the strength: and to loue a mannes neighbour as himselfe, is a greater thyng, then all burnte offerynges and sacrifices. And when Jesus sawe that he answered discretely, he sayed vnto him: Thou art not farre from the kingdome of God. And no manne after that, durst aske hym any question.

And Jesus answered and sayed, teaching in the temple: howe say the scribes that Christe is the sonne of Dauid? For Dauyd hymselfe inspired with the holy Goste, sayed: * The Lorde sayed to my Lorde, sit on my right hande till I make thine enemies thy fote stole. Dauid hym-

¶ The. xiiii. Chapter. ✠

Mary Magdalen annoynteth Christe. The Easter lambe is eaten. Christ is taken: Peter denyeth him, with many other thynges that were demaunded of Christe.

After two dayes was Easter and the dayes of swete bread. ‡ And the hye prestes and the Scrybes sought howe they myght take hym by crafte, and put hym to death. But they sayed: not in the feaste daye, lest any busynes aryse among the people. * And when he was at Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper, euen as he satte at meate, there came a woman hauyng an alabaster bore of oyntment, called Narde, that was pure and costely: and she brake the bore, and powred it vpon his head. And there were some, that were not content within themselues, and sayd: what neded this waste of oyntmẽt? For it might haue been solde for more thẽ three hũdred pence and haue been geuen vnto the pore. And they grudged against her.

And Jesus sayde: lette her alone, why trouble ye her? She hath dooen a good woorke on me. * For ye haue poore with you all wayes: and whensoeuer ye will, ye maye doe them good: but me haue ye not alwayes. She hath doone that she coulde: she came afore hande, to anoynte my body to the burying. Verely, I saye vnto you: whersoeuer thys gospel shalbee preached throughout ỳ whole worlde thys also that she hath dooen, shalbe rehersed in remembraunce of her.

‡ And Judas Iscarioth, one of the .xii. went away vnto ỳ hye prestes, to betraie hym vnto them. When they heard ỳ, they were glad, and promised that they would geue him money. And he sought, howe he myght conueniently betraye hym.

* And the fyrst day of swete bread (whẽ they offered passeouer) his dysciples sayd vnto hym, where wylt thou that we go & prepare, ỳ thou mayst eate the passeouer? And he sendeth forth two of hys disciples and sayeth vnto thẽ: Go ye into the cytye and there shall mete you a man bearyng a pitcher of water, folowe him. And whyther soeuer he goeth in, say ye to the good man of the house, the master sayth: where is the geste chamber, where I shall eate passeouer with my disciples? And he wil shewe you a great parlour, paued & prepared: there make ready for vs. And his dysciples went forthe, and came into the cytye, and found as he had sayd vnto thẽ: and they made ready the Passeouer.

* And whan it was nowe euentyde he came wt the .xii. And as they sate at borde and dyd eate, Jesus sayd: Verely, I saye vnto you: * one of you (that eateth with me) shal betray me. And they began to be sorye, & to saye to hym one by one: is it I? And another sayd: is it I? he aunswered and sayd vnto them: It is one of ỳ .xii. euẽ he that dypeth wt me in the platter. The sonne of man truely goeth as it is writtẽ of him, but wo to that man by whome the sonne of man is betrayed. Good were it for that man, yf he had neuer bene borne.

* And as they dyd eate, Jesus tooke bread: and when he had geuẽ thankes he brake it, & gaue to them, & said: Take, eat thys is my bodye. And he toke the cup, & when he had geuen thankes he toke it to them, & they all dranke of it. And he sayd vnto them: This is my bloude of ỳ newe Testament, whiche is shed for many. Verely, I saye vnto you: I wyll drynke no more of the fruite of the vyne: vntyll that daye ỳ I drynke it newe in the kyngdom of God. * And when they had sayd grace: they went out to mounte Olyuete.

began again to saye to them that stode by: this is one of the. And he denied it againe. And anone after they that stode by, sayed againe to Peter: surely thou art one of the for thou arte of Galile, and thy speache agreeth therto. But he began to curse, and to sweare, saying: I knowe not this man of whom ye speake. And againe * the cocke crewe, & Peter remembred the worde that Jesus sayde vnto hym: before the cocke crowe twise, thou shalt deny me thre times. And he began to wepe.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

Of the passion, death, and buryall of Christ.

AND anon in the dawnyng * the hye priestes held a counsell with the elders and the scribes, and the whole congregacion, & bound Jesus, & led hym away, & delyuered hym to Pilate. And Pylate asked hym: art thou the king of the Jewes? And he answered and sayde vnto hym: thou sayest it. And the hye priestes accused hym of many thinges. So Pilate asked hym agayne, saying: * Answerest thou nothyng? Behold, howe many thynges they laye vnto thy charge. Jesus yet answered nothyng, so that Pilate merueyled.

At that feaste Pilate did delyuer vnto the a prisoner, whomsoeuer they woulde desyre. And there was one y was named Barrabas, whiche lay bound with them that made insurrection: he had commytted murther. And the people called vnto hym and beganne to desyre hym that he woulde do accordyng as he had euer done vnto them. Pilate answered them, saying. Will ye that I let leuse vnto you the king of the Jewes? For he knewe that the hye priestes had deliuered hym of enuy. But the hye priestes moued the people that he should rather deliuer Barrabas vnto the.

Pilate answered agayn and sayed vnto them: * What will ye then that I dooe vnto hym: whom ye call the kynge of the Jewes? And they cryed agayne: crucifye hym. Pilate sayed vnto them: What euell hathe he doone? And they cryed the more frequentlye: Crucifie hym. And so Pilate willynge to content the people, * let leuse Barrabas vnto them, and delyuered vp Jesus (when he had scourged hym) for to bee crucifyed.

And the souldiours led him awaye into the comen hall, and called together the hole multitude, and they clothed him with purple, & they platted a croune of thornes, and crouned hym with all, and began to salute him: Hayle kyng of the Jewes. And they smote hym on the head with a rede, and dyd spit vpon hym, and bowed their knees, and worshypped hym.

And when they had mocked hym, they tooke the purple of hym, & put hys owne clothes on hym, and led hym oute, to crucifie hym. * And they compelled one that passed by, called Symon of Cirene (the father of Alexander and Rufus) whiche came oute of the felde, to beare hys crosse. * And they broughte hym to a place named Golgatha (whiche is y a man interpret it, the place of dead mens scoulles) & they gaue hym to drynke, wyne mingled with myrre, but he receyued it not.

And when they had crucifyed hym, * they parted his garmentes, castyng lottes vpon them, what euery man should take. And it was aboute the thirde houre, and they crucified hym. And the tytle of hys cause was written: The kynge of the Jewes. * And thy crucified with him two theues: the one on the ryghte hande and the other on his lyfte: And the scrypture was fulfylled whiche sayeth: * He was counted among the wicked.

* And they that wente by rayled on hym: wagging theire heades, and saying: Ah wayth, thou that destroyest the temple and buildest it in thre dayes, saue thy selfe: and come doune from the crosse. Likewise also mocked hym the hye priestes among them selues with the scribes, and sayed: he saued other men, hym selfe he cannot saue. Let Christe the kynge of Israell descende nowe from the crosse, that we may se, and beleue. And they that were crucified with hym checked hym also.

* And whan the sixte houre was come darkenes arose ouer al the earth, vntyl the nynthe houre. And at the ninth houre Jesus cried with a loude voice, saying: Eloy, Eloy, lamasabathany? whiche is (yf one interpret it) * my God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? And some of them that stood by, when they heard that, sayed: behold, he calleth for Helias. * And one ranne, and filled a sponge full of vinegre, and putte it on a reede, and gaue hym to drinke, saying: let him alone, let vs se whether Helias wil come & take him doune.

But Jesus cryed with a loude voyce, and gaue vp the ghoste. * And the vayle of the of the temple dyd rent in two peces, from the toppe to the botome. ‡ And when the Centurion (which stood before him) sawe that he so cryed, and gaue vp the ghoste, he sayed: truly this man was the sonne of God. * There were also women a good waye of, beholdyng hym: amonge whom was ‡ Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James the lytle, and of Joses, and Mary Salome, * (whyche also whe he was in Galile, had folowed hym and ministred vnto hym) and many other women, whiche came vp with hym vnto Jerusalem.

And nowe when the euen was come, (because it was the daye of preparynge that goeth before the Sabboth) * Joseph of the citie of Aramathia, a noble counceilour whiche also looked for the kyngdom of God, came and went in boldlye vnto Pylate, and begged of hym the body of Jesu. And Pilate marueled, that he was alredy dead, and called vnto hym the Centurion, and asked of hym, whether he had bene any whyle dead. And when he knewe the truth of the Centurió, he gaue the bodye to Joseph. And he boughte a lynnen clothe, and tooke hym downe, and wrapped him in the linnen clothe, and layed him in a sepulchre, that was hewen out of the rocke. And Mary magdalen and Mary Joses, beheldē where he was layed. +

Christ is rysen agayne, and apereth to the Apostles: to whom he committeth the preachyng of the gospell.

AND when the Sabboth was paste, Mary Magdalen, and Mary Jacob, and Salome, boughte swete odours, that they might come, and anoynte him. * And earelye in the mornyng the fyrste daye of the Sabboth, they came vnto ỳ sepulchre, when the sunne was risen. And they sayd amonge them selues: who shall roll vs awaye the stone from the doore of the sepulchre? And when they looked, they sawe how that the stoone was rolled awaye: for it was a very greate one. And they wente into ỳ sepulchre, ‡ sawe a younge man sittyng on the ryght syde, clothed in a longe white garment, & they were afraied. * And he saieth vnto them, be not afraied: ye seke Jesus of Nazareth, whiche was crucyfyed. He is rysen, he is not here. Beholde the place where they had putte hym. But gooe your way, and tell hys disciples, and Peter, that he goeth before you into Galile, there shal ye see hym, as he sayed vnto you. ‡ * And they went out quickely, & fled from the sepulchre. For they trembled and were amased. Neyther sayde they anye thyng to any man, for they were afrayed.

+ When Jesus was rysen earlye, the fyrste daye after the Saboth * he apered fyrste to Mary Magdalen, out of whom he had cast seuen deuels. And she wente & tolde them that were with hym, as they mourned and wept. And they, when they hearde that he was alyue, and had appered vnto her, beleued it not. * After ỳ, apered he vnto two of theym in a straunge figure, as they walked, and went into the countrey. And they wente and tolde it to the remnaunte. And they beleued not these also. +

+ Afterwarde he apered vnto the eleuen as they sat at meate: and caste in their teeth their vnbeleefe, and hardnes of heart, because they beleued not them which had seen that he was rysen agayne from the dead. And he sayed vnto them: * Go ye into all the worlde, and preache the Gospell to all creatures: he that beleueth & is baptysed, shal be saued. But he that beleueth not shal be damned.

And these tokens shall folow them that beleue. * In my name they shall caste oute deuels, they shall speake w̄ newe tounges, they shall * dryue away serpentes. And yf they drinke any deadly thinge, it shall not hurt them. They shal laye their handes on the sicke, and they shall recouer.

So then whē the Lord had spoken vnto them * he was receyued into heauen, and is on the ryghte hande of God. And they went forthe, and preached euerye where: The Lord worlkyng with them * and confyrming the worde with myracles folowyng.

¶ The Gospel of S.Luke.

FOR as muche as many haue taken in hand to set forthe the declaracion of those thinges, whiche are most surely to bee beleued among vs, euen as they delyuered them vnto vs, which from the begynnyng sawe them themselues with theyr eyes, and were ministers of the thynges that they declared: I determyned also (as soone as I had searched out diligentlye all thynges from the begynning) that then I would wryte vnto the, good Theophilus: that thou myghtest know the certeintie of those thynges wherof thou haste been informed.

¶ The.i. Chapter.

The conception and byrthe of Iohn the Baptist. The conception of Christe. The thankefull songes of Mary and Zachary.

THere was in the dayes of Herode the kyng of Iurye, a certayne preest named Zacharias *of the course of Abia. And his wife was of the daughters of Aaron: and her name was Elizabeth: they were both righteouse before God, and walked in all the lawes and ordynaunces of the Lorde, that no man coulde fynde faute with thē. And they had no chylde, because that Elizabeth was barē: and they both were nowe well stricken in age.

And it came to passe, that whan Zacharye executed the preestes office before god, as his course came (accordyng to the custome of the preestes office) his lotte fell to burne incense. And he *wente into the temple of the Lorde, and the whole multitude of ỹ people were without in prayer, whyle the incense was a burning. And there appeared vnto him an Angel of the Lorde, standyng on the ryght syde of the aultare of incense. And when Zacharias sawe him, he was abashed, & feare came on him.

But the Angell sayed vnto hym: feare not Zacharye, for thy prayer is hearde. And thy wyfe Elizabeth shall beare thee a sonne, and thou shalt call hys name Iohn: and thou shalt haue ioy and gladnes, and many shall reioyce at his birthe. For he shalbee great in the sight of the Lorde, and shall neither drynke wine nor strong drynke. And he shalbee fulled with the holye goste, euen from his mothers wombe: & many of the children of Israel shall he turne to their Lord God. And he shal go before him in the spirite & power of *Helias, to turne the heartes of the fathers to the children, and the vnbeleuers to the wisedome of the iust men, to make ready a perfecte people for the Lorde. *mat. 11.b

And Zacharias sayed vnto the Angell: by what token shall I knowe this? For I am olde, and my wyfe well stricken in yeres. And the Angell answered, & sayed vnto hym: I am Gabryell, that stande in the presence of God, & am sente to speake vnto thee: & to shewe thee these glad tydinges. And behold it shall come to passe that thou shalt bee dumme, and not bee hable to speake, vntyll the day that these thynges bee performed, because thou beleuedst not my wordes, which shalbe fulfilled in their seasō. And the people wayted for Zacharias, and meruayled that he tarryed in the temple. And when he came out, he could not speake vnto them. And they perceiued, that he had seen a vision in the temple. And he beckened vnto them, and remayned speacheleſſe. *Le. 17.c and. 18.b.

+And it fortuned, that as soone as the dayes of his office were out, he departed into hys owne house. And after those dayes, his wife Elizabeth conceiued, and hyd her selfe fiue monethes, saying: This wise hath god dealt with me, in the dayes wherin he hath loked on me, to take from me my rebuke emong menne. And in the fifte moneth the Angell Gabryell was sent from God vnto a citie of Galile, named Nazareth, to a virgyn spoused to a manne, whose name was Ioseph, of the house of Dauyd, and the virgyns name was Mary. And the angel went in vnto her, and sayd: hayll ful of grace, the Lord is with thee, blessed arte thou among women: when she sawe him, she was abashed at his saying: and cast in her mind, what maner of salutacion that should bee. And the angel sayd vnto her: feare not Mary: for thou hast found grace with God. Behold *thou shalt conceiue in thy wombe, and beare a sōne, and shalt cal his name Iesus. He shalbe great, and shalbe called the sonne of the highest. And the Lorde God shall geue vnto hym the seate of his father Dauid, and *he shall raigne ouer the house of Iacob for euer, & and of his *Esai. 7.b *Mat. 1.c. kingdome there shalbe none ende.

D Then sayed Mary vnto the Angell: Howe shall this be, seyng I knowe not a man. And the Angell answered and sayd vnto her: The holy gost shall come vpon thee, and the power of the highest shall ouer shadowe thee. Therfore also that holy thing which shalbe borne, shalbe called the sonne of God. And beholde, thy cosen Elizabeth, she hath also conceiued a sõne in her age. And this is her first monethe Luc.1.b which was called baren: for * with God Mat.19.d shall nothyng be vnpossible: And Mary Luc.1.c sayd: behold the hand maiden of ỹ Lord, be it vnto me according to thy worde. † And the Angell departed from her.

+ And Mary arose in those dayes, and went into the mountaines with haste into the cite of Jury, & entred into the house of Zachary, and saluted Elizabeth. And it fortuned that when Elizabeth hearde the salutacion of Mary, the babe sprang C in her wombe. And Elizabeth was fylled with the holy gost and cried with a loude voice, and sayed: Blessed art thou emong women, and blessed is the frute of thy wombe: And whence happeneth this to me, that the mother of my Lorde should come to me? For loe, as sone as the voyce of thy salutacion sounded in myne eares, the babe sprang in my wombe for ioye. And blessed arte thou that haste beleued: for those thynges shall be performed, whiche were tolde thee from the Lorde. And Mary sayed.

*Esa.61.b *My soule magnifyeth the Lord. And my spirite hathe reioyced in God my saueoure. † For he hath loked on the lowe degree of his handemaiden: for loe, nowe from henceforthe shall all generacions call me blessed. Because he that is myghtye, hath done to me greate thynges, and holy is his name. And his mercye is on them that feare hym, from generacion to generacion. He hath shewed strength with his arme, he hath scattered them that are proude in the ymaginacion of 1.Re.2.b their harte. * He hath putte downe the Eccle.10.f mighty from their seates, & exalted them of lowe degree. He hath filled the hongry with good thinges: & sent away the riche emptie. He hath holpen his seruaunt Israel, in remembraunce of his mercy.

*Ge.22.c *Euen as he promysed to oure fathers Abraham, and to his seede for euer. And Mary abode with her aboute a three monethes, and returned againe to her owne house. + Elizabethes tyme came that she I shoulde bee delyuered, and she brought forth a sonne. And her neyghbours and her cosyns hearde howe the Lorde had shewed greate mercy vpon her, and they reioyced with her.

And it fortuned that in the eight daye, they came * to circumcise the childe: and *Ge.17. and.21. Leui. called his name Zacharias, after ỹ name of his father. And his mother answered & sayed: not so but he shalbe called John. And they sayd vnto her. There is none in thy kynred, ỹt is named with this name. And they made signes to his father, how he would haue hym called. And he asked for writyng tables, & wrote, saying: his name is Jhon. And they marueyled all. And his mouth was opened immediatly and his tongue also, and he spake, and prayed God. And feare came on all them that dwelt nye vnto them. And all these sayinges were noised abroade throughout all the hill countrey of Jury: and all they that hearde them layed them vp in their hearttes, saying: What maner of childe shall this bee? And the hand of the Lorde was with hym. And his father Zacharias was filled with the holy gost, and prophecied, saying.

Praysed be the Lorde God of Israel, for he hath visited & redemed his people. † And hath raised vp † an horne of saluacion vnto vs, in the house of his seruaunte Dauyd. Euen as he promysed by the mouthe of his holy Prophetes, whiche were sence the worlde began.

That we should be saued from our enemies, & from the hand of all that hate vs.

That he would deale mercyfully wt our fathers, & remembre his holy couenaunt.

The birth and circumcision of Christ. Howe he was receaued into the temple, how Simeon & Anna prophecye of hym, and howe he was founde in the temple amonge the doctours.

AND it chaunced in those dayes: that there went out a commaundement from Augustus the Emperour, that all the worlde shoulde be taxed. And this taxyng was the first, & executed whē Syrenius was lyefetenaunt in Syria. And euery man went vnto hys owne citie to bee taxed. And Joseph also ascended from Galile, oute of a citie called Nazareth, into Jewry: vnto* the citie of Dauid, which is called Bethleem, because he was of the house and linage of Dauid, to bee taxed with Marye hys spoused wife, whiche was with childe.

¶ The.iii. Chapter. ✠

The preaching, baptyſme, and priſonment of John. The baptiſme of Chriſt, and a recyrſal of the generacion of the fathers.

IN the fyfteneth yere of the raigne of Tiberius ỳ Emperoure, Pōtius Pilate beyng leifetenaunt of Jury, & * Herod beyng Tetrarche of Galile, & his brother Philippe, Tetrarch of Ituria, & of the region of the Trachonites, & Liſaniath the Tetrarch of Abiline (whē Anna and Caiphas were the hie prieſtes) the worde of the Lorde came vnto John, the ſonne of Zacharias in the wildernes. And he came into all the coaſtes aboute Jordan, preaching * the baptiſme of repētaunce for the remyſſion of ſinnes, as it is written in the boke of the wordes of Eſaias the prophet, ſaying: * The voyce of a cryar in wildernes: prepare ye the way of the Lorde, make his pathes ſtreight. Euery valley ſhalbe filled, and euery mountayne and hyll ſhalbe brought lowe. And thynges that bee crooked, ſhalbe made ſtreyghte: and the roughe wayes ſhalbe made playne: and all fleſhe ſhall ſee the ſaluacion of GOD. ✠

Then ſayed he to the people, that wer come forthe to be baptiſed of hym. * O ye generacion of vipers, who hathe taughte you to flie from the wrath to come? Bring forth therfore due frutes of repentaunce, and begin not to ſaie with your ſelues: we haue Abraham to oure father. For I ſay vnto you: God is hable of theſe ſtones to reyſe vp children vnto Abraham. Nowe alſo is the axe layde vnto the roote of the trees * euery tree therfore which bringeth not forth good frute is hewē doune, & caſt into the fyre.

And the people aſked him ſaying: * What ſhal we do then? He answereth and ſayeth vnto thē: He that hath two coates let him parte with him that hathe none: & he that hathe meat let hym do lykewyſe.

Then came the Publycans alſo to bee baptiſed, & ſayd vnto hym: Maiſter, what ſhal we doo? And he ſayed vnto them: require no moze, then ỳ which is appointed vnto you. The ſoldiours lykewiſe demaūded of hym, ſaying: and what ſhal we do? And he ſayde vnto them: hurte no man, neither trouble any man wrongfully: and be contente with youre wages.

As the people were in doubt, and all men muſed in their hearres of John, whether he wer very Chriſte: John answered & ſaid vnto them all: * I baptiſe you with waters, but one ſtronger thē I ſhal cum after me, whoſe ſhoe latchet I am not worthy to vnloce: he ſhal baptiſe you wt ỳ holy ghoſt, & with fyre, * whiche hath his fan in his hande, and will purge his flooze, & gather ỳ corne into hys barne: but the chaffe will he burne with fyre that neuer ſhalbe quenched. And many other thynges in hys exhortacion preached he vnto the people.

* Then Herod ỳ Tetrarch (whē he was rebuked of hym for Herodias his brother Philippes wyfe, & for al the euils which Herod dyd,) added thys aboue all, & layed John in priſō. And it fortuned that whē al the the people receiued baptisme (and * when Jesus was baptised and dyd prape) the heauen was opened, and the holye goste came downe in a bodely shape lyke a doue vpon hym, and a voyce came from heauen whiche sayed: * Thou art my beloued sonne, in thee doe I delyte.

¶ The.iiii.Chapter.

Jesus is led into the wildernes and fasteth all the time of his tẽptacion, ouercõmeth the deuill, goeth into Galile, preacheth at Nazareth & Capernaum: the Iewes despyse hym, the deuils knowlege him, he commeth into Peters house, healeth his mother in law, and doeth great myracles.

AND beyng full of the holy goste, I returned from Jordan, and * was led by the spyrite into wyldernes, & was. xl. dayes tempted of ỹ deuill. And in those dayes dyd he eate nothing. And whẽ they were ended, he afterward hongred. And ỹ deuill sayd vnto him: if thou be ỹ sonne of god, commaunde this stone ỹt be bread. And Jesus answered him saying: It is written * man shal not liue by bread only, but by euery word of god. And ỹ deuil toke hi into an high mountaine, & shewed him al the kingdomes of ỹ world, euen in ỹ twincklyng of an eye. And the deuill sayed vnto him: all this power will I geue thee eurye whit, and the glory of them: for they are delyuered vnto me, & to whom soeuer I wil I geue it. If thou therfore wilt fall downe before me & worshipe me, they shalbee all thyne. Jesus answered and sayed vnto him: hence from me Satã. For it is wrytten: * Thou shalt worshipe the Lorde thy God, and hym only shalt thou serue. And he caryed hym to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinacle of the temple, and sayed vnto hym: If thou bee the sonne of God cast thy selfe downe from hence. For it is writtẽ: * He shall geue his angels charge ouer thee, to kepe thee, & in theyr handes they shall beare thee vp, ỹ thou dashe not thy fote against a stone. And Jesus answered, & sayd vnto him: it is sayd: * thou shalt not tempte the Lorde thy God. And as sone as al the temptacion was ended, the deuill departed frõ hym for a season.

* And Jesus returned by the power of the spirite, into Galile, and there went a fame of hym throughout all the region.

Christ preacheth in the ship. The disciples forsake all, and folowe hym. He clenseth the leper: healeth the man of the palsey, calleth Matthewe the custo-mer, and eateth with open synners.

IT came to passe that (when the peo- I and helpe them. And they came, and filled both the shyppes, that they soncke again.

When Symon Peter sawe thys, he fell downe at Jesus knees, saying: Lorde

For he was astonnyed and all that were with him, at the draught of fysshes, which they had taken: and so was also James and John the sonnes of Zebede, whiche

But he that heareth and dooth not, is like a man that without foundacyon built an house vpon the earth, againste whiche the flood did beat, and it fell immediately. And the fall of that house was greate.

The. vii. Chapter.

He healeth the captaynes seruaunt, reyseth the widowes sonne, enformeth the disciples whom John baptist sent vnto him, commendeth John, reproueth the Iewes, and eateth with the Pharyse. The woman washeth hys feete with her teares, and he forgeueth her her synnes.

WHẽ he had ended all his sayinges in the audience of the people, *he entred into Capernaum. And a certayne Centurions seruaunt which was deere vnto him, lay sicke, and was in parel of death. And when he hearde of Iesu, he sente vnto hym the elders of the Iewes, besechynge hym that he woulde come, and heale hys seruaunt. And when they came to Iesus, they besoughte hym instantly, saying: He is worthy that thou shouldest do thys for hym: For he loueth oure nacion, & hath buylte vs a synagoge. And Jesus went with them.

B And when he was now not farre from the house, the Centurion sente frendes to hym, saying vnto him: *Lorde trouble not thy selfe: For I am not worthy, that thou shouldest enter vnder my roofe. Wherfore, I thought not my self worthy to come vnto thee: but saie thou the word, and my seruaunte shalbe whole. For I also am a man set vnder power, & haue vnder me souldiours, and I saye vnto one: goe, and he goeth, and to another, come, and he commeth, and to my seruaunt: do this, and he dooth it. When Jesus hearde thys, he marueyled at hym, and tourned hym aboute, and sayed to the people that folowed hym: I say vnto you, I haue not founde so greate fayth, no not in Israell. And they that were sente, turned backe home agayne and founde the seruaunte whole that had bene sycke.

C +And it fortuned after this, that he went into a citie which is called Naim, & many of hys disciples went with hym, & muche people. When he came nye to the gate of the citie: beholde, there was a dead manne caried out, whiche was the onely sonne of hys mother, and she was a wedowe: and muche people of ỳ citie was with her. And when the lorde sawe her, he had compassion on her, and sayed vnto her: wepe not. And he came nie, and touched the coffen: & they that bare hym stode stil. And he saied: Young man, I saye vnto thee, arise. And he that was dead sate vp, and began to speake. *And he deliuered hym to his mother. And there came a feare on them all. And they gaue the glory vnto God, saying: *A greate prophet is risen vp among vs, and GOD hath visited his people. ‡ + And this rumor of hym went forthe throughout all Jury, and throughout all the regions whiche lye rounde aboute.

And the disciples of John shewed him of all these thinges. *And John called vnto him two of his disciples, and sent them to Jesus, saying: Art thou he that shoulde come: or shall we loke for another? When the menne were come vnto hym, they saied:

And in that same houre he cured many of their infirmities and plages, & of euill spirites, and vnto many that were blind he gaue syght. And he answered and saide vnto them: Go your waie and bring woorde agayne to John, what thynges ye haue sene and heard: how that the blynde se, the halte goo, the lepers are clesed, the deafe heare, the dead rise again, to the poore is ỳ glad tidinges preached, & happy is he that is not offended at me.

D * And when the messengers of John were departed, he began to speake vnto ỳ people concernyng John. What went ye oute into the wildernes for to see? A rede shaken with the winde? But what went ye oute for to see? A manne clothed in softe raiment? Behold, they whiche are gorgeously appareiled, and liue delicately, are in kynges courtes. But what went ye forth to se? A prophet? Yea, I saie to you, and more then a prophet. This is he, of whom it is written: * Beholde, I sende myne angell before thy face, whiche shall prepare thy waye before thee. For I saye vnto you, among womennes children, is there not a greater prophet, then John Baptiste. Neuertheles, he that is lesse, in the kyngdom of God is greater then he. ỳ

C And all the people, and the publicanes that hearde hym, iustified God, and were baptised with the baptisme of John. But the pharises and lawers despised the counsayll of God agaynste them selues, and were not baptised of hym. And the Lorde sayed: * Whereunto shall I liken the men of thys generacion: and what thynge are they lyke? They are lyke vnto children sittyng in the market place, and crying one to another, and saying: We haue pyped vnto you, and ye haue not daunced: we haue mourned to you, & ye haue not wept. For John Baptiste came neyther * eating breade, nor drinckyng wine, and ye saye: he hath the deuel. The sonne of man is come, and eateth and drynketh, and ye saye: beholde a glouteuous man, and an vnmeasurable drincker of wyne, a frende of publycans and sinners. And wisdom is iustifyed of all her children.

F * And one of the pharises desired hym that he would eat with him. And he went into the pharises house, and satte doune to meate. * And beholde a woman in that citie (whiche was a synner) assone as she knewe that Jesus satte at meate in the pharises house, she brought an alabaster boxe of ointement, and stode at hys feete behynde hym wepyng, & began to washe hys fete with teares, and did wype them with the heares of her heade, and kyssed hys fete, & anoynted them with the ointement. When the pharise (whiche had bydden hym) sawe, he spake within hymselfe, saying: If this manne were a prophete, he woulde surely knowe who, and what maner of woman this is that touched hym, for she is a synner. And Jesus answered, & sayed vnto hym: Simon, I haue somewhat to saye vnto thee. And he sayde, master, saye on. There was a certaine lender whiche had two detters, the one oughte fiue hundred pence, and the other fyfty. When they had nothyng to paye, he forgaue them both. Tel me therefore, which of them will loue hym moste? Symon answered and sayed: I suppose that he to whom he forgaue most. And he sayed vnto hym: Thou hast truly iudged.

And he turned to the woman, and saied G vnto Simon: Seest thou this woman? I entred into thy house, thou gauest me no water for my fete: but she hath washed my fete with teares, & wiped them with the heares of her head. Thou gauest me no kysse: but she, sence the tyme I came in, hathe not ceased to kysse my fete. Myne head with oyle thou diddest not anointe: but she hath anointed my fete with ointemente. Wherefore I saye vnto thee: many synnes are forgeuen her, for she loued muche. To whom lesse is forgeuen, the same doeth lesse loue. And he sayed vnto her: thy synnes are forgeuen thee. And they that satte at meate with hym, began to saye within themselues. Who is thys whiche forgeueth synnes also? And he sayed to the woman: * Thy faythe hathe saued thee: Goo in peace. ỳ

The.viii. Chapter.

Christ with his apostles goeth from towne to towne, & preacheth. Vttereth the parable of ỳ sede, telleth who is hys mother and hys brother, stylleth the ragyng of the sea: deliuereth the possessed, and suffereth the deuyls into the hearde of swyne: helpeth the sycke woman, and Jayrus daughter.

AND it fortuned afterwarde, that I he hymselfe also went throughout cities and townes: preachyng and shewyng the kyngdome of God, and the twelue with him. And also certayne women, whiche were healed of euill spirites and

and infirmities. Marye whiche is called Magdalen out of whom went seuen deuils: and Joãna the wyfe of Chusa, Herodes stewarde: and Susanna, and many other, whiche ministred vnto hym of theyr substaunce.

¶ When muche people were gathered together, and were come to him out of al cities, he spake by a similitude. * The sower went out to sowe his sede: and as he sowed, some fell by the waye syde, and it was troden downe, and the foules of the ayre deuoured it vp. And some fel on stones, and as sone as it was sprong vp, it withered awaye, because it lacked moystnes. And some fell emong thornes, & the thornes sprang vp with it and choked it. And some fell on good ground, & sprang vp and bare frute, an hundred folde. And as he sayed these thynges, he cryed: He that hath eares to heare, lette hym heare.

B * And his disciples asked hym, saying: what maner of similitude is this? And he sayd: vnto you is it geuen to know the secretes of the kingdom of God: but to other by parables, that when they see, they should not see: * and whe they heare, they should not vnderstande: The parable is this. & The seede is the woorde of God. Those þ are beside the way, are they that heare, then commeth the deuyll, & taketh away the woorde out of theyr hearttes, lest they should beleue & be saued. They on þ stones are they whiche when they heare, receyue the woorde w ioye, and these haue no rotes, whiche for a whyle beleue, and in time of temptacion go awaye. And that which fel among thornes, are they which when they haue heard, go forthe, and are choked with cares and riches and voluptuous lyuyng, and bryng forth no frute. That whiche fell in the good grounde, are they whiche with a pure and good heart heare the woorde and kepe it, and bryng forth frute through patience. ¶

C * No manne, whan he lighteth a candell, coureth it with a vessell, or putteth it vnder a table, but setteth it on a candelsticke, that they whiche entre in, may see the light. * Nothyng is in secrete, that shall not come abrode. Neither any thing hid that shal not be knowen, and come to light. Take hede therfore, howe ye heare. For whosoeuer hath, to hym shall bee geuen. * And whosoeuer hath not, frõ hym shall be taken, euen that same whiche he supposeth that he hath.

* Then came to hym hys mother & hys brethren, and coulde not come at hym for preasse. And it was tolde hym, and sayed: Thy mother & thy brethren stande wout and would see thee. He answered & sayed vnto them: my mother & my brethren are these whiche heare the woorde of God, and do it. ¶ And it chaunsed on a certain day, that he wente into a shyp, & hys disciples also, and he sayde vnto them: Let vs goe ouer vnto the other syde of the lake. And they launched forth. But as they sayled, D he fell a slepe * and there arose a stourme of wynde in the lake, and they were fylled with water, and were in ieopardye. And they came to hym, & awoke hym, saying: Master, master, we are lost. Then he arose, & rebuked þ wind & the tempest of water, & they ceased, & it waxed calme. And he sayed vnto them: where is your fayth? They feared and wondred among themselues, saying: what (thynke ye) is thys? For he commaundeth both the wyndes & water, and they obey hym. ¶ * And they sayled vnto þ region of the Gedarenites, which is ouer against Galile. And when he went out to land, there met him out of the citie a certain man which had a deuil long tyme, and ware no clothes, neyther abode in any house: but in graues. * Whe he sawe Jesus & had cryed, he fell downe before him, and with a loude voice sayd. * What haue I to do with thee Jesv, thou sonne of the God moste hyest? I beseche thee torment me not: for he commaunded the foule spryte to come out of the man. For oft tymes he had caught him, and he was bound with chaynes, and kept with fetters: and he brake the bõdes, and was caryed of the fende into wildernes. And Jesus asked hym, saying: What is thy name? And he sayd: Legion, because many deuils were entred into him. And they besought hym that he woulde not commaunde them to goe out into the depe. And there was there an heard of many swyne feding on an hill: & they besought hym, that he woulde suffre them to entre into them. And he suffred thẽ. Then went the deuils out of the man, and entred into the swyne. And the heard ranne headlong with vyolence, into the lake, & were choked. When the heardmen sawe what had chaunced, they fled, and told it in the cytie & in the vilages. And they came out to se what was done: and came to Jesus and found the man, out of whom the deuyls were departed, sytting at the fete of Jesus, clothed, and in his ryght mynde, and they were afrayed. They also which sawe it, tolde them by what meanes he (that was possessed of the deuyll) was healed. And all the multitude of the Gedarenites besought hym, that he woulde departe from them: for they were taken with great feare. * And he gate hym vp into the shippe, & returned backe againe. Then the man (out of whom the deuyls were departed) besought him ꝑ he might be with hym. But Jesus sent him away, saying: Goe home againe to thyne owne house, & shewe what thinges soeuer God hath done for thee. And he wēt his way, & preached throwe out all the citie, what thinges soeuer Jesꝰ had done vnto him.

And it fortuned that when Jesus was come again, the people receiued him. For they all wayted for hym. * And beholde, there came a man named Jairus (and he was a ruler of the Synagoge) and he fel downe at Jesus feete prayng hym, that he would come into his house, for he had but one doughter onely, vpon a.xii. yeare of age, and she laye a dying. But as he went, the people thronged hym.

* And a woman, hauyng an yssue of bloud. xii. yeres (which had spente all her substaunce vpon physitiōs, neither could be holpen of any) came behynd hym, and touched the hem of his rayment, & immediatly her yssue of bloud staunched. And Jesus sayed: who is it that touched me? When euery mā denyed, Peter (and they that were with him) sayd: Maister, ꝑ people thrust thee and vexe thee, & sayest thou who touched me? And Jesus said: Some bodye hath touched me. For I perceyue that vertue is gone out of me. When the woman sawe that she was not hyd, she came trembling, and fel at his feete, and tolde hym before all the people, for what cause she had touched hym, and howe she was healed immediatly. And he sayd vnto her: Doughter, be of good comforte. * Thy fayth hath saued thee, go in peace. Whyle he yet spake, there came one from the rulers of ꝑ Synagoges house, which said to him: thy doughter is dead, disease not the master. But when Jesus hearde that worde, he answered the father of the damosell. * Feare not, beleue onely, and she shalbe made whole. And whē he came to the house, he suffred no man to goe in with him, saue Peter, James, and John, and the father & the mother of the mayde. Euery body wepte, and sorowed for her. And he sayd: Wepe not. The damosell is not dead, * but slepeth. And they laught hym to scorne, knowyng ꝑ she was dead. And he thrust them all out, and caught her by the hād, and cryed, saying: Maide, arise. And her spyrite came againe, and she rose straycht waye. And he commaunded to geue her meate. And the father and the mother of her were astonyed. But he warned them, that they shoulde tell no man what was done.

¶ The. ix. Chapter. ✠

He sendeth out the twelue Apostles to preache. Herode heareth tell of him. He feedeth. v. M. menne with fyue loaues and two fyshes, the disciples confesse hym to be the sonne of God: he transfigureth hymselfe vpon the mount, delyuereth the possessed, and teacheth his disciples to be lowly. They desyre vengeaunce but he reproueth them.

Jesus called the * twelue together, & gaue them power, & authoryte ouer all deuils, and that they might heale diseases. And he sente them to preach the kingdom of God * and to heale the sicke. And he said vnto them: Take nothing to your iorney: neyther staffe, nor scrip, neyther bread, * neither monye, neither haue twoo coates. And whatsoeuer house ye enter into, there abide, & thence depart. And wholsoeuer wil not receyue you, when ye goe out of the citie, shake of the very dust from your feete, for a testimony agaynste them. And they departed & went throwe the tounes, preachyng the gospell & healyng euery where. * And Herode ꝑ Tetrarch heard of all ꝑ was done by him, & he doubted, because that it was sayed of some, ꝑ John was risen again frō death: & of some, that Helias had appeared, & of some, that one of the old Prophetes was risen again. And Herode said: John haue I beheaded: but who is this of whome I heare suche thinges? And he desired to see him. And the Apostles returned, & tolde him all that they had done. * And he toke them, and wente aside into a solitarye place, nye vnto the citie ꝑ is called Bethsaida. Whiche when the people knewe they folowed him. And he receiued them, and spake vnto them of the kyngdome of God, & healed them that had nede to be healed. And when the daye beganne to weare away, then came the. xii. and sayed vnto hym: sende the people away, ꝑ they may

maye go into the townes & next villages, and lodge and get meat, for we are here in a place of wylderneſs. But he ſayde vnto them: Geue ye them to eate. And they ſaid: We haue no mo but fyue loues and two fiſhes, except we ſhould go and bye meat for all this people: And they were about a fyue thouſand men. And he ſayde to hys diſciples: Cauſe them to ſytte downe by fyftyes in a compayne. And they did ſo, and made them all to ſyt downe. And he toke the fyue loues, and the two fiſhes, & loked vp to heauen, and bleſſed them, and brake, and gaue to the diſciples, to ſet before the people. And they all dyd eate, and were ſatiſfyed. And there was taken vp of that remained to them, twelue baſkettes full of broken meate.

* And it fortuned as he was alone prayeng, hys diſciples wer with hym, and he aſked them: ſaying: ‡ Who ſay the people that I am? They anſwered & ſayde: Iohn Baptiſt: Some ſaye Helyas, & ſome ſaye that one of the olde prophetes is riſen. He ſayde vnto them: But who ſay ye that I am? Simon Peter anſwered, and ſayde: * thou arte ỹ Chriſt of God. And he warned & commaunded them that they ſhould tell no man that thyng, ſaying: the ſone of mā muſt ſuffer many thinges, & be reiected of ỹ elders, & of the hie prieſtes & ſcribes, & be ſlain, & ryſe agayne ỹ third day.

And he ſayde to them all: yf any man will come after me, let him deny hym ſelfe, and take vp his croſſe daily, & folowe me. For whoſoeuer will ſaue hys lyfe ſhall loſe it. But whoſoeuer doth loſe his life for my ſake, the ſame ſhal ſaue it. For what auaũtageth it a manne, yf he wynne the whole world, and loſe hym ſelfe, or runne in damage of hym ſelfe? For * whoſo is aſhamed of me, and of my wordes, of him ſhal the ſonne of man be aſhamed, when he cõmeth in his maieſtie, and in the maieſtie of his father, & of the holy angels. I tell you of a truth: * There be ſome ſtanding here, whiche ſhall not taſt of death, tyll they ſe the kingdome of GOD.

* And it fortuned ỹ about an. viii. dayes after theſe ſayinges, he toke Peter & Iohn and Iames, and went vp into a mountain to praye. And as he prayed, the faſhion of his countenaunce was chaunged, and his garment was whyte, & ſhone. And behold there talked with hym two menne, which were Moſes and Helyas, that appeared in the maieſtie, & ſpake of hys departing, whiche he ſhould ende at Ieruſalem. But Peter and they that were with hym, were heauye with ſlepe. And when they awoke they ſawe his maieſtie and two men ſtanding with hym.

* And it chaunſed as they departed from hym, Peter ſayde vnto Ieſus: Maiſter, it is good beyng here for vs. Let vs make alſo thre tabernacles, one for the, and one for Moſes, and one for Helias (& wiſt not what he ſaid.) While he thus ſpake, there came a cloude & ouerſhadowed them, and they feared when they were come into the cloude. And there came a voyce out of the cloude ſaying: * This is my deare ſonne, heare him. And as ſone as the voice was paſte, Ieſus was founde alone. And they kept it cloſe: & tolde no man in thoſe dayes any of theſe thinges which they had ſene.

* And it chaunſed that on the next daye (as they came downe from the hyl) much people met hym. And behold, a man of the company cried out, ſaying: Maiſter, I beſeche the behold my ſonne, for he is all that I haue: and ſee, a ſpyte taketh hym, and ſodenly he cryeth, & (it knocheth) teareth hym, that he ſometh agayne, and with muche payne departeth from hym, when he hath rent hym: and * I beſought thy diſciples to caſte hym oute, and they couldenot. Ieſus anſwerrd and ſayde: O faythles and croked nacion, howe longe ſhal I be with you, and ſhall ſuffer you? Bryng thy ſonne hither. As he was yet a cõming, the fiend rente hym, and tare hym. And Ieſus rebuked the vncleane ſpyte, and healed the chylde, and deliuered hym to hys father.

* And they wer all amaſed at the myghtie power of GOD.

But whyle they wondred euery one at all thynges whiche he did, he ſayed vnto hys diſciples: Let theſe ſayinges ſynke downe into youre eares. For it will come to paſſe: that * the ſonne of man ſhalbe delyuered into the handes of men. ‡ But they wiſt not what that worde ment, & it was hid from them, that they vnderſtode it not. And they feared to aſke hym of ỹ ſaying. And there entred a thought amoyg them which of thē ſhould be the greateſt. When Ieſus perceaued the thoughte of theyre hearte, * he toke a child, & ſet hym harde by him, & ſaid vnto thē: Whoſoeuer receaueth this childe in my name, receaueth me. * And whoſoeuer receaueth me, receaueth hym that ſente me. For he that is leaſte amonge you all, the ſame ſhalbe greate.

And John answered, & sayde: Master, wee sawe one castyng oute deuyls in thy name, and we forbad hym, because he followeth not with vs. And Jesus sayd vnto
Nu.11.g. hym: *forbyd ye hym not. For he that is not agaynste vs, is with vs.

And it fortuned when the tyme was come that he shoulde be receaued vp, he set his face to go to Jerusalem, & sent messengers before hym. And they went and entred into a cytie of the Samaritans, to make ready for him. And they would not receaue hym, because hys face was as though he would go to Jerusalem. Whē his disciples, James & John sawe thys, they sayde: Lorde, wilt thou that we commaunde fyre to come downe from heauen

And he sayde vnto another: folowe me. And the same sayde: Lorde, suffre me firste to go and bury my father. Jesus sayd vnto him: *Let the dead bury their dead: but

2.Re.19.d And another sayde: Lord, *I wil folowe the: but let me first go bydd them fare wel, whiche are at home at my house. Jesus sayde vnto hym: No man that putteth his handes to the plowe, and loketh backe, is apte to the kyngdome of GOD. ¶

¶ The.x. Chapter.

He sendeth the.lxx. before hym to preache, & geueth them a charge howe to behaue them selues, prayseth his heauenly father, answereth the scribe that tempted hym, and (by the example of the samaritane) sheweth who is a mannes neyghbour. Martha receaueth the Lorde into her house. Mary magdalene is diligent in hearyng his worde.

After these thinges, ꝑ Lorde appointed other seuenty (and two) also & sent them two & two before hym into euery citie and place, whither he hymself woulde come. Therfore sayed he Mat.9.b vnto them: the haruest is greate, but the labourers are fewe. Praye ye therefore ꝑ Lorde of the haruest, to sende forth labourers into his haruest. Goe your waies:
* beholde I sende you forthe as lambes among wolues. Beare no wallet, neyther scrip nor shoes, and * salute no manne by the waye. ‡ Into whatsoeuer house ye entre, first saye: Peace bee to this house. And
* yf the sonne of peace bee there, your peace shall rest vpon hym: yf not, it shall turne to you agayne. And in ꝑ same house tary stil, eatyng & drinking suche as they geue. For the labourer is worthy of his reward. ‡

Goe not from house to house, and into whatsoeuer citie ye entre, and they receyue you, eate suche thynges as are set before you, and heale the sicke that are therein, & saye vnto them: the kyngdome of God is come nie vpō you. *But into whatsoeuer
Mat.10.c citie ye entre, and they receyue you not, go your waies out into the stretes of the same, and saye: euen the very dust of your citie (whiche cleaueth on vs) doo we wipe of against you: Notwithstandyng, bee ye sure of this, that the kyngdō of God was come nighe vpon you. I saye vnto you: that it shalbe easier in that daye for Sodō, then for that citie. ‡ Woe vnto the Chorazin: woe vnto the Bethsaida. For yf the miracles had ben doone in Tire and Sydon, whiche haue been done in you, they had (a greate whyle a goe) repented of their sinnes, sittyng in heercloth & asshes.
Neuertheles, it shalbe easier for Tire and Sidon at the iudgement, thē for you. And thou Capernaum (whiche arte exalted to heauen) shalte bee thruste doune to hell.
*He that heareth you, heareth me: and he that despiseth you, despiseth me: and he that despiseth me, despiseth hym that sente me. And ꝑ seuenty turned again with ioye saying: Lorde, euen the verye deuels are subdued to vs through thy name. And he sayed vnto them: * I sawe satan (as it had been lightenyng) fallyng doune from heauen. Beholde, I geue vnto you power, to treade on serpentes, and scorpions, and ouer all maner power of the enemie: & nothyng shall hurte you. Neuertheles, in this reioyce not, that the spirites are subdued vnto you: but reioyce, that * youre names are written in heauen.

That same houre reioyced Jesus in (the holy) ghost, and sayed, I thanke the, O father, * Lorde of heauen and earthe, that thou hast hid these thinges from the wise and prudent, and hast opened them vnto babes. Euē so father, for so pleased it ther.
* All thynges are geuen me of my father. & No manne knoweth, who the sonne is, but but the father, & who the father is but the sonne, & he to whom the sonne will shewe him. And he turned to his disciples, & said secretly: † Happy are the eyes, which see the thinges that ye see. For I tel you that many Prophetes & kynges haue desyred to see those thinges whiche ye see, & haue not seen them: and to heare those thinges whiche ye heare, & haue not hearde them.

C And behold a certaine lawyer stode vp, and tempted him, saying: * Master, what shall I doe, to inherite eternall lyfe? He sayed vnto hym: what is wrytten in the lawe? howe redest thou? And he answered and sayed: Thou shalt loue the Lorde thy God with all thy hearte, & with all thy soule, and with all thy strength, & with all thy minde: & thy neighbour as thy selfe. And he sayd vnto him: Thou haste answered right. This doe, and thou shalt liue. But he wyllyng to iustyfie himselfe sayed vnto Jesus: And who is my neighbour? Jesus answered, and sayed. A certaine man descended from Jerusalem to Hiericho, and fell emong theues, whiche robbed hym of his raymente, and wounded hym and departed, leuyng hym halfe dead. And it chaunced, that there came downe a certayne preiste that same waye, and when he sawe him, he passed by. And likewise a Leuite, when he wente nye to the place, came & loked on him, and passed by.

I But a certain Samaritã, as he iorneyed, came vnto him: and when he sawe him he had cõpassion on him & went to, & bounde vp his woundes, and powred in oyle and wine, and sette hym on his owne beaste, and brought hym to a common inne, and made prouision for hym. And on the morowe, when he departed, he toke out two pence, and gaue them to the hoste, & sayed vnto him. Take cure of him, and whatsoeuer thou spendest more, when I come again, I wil recõpence thee. Which nowe of these three thynkest thou was neyghboure vnto hym that fell emong the theues? And he sayed: he that shewed mercy on hym. Then sayed Jesus vnto hym: Goe, and doe thou lykewyse. †

G † It forzuned that as they went, he entred into a certain towne. And a certaine woman named Martha receiued him into her house. And this womã had a sister called Mary, whiche also sate at Jesus fete, and hearde his worde. But Martha was combred about muche seruyng, and stode & sayed: Lorde doest ỹ not care, that my sister hath left me to serue alone? byd her therfore, that she help me. And Jesus answered, & sayd vnto her: Martha, Martha thou art careful, and troubled about many thynges: verely one is nedefull. Mary hath chosen the good parte, which shall not be taken awaye from her. †

The.xi. Chapter.

He teacheth his disciples to praye, dryueth out a deuyll, and rebuketh the blasphemous Pharises. They require signes and tokens. He fareth with the Pharise, and reproueth the Ypocrysie of the Pharises, Scribes and Ypocrytes.

AND it forzuned as he was praying in a certayne place: when he ceased, one of his disciples sayed vnto hym: Lorde, teache vs to praye, as John also taught his disciples. And he sayd vnto thẽ: when ye pray, say. * O our father whiche art in heauen, halowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy will bee fulfilled, euen in earth also as it is in heauen. And he sayed vnto them: † If any of you shall haue a frende, and shall goe to him at midnight, & saye vnto him: frend lende me three loues, for a frende of mine is come out of the way to me, and I haue nothing to set before him, and he within answer, and say: trouble me not, the dore is nowe shutte, and my children are with me in the chambre, I cannot ryse & geue thee. I saye vnto you, though he will not ryse & geue him because he is his frend, yet because of his importunitie he wyll ryse, & geue hym as many as he nedeth. And I say vnto you: * aske, and it shalbe geuen you. Seke, & ye shal finde: knock, and it shalbe opened vnto you. For euery one that asketh, receyueth: and he that seketh, fyndeth: & to hym that knocketh, shall it be opened. If the sonne shall aske breade of any of you that is a father, will he geue hym a stone? Or yf he aske fishe, wyll he for fishe geue hym a serpente? Or yf he aske an egge, wyll he offer hym a scorpion? deuils through Beelzebub ỳ chiefe of the deuils. And other tẽpted hym, & required of him a signe frõ heauen. But he knowing their thoughtes, sayd vnto them: Euery kingdom deuided against it selfe, is desolate: & one house doeth fall vpõ another. If Satan also, be deuided against himselfe, how shal his kingdom endure? Because ye saye, that I caste out deuils through Beelzebub. If I, by ỳ help of Beelzebub cast out deuils, by whose helpe doe your childrẽ cast them out? Therfore shal they bee your iudges. But if I, with the finger of God caste out deuils, no doubt the kyngdome of God is come vpon you. C

Mat. 12.c *When a stronge man armed watcheth his house: the thinges that he possesseth are in peace. But when a strõger then he commeth vpon hym, & ouercõmeth hym, he taketh frõ him all his harnes (wherin he trusted) & deuideth his goodes. He that is not wt me is against me. And he that gathereth not with me, scattereth abrode.

Mar. 12.d *When the vncleane spirite is gone out of a man, he walketh thorow dry places, seking rest. And whẽ he findeth none, he sayeth: I will returne agayne vnto my house, whence I came out. And when he cõmeth, he findeth it swept & garnished. Then goeth he and taketh to hym seuen other spirytes worse then hymselfe: and they enter in, & dwell there. And the ende of that mã, is worse then the beginnyng. D

And it fortuned that as he spake these thinges, a certain womã of the company lyft vp her voyce & sayd vnto hym: Happye is the wombe that bare thee, and the pappes wiche gaue thee sucke. But he sayed: Yea, happy are they that heare the worde of God, and kepe it. ✠

When the people were gathered thicke together, he began to saye: This is an euell nacion * they seke a signe, and there shall no signe be geuen them, but ỳ signe of Jonas the Prophete. For as Jonas was a signe to the Niniuites, so shall also the sonne of man be to this nacion.

Mat. 12.a * The quene of the south shall rise at the iudgement with the men of this nacion, & condemne them: for she came from the vttermost partes of ỳ earth, to heare the wysedom of Salomõ. And behold a greter then Salomõ is here. The mẽ of Niniue shall ryse at the iudgemente wt this nacion, & shall condemne them: for they were brought to repentaunce by the preching of Jonas. And beholde a greater then Jonas is here. ✠ No man lighteth a cãdel, & putteth it in a priuye place, neither vnder a bushel: but on a candelstick, that they which come in, may see ỳ light. & The light of ỳ body is the eye. Therfore when thine ye is single: al thy body also shalbe full of light. But yf thyne ye bee euil, thy body also shalbe ful of darknes. Take hede therfore, that ỳ light which is in thee, be not darknes. Yf all thy bodye therfore be clere, hauing no parte darke: then shal it be al ful of light, euẽ as when a cãdel doeth light thee with his brightnes. ✠ And as he spake, a certeine pharise besought him to dine with hym, & Jesus wente in, and sat downe to meate. When the pharise sawe it, he merueiled, that he had not fyrste washed before diner. And the Lorde sayed vnto hym: * Nowe do ye pharises, make cleane the outsyde of the cuppe, and the platter: but your inwarde parte is ful of rauening and wickednes. Ye fooles, did not he (that made ỳ which is without) make that which is within also? Neuertheless * geue almose of that ye haue, and behold, al thynges are clene vnto you. * But wo vnto you pharyses, for ye tithe minte and rewe, and al maner herbes, and passe ouer iudgemente and the loue of God. These ought ye to haue done, & yet not to leaue the other vndone.

Luc. 11.f *Woe vnto you pharyses: for ye loue the vppermoste seates in the sinagoges, and gretynges in the market. Woe vnto you scrybes & pharises, ye ypocrytes, for ye are as graues which apeare not, & the men that walke ouer them, are not ware of them. Then answered one of the lawiers, and sayd vnto hym: Mayster, thus saying thou puttest vs to rebuke also. And he sayd: * woe vnto you also ye lawyers: for ye lade men with burthes which they be not able to beare: and ye your selues touch not ỳ packes with one of your fyngers: Woe vnto you * ye build the sepulchres of the Prophetes, and your fathers kylled them, truely ye beare witnes that ye alowe the dedes of your fathers, for they kylled them: and ye builde their sepulchres. Therfore sayde the wysdome of God. * I wyll sende them Prophetes and apostels, and some of them they shal slaye and persecute: that the bloude of all prophetes (which is shed from the beginnyng of the worlde) maye be requyred of thys generacion, from the bloude of * Abell vnto the bloude of Zachary, whyche perished betwene the alter and the temple. Verely I say vnto you: it shalbe required of this nacion.

Wo vnto you lawers: for ye haue taken away the keye of knowlage: ye entred not in youre selues, and them that came in ye forbad. Whē he thus spake vnto them, the lawers and the pharises began to wax busie aboute him, & capciously to aske him many thinges, laying waite for hym, and seking to catche some thinge of his mouthe wherby they might accuse him.

¶ The. xii. Chapter.

The leuen of the Pharises, Christe conforteth his disciples against persecution, warneth them to beware of couetousnes, by the similitude of a certaine riche man, he wil not haue thē to hange vpon earthly thinges, but to watche, and to be ready against his commyng.

AS there gathered together an innumerable multitude of people (insomuche that they trode one another) he began to say vnto his disciples: first of al * be ware of the leuen of the pharises, whiche is Ipocrisye. * For there is nothyng couered, that shall not bee vncouered: neither hyd, that shall not bee knowen. * For what thynges ye haue spoken in darkenesse, shalbee hearde in the lighte. And that whiche ye haue spoken in the eare, euen in secrete places, shalbee preached on the toppe of the houses. * I saie vnto you my frendes: be not afraied of them that kyll the bodye, and after that haue no more, that they can do. But I will shewe you, whom ye shal feare. Feare him which after he hath killed, hath power to caste into hell. Yea I saye vnto you: feare hi. Are not .b. sparowes bought for two farthinges? And not one of thē is forgotten of God. Also euen the verye heeres of youre heade are all noumbred. Feare not therefore, ye are more of value then manye sparowes.

I saye vnto you * euery one: whosoeuer confesseth me before menne, hym shall the sonne of manne knowledge also before the angelles of God. And he that denieth me before menne, shalbee denied before the angelles of God. * And whosoeuer speaketh a word against the sonne of manne, it shal be forgeuē hym. * But vnto him that blasphemeth the holye ghoste, it shall not bee forgeuen. When they bryng you vnto the sinagoges, and vnto the rulers and officers, take ye no thoughte, howe or what thynge ye shall answeare, or what ye shal speake. For the holye ghost shal teache you in the same houre, what ye ought to saye.

+ One of the company said vnto him: Maister speake to my brother, that he deuide the inheritaunce with me. And he said vnto hym: Manne, who made me a iudge or a deuider ouer you? And he sayed vnto them: take hede & beware of couetousnes. For no mans lyfe standeth in the aboundaunce of the thinges whiche he possesseth. And he put forth a similitude vnto them, saying: The grounde of a certayne ryche man brought foorth plenteful fruites, and he thought within hymselfe, saying: what shal I do, because I haue no roume wher to bestow my fruites? And he saied: This wyll I doo. I wyll destroye my barnes, and builde greater, and therein wyl I gather all my goodes that are growen vnto me: and I wyll saye to my soule: Soule * thou hast muche goodes layed vp in store for many yeres, take thine ease: eat, drinke, be mery. But God sayed vnto him * Thou foole, this night will they fetche away thy soule againe from thee. Then whose shal those thynges bee, whiche thou haste prouided? So is it with hym that gathereth riches to himselfe, and is not riche toward God.

And he spake vnto his disciples: Therefore I saye vnto you. * Take no thoughte for youre lyfe, what ye shal eate, neyther for the bodye, what ye shal putte on. The life is more then meate, and the body is more thē rayment. Consider the rauens, for they neyther sowe nor reape, whiche neyther haue store house nor barne, and God fedeth them. How muche are ye better then fethered foules?

* Whiche of you (with his taryng thought) cā adde to his stature one cubite? If ye then be not able to do þ thing which is least: why take ye thought for þ rēnaūte Consider þ lilies how they growe: They laboure not: they spyn not: and yet I saye vnto you, that Salomon in al his rotalty, was not clothed lyke one of these. If God so clothe the grasse (whiche is to day in the felde, & to morow is caste into þ fornace) howe muche more will he clothe you, O ye of litle fayth? And aske not ye what ye shal eate, or what ye shall drynke, neyther clyme ye hyghe on hye: for all suche thinges do the heathen people of þ worlde seeke for. Youre father knoweth, þ ye haue nede of suche thinges. Wherefore, * seeke ye after the kingdom of God, and al these thynges shalbe ministred vnto you.

+Feare not litle flocke, for it is youre fathers pleasure, to geue you the kingdō.
Mat.19.c *Sell that ye haue, and geue almes. And Mat.10.c prepare you bagges, whiche wax not old euen a treasure that faileth not in heauen, where no theefe cōmeth, neither moth corrupteth. For where your treasure is, there wil your harte be also.

C *Let your loines bee gyrt about, & youre

1.Pet.1.c selues like vnto menne that waite for their Lorde, when he wyll returne from the weddynge: that when he commeth and knocketh, they maie open vnto him immediatly: happie are those seruauntes, whō the Lord (when he commeth) shall finde waking. Verely I saye vnto you, that he shall girde himselfe about and make them to sitte downe to meate, and walke by, and ministre vnto them. And if he come in the seconde watche: yea, if he come in the thirde watche, and fynd them so, happy are those seruauntes. This vnderstande, that yf the good man of the house knewe what houre the theefe would come, he would surely watche, and not suffer his house to be broken vp. *Be ye therefore ready also: for the mat.25.c. the Lord said: who is a faithfull and wise stewarde, whom his Lord shal make ruler ouer his houshold, to geue them their due eye of meate in due season? *happie is mat.24.b seruaunte saye in his harte: *My Lorde will deferre his commyng (and shall beegynne to smite seruauntes and maidens, and to eate and drinke & to bee dronken) the Iaco.4.b þ vnbeleuers. *The seruaunt that knewe his maisters wil and prepared not himself neither dyd accordyng to his wyll, shalbee beaten with many stripes. But he þ knewe not, & did commit thinges worthy of stripes, shalbe beaten with few stripes. For vnto whōsoeuer much is geuen, of him shalbe much required. And to whom mē haue committed muche: of him will they aske þ more. I am come to send fyre on earth, and what is my desire, but that it wer already kindled? Notwithstanding I muste *be

Mat. baptised with a baptisme: and how am I

Mat. I am come to sende peace on yearth? I tel
G you nay, but rather deuision. For frō hence forth there shalbee fiue in one house, deuyded, thre against two, & two against thre. The father shalbe deuided against þ sōne, and the sonne against the father. The mother against the doughter, & the doughter against the mother. The mother in law against her doughter in lawe, & the doughter in lawe, against her mother in lawe.

He saide also to the people: *when ye see
Mat. a cloude ryse out of the west, strayght way ye say: there commeth a shower, & so it is. And when ye see the south winde blowe, ye saye: it wyll bee hote, and it commeth to passe. Ye ypocrites, ye can discerne the outwarde appearaunce of the skye and of the earth: but how happeneth it, þ ye can not skill of this time? yea, and why iudge ye not of your selues what is right?
mat.5 luc.12 *When thou goest with thine aduersarie to the ruler, as thou art in the way geue diligence that thou mayeste bee deliuered from hym, least he bring thee to the iudge, and the iudge deliuer thee to the layler, and the layler caste thee into prisone. I tell the, thou shalt not depart thence, til thou haue made good the vtmost mite.

The.xiii.Chapter.

Of the Galileans whom Pilate slew, and of those that died in Siloe. The similitude of the figge tree. Christ healeth the sicke woma. The parable of the mustard seede and leuen. Of the entre into the kingdome. Christ reproueth Herode and Ierusalem.

There wer present at þ same season, 21
certain mē that shewed him of þ Galileans, whose bloude Pilate had myngled vñ their owne sacrifice. And Iesus answered & saide vnto them: Suppose ye that these *Galileans were greater sinners then al the other Galileans, because they suffered suche punishemente? I tell you naye: but except ye repente, ye shal all like wise perishe. Or those .xviii. vpon whiche the toure in Siloe fell, and slewe them, thynke ye, that they were sinners aboue all men that dwelt in Ierusalem? I tell you naye: But except ye repente, ye all shall likewyse perishe.

+He told also this similitude: a certain B
mann hadde a* figge tree planted in his mark.11 vineyarde, and he came and sought fruyte thereon, and found none. Then said he to þ dresser dresser of hys vineyarde: behold, thys three yere haue I come & soughte fruit in this figtree, & find none, cut it downe: why cũbreth it the ground? & he answered & said vnto hi: Lord, let it alone this yere also, till I digge round about it: & dong it, to se whether it will beare fruit: and if it beare not then, after that shalte thou cut it down. And he taught in one of their Synagogues on the Sabboth dales. And behold, there was a woman whiche had a spirite of infirmitie. xviii. yeres: & was bowed together, & couldе in nó wise lift vp her head. Whē Jesus saw her, he called her to him, & said vnto her: woman thou art deliuered frō thy disease. And he layed his handes on her, & immediatly she was made streight, & glorifyed God. And the ruler of the synagoge answered with indignation (because that Jesus had healed on ỳ Sabboth day) & sayd vnto the people. There are sixe dayes in whiche men oughte to worke, in thē come, that ye may bee healed, and not on the Sabboth day.

The Lorde answered him, & sayd: Thou ipocrite, doth not eche one of you on ỳ Sabboth day * leuse his oxe or his asse frō the stal, & leade him to ỳ watere? And ought not this daughter of Abrahā whō Satā hath boūd (lo. xviii. yeres) be leused frō this bōd on ỳ Sabboth daye? And whē he thus said, al hys aduersaries wer ashamed, & al the people reioised on al the excellente dedes, that were done by him.

Thē said he: what is the kingdō of god lyke? or wherto shal I compare it? * It is like a graine of mustardsede, which a mā toke, & sowed in his gardē, & it grew & waxed a great tree, & the foules of ỳ ayre made nestes in the braunches of it.

And agayn he said: wherunto shal I liken the kingdom of god? * it is like leuen, which a woman toke, & hid in three pecks of meale, til al was leuened. And he went thorow all cities and townes, teaching, & iourneying towardes Jerusalē. Then said one vnto him: Lord, are there fewe that be saued? And he sayde vnto him: striue to * entre in at the strait gate: for many (I say vnto you) will seeke to entre in, and shall not bee able. When the good man of the house is risen vp, & hath shut to the doze, & ye begin to stāde without & to knocke at the doze, saying: Lord, Lord, open vnto vs, & he answer and saye vnto you: (I knowe you not whence ye are.) Then shall ye begin to say: we haue eaten & dronkē in thy presence, & thou hast taught in our stretes. And he shal say: I tell you, I know you not whence ye are: departe from me all ỳ worke iniquitie. There shalbe weping and gnashyng of teeth, whē ye shal see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, and al ỳ prophetes in the kingdome of God, and ye your selues thrust out. * And thei shal come from the east & from the west, and from the northe & from the south, & shal sit downe in ỳ kingdom of god. And behold, ther are last, which shalbe first. And there are first which shalbe laste.

The same day came there certaine of ỳ pharisei, and sayd vnto him: gette thee out of the waye, and departe hence: for Herode will kill thee. And he sayd vnto them: Goe ye, and tell that foxe, beholde I caste out deuils & heale the people to day and to morow, and the third daye I make an ende. Neuertheiesse I muste walke to day & to morow, and the daye folowing: for it cānot be ỳ a prophet perishe any other where, saue at Jerusalē. * O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, whiche killest prophetes, and stonest them that are sente vnto thee: howe oft would I haue gathered thy childrē together, as a birde doeth gather her young vnder her winges, and ye would not? Behold your habitation is left vnto you desolate. I tel you ye shall not see me, vntyll the tyme come that ye shall say: blessed is he that cummeth in the name of the Lorde.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

Jesus eateth with the Pharisee, healeth ỳ dropsy vpon the Sabboth, teacheth to be lowly, refuseth of the great supper, and warneth them that wil folowe hym, to laye their accoumptes before, what it wil cost them. The salt of the earth.

And it chaūced, ỳ he wēt into ỳ house of one of ỳ chefe pharisei's to eate bread on a sabboth day: & they watched hym. And behold, there was a certayn man before him which had ỳ dropsy. And Jesus answered & spake vnto the lawiers & pharisei's, saying: * is it lawful to heale on ỳ Sabboth daye? And they helde their peace. And he tooke hym & healed him, & let hym go: and answered them, saying: whiche of you shall haue * an asse or an oxe fallen into a pitte, & wil not straight way pul him out on the Sabboth daye? And they could not answere him again to these thinges.

He putte furthe also a similitude to the B geastes, when he marked how thei preased to the highest rowmes, & sayd vnto them. Whē thou art bidden of any man to a wedding, sit not downe in the highest roume, leste a more honorable man then thou bee bidden of him, and he that bad
him and thee come and say to thee: geue
this man rowme, and thou then begyn with shame to take ꝑ lowest roume. But rather when thou art bidden, goe and sit in the lowest roume, that when he ꝑ bad thee cummeth, he maye saye vnto thee:
ꝑ 20.ii.a. *frende, sit vp hyer. Then shalte ꝑ haue
C worshipp in the presence of them that sit at meate with thee. † For whosoeuer exal-Mat.23.d teth himselfe, shalbe brought low: And Luc.18.c. he ꝑ humbleth himselfe, shalbe exalted. †

Then said he also to him that had desired him to dinner. † When thou makest a diner or a supper, cal not thy frendes, nor thy brethre, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy ryche neyghbours: lest they also bid thee agayn, and a recompence bee made thee. But when thou makest a feast, call the poore, the feble, the lame, & the blind,
and thou shalt be happy, for they cannot recompence thee. But ꝑ shalte be recompensed at ꝑ resurrection of the iust men.

When one of thē that sat at meate also D hearde these thynges, he sayde vnto him: happie is he that eateth bread in the kingdom of God. † Then sayde he vnto Mat.22.a hym. *† A certaine man ordeined a great Luc.14.b. supper, and bad many, and sent his seruaunt at supper tyme, to saye to them ꝑ
were biddē, come: for al thinges are now ready. And thei al at once began to make excuse. The firste sayd vnto hym: I haue bought a farme, and I must nedes goe & see it, I pray thee haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue bought fyue yoke of oxen, & I goe to proue them, I pray thee haue me excused. And another sayd:
I haue maried a wyfe, and therefore I cannot come. And ꝑ seruaunt returned & brought his master word again therof.
E Then was ꝑ good man of the house displeased, & said to hys seruaunte: Goe out quickly into ꝑ stretes & quarters of the citie, & bring in hither the poore, and the feble, and the halt and the blind. And the seruaūt sayd: lord it is done as thou hast commaunded, & yet there is roume.
And ꝑ lord sayd to ꝑ seruaunte: Goe out Gene.19.a vnto the hie wayes & hedges, and cōpel
them to come in, that my house maye bee filled. For I say vnto you, that none of those men which were bidden, shal taste of my supper. † There wente a great cōpanye with him, & he turned, and sayde
vnto them: *† If a manne come to me, and hate not his father and mother, and wife and childrē, & brethren, and sisters, yea, and his owne lyfe also: he cannot be F my disciple. And whosoeuer dooeth not beare his crosse, and come after me, cannot bee my disciple. Whiche of you disposed to build a toure, sitteth not downe before, and counteth the coste, whether he haue sufficient to perfourme it? Leste after he hath layed the foundacyon, and is not hable to perfourme it, al ꝑ behold
it, begynne to mocke hym, saying: this man began to build, and was not hable to make an ende. Or what kyng goyng
to make battayl agaynst an other kyng, sitteth not down first, and casteth in his mynde, whether he bee hable with tenne
thousande, to mete hym, that cummeth agaynst him with twenty thousande? Or els whyle the other is yet a great waye of, he sendeth ambassadours, and desyreth peace. So lykewyse whosoeuer he bee of you, that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot bee my Disciple. †
*Salt is good, but if Salte haue loste
the saltnes, what shalbe seasoned therewith? It is neither good for the lande, nor yet for the dounghyll, but men cast
it out of the doores. He that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

The.xv. Chapter.†

The louing mercy of God is openly set furth in the parable of the hundreth shepe, and of the penne that was lost.

Then resorted vnto him *al the publicans & sinners, for to heare him. And the pharisees, & scribes murmured, saying. He receiueth sinners, & eateth with thē. But he put furth this parable vnto thē, saying.

*What manne among you hauyng
an hundred shepe (if he lose one of them)
doth not leaue ninetie and nine in the wildernes, & go after ꝑ which is lost, vntill he find it? And when he hath founde it he layeth it on his shoulders with ioy. And assone as he cūmeth home, he calleth together his louers and neighbours, saying vnto them. Reioyce with me, for I haue found my shepe whiche was loste.
I say vnto you, that lykewyse ioy shall

bee in heauen ouer one synner that repenteth more then ouer nintie and nine iuste persones, which nede no repentaunce. Either what woman hauyng .x. grotes, yf she lese one) doothe not lighte a candel, and swepe the house, and seke diligently tyll she fynde it. And when she hath founde it, she calleth her louers and her neyghbours together, saying: Reioyce with me, for I haue found ỳ grote which I hadde lost. Likewyse I saye vnto you, shall there be ioye in the presence of the angels of God, ouer one synner * that repenteth. *

C And he sayed: A certaine manne had .ii. sonnes, and the younger of them sayed vnto the father: father, geue me the porcion of the goodes, that to me belongeth. And he deuided vnto them hys substance. And not longe after, whan the younger sonne had gathered al that he hadde together, he toke his iourney into a farre countrye, and there * he wasted his goodes with riotous liuyng. And whan he hadde spent all, there arose a greate dearth in all that lande, and he began to lacke, and wente, and came to a citezen of that same countrei: and he sente hi to his ferme, to kepe swine. And he would faine haue filled his belly with the coddes that the swine dyd eate: and no man gaue vnto hym.

D Then he came to hymselfe, and sayed: howe manye hyred seruauntes at my fathers haue bread ynough, and I perysshe with hunger. I wyll aryse, and goe to my father, and will saye vnto hym: father, I haue synned againste heauen, and before thee, and am no more worthy to bee called thy sonne, make me as one of thy hyred seruauntes. And he arose, and came to his father. * But when he was yet a greate waye of, his father sawe hym, and hadde compassyon, and ranne, and fell on hys necke, and kissed hym. And the sonne sayed vnto him: father, I haue synned agaynste heauen, and in thy syght, and am no more worthye to bee called thy sonne. But the father said to his seruauntes: bryng forth the best garmente, and put it on hym, and E put a ryng on hys hande, and shoes on his feete. And bringe hyther that fat calfe, and kyll it, and let vs eate and bee merye: for this my sonne was dead, and is alyue agayne, he was loste and is founde. And they began to be merye.

The elder brother was in the fielde: and when he came and drewe nye to the house, he hearde minstrelsy and daunsyng, and called one of his seruauntes, & asked what those thynges mente. And he sayed vnto him: thy brother is come, and thy father hath killed ỳ fat calfe, because he hath receyued him safe and sound. And he was angrie, and would not go in. Then came his father out and intreated hym. He answered, and sayed to his father: Lo, these many yeares haue I done the seruice, neyther brake at anye tyme thy commaundement, and yet gauest thou me neuer a kyd to make merye with my frendes: but assoone as this thy sonne was come (which hath deuoured thy goodes with harlottes) thou hast for his pleasure killed ỳ fat calfe. And he sayed vnto him: Sonne, thou art euer with me, and al that I haue is thine: it was mete that we should make merye and be gladde: for this thy brother was dead, and is alyue agayne: and was loste, and is founde. *

The parable of the wicked Mammon. Not one title of Gods word shall perysshe. Of the ryche man and of poore Lazarus.

AND he sayed also vnto his disciples + There was a certain riche man, whiche had a steward, and the same was accused vnto hym that he hadde wasted his goodes. And he called him, and saied vnto him: how is it, ỳ I heare this of thee? Geue accomptes of thy stewardshyp: for thou mayest bee no longer stewarde. The stewarde sayde within hymselfe: what shal I doe? for my mayster taketh awaie from me the stewardshippe. I cannot dygge, and to beg I am ashamed. I wote what to dooe, that when I am put out of the stewardshippe they maye receiue me into theyr houses.

So when he had called all his maysters detters together, he sayed vnto the fyrste: B how much owest thou vnto my maister? And he sayed: an hundred tunnes of oyle. And he sayed vnto hym: take thy byll, and syt̃e downe quickelye, and write fyftye. Then sayde he to another: howe muche owest thou? And he said: an hundred quarters of wheate. The.xix. Chapter.

Of Zacheus, and the ten seruauntes, to whō the talentes were deliuered. Christ rydeth to Ierusalem, and weepeth ouer it.

AND he entred in, and went through Iericō. And beholde ther was a man named Zacheus, which was a ruler among the publicanes, & was riche also. And he sought e meanes to see Iesus, what he should be, and could not for ỳ preace, because he was lite of stature. And he ran before, & clymed vp into a wild figtree, to se him, for he was to come that way. And whē Iesus cam to ỳ place, he loked vp, & saw him, and sayd vnto him: Zache, come downe at once, for to day I must abide at thy house. And he cam downe hastely & * receiued him ioyfully. And whē Act.16.f they sawe it, they al grudged, saying: He is gone in to tarye wt a man ỳ is a sinner. B

And Zache stode furth, and saied vnto the lorde: beholde lorde, the halfe of my goodes I geue to the poore: & if I haue doone anye man wrong, I restore hym foure folde. Iesus sayd vnto hym: this day is health happened vnto this house, because ỳ he also is become the child of Abraham: * for the sonne of manne is Mat.18.d come to seeke, & to saue that which was lost. ✠ As they hearde these thynges, he added added thereto a parable, because he was nie to Jerusalem, and because they thought, ỹ the kingdom of God should shortly appeare. He sayd therfore: ✣ a certayn noble man wēt into a farre coūtrey to receiue him a kingdom, & to come again. And he called his tenne seruaūtes, and deliuered them tenne pounde, saying vnto them: Occupie, till I come. But his citezens hated hym, and sent a message after hym, saying: we will not haue this man to reigne ouer vs.

And it came to passe, ỹ when he had receiued his kingdom, he returned, & commaunded these seruaūtes to ber called vnto him (to whō he had geuē ỹ money) to wete how muche euery man had doē. Then came the firste, saying: Lorde, thy pounde hath gayned .x. pounde. And he sayd vnto hym: well thou good seruaūt, because ỹ hast ben faythfull in a very litle thyng, haue thou auctozitie ouer ten cities. And another came, saying: Lorde, thy poūd hath made fiue poūd. And to ỹ same he sayed: be thou also ruler ouer .v. cities. And an other came, saying: lorde behold here is thy pound, which I haue kepte in a napkyn: for I feared thee, because thou art a straighte man: ỹ takeste vp ỹ thou laydest not downe, and reapest that thou dyddest not sowe. He saith vnto hym: & Of thyne owne mouthe, will I iudge thee thou euill seruaunt. Knewest thou ỹ I am a straighte man, taking vp that I layed not downe, & reaping that I did not sowe. And wherfore gauest not ỹ my money into the banke, & at my comming I might haue required mine owne with vantage. And he sayd vnto them ỹ stode by: take from hym ỹ pound, & geue it hym that hath tenne pound. And they sayd vnto him: Lorde, he hath ten poūd. For I say vnto you, ỹ & vnto euery one whiche hath, shalbe geuen (and he shall haue aboundaunce) and from hym that hathe not shalbe taken awaye, euen that which he hath. Moreouer, those myne enemies (which would not ỹ I should reigne ouer them) bring hither, & slee them before me. ✣ And when he had thus spoken, he proceded furthe takyng his iourney, to go vp to Jerusalem. ✣✣ And it fortuned when he was come nye to Bethphage, & Bethany, besides the mounte whiche is called Oliuete, he sent two of his disciples, saying: go ye into the towne which is ouer agaynst you: into the which as soone as ye are come, ye shall fynd an asses colte tied, whereon yet neuer manne satte. Lowse him, and bryng him hither. And if any manne aske you; why doe ye lowse him? Thus shall ye say vnto him: the lorde hath nede thereof.

They that were sent, wēt their way, & founde euen as he had sayed vnto them. And as they were a lowsyng the colte, the owners therof sayed vnto them: why lowse ye the colte? And they saied: for the lord hath nede of him. And thei brought hym to Jesus, and caste their rayment on the colte, and sette Jesus thereon. And as he went, thei spred their clothes in the waye. And when he was nowe come nigh to the gooyng downe of the mount Oliuet, the whole multitude of ỹ disciples began to reioyse & to praise God with a loud voyce, for al the miracles ỹ they had seene, saying: ✣ blessed be the king ỹ cūmeth in the name of the Lord: peace in heauen, & glory in the hiest. And some of ỹ pharisees of the cūpany saide vnto him: maister rebuke thy disciples. He sayde vnto them: I tell you, ỹ if these hold their peace, then shal ỹ stones crie. ✣ And whē he was come nere, he beheld ỹ citie, and wept ouer it saying: If ỹ hadest knowen those thinges which belōg vnto thy peace, euē in this thy day thou wouldest take hede. But nowe are they hid frō thyne eies. For ỹ dayes shal come vpon thee ✣ that thy enemyes also shall caste a banke about thee, and compasse thee rounde, & kepe thee in on euery syde, and make thee euen with the grounde, & thy children which are in thee. And they ✣ shall not leaue in thee one stone vpon another, because thou knowest not the tyme of thy visitacion. & And he went in to the temple, and began to caste out thē that sold therin, and them that bought, saying vnto them: It is written ✣ my house is the house of prayer: but ye haue made it a denne of theues: And he taught dayly in the temple. ✣✣ But the priestes & the scribes and the chiefe of ỹ people, wēt about to destroy hi & could not fynde what to do. F Jesus answered and said vnto them: The childrē of this worlde marry wiues and are maryed: but they which shalbe counted worthy of that worlde and the resurrection from the dead, do not marry wyues, neyther are maried, nor yet can dye anye more. For they are equal vnto the angels, and are * the sonnes of God: in asmuche as they are chyldren of the resurrection. And that the dead shal rise again, Moses also sheweth besides the bushe, when he calleth the lorde, ꝑ God of Abraham, and the God of Jsaac, and the God of Jacob. For he is not a God of dead, but of liuing. For all liue vnto him. Then certayne of the pharisees answered, and said: Master, thou hast wel

And he saied vnto them: * how say thei that Christe is Dauids sonne? And Dauyd hymselfe sayethe in the booke of the Psalmes: * The Lorde sayed vnto my Lorde: sitte thou on my righte hande, tyll I make thyne enemies thy foote stoole. Dauid therefore calleth hym Lorde: and howe is he then his sonne?

Then in the audience of all the people, he sayde vnto his disciples: * beware of ỹ scribes, which wil go in long clothing: and loue gretynges in the markets, and the hieste seates in the synagoges, and the chiefe roumes at feastes, whiche deuoure wyddowes houses, fayning longe prayers, ỹ same shall receyue greater damnacion.

¶ The. xxi. Chapter.

Christe commendeth the poore widdow, telleth of the destruccion of Jerusalem, of false teachers, of ỹ tokens and troubles for to come, of the ende of the worlde, and of his owne comming.

And he beheld * he saw the riche men, whiche caste in their offerynges into the treasurye. He saw also a certain poore widdowe, whiche caste in thyther two mites. And he saide: of a trueth I say vnto you * that this poore widdow hath put in more, then they al. For they al haue of theyr superfluitie added vnto the offeringes of God: but she, of her penury hath caste in all the substaunce that she had.

And vnto some that spake of the temple, how it was garnished wt goodlye stones and ie weis, he sayde: * The dayes wyll come, i the which (of these thinges which ye see) there shal not be left one stone vpon another, that shal not be throwen down. And they asked him saying: Maister, whē shall these thynges be, & what sygne wyll there be, when such thinges come to passe? And he sayde: * take heade, that ye bee not deceyued. For many shall come in my name, and saye that they are Christe: & the tyme draweth neare. Folowe ye not them therefore. But when ye heare of warres and sedicions, bee not afrayed. For these thynges muste first come to passe: but the ende foloweth not by and by: Then saied he vnto thē: * Naciō shal rise against nacion, and kingdom against kingdom, & greate earthquakes shalbe in al places, and honger, & pestilence, & fearfull thynges. And greate signes shall there bee from heauen. But before al these * they shal laye handes on you, and persecute you, deliuering you vp to the synagoges and into prisons, & shal bring you vnto kinges and rulers for my names sake. And this shall chaunce you for a testimoniall. Be at a sure poynct therfore in your heartes, not to studye before, what ye shall answere: for * I wyl geue you a mouth and wisedome where against al your aduersaries * shal not be able to speake nor resiste: Moreouer ye shalbe betrayed of your fathers and mothers, and brethrē, & kinsfolke and frendes, and some of you shall they putte to death. And hated shall you be of all menne for my names sake, and there shall not one heere of youre heade perishe. Possesse ye youre soules by patience.

* And when ye see Jerusalem besieged with an hoste, then be sure that the desolacion of the same is nye. Then lette them which are in Jewry fly to ỹ mountaines. And lette them which are in the middes of it, departe oute. And let not them that are in other countreies, enter therein. For these are ỹ daies of vengeaunce, that al thinges whiche are written, maie be fulfilled. But wo vnto them that ber with childe, and to them ỹ geue sucke in those dayes: for there shalbe greate trouble in the lande, and * wrath ouer all this people. And thei shal fal through the edge of ỹ sweard, & shalbe led away captiue into all nacions. And Jerusalē shalbe troden down of ỹ gētiles vntill the time of the gentiles be fulfylled.

 And there shalbe signes in the sunne and in the moone, & in the starres: and in the earth ỹ people shalbe at their wittes ende throughe dispaire. The sea and the water shall roare, and mens heartes shall fayle thē for feare, & for loking after those thinges whiche shall come on the yearth. For the powers of heauē shall moue. And then shall they see the sonne of manne come in a cloude with power and greate glorie. When these thinges begynne to come to passe, then loke vp, & lifte vp your heades for youre redempcion draweth nye.

* And he shewed them a similitude: beholde the fygge tree, & all the trees, when thei shoote forth, they bud, ye see and knowe of youre owne selues, that somer is then nie at hande. So likewyse ye also (when ye see these thynges come to passe) be sure, that the kyngdome of God is nye. Verely, I saye vnto you: this generacion shall not passe, tyll all be fulfylled. And hys sweate was lyke droppes of bloude, trickling downe to the ground. And when he rose vp frō prayer and was come to hys disciples, he found them sleping for heauines, and sayde vnto them: why slepe ye? Rise, and pray, leste ye fall into temptacion. *While he yet spake: beholde there came a companye, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelue, wente before them, and preased nigh vnto Jesus to kisse him. ¶ The. xxiiii. Chapter.

The women come to the graue, Christe appeareth vnto the two disciples that go towarde Emaus, standeth in the middest of all his disciples, openeth theyr vnderstandyng in the scriptures, geueth them a charge, and ascendeth vp to heauen.

BVt vpō the first day of the Sabbothes, very early i the morning they came vnto the sepulchre, and broughte the swete odoures whiche they hadde prepared, and other women wyth them. And they founde the stone rolled awaye from the sepulchre, and they wente in: but founde not the bodye of the Lorde Jesu. And it happened as they wer amased thereat: Beholde, two menne stode by them in shinyng garmentes * And as thei were afrayed, and bowed downe theyr faces to the earth, they sayd vnto them: why seke ye the liuing amonge the deade? he is not here, but is risen. Remembre howe he spake vnto you, whē he was yet in Galile, saying that the sonne of man must be deliuered into the handes of sinfull mē and be crucified, and the thirde day rise agayne.

And they remembred his woordes and returned from the sepulchre, and tolde all these thinges vnto those eleuen, and to all the remnaunte. * It was Marye Magdalen, and Joanna, and Marye Jacobye and other that were with them, whiche tolde these thynges vnto the Apostles. And their woordes semed vnto them fained thinges, neither beleued they thē. Thē arose Peter and ranne vnto the sepulchre, and looked in, and sawe the lynnen clothes layed by themselfe, and departed, wondering in himself at ỳ which had happened. ỳ B

* * And beholde two of them went that same daye to a toune (called Emaus) which was from Jerusalem aboute three score furlonges, and they talked together of all these thynges that hadde hapened. And it chaunsed, that while thei communed together and reasoned, Jesus himselfe drewe nere, * and went with them. But their eies were holden, that they shoulde not know him. And he sayde vnto them: What maner of communications are these that ye haue one to another, as ye walke, and are sad. And the one of thē (whose name was Cleophas) aunswered and said vnto him: art thou onlye a straunger in Jerusalem, and haste not knowen the thinges whiche haue chaunsed there in these daies? he said vnto them: what thynges?

And thei said vnto him: of Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophete, mighty in dede and woorde before God and all the people: and howe the hie priestes, and oure rulers deliuered him to be condemned to death: and haue crucified hym. But we trusted that it had bene he which should haue redemed Israel. And as touching all these thynges, to daie is euen the thirde daye, that they were done.

AS sone as the lord knewe, how the Pharisees had hearde that Jesus made and baptised moe disciples then John (though ỹ Jesus himselfe baptised not, but his disciples) he left Jewry, and departed agayn into Galile. For it was so that he must nedes go thorow Samaria. ✠ Thẽ came he to a citie of Samaria (which is called Sichar) besides the possession that Jacob gaue to hys sonne Joseph. And there was Jacobs well. Jesus thẽ being wery of his iourney, sate thus on the wel. And it was about the .vi. houre: and there came a woman of Samaria to drawe water. Jesus sayth vnto her: geue me drinke. For his disciples were gone away vnto the towne, to bye meat. Thẽ sayth the woman of Samaria vnto him: how is it that thou being a Jew askest drinke of me, which am a Samaritane? For the Jewes medle not with the Samaritans. Jesus answered and sayde vnto her: if thou knewest the gifte of God, and who it is that sayeth to the geue me drinke, thou wouldest haue asked of hym, and he would haue geuen thee water of life. The womã saith vnto hym: Sir, thou haste nothing to drawe with, and the wel is depe: from whence then haste thou that water of lyfe? Arte thou greater then oure father Jacob which gaue vs the wel, and he himselfe dranke therof, and his children, and his catelle

Jesus answered, and sayde vnto her: whosoeuer drinketh of this water, shall thirst agayne. But whosoeuer dryeketh of the water that I shall geue him, shall neuer be more a thirste: but the water ỹ I shall geue him, shalbe in him a well of water springyng vp into euerlastyng lyfe. The woman sayth vnto him: Sir, geue me of that water, that I thirst not, neyther come hither to drawe. Jesus saith vnto her: Go call thyne husbande, and come hither. The woman answered and sayd vnto him: I haue no husbande. Jesus sayde vnto her: Thou hast well sayd: I haue no husband. For thou hast had fiue husbandes, and he whom thou nowe hast, is not thy husbande. In that saydst thou truely.

The woman sayeth vnto hym: *Sir,

I perceiue that thou art a prophet. Our fathers wurshipped in this mountaine: and ye say that in Ierusalem is the place where men oughte to wurshyp. Iesus sayeth vnto her: woman, beleue me, the houre cummeth, when ye shal (neyther in this mountayne, nor yet at Ierusalem) wurshyp the father. Ye wurshyp ye wot not what: we know what we wurship. *For saluacyon cummeth of the Iewes. But the houre cummeth & now is, whē the true wurshippers shal worship the father *in spirite, & in the truth. For suche the father also requireth to wurshippe hym. * God is a spirite, and they that wurshyp hym, muste wurship him in spirite and in the trueth.

The woman sayth vnto hym: I wot that Messias shal come, which is called Christ. When he is come, he will tel vs all thynges. Iesus sayeth vnto her: * I that speake vnto thee, am he. And immediately came hys disciples, & marueiled that he talked with the woman. Yet no mā said: what meanest thou, or why talkest thou with her? The womā then left her waterpot, and wente her waye into the citie, and sayth to the men: Come, see a man whiche tolde me all thinges that euer I did. Is not he Christ? Then they went out of the citie, & came vnto hym.

In the meane whyle hys disciples prayed hym, saying: Maister, eate. He sayed vnto them: I haue meate to eate, that ye know not of. Therfore saide the disciples emong themselues: hath anye man brought hym ought to eate? Iesus sayeth vnto them: my meate is to doo the will of him that sente me, and to fynishe his woorke. Say not ye, there are yet foure monethes, and then cummeth harueste? Beholde, I say vnto you: lyfte vp your eyes, and looke on the regions, for they are whyte already vnto harueste. * And he that reapeth, receiueth reward, and gathereth fruite vnto lyfe eternal: that both he that soweth, & he that reapeth, might reioyce together. And herein is the saying true, that one soweth, & another reapeth. I sēt you to reape that, wherin ye bestowed no labour. Other men laboured, & ye are entred into their labours. Many of the Samaritans of that citie beleued on him, for the saying of the womā, which testified that he told her al that euer she did. So whē the Samaritans were come vnto him, they besought hym that he would tary with thē. And he abode ther two dayes. And manye moe beleued because of his owne woordes, & said vnto the woman. Now we beleue, not because of thy saying: * for we haue heard hym our selues, and know that this is euē Christ the sauiour of the worlde. *

After two daies he departed thence, & went awaye into Galile. * For Iesus hymselfe testifyed, that a prophete hath none honour in his own countrey. Then as soone as he was come into Galile, the Galileans receiued him: When they had seene all the thinges that he did at Ierusalem at the daye of the feaste. For they went also vnto the feaste daye. So Iesus came agayne into Cana of Galile, * where he turned the water into wyne. * And there was a certain ruler, whose sonne was sicke at Capernaū. Assone as the same heard that Iesus was come out of Iewry into Galile, he went vnto him and besought hym, that he would come downe & heale his sonne. For he was euen at the poynt of death. Then said Iesus vnto him: except ye se signes & wonders, ye will not beleue. The ruler saith vnto him: Syr come down, or euer that my sōne dye. Iesus sayth vnto him: Go thy way, thy sonne liueth. The man beleued the word that Iesus had spoken vnto him: And he went his way. And as he was now going downe, the seruauntes met hym, and tolde hym, saying: thy sonne liueth. Then enquired he of them the houre, when he began to amend. And they sayd vnto hym: Yesterday at the seuēth houre, the feuer left hym. So that father knewe, that it was the same houre, in the which Iesus saide vnto him: Thy sonne liueth. * And he beleued, & all hys housholde. * This is agayne the seconde miracle, that Iesus did, whē he was come out of Iewry into Galile.

The. v. Chapter.

He healeth the man that was sicke eyght and thirtie yere. The Iewes accuse him, he answereth for himselfe, and reproueth them.

After this was there a feast day of the Iewes, & Iesus went vp to Ierusalem. And there is at Ierusalem, by that slaughter house, a poole (which is called in the Hebrue tong, Bethseda) hauing. v. porches, in which laye a great multitude of sicke folke, of blinde, halt & withered, waytyng for the mouing of the water. For an angel went downe at

at a certaine season into the poole, and stered the water. Whosoeuer then firste (after the stering of the water) stepped in, was made whole of whatsoeuer disease he had. And a certain mā was there which had bene diseased. xxxviii. yeres. When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he now long time had bene diseased, he sayeth vnto him. Wylt thou be made whole? The sicke man answered him: Sir, I haue no mā when ỳ water is troubled, to put me into the poole. But in the meane tyme, while I am aboute to come, another steppeth downe before me. Jesus saieth vnto hym: *rise, take vp thy bed and walke. And immediately ye the man was made whole, and toke vp his bed, and walked. And the same day was the Sabboth. The Jewes therfore said vnto him that was made whole: It is the Sabboth daye, it is not lawfull for the to carye thy bed. He answered thē, he ỳ made me whole, sayd vnto me: take vp thy bed, and walke. Thē asked they him: what man is that, which saide vnto thee, take vp thy bed & walke? And he ỳ was healed, wiste not who it was. For Jesus hadde gotten himselfe away, because that there was prase of people in that place.

*Afterwarde, Jesus founde him in the temple, and sayde vnto him: beholde, thou arte made whole: synne no more, leaste a worse thing happen vnto the. The manne departed and told the Jewes, that it was Jesus whiche had made hym whole.

And therefore ỳ Jewes did persecute Jesus, & sought the meanes to slee hym, because he hadde doone these thinges on the Sabboth day. And Jesus answered thē:

My father worketh hytherto, and I worke. Therefore the Jewes soughte the more to kill hym, not onelye because he hadde broken the Sabboth: but said also that * God was his father, and made himselfe equal with God.

Then answered Jesus, and said vnto thē: verelye, verely, I saie vnto you: *the sonne can dooe nothyng of hymselfe, but that he seeth the father dooe. For whatsoeuer he doeth, that doeth the sonne also. For the father loueth the sonne, and sheweth him all thinges that he hymselfe doth.

And he wyll shewe him greater woorkes then these, because ye should merueil: For lyke wyse as the father rayseth vp ỳ deade and quickeneth thē, euē so the sonne quickneth whome he wyll. *Neyther iudgeth the father anye manne: but hathe committed all iudgemente vnto the sonne, because that all menne shoulde honoure the sonne, euen as they honoure the father. He that honoureth not the sonne, the same honoureth not the father whiche hath sente hym. Verely, verelye I saie vnto you: the that heareth my woorde, and beleueth on him that sente me, hath euerlastynge lyfe, and shal not *come into damnacion: but is escaped from death vnto life.

Verely, verelye, I saye vnto you: *the houre shall come, and now it is, when the dead shall heare the voyce of the sonne of God. And they that heare, shal lyue: *For as the father hath life in himselfe, so likewise hath he geuen to the sonne to haue life in himselfe: and hath geuen hym power also to iudge, because he is ỳ sonne of mā. Wonder not at this: for the *houre shall come, in the which al that are in ỳ graues, shall heare his voyce, and shal come forth: they ỳ haue done good vnto the resurrection of lyfe, and they that haue done euyll vnto the resurrection of damnacion.

+I can of mine owne selfe do nothing. As I heare, I iudge: & my iudgement is iust, because I seeke not myne owne wyll, but the wyll of the father whiche hath sent me.

‡If I should beare witnes of my self, my witnes wer not true. And when thei had foũd him on the other side of the sea, they sayed vnto hym. Rabby, when camest thou hither? Jesus aunswered them, and sayed: verely, verely, I saye vnto you: ye seke me, not because ye sawe the miracles, but because ye dyd eate of the loaues, and were filled. * Labour not for the meate which perisheth, but for that which endureth vnto euerlastyng life, which meate the sonne of man shall geue vnto you. For him hath God the father sealed.

Then sayde they vnto him: Lorde euermore

He that commeth to me shall not hunger: and he that beleueth on me shall neuer thyrst. ✠ But I saide vnto you: þ ye also haue sene me, & yet ye beleue not. All that the father geueth me shall come to me: and him that commeth to me, I cast not awaye. For I came down from heauē: *not to do that I wil, but that he will, whiche hath sent me. And this is the fathers will whiche hath sente me, that of all whiche he hath geuen me, I shall lose nothyng: but rayse them againe at the laste daye. And this is the wil of him that sent me: that euery one whiche seeth the sonne * and beleueth on him, haue euerlasting lyfe. And I wil rayse hym vp at the last day. The Iewes then murmured at him, because he saied: I am þ bread (of lyfe) which came downe from heauen. And they sayde: ‡ Is not this Jesus the sonne of Joseph, whose father and mother we knowe? howe is it then that he sayeth, I came down from heauen? Jesus answered and sayed vnto them: Murmure not among your selues. ✠ ‡ No manne can come to me, excepte the father whiche hath sente me, draw hym: And I will rayse him vp at the laste daye. It is written in the prophets: ‡ they shalbe all taughte of God. Euery manne therefore that hath heard, & hath learned of the father, cōmeth vnto me. * Not that anye manne hathe sene the father, saue he whiche is of God: the same hath seene the father. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: he that putteth his trust in me, hath euerlasting lyfe. I am that bread of life. Your fathers did eat Manna in the wildernesse, and are deade: This is that bread, which commeth down from heauē, that a man maye eate therof, and not dye. I am that liuing bread, which came down from heauen. If anye manne eate of this bread he shall liue for euer. ‡ And the bread that I wyll geue, is my flesh: whiche I will geue for the lyfe of the worlde. ✠ The Iewes therfore stroue amōg themselues, saying: How can this fellow geue vs that flesche of his to eate? Then Jesus saide vnto them:

✠ Verely, verely, I saye vnto you, except ye eate the flesche of the sonne of man, and drinke his bloude: ye haue no lyfe in you. Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my bloude, hath eternall lyfe: and I wyl rayse hym vp at the last daie. For my flesh is meate in dede: and my bloude is drinke in dede. He that eateth my flesh and drinketh my bloude, dwelleth in me and I in hym. As the liuyng father hath sente me, & I liue for the father: Euē so he that eateth me shall liue by the meanes of me. This is that bread, whiche came downe from heauen: not as your fathers did eate Manna and are dead. He that eateth of this bread, shall liue euer. ✠

These thinges saide he in the synagoge, as he taughte in Capernaum. Many therefore of his disciples (when they had heard this) sayed: this is an harde saying, who can abide the hearyng of it? Jesus knewe in himselfe, that his disciples murmured at it, and he sayed vnto them: Doeth this offende you? What and yf ye shall see the sonne of manne ascende vp thither where he was before? It is the spirit that quickneth: the flesche profiteth nothyng. The wordes that I speake vnto you, are spirit and life. But there are some of you þ beleue not. For Jesus knew from the beginning whiche they were, that beleued not, and who shoulde betraye hym. And he sayed: therefore said I vnto you: that no manne can come vnto me except it wer geuen vnto him of my father. ‡ From that tyme many of his disciples went backe and forsoke him, and walked no more with him. Then saied Jesus to the twelue: wyll ye also goe awaye? Then Simon Peter answered hym: Lord, to whō shal we go. Thou hast the wordes of eternall lyfe, * and we beleue, and are sure that thou art Christe the sonne of the liuyng GOD. Jesus answereth them: Haue not I chosen you twelue, & one of you is a deuile? He spake of Judas Iscarioth the sonne of Symon. For he it was that should betraye hym, beeing one of the twelue.

The. vii. Chapter.

Jesus commeth to Jerusalē at the feaste, teacheth the Iewes and reproueth them: There are diuers opinions of him amonge the people. The pharises rebuke the officers, because they haue not brought hym, and chide with Nicodemus for takyng his parte.

After these thinges, Jesus went about i Galile: for he would not go about in Jewry because that the Iewes sought to kyll hym. The Iewes * feast of tabernacles was at hand: his brethren therfore said vnto him: get the hence, and go into Jewry, that thy disciples also maye see thy woorkes that thou doest. For there is no man that doth any thing in secret, and he himself seketh to be knowē openly. yf thou do such thinges, shewe thy selfe to the worlde. For his brethren beleued not in hym.

Then Jesus saied vnto them: My tyme is not yet come: but your time is alwaye readye. The worlde cannot hate you.

Will he goe among the Gentiles (whiche are scatered abroad) & teach the Gentiles? What maner of saying is this ỳ he saied: ye shall seke me and shall not finde me: and where I am thyther can ye not come.

In the laste daye, that greate day of the feast, Jesus stoode, and cried, saying: * yf Luk. 6. any man thyrst, let him come vnto me, and F drinke. The. viii. Chapter. ✠

A woman is taken in aduoutrye. Christe deliuereth her. The freedome of suche as folow Christ, whome they accuse to haue the deuil within hym, and go about to stone hym.

JEsus went *vnto mounte Oliuete, and earlye in the morning he came again into the temple: and al ỳ people came vnto him, and he sat downe, and taught them. And the scribes & pharisēis brought vnto him a woman taken in aduoutrye: and when they hadde sette her in the middes, they saie vnto him: Maister, this woman was taken in aduouttie, euen as the dede was a dooing. *Moses in the lawe commaunded vs, that suche shoulde bee stoned. But what saiest thou? This they said to tempt him that they might e accuse him. But Jesus stouped doune, and with his finger wrote on the ground. So, when thei continued asking him, he lift him self vp, and said vnto them: let him that is among you without synne, caste the first stone at her. And agayn he stowped doune, and wrote on the grounde. And assone as they heard this, they went out one by one, beginning at the eldeste. And Jesus was lefte alone, and the woman standing in the middes. When Jesus had lift vp himself, and saw no man, but the woman, he said vnto her: woman, where are those thine accusars? Hath no man condemned thee? She saied: No manne, Lorde. And Jesus saide: Neyther doe I condemne thee. Goe and *synne nomore. ✠

✠ Then spake Jesus againe vnto them saying: I am the lighte of the worlde. He that folowethe me, doth not walke in darknesse but shall haue the lighte of life. The pharisēis therefore saide vnto him: thou beareste recorde of thy selfe, thy recorde is not true. Jesus aunswered, and said vnto them: though I beare recorde of my selfe yet my record is true: for I know whēce I came, and whither I goe. But ye can not tel whence I come, & whither I goe. ye iudge after the flesshe, I iudge no man. And if I iudge, my iudgemēt is true. For I am not alone: but I and the father that sent me. *It is also written in your law, that the testimonie of two men is true. I am one that beareth witnes of my selfe, & the father that sent me, beareth witnes of me. Then said thei vnto him: where is thy father? Jesus answered, ye neither knowe me, nor yet my father: yf ye had knowen me, ye shoulde haue knowen my father also. These wordes spake Jesus in the treasurie as he taught in the temple, & no man layde handes on hym *for his houre was not yet come. ✠ Then said Jesus again vnto them: ✠ I go my way, & * ye shall seeke me, and shall dye in your synnes. Whither I go, thither can ye not come. Then sayde the Jewes: will he slyll hymselfe, because he saieth: whyther I goe, thither can ye not come? And he saide vnto them: ye are from beneth, I am from aboue. ye are of this worlde, I am not of this worlde: I saide therefore vnto you, that ye shall dye in your synnes. For *yf ye beleue not that I am he, ye shall dye in your synnes.

Then sayd they vnto hym: who art thou? And Jesus saith vnto them: Euē ỳ verye same thyng ỳ I speake vnto you. I haue many thinges to saye, & to iudge of you: yea, & he ỳ sent me, is true. & I speake in ỳ worlde, those thinges whiche I haue heard of hym. Howbeit they vnderstoode not that he spake of his father. Then saide Jesus vnto them: when ye haue lift vp on hye the sonne of man, then shall ye knowe that I am he, and that I doe nothing of my selfe: *but as my father hath taught me, euen so I speake these thynges: and he that sent me, is wt me. ✠ Then saide Jesus to those Jewes, whiche beleued on him: If ye continue in my worde, then are ye my very disciples, and ye shall knowe the truth: & the trueth shal make you free. They answered hym: Wee bee Abrahams seed, and were neuer bonde to anye man: howe sayest thou then ye shalbe made * free? I know we that ye are Abrahams sede: but ye seeke meanes to kyll me, because my worde hath no place in you. I speake that whiche I haue sene with my father: and ye doe that, whiche ye haue seene with youre father. They answered and said vnto him: Abraham is our father. Jesus sayeth vnto them: yf ye were Abrahams children, ye would doe the dedes of Abraham. But nowe ye go about to kyll me, a manne that hath tolde you the trueth, whiche I haue heard of God: this dyd not Abrahā. Ye do the dedes of youre father. Then saied they to hym: wee were not borne of fornicacion.

We haue one father, euen God. Jesus saied vnto them: if God wer your father, truely ye would loue me. For I proceded forth, and came from God. Neyther came I of my selfe, but he sente me. Why doe ye not knowe my speache? Euen because ye cannot abide the hearyng of my worde.

Ye are of your father the deuill, and the lustes of youre father will ye serue. *He was a murtherer from the beginning and abode not in the trueth, because there is no trueth in him. When he speaketh a lye, he speaketh of his owne. For he is a liar, and the father of the same thyng: And because I tell you the trueth, therfore ye beleue me not. Which of you rebuketh me of sinne? If I saye the trueth, why doo not ye beleue me? He yͭ is of God, heareth Goddes woordes. Ye therefore heare them not, because ye are not of God. Then answered the Iewes, and sayed vnto him: Saie we not wel that thou art a Samaritane, and haste the deuill? Jesus answered: I haue not the deuill: but I honoure my father, & ye haue dishonoured me. I seeke not myne owne prayse: there is one that seketh and iudgeth.

Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: If a manne kepe my saying, he shall neuer see deathe. Then saied the Iewes vnto hym: Now know we, that thou hast the deuyl: Abrahā is deade, and the prophetes, and thou sayest: if a manne kepe my saying, he shall neuer taste of death. Art thou greater then oure father Abraham, whiche is deade? And the prophetes are deade. Whō makeste thou thy selfe? Jesus answered: If I honoure my selfe, myne honoure is nothing. It is my father that honoureth me, whiche ye saie is youre God, and yet ye haue not known hym: but I knowe hym. And if I saie, I knowe hym not, I shall be a liar like vnto you. But I know hym, and kepe his saying. Youre father Abraham was glad to see my daye, and he saw it, and reioyced. Then said the Iewes vnto hym: thou art not yet fifty yere olde, and hast thou sene Abraham? Jesus saied vnto them: Verely, verely, I say vnto you: yer Abraham was borne: I am. Then toke they vppe stones, to cast at hym. But Jesus hid himselfe, and went out of the temple.

The. ix. Chapter.

Christ maketh the man to se, that was borne blinde.

AND as Jesus passed by, he sawe a man which was blinde from his birthe. And his disciples asked him, saying: Master, who did synne, this manne, or his father and mother, that he was borne blynde? Jesus answered: Neither hath this manne sinned, nor yet his father and mother: but yͭ the workes of God shoulde be shewed him. I must worke yͭ workes of hym that sent me, while it is daie. The night commeth, when no man can worke. As longe as I am in the worlde, I am the light of the worlde.

Assone as he had thus spoken, he spatte on the grounde, and made claye of the spettle, and rubbed the claye on the eyes of the blinde, and saied vnto hym: Goo washe thee in the pole of Siloe, which (by interpretation) is asmuche to saye, as sente. He wente his waie therefore, and washed, and came againe seing. So yͭ neighbours and they that had sene hym before (howe that he was a begger) saied: is not this he yͭ sat and begged? Some saied: this is he. Again other said: (No but) he is like him.

He himselfe saied: I am euen he. Therfore sayd they vnto hym: Howe are thyne eyes opened? He answered and sayde: the man that is called Jesus, made claie, and anoynted myne eyes, and saied vnto me: Go to the pole Siloe, & washe. And when I wente and washed, I receiued my sight. Then sayed they vnto hym: where is he? He sayed: I cannot tell.

They broughte to the pharises, hym that a litle before was blynde: and it was the Sabboth day, when Jesus made yͭ claie and opened his eyes. Then againe the pharises also asked hym, howe he had receyued his sighte. He sayed vnto them:

he

he putte claye vpon myne eyes, and I washed, and do see. Therfore sayde some of the Pharyseis: thys manne is not of God, because he kepeth not the Sabboth day. Other sayed: *howe can a man that is a sinner, dooe suche miracles? And there was a stryfe among them. Thei spake vnto the blinde manne agayne: What sayest thou of hym, because he hath opened thine eyes? he sayed: *he is a prophete.

But the Iewes dyd not beleue of the manne, (howe that he had beene blynde, & receyued his syghte) vntyll they called the father and mother of hym that had receyued his sighte. And they asked them saying: Is this youre sonne, whome ye saye was borne blynde? Howe dooeth he now see then? His father and mother answered them, and sayed: wee knowe that this is our sonne, and that he was borne blynde, but by what meanes he nowe seeth, wee cannot tell: or who hath opened his eyes can not wee tell. He is olde inoughe, aske hym: let hym answere for himselfe. Suche woordes spake his father and mother, because they feared the Iewes. For the Iewes had conspired al ready, that if any man dyd confesse that he was Christ, *he should bee excommunicate out of the Synagoge. Therfore sayed hys father & mother: he is olde inough, aske hym. Then againe called they the man that was blind, & saide vnto him: geue God the praise: we knowe, that this man is a synner. He answered therfore, and saide: whether he be a synner or no, I can not tell: One thyng I am sure of: that where as I was blind, now I see. Then sayd they to him againe: What did he to thee? How opened he thine eyes? He answered them: I tolde you yer whyle, and ye dyd not heare. Wherfore woulde ye heare it agayne? Will ye also be hys dysciples? Then rated they hym, and sayde: Bee thou hys dyscyple. Wee are Moses dysciples. We are sure, that God spake vnto Moses: As for this felow, we knowe not from whence he is. The man answered and sayed vnto them: this is a merueilous thyng, that ye wote not from whence he is, and yet hath he opened mine eies. For we be sure, þ God heareth not sinners. But if any manne be a worshypper of God, and obedient vnto hys will, hym heareth he. Sence the worlde began was it not heard, that anye manne opened the eyes of one that was borne blind. If this man were not of God, he coulde haue done nothyng. They answered, and said vnto hym: thou art altogether borne in sinne, & doest þ teache vs? And they cast him out.

Iesus heard that they had excommunicate hym: and when he had founde him he sayed vnto hym: dooest thou beleue on the sonne of God? He answered and sayed. Who is it Lorde, that I might beleue on hym? And Iesus sayed vnto hym: thou hast sene him, & he it is that talketh with thee. And he sayed: Lorde I beleue, and he worshipped him. And Iesus saied vnto him: I am come vnto iudgement into this world, that they which see not, might see: and that they whiche see, myght bee made blinde. And some of the pharises whiche were wt him, heard these wordes, and said vnto him: are we blinde also? Iesus sayed vnto them: *yf ye were blynde, ye shoulde haue no synne. But nowe ye saye, wee see: therefore your synne remayneth.

The. x. Chapter.

Christ is the true shepeheard, & the dore of the shepe, he telleth the truth, and therefore the Iewes take vppe stones to caste at him, and call his preaching blasphemy, and go about to take hym.

Verely, verely, I say vnto you: he that entreth not in, by the dore into þ shepefolde, but climeth vp some other waye, the same is a theefe and a murtherer. But he that entreth in by the dore, is the shepeheard of þ shepe: to him the porter openeth, and the shepe heare his voyce, and *he calleth his owne shepe by name and leadeth them out. And when he hath sent forth his owne shepe, he goeth before them, and the shepe folowe hym: For they knowe his voyce. The. xi. Chapter.

Christe raiseth Lazarus from death. The hie priestes and pharises gather a counsel against him. He getteth hym out of the waye.

A Certain mã was sicke, named Lazarus, of Bethania, ỹ towne
of Mary, and her sister Martha. It was that Marye * Luke.
which anointed Jesus with oyntmente, and wiped his feete with her heere, whose brother Lazarus was sicke.
Therefore his sisters sente vnto hym, saying: Lorde, behold, he whom thou louest, is sicke. When Jesus hearde that, he said:
this infirmitie is not vnto death, but for ỹ
prayse of God, ỹ the sonne of God * might *Joh.
be praysed by the reason of it. Jesus loued Martha and her sister & Lazarus. When he had hearde therfore, that he was sicke,
he abode two daies still in the same place
where he was.
Then after that, sayde he to hys dyf B
ciples: lette vs goe into Jewry agayne.

he slepe, he shall doe well inough. Howbeit, Jesus spake of his death: but they thoughte that he had spoken of the naturall slepe. Then said Jesus vnto them playnly: Lazarus is dead, & I am glad for your sakes, that I was not there, because ye maye beleue: neuertheless, lette vs goe vnto him. Then sayde * Thomas C which is called Didimus, vnto the disciples: let vs also goe, that we may dye with hym. Then went Jesus, and found that he had lien in his graue foure daies already. Bethanye was nye vnto Jerusalem, about xv. forlonges of, and many of the Jewes came to Martha & Mary to comfort thē ouer their brother. Martha assone as she heard that Jesus was comming, went and met him: but Mary sate styll in the house.

+ Then sayde Martha vnto Jesus: Lorde * if thou haddeste beene here, my brother had not died, neuertheles, now I know, that whatsoeuer thou askest of God, god will geue it thee. Jesus saith vnto her: Thy brother shall rise agayne. Martha sayeth vnto hym: I know ꝑ he shal ryse agayn in the resurrection at the last day. Jesus sayeth vnto her: I am ꝑ resurrection & the * life: he that beleueth on me, yea, though he wer dead, yet shal he liue: & whosoeuer liueth and beleueth on me, shall neuer dye: Beleueste ꝑ this? She sayde vnto hym: ye lorde, I beleue that thou art Christ, the sonne of God, whiche shoulde come into the worlde. ‡ And assone as she had so saide, she went her way, & called Mari her sister secretly saying: The maister is come, and calleth for thee. Assone as she heard that: she arose quickly, and came vnto him. Jesus was not yet come into the towne: but was in that place where Martha mette hym. The Jewes then which were with her in the house, and confortted her (when they saw Mary, that she rose vp hastely and went out) folowed her, saying: She goeth vnto the graue, to wepe there.

Then when Marye was come where Jesus was and saw hym, she cummeth nye vnto hys feete, and sayeth vnto him: Lorde * if thou haddest beene here, my brother had not beene dead. When Jesus therfore saw her wepe (and the Jewes also wepyng whiche came with her) he groned in the spirite, and was troubled in himselfe, & sayde: Where haue ye laied him? They say vnto hym: Lorde, come & see. And * Jesus wepte. Then sayde the Jewes: Behold how he loued hym. And some of them sayd: could not he whiche * opened ꝑ eyes of the blind, haue made also that this man shoulde not haue dyed? Jesus therfore agayn groned in him selfe, and came to the graue. It was a caue, and a stone layed on it.

Jesus sayde: take ye away the stone. Martha the sister of him that was ded, sayde vnto him: Lorde, by this tyme he stynketh, for he hathe beene dead foure dayes. Jesus sayth vnto her: sayd I not vnto thee, that if thou dyddeste beleue, thou shouldest se the glory of god? Thē they toke away the stone from the place where he that had bene dead, was layd. And Jesus lift vp his eyes and sayd: father I thanke thee, that thou hast heard me. Howbeit I knew that thou hearest me alwayes, but * because of the people whiche stand by, I said it, that they may beleue, that thou hast sent me. f

And when he thus had spoken, he cryed with a loud voice: Lazarus, come furth. * And he ꝑ was dead, came furth, bound hand & foote with graue clothes, & hys face was bound with a napkin. Jesus saide vnto them: loose hym, & let hym goe. Thē many of the Jewes which came to Mary (and had seene the thinges which Jesus did) * beleued on him. ‡ But some of them went their wayes to the pharisees and tolde them what Jesus had doone.

++ Then gathered ꝑ hye priestes & the pharisees a counsel, & said: ‡ what do we? For this man doeth many miracles. If we let him scape thus, al men wil beleue on hym, & the Romaynes shall come and take away both our roume & the people. And one of thē named Cayphas (beyng the hye priest ꝑ same yere) said vnto thē: Ye perceyue nothyng at al, nor consydre that * it is expedient for vs, that one mā dye for the people, & not that al the people perish. This spake he not of himself, G but beyng hye priest that same yere, he prophecied that Jesus should dye for ꝑ people, & not for the people onely, but ꝑ he should gather together in one the children of God, ꝑ were scatered abroade. * Then frō that day furth they toke counsayle together for to put hym to death.

Jesus therfore walked no more openly among the Jewes; but went his way thēce vnto a countrey nie to a wildernes, into a citie whiche is called Ephraim, & there

The true vyne, the husbandman, and the braunches. A doctryne of loue, and a swete cōfort against persecution.

I Am* the true vyne, and my father is the husbandmā. Euery braunche that beareth not frute in me, he will take awaye. And euerye braunche that beareth frute, will he pourge, that it maye bryng forth more frute. * Nowe are ye clene thorowe the woordes whiche I haue spoken vnto you. Byde in me, and I you. As the braunche cānot beare fruite of it selfe, except it byde in the vine: nomore can ye, except ye abyde in me. I am the vine, ye are the braūches. He that abydeth in me, and I in hym, the same bryngeth forth muche frute. For without me can ye do nothing. If a man byde not in me, he is cast forth as a braunche, and is wythered: and men gather them, and cast them into the fyre, and they burne. * If ye abyde in me, and my woordes abyde in you: aske what ye will, and it shalbe done for you. ✠ Herein is my father glorifyed, that ye beare muche frute, and become my disciples.

As the father hath loued me, euen so haue I also loued you. Continue ye in my loue. If ye kepe my commaundementes, ye shall byde in my loue, euen as I haue kepte my fathers commaundementes & bide in his loue. These thinges haue I spoken vnto you, that my ioye might remayne in you, and that your ioy might be full.

✠ * This is my commaundemente: that ye loue together, as I haue loued you. Greater loue hath noman, then this: that a man bestowe his lyfe for hys frendes. Ye are my frendes, yf ye doe whatsoeuer I commaunde you. Henceforthe call I you not seruauntes: for the seruaunt knoweth not what his Lord doth. The.xvi. Chapter.

Consolacion against trouble. Prayers are heard thorowe Christe.

THese thinges haue I sayde vnto you, because ye should not be offended. * They shall excommunicate you: yee the time shal come, that whosoeuer killeth you, will thynke that he doeth God seruice. * And suche thynges will they doe vnto you, because they haue not knowen the father, neyther yet me.

But these thynges haue I told you, that when the time is come, ye may remembre them, that I tolde you. + These thynges sayde I not vnto you at the begynning, because I was present with you.

+ But nowe I goe my waye to hym that sente me, and none of you asketh me whither I goe. But because I haue sayd such thinges vnto you, your heartes are full of sorowe: Neuertheles I tell you the trueth, it is expedient for you, that I goe awaye. For yf I goe not awaye, that comforter will not come vnto you. But yf I departe, * I will sende hym vnto you. And when he is come, he will rebuke the worlde of synne, and of ryghteousnesse, and of iudgement. Of synne, because they beleue not on me: of ryghteousnesse, because I goe to my father, and ye shall see me nomore. Of iudgement, because * the prince of this worlde is iudged already.

I haue yet many thynges to saye vnto you, but ye cannot beare them awaye nowe: howbeit when he is come (whiche is the spyrte of trueth) he will leade you into all trueth. He shal not speake of himselfe, but whatsoeuer he shall heare, that shall he speake, and he will shewe you thynges to come. He shall glorifye me, for he shall receyue of myne, and shall shewe vnto you. * All thynges that the father hathe are myne. Therfore sayde I vnto you, that he shall take of myne and shewe vnto you. +

+ * After a while ye shall not see me, and agayn after a while ye shall see me: for I go to the father. Then sayed some of hys disceples betwene themselues: what is this that he sayeth vnto vs, after a whyle ye shall not see me, and agayne after a while ye shall see me: and that I go to the father? They sayd therfore: what is this that he sayeth, after a whyle? we cannot tell what he sayth. Iesus perceyued that they would aske hym, & sayed vnto them: Ye enquyre of this betwene your selues, because I sayed after a whyle ye shal not see me, & agayne after a whyle ye shall see me. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: ye shal wepe and lament, but contrary wise, the worlde shall reioyse. Ye shall sorowe, but * youre sorowe shalbe turned to ioye. *Ja.

A woman when she trauayleth, hath sorowe, because her houre is come. But assone as she is delyuered of the chylde, she remembreth nomore the anguish, for ioy that a man is borne into the worlde. And ye nowe therfore haue sorowe: but I will see you agayne and youre heartes shall reioyce, and your ioy shall no man take from you. + And in that day shall ye aske me no question. + Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: * whatsoeuer ye shall aske the father in my name, he will geue it you. Hytherto haue ye asked nothyng in my name. Aske, and ye shall receyue: that your ioy may be full.

These thynges haue I spoken vnto you by prouerbes. The tyme wyl come, when I shall nomore speake to you by prouerbes: but I shall shewe you playnly from my father. At that daye shall ye aske in my name. And I saye not vnto you that I wil speake vnto my father for you. For the father hymselfe loueth you, because ye haue loued me, and haue beleued, that I came out from God. I wente out from the father, & came into the worlde. Again, I leaue the worlde, and * go to the father. *Joh.16.

His disceples sayed vnto hym: loe, nowe talkest thou playnly, and speakest no prouerbe. Nowe are we sure, that * thou knowest all thynges, & nedest not, that any man should aske the any question. Therfore beleue we, that thou camest from God. + Iesus answered them. Nowe ye doe beleue. * Beholde, the houre draweth nye and is already come, that ye shalbe scattered euery manne to his owne, and shall leaue me alone. And yet am I not alone: For * the father is with me. These wordes haue I spoken vnto you, that in me ye might haue peace. For in the worlde shal ye haue tribulacion: but bee of good cheare, I haue ouercome the worlde.

The.xvii. Chapter.

The moste harty and louyng prayer of Christe vnto his father, for all suche as receyue the trueth.

These

These wordes spake Jesus, and lyft vp hys eyes to heauen, and sayd: father * the houre is come: glorify thy sonne that thy sonne also may glorifie thee: as thou hast geuen hym power ouer all flesche, that he shoulde geue eternall life to as many as thou haste geuen him: This is * life eternal, that they might knowe the, the onely true God, and Jesus Chriſte whom thou haste sente.

I haue glorified thee on ꝑ earth: I haue fynished the worke, whiche thou gaueste me to do. And nowe glorifye thou me (O father) with thyne owne selfe, with the glory which I had with the, ere ꝑ world was. I haue declared thy name vnto the men, whiche thou gauest me oute of the worlde. Thine they wer, and thou gauest thē me, & they haue kept thy worde. Now they haue knowen, that all thynges whatsoeuer thou haste geuen me, are of thee: For I haue geuen vnto them the wordes whiche thou gauest me, and they haue receaued them, and haue knowen surelye, that I came out from thee: and they haue beleued, that thou dyddest sende me.

I praie for thē, I praye not for * ꝑ world: but for them whiche thou hast geuen me, for they are thyne. And al mine are thine, & thine are myne, and I am glorifyed in thē. And now I am not in the world, and they are in the worlde, and I come to thee.

* Holy father, kepe thorowe thyne owne name, them whiche thou hast geuen me, ꝑ they also maie be one, as we are. While I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy name. * Those that thou gauest me haue I kept, & none of thē is loste, but that lost child * ꝑ ꝑ scripture might be fulfilled.

Nowe come I to the, and these wordes speake I in the worlde, that they myghte haue my ioye full in them. I haue geuen them thy worde, & * the world hath hated them, because they are not of the worlde, euen as I also am not of the worlde. I desyre not that thou shouldest take thē oute of the worlde: but * that thou kepe them from euil. They are not of the world, as I also am not of the worlde. Sanctifie them thorow thy truth. Thy worde is ꝑ trueth. As thou diddest send me into the world, euen so haue I also sent thē into the world: and for theyr sakes sanctifye I my selfe, that they also might be sanctifyed thorow the truthe. Neuertheles, I praye not for them alone, but for them also whiche shal beleue on me thorow their preaching: that they all maye bee * one, as thou father art in me, & I in the, & that they also may be one in vs: that the world maie beleue, that thou hast sent me. And the glory which thou gauest me, I haue geuen thē, that they maye be one, as we also are one: I in them, & thou in me, that they may bee made perfecte in one, and that the worlde may know that thou hast sent me, & haste loued them as thou hast loued me.

Father, I wil that they which thou hast geuen me * bee with me where I am, that they maye se my glory, whiche thou haste geuē me. For thou louedst me before the makyng of the worlde. * O righteous father, the world also hath not knowen the: but I haue knowen thee, and these haue knowen ꝑ thou haste sent me. And I haue declared vnto thē thy name, & wil declare it, that the loue wherwith thou hast loued me, maye be in them, and I in them.

The. xviii. Chapter.

Christ is betrayed. The wordes of hys mouthe smyte the officers to the grounde. Peter smyteth of Malchus eare. Jesus is brought before Anna, Caiphas, and Pylate.

When Jesus had spoke these wordes, * he went forthe with his disciples ouer the broke Cedró, where was a garden, into the whiche he entred and hys disciples. Judas also whiche betraied him, knew the place: for Jesus oftetimes resorted thyther with his disciples. Judas then, after he had receaued a bond of men (and mynisters of the hye priestes & pharises) came thyther with lanternes, and fire brandes, and wepens. And Jesus knowyng all thynges that shoulde come on hym, went forth and sayed vnto them: whō seke ye? They answered hym: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus sayeth vnto them: I am he. Judas also whiche betrayed hym, stoode with them. Assone then as he had saied vnto them, I am he: they went backward and fell to the grounde. Then asked he them agayne: whō seke ye? They saied: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus answered: I haue told you, that I am he. Yf ye seke me therfore, let these go their way. That the saying might be fulfilled which he spake: * of them whiche thou gauest me, haue I not loste one.

Then Symon Peter hauyng a swerde, drue it, and smote the hye Priestes seruaunt, and cut of hys right eare. The seruauntes name was Malchus. Therfore sayeth Jesus vnto Peter: * put vp thy swerde, into the sheath: shal I not drinke of the cup, whiche my father hath geuen me? Then the company and the capitayn and ministers of the Iewes toke Iesus, and bounde hym, and led hym awaye to Anna first: for he was father in lawe vnto Cayphas, whiche was the hie priest that same yere. Cayphas was he, whiche gaue counsail to the Iewes, * þ it was expedient, þ one man should die for þ people.

manne. * When the hye prestes therfore and ministers sawe hym, they cryed saying: crucifie hym, crucifie hym. Pylate sayeth vnto them: Take ye hym, and crucifie hym (for I fynde no cause in hym.)

The Iewes answered hym: we haue a lawe, and by oure lawe he ought to dye: because he made hymselfe the sonne of God. When Pilate heard that saying he was the more afrayed, and went again into the iudgement hall, and sayeth vnto Iesus: whēce art thou? But Iesus gaue him none answer. Then sayd Pilate vnto hym: Speakest þ not vnto me? knowest thou not that I haue power to crucifie thee, and haue power to loose thee? Iesus answered: Thou couldest haue no power at all against me, * except it were geuen thee from aboue. Therfore he that delyuered me vnto thee, hathe the more synne. ‡ And from thence forthe sought Pilate meanes to loose hym: but the Iewes cryed, saying: yf thou let hym go, thou art not Cesars frende. For whosoeuer maketh hymselfe a kyng, is agaynst Cesar.

C When Pilate hearde that saying, he brought Iesus forth, and satte downe to geue sentence, in a place that is called the pauemente: but in the Hebrue toungue, Gabbatha. It was the preparyng day of the Easter, about the sixte houre. And he sayth vnto the Iewes: behold your king. They cryed: away with hym, away with hym, crucifye hym. Pylate sayeth vnto them: shall I crucifye your kyng? The hye prestes answered: we haue no kyng but Cesar: * Then deliuered he him vnto them to bee crucifyed. And they tooke Iesus, and led hym awaye. And he bare D his crosse, * and wente forth into a place, which is called the place of dead mennes sculles: But in Hebrue, Golgotha: where they crucifyed hym, and twoe other with hym, on either syde one, and Iesus in the myddes. And ‡ Pylate wrote a tytle and put it on the crosse. The wrytyng was: Iesus of Nazareth kyng of the Iewes. This tytle read many of the Iewes. For the place where Iesus was crucifyed, was nye to the citie. And it was wrytten in Hebrue, and Greke, and Latin. Then sayed the hye prestes of the Iewes to Pilate: wryte not king of the Iewes, but that he sayed, I am kyng of the Iewes. Pilate aunswered: what I haue wrytten that haue I wrytten.

Then the souldiours, * whē they had crucifyed Iesus, they toke his garmentes ‡ made foure partes, to euerye souldiour a parte, ‡ also his coate. The coate was wt out seme, wrought vpon throughout. They sayed therfore among themselues. Lette vs not deuyde it, but cast lottes for it, who shall haue it. That the scripture might be fulfilled saying: * They parted my rayment among them, ‡ for my coate dyd they caste lottes. And the souldiours dyd suche thynges in deede. There stode by the crosse of Iesus his mother, and his mothers sister, Mary þ wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene. Whē Iesus therfore sawe his mother, ‡ the disciple standyng * whom he loued, he sayeth vnto his mother: woman, beholde thy sonne. Then sayd he to þ disciple: behold thy mother. And frō that houre the disciple tooke her for his owne. After these thynges, Iesus knowyng þ all thynges were now perfourmed: that * the scripture might be fulfilled, he sayeth: I thirst. So there stode a vessell by, full of vyneger. ‡ Therfore they fylled a sponge with vyneger, and wounde it aboute with yssope, and put it to his mouth. Assone as Iesus then receyued of the vyneger, he sayde: * It is finished, and bowed his head, and gaue vp the goste. The Iewes therfore because it was the preparing of the Sabboth, that the bodies should not remayne vpon the crosse on the Sabboth daye (for that Sabboth daye was an hye daye) besought Pilate, that they legges myght be broken, and that they myght be taken downe. Then came the souldiers, ‡ brake the legges of the first, ‡ of the other which was crucified with hym. But when they came to Iesus, ‡ sawe that he was dead alreadye, they brake not his legges: but one of the souldiers with a speare, thrust hym into the syde, and forthwyth came there out bloude and water. And he that G saw it, bare recorde, ‡ his recorde is true. And he knoweth that he sayeth true, that ye myght beleue also. For these thynges were done that the scripture shoulde bee fulfilled. ‡ Ye shall not breake a bone of hym. And agayne another scripture sayeth: * they shall looke on hym, whom they pearced. * After this, Ioseph of Aramathia, whiche was a disciple of Iesus: but secretly for feare of the Iewes) besought Pilate, that he might take downe the body of Iesus. And Pilate gaue him

And there came also Nicodemus (whiche at the begynnyng came to Jesus by night) and brought of myrre and aloes myngled together, aboute an hundred pounde waight. Then toke they the bodye of Jesu, and wounde it in lynnen clothes with the odoures, as the maner of the Jewes is to burye. And in the place where he was crucifyed, there was a garden, and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherin was neuer men layd. There layd they Jesus therfore, because of the preparing of the Sabboth of the Jewes, for the sepulchre was nye at hande. ✠

He appeareth to hys disciples agayne by the sea of Tiberias, and commaundeth Peter earnestly to feed hys shepe.

A Fterwarde did Jesus shew him selfe againe, at the sea of Tiberias. And on this wise shewed he hym selfe. There were together Simon Peter and Thomas (whiche is called Didymus) and *Nathanael of Cana in Galile, John.1.f. and the sonnes of Zebede, and two other of his disciples. Simon Peter saieth vnto them: I will go a fishyng. They say vnto hym: we also will go with the. They went theyr way & entred into a ship immediatly, and that night caughte they nothyng. B But whē ỳ morning was now come, Jesus stode on the shore: neuertheles the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus sayeth vnto them: Children, haue ye any meate? They answered hym, no. And he sayeth vnto them: *cast out the net on the Luke.5.a. right syde of the ship, and ye shall fynde. They caste out therfore, & anone they were C not able to drawe it for the multitude of John.13.c & 19.c. fishes. Then said the disciple * whom Jesus loued, vnto Peter: it is the Lord: whē Simō Peter heard that it was the Lord, he gyrde his coate vnto hym (for he was naked) and sprang in to the sea. The other disciples came by shyp, for they were not farre from lande, but as it were two hundred cubites, and they drewe the net with fishes. Assone then as they were come to lande, they sawe hote coles, and fishe laide D theron, and bread. Jesus sayeth vnto thē: Luke.24.f *bryng of the fishe whiche ye haue nowe caught: Simon Peter went vp, and drew the net to lande full of greate fyshes, an hundred and .liii. And for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken. Jesus sayeth vnto them: come and dine. And none of the disciples durst aske him: what arte thou? For they knewe that it was the Lord. Jesus then came, and toke breade, and gaue them, and fishe lykewyse. This is now the thyrde time that Jesus appeared to hys disciples, after that he was rysen agayne from death. ✠

So when they had dyned, Jesus sayeth C to Simon Peter: Symon Joanna, louest thou me more then these? He sayde vnto hym: yea Lord, thou knowest that I loue the. He sayeth vnto hym: fede my lambes. He sayeth to hym agayne the second time: Simon Joanna, louest thou me? He saith vnto hym: yea Lorde, thou knowest that I loue the. He sayde vnto hym: fede my shepe. He sayde vnto hym the thyrde time: Symon Joanna, louest thou me? Peter was sory, because he sayde vnto hym the thyrde tyme, louest thou me: and he sayde vnto him: Lord, thou *knowest all thinges, John.16.c thou knowest that I loue the. Jesus saith vnto hym: fede my shepe.

Verely, verely, I saye vnto thee: when thou waste yonge, thou gyrdedst thy selfe, F and walkedst whyther thou wouldeste: but whē thou art olde *thou shalt stretche John.21.b forth thy handes, and another shall gyrde Actes.12.a. the, and leade thee whyther thou wouldest not. That spake he, signifiyng by what death he shoulde glorifie GOD.

And when he had spoken thys, he sayth vnto hym: ✠folowe me. Peter turned a- boute, and sawe the disciple *whom Je- John.13.c 19.c.& 20.a sus loued, folowyng (whiche also leaned on hys breste at supper, and sayde: Lorde, whiche is he that betrayeth the?) When G Peter therfore sawe hym, he sayeth to Jesus: Lorde, what shall he here do? Jesus sayeth vnto hym: yf I will haue him to tary till I come, what is that to the? folowe thou me. Then went thys saying abrode amonge the brethren, that the disciple should not dye. Yet Jesus sayde not to hym, he shall not die: but, yf I wil that he tary tyll I come, what is that to the? The same disciple is he, which testifieth of these thinges, and wrote these thynges. And we know, that his testymony is true. ✠

*There are also many other thynges John.20.g which Jesus did, the which yf they should be writtē euery one, I suppose the world could not containe the bookes that should bee wrytten.

Here endeth the Gospell of. S. John.

The actes of the Apostles.

The first Chapter.

The ascencyon of Christe, Mathias is chosen in the steade of Judas.

IN the former treatise (deare Theophilus) we haue spoken of all that Jesus began to doe & teache, vntill the daye in which he was taken vp, after ỳ he through the holy ghoste, had geuen commaundementes vnto the Apostles, whom he had chosen: to whom also he shewed hymselfe alyue after hys passion (& that by many tokens) appearing vnto them fourty dayes, and speaking of the kyngdome of GOD: and gathered them together, * and commaunded them, that they shoulde not departe from Jerusalem: but to wayte for the promis of the father: whereof (saieth he) ye haue hearde of me. For * John truly baptised with water: but ye shalbe baptised with the holy ghoste after these fewe dayes. When they therfore wer come together, they asked of hym, saying: Lorde, wilt thou at this tyme restore agayne the kyngdō of Israel? And he saied vnto thē: It is not for you to knowe the tymes, or the seasons, whiche the father hath put in hys owne power: but * ye shall receyue power after that the holy ghoste is come vpon you. And ye shalbe witnesses vnto me, not only in Jerusalem, but also in all Jury and in Samary, and euen vnto the worldes ende.

And when he had spoken these thynges while they beheld, he was taken vp on hie, and a cloude receaued hym vp oute of theyr sight. And while they loked stedfastly vp towarde heauen, as he went, beholde, two menne stode by them in whyte apparell, whiche also sayed: ye menne of Galile, why stande ye gasyng vp into heauen? This same Jesus whiche is taken vp from you into heauen, shall so come, cuē as ye haue seue him go into heauen. Thē returned they vnto Jerusalem from the mounte (that is called Oliuete) whiche is from Jerusalem, a Sabbothe dayes iourney. And when they wer come in, they went vp into a parler, where abode bothe Peter, & James, and John, & Andrewe, Philip and Thomas, Bartholemew and Matthew, James the sonne of Alpheus, and Simon Zelotes, and Judas the brother of James. These all continued with one accorde in prayer & supplication with the womē, and Mary the mother of Jesu, and with his brethren

+ And in those dayes Peter stode vp in the middes of the disciples, and sayed (the number of names that wer together, wer aboute an hundred and twenty.) Ye men & brethren, this scripture must haue nedes been fulfilled, whiche the holy ghooste, through ỳ mouth of Dauid, spake before of Judas, * whiche was gyde to thē that toke Jesus. For he was numbred with vs, & had obtayned felowshyp in thys ministracion. And the same hath now possessed a platte of grounde with the rewarde of iniquitie: and when he was * hanged, he burst a sonder in the middes: and al his bowels gusshed out. And it is knowen vnto all the inhabiters of Jerusalem: in so muche that the same felde is called in their mother toungue, Aceldama, that is to saye, the bloud felde. For it is written in the boke of Psalmes: this habitaciō be voyde, and no manne be dwelling therein: * and hys bishoprickelette another take.

Wherefore of these menne which haue companied with vs (all the tyme that the Lorde Jesus had all his conuersacion amonge vs, begynnyng at the baptisme of John, vnto that same daie that he was taken vp from vs) muste one be ordeyned, to be a witnes with vs of his resurrection. And they appoynted ii. Joseph which is called Barsabas (whose sirname was Justus) & Mathias. And whē they prayed they sayed: thou Lord, which knowest the heartes of all men, shewe whether of these two thou hast chosen: ỳ he maye take the roume of this ministraciō and Apostleship, from whiche Judas by transgressiō fel, ỳ he might go to his owne place. And they gaue forth their lottes, and the lot fell on Mathias, & he was coumpted with ỳ eleuen Apostles. +

The.ii. Chapter.

The cumming of the holy ghoste. The sermon of Peter before the congregacion at Jerusalem, & the increase of the faythfull.

WHen * the fiftie dayes wer come to an ende, they wer al with one accorde together in one place. And sodenly there came a sound from heauen, as it had ben the commynge of a mightie wynde, & it filled al the house where where they satte. And there appeared vnto them clouen toungues, like as they had ben of fyre, and it satte vpon eche one of ii.d.iii.b them: * and they wer all filled with the holy ghoste, and began to speake with other toungues, euen as the same spirite gaue them vtteraunce.

B There were dwellyng at Ierusalem, Iewes, deuout menne, oute of euery nacion of them that are vnder heauen. When thys was noysed aboute, the multitude came together, and wer astonied, because that euery man hearde them speake with his owne language. They wondred al, & maruayled, saying amonge them selues: beholde, are not all these whiche speake of Galile? And howe heare wer euery man his owne tongue wherein we wer borne? Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, & the inhabiters of Mesopotamia, and of Iury, and of Capadocia, of Pontus and Asia, Phrigia, and Pamphilia, of Egipte, and of the parties of Libia whiche is beside Siren, & straungers of Rome, Iewes ii.d and ‡ Proselites, Grekes and Arabyans: we haue heard them speake in oure owne toungues the greate workes of God. ‡ They wer all amased, & wondred, saying one to a nother: what meaneth thys? Other mocked, saying: these menne are full of newe wyne.

C + But Peter stepped forth with the eleuen, and lifte vp hys voyce, and saied vnto them: Ye menne of Iewrie, and all ye that dwell at Ierusalem, be this knowen vnto you, and with youre eares heare my wordes. For these are not droncken, as ye suppose, seyng it is but the thirde houre of the daye. But this is that which was spoken by the prophete Ioheil: And it shalbe in the last dayes, sayeth God: Of my spirite I wil poure out vpon al flesshe.
Ioel.2.g * And youre sonnes and youre doughters shall prophecie, and youre yong men shal se visions, and youre olde men shal dreame dreames. And on my seruauntes, and on my handemaydens I will poure oute of my spirite in those dayes, and they shall

Rom.10.c And it shall come to passe, that ‡ whosoeuer shall call on the name of the Lorde, shalbe saued. ‡

+ Ye me of Israel, heare these wordes: Iesu of Nazareth a ma approued of God among you with miracles, wonders, and signes, whiche God dyd by hym in the middes of you (as ye youre selues know) hym haue ye taken by the handes of vnrighteous persons, after he was deliuered by the determinate counsaill & foreknowlage of God, & haue crucified & slayne him, whom God hath raised vp: and loced the sorowes of deathe, because it was vnpossible, that he shoulde bee holden of it. For Dauid speaketh of hym: ‡ I forehande I
Psal.16.a sawe God alwaies before me: for he is on my right hand, that I shoulde not be moued. Therefore did my hearte reioyce, and my tounge was glad. Moreouer also my flesshe shall reste in hope, because thou wilt not leaue my soule in hel, nether wilt thou suffer thyne holy to see corrupcion. Thou hast shewed me the waies of life: Thou shalt make me ful of ioye with thy countenaunce. + C

Ye menne and brethren, lette me freely speake vnto you of the Patriarke Dauid.
3.Reg.2.b * For he is bothe dead and buried, & his sepulchre remayneth with vs vnto thys daye. Therefore, seyng he was a prophet, & knew that God had sworne with an oth to hym, that Christe (as concernyng the flesshe) shoulde come of the frute of hys loynes, & should syt on his seate: he knowyng thys before, spake of the resurrection of Christe, that hys soule shoulde not bee lefte in hell: neyther hys flesshe shoulde see corrupcion. This Iesus hath God raysed vp, * wherof we all are witnesses. Actes.1.a. f

Sence now that he by the ryght hande of God is exalted, and hath receaued of ꝑ father the promyse of the holy ghoste, he hath shed forth this (gifte) which ye now see and heare. For Dauid is not ascended into heauen, but he sayeth: * The Lorde Psal.110.a Mat.22.b. sayde to my Lorde: syt thou on my righte hand, vntil I make thy foes thy fote stole. So therfore, let all the house of Israell knowe for a suertie, that God hath made that same Iesus (whó ye haue crucified) Lorde and Christe.

When they hearde thys, they were pricked in their hartes, and sayed vnto Peter, and vnto the other Apostles: Ye menne and brethren, * what shall wee do? Peter Luke.3.b. sayde vnto them, repente of youre synnes, and bee baptysed euery one of you in the name of Iesus Christe for the remissyon of sinnes, and ye shal receaue the gift of the holye ghoste. For the promyse was made made vnto you and to youre childzen, & to all that are a farre of, euen as many as the Lorde oure God shall call. And with many other wordes bare he witnes, & exhorted them, saying: saue youre selues from this vntowarde generacion. Then they that gladly receaued his preachyng, were baptised, & the same day, there were added vnto them, aboute thre thousande soules.

G And they continued in the Apostles doctryne and felowshyppe, & in breakyng of breade, and in prayers. And feare came ouer euery soule. And many wonders and signes were shewed by the Apostles: (at Jerusalem. And greate feare came vpon all menne.) And all that beleued, kept them selues together, and had all thinges commune, and solde theyre possessions and goodes, and parted them to all menne, as euery man had neade. And they continued dayly with one accorde in the temple, and brake bread from house to house, & did eate their meate together, with gladnes and singlenes of hearte, praysyng God, & had fauour with al the people. And the Lorde added to the congregacion dayly, suche as shoulde bee saued.

¶ The.iii. Chapter. +

The halte is restored to hys fete. Peter preacheth Christ vnto the people.

A PEter and John went vp together into the temple, at the nynth houre of prayer. And a certayne man that was halte from his mothers wombe was brought, whom they layde dayly at the gate of the temple, (whiche is called beutifull) to aske almes of them that entred into the temple. B When he sawe Peter and John, that they wold into the temple, he desired to receaue an almes. And Peter fastened his eyes on him with John, and saide: loke on vs. And he gaue hede vnto the, trustyng to receaue some thinge of them. Then sayde Peter: Siluer and golde haue I none, such as I haue geue I the. In the name of Jesus Christe of Nazareth * rise vp and walke. math.9.a. B And he toke hym by the right hande and lifte him vp. And immediatly his fete and ancledones receaued strength. And he sprange, stode, and walked, & entred with them into the temple walking, & leapyng, and prayesyng GOD.

And all the people sawe hym walke and prayse God. And they knew him, that it was he, whiche sate and begged at the beutyfull gate of the temple. And they wondred, and were sore astonyed at that whiche had happened vnto hym. And as the halte whiche was healed held Peter and John, al the people ranne amased vnto them in * the porche that is called Salomons. 3.Kin. Iohn. actes.

C When Peter sawe that, he answered vnto the people. * Ye men of Israel, why maruayle ye at this, or why loke ye so on vs, as thoughe by oure owne power or strength we had made this man go? The God of Abraham, & of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of oure fathers hath glorified his sonne Jesus, whom ye delyuered, * and denyed in the presence of Pilate, Mat.27. Mar.15. Luke.23. 1.mac.15. Joh.18. when he had iudged him to be loosed. But ye denyed the holy and iust, & desyred a murtherer to be geuen you, and kylled * the Lorde of lyfe, whom God hath raised from death, of the whiche we are witnesses. And hys name, thorowe the fayth of his name, hathe made this manne sounde, whom ye see and knowe. And the fayth whiche is by him, hath geuen to hym thys healthe in the presence of you all.

D And now brethren, I wote that thorow ignorance ye dyd it, as dyd also youre rulers. But God (whiche before had shewed, by the mouthe of all his Prophetes, how that Christ shoulde suffer) hath thus wise fulfilled. Let it * repente you therefore, and conuerte, that youre synnes may bee doone awaye. Mat.4.c

+ When the tyme of refreshyng commeth, whiche we shall haue of the presence of the Lorde, and when God shall sende hym, whiche before was preached vnto you, ý is to wit Jesus Christ which must receaue heauen vntill the tyme that all thynges, whiche God hath spoken by the mouthe of all hys holy Prophetes, sence the worlde began, be restored agayne.

Moses truly sayde vnto the fathers: * a Prophet shall the Lorde youre God raise vp vnto you, euen of youre brethren, lyke vnto me: hym shall ye heare, in all thynges whatsoeuer he shall saye vnto you. For the tyme will come, that euery soule whiche wil not heare that same Prophet, shalbe destroyed from amonge the people. All the Prophetes also from Samuell and thencefourthe (as many as haue spoken) haue in lykewyse tolde of these dayes. Deu.18.a Leuit.23

Ye are the childzen of the Prophetes, and of the couenaunt, whiche God made vnto oure fathers, saying to Abraham:

* Gen

Gen.12.b. 22.d. * Euen in thy seede shall all the kynreds of the earth be blessed. Vnto you first when God had raised vp his sone Jesus vnto you, he sent him to blesse you, that euery one of you should turne frō his wickednes. ✠

The.iiii. Chapter.

The Apostles are taken and brought before the counsell. They are forbydden to preache, but they turne them vnto prayer, and are more obedient vnto god then vnto men.

AS they spake vnto the people, the priestes and the rulers of the temple, and the Saduces, came vpon them, takyng it greuously, that they taught the people, and preached in Jesu the resurrection from death. And they layde handes on them, and put them in holde vntyll the nexte daye: for it was nowe euentyde. Howbeit many of them, whiche hearde the wordes, beleued: and the nombre of the men was aboute fyue thousande.

And it chaunsed on the morowe, that their rulars, and elders, and Scribes, & Annas the chiefe priest, & Cayphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kynred of the hye priestes) gathered together at Hierusalem. And B whan they had set them before them, they Exo.2.c asked * by what power, or in what name Mat.21.c Luc.7.b haue ye done this?

✠ Then Peter full of the holy goste sayde vnto them: ye rulars of the people, and elders of Israel, yf we this daye be examyned of the good dede that we haue done to the sicke man, by what meanes he is made whole: be it knowen vnto you all, & to all ỳ people of Israel, that by the Mat.1.c name of * Jesus Christe of Nazareth, Phil.2.b whom ye crucifyed, whom God raysed again from death: euen by hym doth this mā stand here present before you, whole. Mat.21.d * This is the stone which was cast aside Mat.21.a of you buylders, whiche is become the Luk.20.c chief of the corner. Neither is there saluaC tion in any other. * For among men vnMat.1.c Phil.2.b der heauen, there is geuen none other name, wherin we must be saued. ✠

When they sawe the boldnesse of Peter and John, and vnderstode that they were vnlearned and laye men, they marueled, and they knewe them, that they had bene with Jesu: and beholdinge also the man, (whiche was healed) standing with them, they coulde not saye against it: but commaunded them to go aside out of the counsell, and counceled among them selues, saying: * what shall we doe to these me? For a manifest signe is done by thē: *Joh.11.f and is openly knowen to all them that dwel in Jerusalem, and we cannot denye it. But that it be noysed no farther amōg the people, lette vs threaten and charge them, that they speake hence forth to no manne in this name.

And they called them * & commaunded D Acte.5.g. them ỳ in no wise they should speake nor teache in the name of Jesu. But Peter & John answered & sayd vnto them: whether it be right in the sight of god, to herken vnto you more then to god, iudge ye. For we cannot but speake, that which we haue sene and heard. So threatned they them, & let them go, and founde nothyng howe to punish them because of the people. For all men prayed God because * of Actes.3.b that whiche was done: for the man was aboue fourtie yere olde, on whome this myracle of healyng was shewed.

Assone as they were let go, they came to E their felowes, and shewed all that the hye priestes & elders had sayd. And whē they heard that, they lyfte vp their voyces to God with one accorde, and sayd: Lorde, thou art God, which hast made heauen & earth, the sea, & all that in them is, which (in the holy goste) by the mouthe of thy seruaunt Dauid (our father) hast sayde: Why ✠ Psal.2.a. did ỳ heathen rage, & the people ymagin vayne thinges? The kynges of the earth stode vp and the rulers came together against the Lorde & against his anoynted.

For of a trueth, against thy holy childe Jesus (whom thou haste anoynted) both Herode & also Poncius Pilate, with the Gentyles and the people of Israel, gaF thered themselues together (in this citie) for to do whatsoeuer thy hand and thy counsell determined before to bee done. And nowe Lorde beholde their threatninges, and graunte vnto thy seruauntes, that with all confidence they maye speake thy worde. So that thou stretche forth thyne hand, that healing, and signes and wonders, bee done by the name of thy holy childe Jesus. And as sone as they had prayed: the place moued, where they were assembled together * & they were all filled *Acte.16.f *Acte.2.a with the holye goste and they spake the and.19.b. worde of God boldlye. ✠ And the multitude of them that beleued & were of G one herte and one soule. Neyther sayde *Acte.2.g any of them, that ought of the thynges and.5.b whyche he possessed, was hys owne: but but they had all thynges commen. And with great power gaue the Apostles witnes of the resurrection of the Lorde Jesu. And great grace was with them all. Neither was there any among them that lacked. For as many as were possessers of landes or houses, sold them, & brought the price of the thynges that were solde, and layed it downe at the Apostles feete. And distribucion was made vnto euery man accordyng as he had nede. ✠

Iosses. And ✠ Joses, whiche was also called of the Apostles Barnabas, (that is to say the sonne of consolacion) being a Leuite, and of the countrey of Cyprus, when he had lande, solde it, and layde the price downe at the Apostles feete.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

The dissemblyng of Ananias and Saphyra is punyshed. Myracles are done by the Apostles, whiche are taken, but the angell of God bryngeth them out of prison. They are brought before the councell. The sentence of Gamaliel. The Apostles are beat, they reioyce in trouble.

A Certayne man named Ananias, with Saphyra his wyfe, solde a possession, and kept away part of the price (his wife also being of counsell) and brought a certayne parte, & layde it downe at the Apostles feete. But Peter layd: Ananias, howe is it, that Sathan hath fylled thyne hearte, that thou shouldest lye vnto the holy goost, & kepe awaye parte of the price of the lande? perteyned it not vnto the onely? and after it was solde, was it not in thyne owne power? Why haste thou conceyued this thyng in thine hearte? Thou hast not lyed vnto me, but vnto God. When Ananias hearde these wordes, he fell downe, and gaue vp the goost. And great feare came on all them, that hearde these thynges. And the yong men rose vp, and put him aparte, and caryed hym out, and buryed hym.

B And it fortuned, that (as it were aboute the space of three houres after) his wyfe came in, ignorannte of that whiche was done. And Peter sayd vnto her: Tell me, solde ye the lande for so muche? And she sayd: yea, for so muche. Then Peter sayd vnto her: why haue ye agreed together, to tempt the spirite of the Lorde? Beholde the feete of them whiche haue buryed thy husband, are at the doore, & shall cary the out. Then fell she downe straight way at his feete, and yelded vp the goost. And the yong men came in, & found her dead, and caryed her out, & buryed her by her husbande. And great feare came on all the congregacion, & on as many as heard it.

By the handes of the Apostles ✠ were C many signes & wonders shewed among the people. And they were altogether vp one accorde in ✠ Salomōs porche. And of other, durst no man ioyne himselfe to thē: neuertheles the people magnifyed them. The nombre of them that beleued in the Lord, both of menne and wemen, grewe more & more: in so muche þ they brought the sicke into the stretes, & layde them on beddes and couches, that at the least way the shadowe of Peter when he came by, might shadowe some of them (and that they might all be delyuered from their infirmities.) D There came also a multitude oute of the cyties rounde aboute, vnto Jerusalem, bryngyng sicke folkes, and them whiche were vexed with vncleane spirytes. And they were healed euery one. ✠ Then the chiefe priest rose vp, and all they that were with him (whiche is the secte of the Saduces) and were full of indignacion, and layed handes on the Apostles, and put them in the common prison. ✠ But the Angell of the Lorde by nyght opened the prison doores, & brought them forth, & sayde: go, and stāde, and speake in the temple to the people all the wordes of this lyfe. When they heard that, they entred into the temple early in the mornyng, & taught. But the chiefe priest came and they that were with him, and called a councell together, and all the elders of the childzen of Israel, & sent men to the prison, to fet them. When the ministers came, and founde them not in prison, they returned and told, saying: the prison truely found we shutte with all diligence, and the keepers standing without before the doores. But when we had opened, we founde no man within. When the chiefe priest, and the E ruler of the temple, and the hye priestes hard these thinges, they douted of them, whereunto this would grow. Then came one and shewed them: behold, the menne that ye put in prison, stande in the temple, and teache the people. Then wente the ruler of the temple, with ministers, & brought them without violence. For they feared the people, leste they should haue been stoned. And when they had brought them, they sette them before the councell: And the chiefe priest asked them, saying: ✠ Dyd not we straytlye commaunde you, that

¶ Peter and the other Apostles answered, and sayed: *We ought more to obey acts.4.d God then men. The God of oure fathers raised vp Jesus, whom ye slewe, and hanged on tree. Hym hathe God lyft vp with his righte hande, to be a ruler and a sauyour, for to geue repentaunce to Israel, and forgeuenes of sines. And we are recordes of these thynges whiche we saye, and so is also the holy ghoste, whom God hathe geuen to them that obey hym. When they D heard that, they claue asunder, and sought meanes to slaie them. Then stode there vp act.22.a. one in the counsell, a pharyse, named * Gamaliel, a doctoure of lawe (had in reputacion among all the people) and commaunded the Apostles to go asyde a little space, and saide vnto them: Ye mē of Israel, take hede to youre selues, what ye entende to Luk.13.a ter this man, was ther one Judas of Galile in the dayes of the tribute, and drewe awaye muche people after hym. He also perysshed, and al, (euen as many as harkened to hym) were scattred abrode.

And now I say vnto you, refrain your selues from these menne, and lette them alone. For yf this counsail, or thys worke be of menne, it will come to naughte. But and yf it bee of God, ye cannot destroy it, leste haply ye bee founde to striue agaynst God. And to hym agreed the other: and acts.4.b when they had called the Apostles, they bette them, *and commaunded that they should not speake in the name of Jesu, and let them go. And they departed from the

The. viii. Chapter.

Saul persecuteth the Christen. The apostles are scattered abroade. Philip commeth into Samaria. Simon Magus is baptised, he dyssembleth. Philipp baptiseth the chamberlayne.

Saul *cõsented vnto his death. A
And at that tyme there was a great persecution agaynst the congregacion whiche was at Jerusalem, and they were all *scattered abzode thozowe out the region of Jurye and Samaria, except the Apostles. But deuoute men dzessed Steuen, and made great lamentaciõ ouer him. As for Saul he * made hauocke of the congregacion, and entred into euerye house, and dzewe out both men and wemen, & thzust them into pzison. Therfoze, they that were scattered abzoad, went euery where pzeachyng the wozde of God.
Then came Philip into a cytie of Samaria, and preached Christ vnto thẽ.
And the people gaue heede vnto those thynges whiche Philyp spake with one accozde, hearyng and seeyng the myra-cles which he dyd. For *vncleane spzites cryeng with loude voice, came out of ma-nye that were possessed of them. And ma-nye taken with palsyes, and manye that halted, were healed. And there was great ioye in that cyte.

But

But there was a certayne man called Symon, whiche before tyme in the same cite vsed wytchecrafte, and bewytched the people of Samarie, saying that he was a man that coulde do great thinges.
C Whom they regarded, from the leaste to the greatest, saying: this manne is the power of God which is called great. And hym they set muche by, because that of long tyme he had bewytched them wyth sorceries. But as sone as they gaue credēce to Philippes preaching of the kingdome of God, and of the name of Jesu Christe, they were baptised both men and women. Then Symon hymselfe beleued also. And when he was baptysed, he contynued with Philippe and wondred, beholdyng the miracles and signes, which were shewed.

+ When the Apostles whiche were at Hierusalem hearde saye, that Samaria had receyued the worde of God, they sent vnto them Peter and John. Which whē they were come downe, prayed for them, that they myght receyue the holy goste. For as yet he was come on none of them: but they were baptised onely in the name of Christe Jesu. * Then layde they their handes on them, and they receyued the holy goste. +

When Symon sawe that through layng on of the Apostles handes, the holy goste was geuen, he offred them money, saying: geue me also this power, that on whomsoeuer I put the handes, he maye receyue the holy ghoste. But Peter sayed vnto hym: thy money perysshe with thee, because thou hast thought * that the gyft of God maye bee obtayned with monye. Thou hast neither part, nor felowshyp in this busynes. For thy harte is not ryght in the syght of God. Repente therfore of thys thy wyckednes, and praye God that the thought of thine heart maye be forgeuen thee. For I perceyue that thou arte ful of bitter gal, and wrapped in iniquytie. Then answered Symon and sayd: * praye ye to the Lorde for me, that none of these thynges whiche ye haue spoken, fal on me. And they when they had testifyed and preached the worde of God, returned towarde Jerusalē, and preached the gospell in many cities of the Samaritans.

C + The Angell of the Lorde spake vnto Philip, saying: aryse, and go toward the South, vnto the way that goeth downe from Jerusalem vnto the citye of Gaza, whyche is in the desert. And he arose and went on. And beholde, a man of Ethiopia (a chamberlayn) and of great authoryte with Candace quene of the Ethiopians, which had the rule of all her treasure: * came to Jerusalem, for to worshyp. And as he returned home agayn sytting in his charet, he read Esay the Prophet.

Then the spyrite sayde vnto Philyp: goo nere and ioyne thy selfe to yonder charet. And Philip ran to hym, and hearde him read the Prophet Esai, and sayd: Understandest thou what thou readest? And he sayd: howe can I, except I had a guyde? And he desyred Philip, that he would come vp, and sit with hym. The tenoure of the scripture whiche he read, was thys: * he was led as a shepe to be slayn: and like a lābe domme before hys shearer, so opened he not his mouth. Because of his hūblenes, he was not estemed. But who shall declare hys generacion? for hys lyfe is taken from the earth. The chamberlayne answered Philip, and sayd: I pray thee, of whom speaketh the Prophete this? of hymselfe, or of some other man?

Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached vnto hym Jesus. And as they went on their waye, they came vnto a certayne water, and the chamberlayne sayd: See, here is water * what doeth let me to be baptised? Philip sayed vnto hym: If thou beleue with all thyne herte, thou mayest. And he answered and sayd: I beleue that Jesus Christe is the sonne of God. And he commaunded the charet to stande styll. And they went downe both into the water: both Philip and also the chamberlayne, and he baptised him. And assone as they were come out of the water, the spyrite of the Lorde caught awaie Philip, and the chamberlayne sawe him no more. And he went on his waye reioysyng: but Philip was founde at Azotus. And he walked thorowe out the cōtrey, preaching in all the cities, tyll he came to Cesarea. +

C The .ix. Chapter. +

Paule is conuerted, and confoundeth the Jewes. Peter raiseth Tabitha.

AND Saul yet breathyng out threatninges & slaughter against the disciples of the Lorde, went vnto the hye preest, & desyred of hym letters to cary to Damasco, to the synagoges: * that yf he founde any of this way (whether they were men or wemen) he myght bryng them bounde to Jeru-

to Jerusalem. And when he iorneyed, it forteuned that as he was come nie to Damasco, sodenly there shyned round about hym a lyght from heauen, and he fell to the earth, and hearde a voyce, saying to him: * Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he sayde: what art thou Lorde? And the Lorde sayd: I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest. It is harde for thee to kycke against the prickes. And he both trembling and astonnyed, sayde: Lorde, * what wylt thou haue me to do? And the Lorde sayde vnto hym: aryse and go into the citie, and it shall bee tolde thee, what thou must doe.

The men whiche iorneyed wyth hym, stode amased, hearyng a voice, but seyng no mã. And Saul arose from the earth, & when he opened his eyes, he sawe no mã. But they led hym by the hand, & brought hym into Damasco. And he was three dayes without sight, & neyther dyd eate nor drynke. And there was a certayn disciple at Damasco, named Ananias, and to him sayd the Lord in a vision: Ananias. And he said, behold, I am here Lord. And the Lord sayd vnto him: aryse, and go into ỳ strete (which is called straight) and seke in the house of Judas, after one called Saul * of Tharsus. For beholde, he prayeth, & hath sene in a vision a man named Ananias comming in to him, and puttyng hys handes on hym, that he myght receyue hi s syght.

Then Ananias answered: Lord, I haue heard by many of this man * howe mucke euyll he hath done to thy sainctes at Jerusalem: & here he hathe autoritie of the chye priestes, to bynde all that call on thy name. The Lorde sayd vnto hym: go thy waye, for he is a chosen vessell vnto me, to beare my name before the Gentyles, & kynges, and the chyldren of Israel. For I wyll shewe hym, howe great thynges * he must suffre for my names sake.

And Ananias went his waye, and entred into the house, and put his handes on hym, & sayd: brother Saul, the Lorde that appeared vnto the in ỳ way as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou myghtest receyue thy sight, and be fylled with the holy goste. And immediatlye there fell from his eyes as it had been scales, & he receyued sight: and arose, & was baptysed, and receyued meate, & was comforted. Thẽ was Saul a certain dayes with the disciples, whiche were at Damasco. And strayght waye he preached Christ in the synagoges, how that he was the sõne of god. But al that heard him, were amased, and sayde: is not this he that spoiled them whiche called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that intent, that he myght bryng them bounde vnto the hie priestes? But Saul encreased the more in strength, and confounded the Jewes whiche dwelt at Damasco, affyrmyng that this was very Christe.

And after a good whyle, the Jewes toke councell together to kyll hym. But they: laying awayte was knowen of Saul. And they watched the gates daye and night to kyll hym. * Then the disciples toke hym by night, & put hym thorowe the wall, and let hym downe in a basket.

And when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayde to couple hymselfe to the disciples: but they were al afrayd of him, and beleued not ỳ he was a disciple. But Barnabas toke hym, and brought hym to the Apostles, & declared to them, howe he had sene the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken to hym, and howe he had done boldly at Damasco, in the name of Jesu. And he had hys conuersation with them at Jerusalem, speakyng boldlye in the name of the Lord Jesu. And he spake and disputed agaynste the Grekes: but they went about to slea hym. Which whẽ the brethren knewe * they brought him to Cesarea, and sent hym forth to Tharsus. Then had the congregacõs rest thorowout all Jewry and Galile and Samary, and were edified, and walked in the feare of the Lorde, and multiplyed by the comforte of the holy goste. And it chaunced as Peter walked throughout all quarters, he came also to ỳ sainctes which dwelt at Lydda. And there he founde a certayne man named Eneas, which had kept hys bed. viii. yeres, and was sicke of the palsye. And Peter sayed vnto hym: Eneas, the Lorde Jesus Christ make the whole: aryse, and make thy bed. * And he arose immediatly. And all that dwelt at Lydda and Sharon, sawe him, and turned to the Lorde.

There was at Joppa a certayne woman, a disciple, named Tabitha (whiche by interpretation is called Dorcas) the same was full of good workes, and almes dedes, whiche she did. And it chaunced in those dayes that she was sicke, and dyed. Whom when they had washed, they layd ther in a chãber. But forasmuche as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sente vnto hym, desyryng hym, that he would not be greued to come vnto them.

Peter arose, and came with them. And when he was come, they brought him into the chamber. And all the widdowes stode rounde aboute hym, weepyng, & shewyng the coates and garmentes whiche Dorcas made, while she was with them. And Peter put them al forth, and kneled

THere was a certain man in Cesaria called Cornelius, a captaine of the souldiers of Italy, a deuout manne, and one that feared God with all his housholde, which gaue muche almes to ỹ people, & prayed God alwaye. The same sawe by a vision euidently (aboute the ninth houre of the daye) an Angell of God commyng in to hym, and saying vnto hym: Cornelius. Whyle Peter also mused in hymselfe what this vision (whiche he had sene) meante: beholde, the menne whiche were G
sente from Cornelius, had made inquisition for Simons house, and stode before the doore: and called out one, and asked whether Simon, whiche was surnamed Peter, were lodged there. Whyle Peter thought on the vision, the spirite sayed vnto hym: behold, men seke thee: arise therfore, and gette the downe, and go with them, and doubte not: for I haue sent them. Peter wente downe to the men which were sent vnto him frõ Cornelius, and sayd: Behold, I am he whom ye seke, what is the cause wherefore ye are come? They sayd: Cornelius the captaine, a iust manne, and one that feareth God, and of good reporte emong all the people of the Iewes, was warned by an holy Angell, to send for thee into his house, & to heare woordes of thee. And Cornelius sayed: This daye now foure dayes aboute this houre, I satte fastyng, and at the ninthe houre I prayed in my house: and beholde, a manne stode before me in bright clothing, and sayed: Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, & thyne almes deedes are had in remembraunce in the sight of God. Sende menne therfore to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter. He his lodged in the house of one Simon a tanner by the sea syde: whiche assone as he is come, shall speake vnto thee. Then sent I for thee immediatly, and thou haste well dooen, that thou art come. Nowe therefore are we all here present before God, to heare all thynges that are commaunded vnto thee of God. Then Peter opened hys mouthe & sayed: Of a trueth I perceyue, that there is no respect of persones with God* but in all people, he that feareth hym, and worketh righteousnes, is accepted with hym.

Ye know the preaching that God sent vnto the chyldren of Israell, preachyng peace by Jesu Christe, whiche is Lorde ouer al thynges: † Which preachyng was published throughout all Jewrye (and* began in Galile, after the baptisme which John preached) howe † God anoynted Jesus of Nazareth with the holy ghoste, and with power. Which Jesus went aboute doyng good, and healyng all that were oppressed of the deuel, for God was with hym. And we are witnesses of all thynges whiche he dyd in the lande of the Jewes, and at Jerusalem: whom they slewe, and hanged on tree. Hym God raysed vp the thirde daye, and shewed hym openly, not to all the people, but vnto vs witnesses (chosen before of God for the same intente) whiche did eate and drynke with hym, after he arose frō deathe. † And * he commaunded vs to preache vnto the people, and to testifie, that it is he, whiche was ordeyned of God to bee the iudge of quicke and deade. Whyle Peter yet spake these wordes, * the holy ghoste fell on all them whiche heard the preachyng. And they of the circumcision whiche beleued, were astonyed, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was shed oute the gift of the holy ghoste. *Joh.1.d. the Lord saied: *John baptised with wa-Actes.1.a. ter, but ye shall be baptised with the holy ghoste. For as moche then as God gaue them like giftes as he dyd vnto vs, when we beleued on the Lorde Jesus Christe, what was I, that I shoulde haue withstande God? When they heard thys, they held their peace, and glorifyed God, saying: then hathe God also to the Gentils
graunted repentaunce vnto lyfe.

Luke.3.a *They also whiche were scatred abroade thorowe the affliction that arose
aboute Steuen, walked thorowout vnto Phenices, & Cipers, & Antioche, preachig
the worde to no man, but vnto the Jewes only. Some of them were men of Cipers and Siren: whiche when they were come to Antioche, spake vnto the Grekes, and preached the Lorde Jesus. And the hande of the Lorde was with them, and a greate
numbre beleued and turned vnto ỹ Lord.

Tidinges of these thinges came vnto
D the eares of the congregacion, which was in Jerusalem. And they sent forthe Barnabas, that he shoulde go vnto Antioche.
Whiche when he came, and had sene the Actes.11.f. grace of God, was glad, and *exhorted them all, that with purpose of hearte, they woulde continually cleaue vnto the Lord.
For he was a good man, and full of the holy ghoste & of faythe, and muche people was added vnto ỹ lorde. Then departed Barnabas to Tharsus, for to seke Saul.
And when he had founde hym, he brought hym vnto Antioche. And it chaunced, that a whole yeare they had their conuersation
with the congregacion there, and taught muche people, in somuche that the disciples of Antioche, were the first that were called Christen.

*Act.11.b. *In those daies came Prophetes from the citie of Jerusalē vnto Antioche. And there stode vp one of thē named Agabus,
and signified by ỹ spirite, that there shoulde
be greate derthe thorowout all ỹ world,
whiche came to passe in the Emperoure Claudius dayes. Then the disciples euery man accordyng to hys ability, purposed

The.xii. Chapter.

Herode persecuteth the Christen. Killeth James, & putteth Peter in prison, whom the Lord deliuereth by an angel. The shamefull death of Herode.

AT the same tyme Herod ỹ king stretched forthe hys handes to I
vexe certaine of the cōgregaciō.
And he killed *James the bro- a.
ther of John with ỹ swerde. And because he sawe that it pleased the Jewes, he proceded farther, and toke Peter also. Then were the dayes of swete bread. And when he had caught him, he put hym in prison
also and deliuered him to .iiii. quaternions of soudiers to be kept: entendynge after Ester to bringe hym forthe to the people.
And Peter was kept in prison. But praier was made without ceasyng of the congregacyon vnto God for hym. And when Herode woulde haue brought hym oute
vnto the people, the same night slepte Peter betwene two soudiers, bounde with two chaynes, and the keepers before the dore kepte the prison.

And beholde, *the angell of the Lorde *Luc.
was there present, and a lyght shyned in the habitacion. And he smot Peter on the side, and stered hym vp, saying: aryse vp quickly. And hys cheynes fell of from hys handes. And the Angell sayde vnto hym:
gyrde thy selfe, and bynde on thy sandales.
And so he dyd. And he sayeth vnto hym:
caste thy garment aboute the, and folowe
me. And he came out and folowed hym, & B wiste not that it was trueth whiche was doē by the Angel, but thought he had sene
a vision. When they were passe the firste and the second watche, they came vnto the yron gate, ỹ leadeth vnto the cytie, *which *Luc.
opened to them by the owne accorde. And am.
they wente out, and passed thorowe one streete, and forthewith, the Angel departed from hym.

And when Peter was come to him selfe
he sayed: nowe I knowe of a surenes, that the Lorde hath sent his Angell, and hathe
deliuered me out of the hande of Herode:
and from all the wayting for of the people of the Jewes. ✠ And as he consydred the C thyng, he came to the house of Mary the mother of one John (whose syrname was Marke) where many were gathered together *in prayer. As Peter knocked at the Luc.
entry dore, a damsell came forth to herken,
named Rhoda. And when she knewe Peters voyce, she opened not the entrye for gladnes, but ran in, and tolde howe Peter stode before the entry. And they saied vnto her: thou art mad. But she affirmed that it was euen so. Then sayed they, it is hys angel. But Peter continued knocking: and when

when they had opened the dooze, & sawe hym, they were astonied. * And when he had beckened vnto them with the hande, that they might holde theyr peace, he told them by what meanes the Lorde hadde brought him out of the prison. ‡ And he sayd: go shewe these thinges vnto James and to the brethren. And he departed, and went into another place. Assone as it was daye, there was no lytle adoe among the souldiers, what was become of Peter. When Herode had sought for hym, and found him not, he exampned the kepers, and commaunded them to bee caryed awaye. And he descended from Jewrye to Cesarea, and there abode. Herode was displeased with them of Tyre and Sidō. But they came all with one accorde, and made intercession vnto Blastus ỹ kinges chamberlayne & desyred peace, because theyr countrey was norished by ỹ kinges prouision. And vpon a daye appoynted, Herode arayed hym in royall apparell, and set him in his seate, and made an oracion vnto them. And the people gaue a shoute, saying: it is the voyce of a God, and not of a manne. And immediatly the Angell of the Lorde smote hym, because he gaue not God the honour: and he was eaten of wormes and gaue vp the goste. And the worde of God grewe and multyplyed. And Barnabas and Paul returned to Jerusalem, when they had fulfylled theyr office, & toke with them * John, whose syrname was Marke.

The.xiii. Chapter.

Paul and Barnabas are called to preache among the heathen. Of Sergius Paulus and Elymas the sorcerer. Paul preacheth at Antioche.

THere were in the congregacion that is at Antioche, certayne prophetes, & teachers: as Barnabas and Symon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cirene and Manahem, Herode the Tetrarkes norselowe, and Saul. As they ministred to the Lorde and fasted, the holy goste sayde: seperate me Barnabas and Saul, for the worke wherunto I haue called them. And when they had fasted and prayed, & * layde theyr handes on them, they lette them go. And they after they were sente forth of the holy goste, departed vnto Seleutia, & from thence they sayled to Cyprus. And when they were at Salampne, they shewed the worde of God in ỹ synagoges of the Iewes. And they had ‡ John to their minister. When they had gone thorow ỹ yle vnto Paphos, they found a certaine sorcerer (a false prophete, a Jewe) whose name was Barjesu, whiche was with the ruler of the countrey, one Sergius Paulus a prudente man. The same ruler called vnto hym Barnabas and Saul, and desyred to heare the worde of God. But Elimas * the sorcerer (for so is hys name by interpretacion) withstode them, and sought to turne awaye the ruler from the fayth. Then Saul (whiche also is called Paul) beyng full of the holy goste, set his eyes on hym, and sayd: O ful of al sutteltie and disceptfulnes, thou childe of the deuyll, thou enemye of all rightcousnes: wilt thou not cease to peruerte the straycht wayes of the Lorde? And now beholde, the hand of the Lorde is vpon thee, & thou shalt be blynde, and not see the sunne for a season. And immediatly there fel on him a myste & a darkenes, and he went about seking them that should lead hym by the hande. Then the ruler, whē he sawe what had happened, * beleued, and wondred at the doctrine of the Lorde. When Paul departed from Paphos, they that were with hym, came to Perga in Pamphilia: and * John departed from them, and returned to Jerusalem. But they wandred thorowe the countryes, & came from Perga to Antioche in Pisidia, and wente into the synagoge on the Sabboth day, & sate downe. And after the lecture of the lawe and the prophetes, the rulers of the synagoge sente vnto them, saying: ye men and brethren, yf ye haue any sermon to exhorte the people, saye on. Then Paul stode vp, and ‡ beckened with the hande for silence, and sayde: Men of Israel, and ye that feare God, geue audience. The God of this people chose our fathers, and exalted the people, when they dwelt as straūgers in the lande of Egipte, and * wyth an hye arme brought he them out of it, & about the tyme of fourtie yeres suffred he theyr maners in the wildernesse. And he destroyed seuen nations in the lande of Canaan, * and deuyded theyr lande to them by lot. And afterwarde they gaue vnto thē iudges about the space of. iiii. C. & fiftie yeares, vnto the time of Samuel ỹ prophete. And afterwarde they * desyred a kyng, and God gaue vnto them Saul the sonne of Cis, a manne of the tryde of Beniamin, by the space of fourty yeares. And when he was put downe, he sette vp Dauid to be their kyng, of whome he recorded, saying: * I haue founde Dauid the sonne of Jesse, a manne after myne owne heart, whiche shall fulfyll all my wyll.

¶ The.xiiii. Chapter.

Paul and Barnabas preache at Iconium, some beleue, some stirre vp seditiō. At Lystra they would do sacrifyce to Barnabas and Paul, whiche refuse it, and exhorte the people to worshyp the true God, Paul is stoned: after that commeth he to Derbe, Lystra, Iconium, and to Antioche.

And

A AND it foꝛtuned in Iconium, that they went both togeꝛther into ꝓ synagoge of ꝓ Jewes, and so spake that a great multitude bothe of the Jewes, and also of the Grekes, beleued. But the vnbeleuynge Jewes, steꝛed vp, & vnquieted the mindes of the Gentiles agaynst the bꝛethꝛē. Long time abode they there, & quit them selues boldely with the helpe of the Lord, which gaue testimony vnto ꝓ woꝛd of his grace, and * graunted sygnes and wonders to bꝛe doen by their handes. But the multitude of the citie was deuided: & part held with the Jewes, & part with ꝓ Apostles.

B When there was an assaute made bothe of the Gentiles, and also of the Jewes with their rulers, to do them violence and to stone them: they wer ware of it and fled * vnto Listra and Derba, citiꝛs of Licaonia, and vnto the region that lyeth round about, and there preached the Gospell. (And all the multitude was moued at their doctryne, but Paul and Barnabas taryed still at Listra.) And there sat a certaine man at Listra weake in his fete, beyng * creple from hys mothers wombe, and neuer had walked. The same heaꝛde Paul pꝛeache. Whiche beholdyng hym, and pꝛeceyuing that he had faythe to be whole, sayed with a loude voice: stande vpꝛight on thy fete. And he steaꝛt vp, and walked. And when the people sawe what Paul had doen, they lyfte vp their voyces, saying in ꝓ speache of Licaonia: * Goddes aꝛe come downe to vs in ꝓ likenes of men. And they called Barnabas Jupiter, and Paul Mercurius, because he was ꝓ pꝛeacher. Then Jupiters pꝛieste whiche dwelt before their citie, bꝛought oxen and gaꝛlandes vnto the poꝛche, and would haue doen sacrifice with the people.

C Whiche when the Apostles, Barnabas & Paul, heaꝛde of, they ꝛent their clothes, and ran in amonge the people, cꝛying and saying: sirs why doe ye thys? We are mortall menne like vnto you, and pꝛeache vnto you, that ye shoulde turne from these vanities vnto ꝓ liuyng God, which made heauen and eaꝛthe and the sea, & al thinges that aꝛe therein: the whiche in times paste suffred all nations to walke in their owne wayes. * Neuertheles he lefte not hymselfe without witnes, in that he shewed hys benefites from heauen, in geuyng vs raine and fruitfull seasons, fillyng oure haꝛtes with foode and gladnes.

And with these sayinges, scace ꝛefrayned they the people, that they had not doen sacrifice vnto them. Thither came certain Jewes from Antioche, and Iconium: whiche (when they had obtayned the peoples consent: and had stoned Paul) dꝛew hym oute of the citie, suppolyng he had ben dead. Howbeit, as the disciples stode round aboute hym, he aꝛose vp, and came into the citie. And the nexte daye he departed with Barnabas to Derba. And when they had pꝛeached to that citie, and had taught many, they returned agayne to Listra, and to Iconium, and Antioche, and stengthed the disciples soules againe, and * exhoꝛted them to continue in the faythe: affirmyng that we must ‡ through muche tribulacion enter into the kyngdome of God. And when they had oꝛdeyned them elders by election, in euery congregacion, and had prayed and fasted, they commended them to the Lorde on whom they beleued. And when they had gone throughout Pisidia, they came to Pamphilia: and when they had pꝛeached the woꝛd in Perga, they descended into the citie Attalya, and thence departed by shyp to Antioche, from whence they wer committed vnto ꝓ grace of God, to the woꝛcke whiche they fulfilled. When they were come, and had gaꝛthered the congregacion together, they rehearsed al that God had doen by them, and howe he had opened the doꝛe of fayth vnto the Gentiles. And there they abode long tyme with the disciples.

A Certayne menne which came doune, taught ꝓ bꝛethꝛen: except ye be circumcised after ꝓ maner of Moses, ye cānot be saued. So when there was rysen dissencyon and disputing, not a litel, vnto Paul and Barnabas agaynste them, they determined that Paul and * Barnabas, and certaine other of them should go vp to Jerusalem vnto ꝓ Apostles and elders, about this question. B And they declared al thynges that GOD had done by them. Then rose vp certayne of the seete of the Pharises, whiche dyd beleue: saying that it was nedefull to circumcise them, and to commaunde them to kepe the lawe of Moyses. And the Apostles and elders came together, to reason of thys matter.

And when there was moch disputing, Peter rose vp, and sayde vnto them: Ye menne and brethren, ye knowe how that a good whyle a goe, God dyd chose among vs that the Gentiles by my mouth should heare the word of the gospell, and beleue.

For as muche as we haue hearde that certayne whiche departed from vs, haue troubled you with wordes, and combred youre myndes, saying: Ye muste bee circumcised, and kepe the lawe, to whom
E wee gaue no suche commaundement. It semed therfore to vs a good thinge, when we were come together with one accorde, to send chosen menne vnto you, with oure beloued Barnabas and Paul, menne that haue ieoparded their lyues for the name of oure Lord Jesus Christ. We haue sent therfore Judas and Silas, whiche shall also tell you the same thinges by mouthe. For it semed good to the holy ghost and to vs, to charge you with no more then these necessary thinges, that is to saye, that ye abstaine from thinges offered to ymages, and from bloude, and from strangled, and from fornication. From whiche yf ye kepe youre selues, ye shall do well. So fare ye well.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Timothy is circumcised, Paul preacheth at Philippos, and there is he put in prison.

Then came he to Derba and to Listra. And beholde, a certaine disceple was there named Timotheus, a womans sō, which was a Iewesse and beleued: but hys father was a Greke. Of whō reported well the brethren that were at Listra and Iconium. Hym wold Paul that he shoulde go forthe with hym, and toke and circumcised hym, because of the Iewes whiche wer in those quarters: for they knew all, that his father was a Greke. As they wēt thorow the cities, they deliuered them the decrees for to kepe, that were * ordeyned of the Apostles and elders, whiche were at Ierusalem. And so wer the congregacions stablisshed in the faith, and encreased in nombre dayly.

When they had gone thorowe out Phrigia, and the region of Galacia, and * were forbidden of the holy ghost to preache the worde in Asia, they came to Mysia, and sought to go into Bethinia. But the spirite suffred them not. But whan they had gon thorowe Mysia, they came downe to * Troada. And a visyon appeared to Paul in the nyght. There stode a man of Macedonia and prayed hym, saying: come in to Macedonia, and helpe vs. After he had sene the vision, immediatly wer prepared to go into Macedonia, being certified that the Lorde had called vs for to preache the Gospell vnto them. Whan we loced forth then from Troada, we came with a strait course to Samothracia, and the nexte day to Neapolim, & frō thence to Philippos, whiche is the chiefe citie in the partes of Macedonia, and a free citie.

Wer were in that citie abydyng certayne dayes. And on the Sabboth dayes we went oute of the citie beside a ryuer, where men were wonte to praye. And we sate downe, and spake vnto the wemen whiche resorted thyther. And a certayne woman (named Lidia) a seller of purple of the citie of Thyatira, whiche worshipped God, gaue vs audience. When she was baptised, and her housholde, she besoughte vs, saying: If ye thynke that I beleue on the Lord, come into my house, and abide there. And she * constrayned vs.

And it fortuned as we went to praier, a certayne damosel possessed with a spirite that prophecyed, met vs, whiche brought her master and mastres muche aduantage with prophecyng. The same folowed Paul and vs, and cryed, saying: * these menare the seruauntes of the moste hye God, whiche shewe vnto vs the waye of saluacion. And thys dyd she many dayes. But Paul not content turned aboute, and sayde to the spirite. I commaunde the * in the name of Iesu Christe, that thou come oute of her. And he came oute the same houre.

And when her master and mastres sawe that * the hope of their gayne was gone, they caught Paul & Sylas, and drue thē into the market place vnto the rulers, and brought thē to the officers, saying: These menne trouble oure citie, seyng they are Iewes, and preache ordinaunces whiche are not lawfull for vs to receaue, nether to obserue, seyng we are Romaynes. And the people ranne agaynst them, and the officers rente their clothes, and commaunded them to * bee beaten with roddes. Whiche when he had receaued suche commaundement, thruste them into the inner prison, and made their fete fast in the stockes.

At mīdnight Paul and Silas prayed, & lauded God. And ỹ prisoners hearde thē. And sodenly ther was a great earthquake, so that the foundacion of the prisō was shaken, & * immediatly al the doores opened, and euery mans bandes wer louse. When the keper of the prison waked out of his slepe and sawe the prisō doores open, he drew oute his swearde, & would haue kylled hym selfe, supposyng that the prisoners had ben fled. talled for a lyght and sprange in, and came trembling vnto Paul, and fell doune at the fete of Paul and Sylas, and broughte them out, and sayed: Syrs *what muste

And when it was daye, the officers sent the ministers, saying: let those menne go. The keper of the prison tolde this saying to Paul: the officers haue sente worde to louse you. Nowe therfore get you hence, and goo in peace. Then sayed Paul vnto them: they haue beaten vs openly vncondemned, for all that we are Romaynes, & haue cast vs into prison, & now wold they send vs away priuely? Naye verely, but let them come them selues, and fet vs out. Whē the ministers told these wordes vnto ỳ officers, they feared when they heard
Mat. 5. b that they were Romaines: *they came and besought thē, and brought them out, & desyred them to departe out of the citie. And they went out of the prison and entred into the house of Lydia, & whē they had sene ỳ brethren, they cōforted thē, & departed.

¶ The .xvii. Chapter.

Paul cūmeth to Thessalonica, where the Jewes set the cytie on a rore. Paul escapeth, & cūmeth to Athens where he preacheth the true and vnknowne GOD.

I AS they made their iorney thorow Amphipolis, & Apolonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a Synagoge of the Jewes. And Paul (as hys maner was) wente in vnto them, & thre Sabboth dayes declared out of the scripture vnto them, opening & alle-

* was Christ, whom (saied he) I preache to a Act. 28. f. you. And *some of them beleued, & came & companied with Paul & Sylas, and of the deuout Grekes a great multitude, and of the chefe wemen not a fewe.

B But the Jewes which beleued not, had indignacion, and toke vnto thē cuyll men, which wer vagabondes, & gathered a cōpany, & set al the citie on a roare, and made assaute vnto the house of Jason, & sought to bryng them out to the people. And whē they found thē not, they drue Jason, & certayn brethren vnto the heades of the citie, crying: these ỳ trouble the world, are come hither also, whō Jason hath receaued priuely. * And these all do contrary to the de- Joh.
crees of Cesar, affyrmyng another kinge, one Jesus. And they troubled the people, & the officers of the citie, when they heard these thynges. And when they wer sufficiently answered of Jason, and of ỳ other, they let them go.

And the brethren immediatly sent awaie Paul and Sylas by night, vnto Berrea. Which when they wer come thither, they C entred into the Synagoge, of the Jewes. These were the noblest of byrth amonge them of Thessalonia, which receaued the worde with all diligence of mynde, & searched *the scriptures dayly, whether those Joh. 5 thynges were euen so. And many of them beleued: also of worshipful wemen which wer Grekes, and of men not a few. When the Jewes of Thessalonia had knowlage, that the worde of God was preached of Paul at Berrea: they came, and moued ỳ people there. And thē immediatly the brethren sent away Paul, to go as it were to the sea: but * Silas & Timotheus abode Act. 18
there styll. And they that guyded Paul, D brought hym vnto Athens, and receaued a commaundement vnto Silas and Timotheus, for to come to hym with spede: and came their way. Whyle Paul wayted for them at Athens, his spirite was moued in hym, when he sawe the citie geuen to worshyppyng of ymages. Then disputed he in the synagoge with the Jewes, & with the deuout persons: and in the market dayly with them ỳ came vnto hym by chaūce. Certayne Philosophers of the Epicures, & of the Stoyckes, disputed wt hym. And some there wer which said: what will this E babler saie? Other said: he semeth to be a tidinges bringer of new deuyls, because he preached vnto them Jesus & the resurrection: And they toke him, & brought him in to Marce street, saying: may we not know what this new doctrine wherof thou speakest is? For thou bringest straunge tydinges to our eares. We wold know therfore, what these thinges meane. For al the Athenians, & straungers which wer there, gaue thē selues to nothing els, but eyther to tell, or to heare some newe thynge.

¶ The.xviii. Chapter.

Paul preacheth at Corinthum, continuing there
a yeare & a halfe, goeth again into Syria, commeth to Ephesus, Cesarea and Antioche. Of Apollos Aquila and Priscilla.

After this, Paul departed from Athens & came to Corinthum, and founde a certayne Jewe named * Aquila, borne in Ponthus, lately come from Italye with his wyfe Priscilla (because that the emperoure Claudius had commaunded all Jewes to departe from Rome) and he drewe vnto them, because he was of the same crafte, he abode with them, and wrought: theyr crafte was to make tētes. And he preached in the sinagoge euery Sabboth day (setting forth in the meane while the name of the Lorde Jesus) and exhorted the Jewes and the Gentiles.

When * Silas and Timotheus were Act.17.d

thence, & entred into a certayne mannes house named Justus, a worshipper of God, whose house ioyned harde to the si-

Lorde to Paul in the night * by a vision: Act.16.b

inuade thee that shall hurte thee. For I haue muche people in thys cytie. And he contynued there a yeare and sire mone-

When Gallio was ruler of the countrey of Achaia, the Jewes made insurrection with one accorde agaīst Paul, & brought hym to the iudgement seate, saying: this felowe counsayleth men to worship God contrary to the lawe. And when Paul now was about to opē his mouth, Gallio
sayed vnto the Jewes: if it were a matter of wrong, or an euill dede, (O ye Jewes)
reason would that I shoulde heare you:
but yf it bee a question of wordes, or of names, or of youre lawe, loke ye to it your selues: for I wyll bee no iudge of suche matters: & he draue them from the seate.
Then all the Grekes toke Sosthenes the chiefe ruler of the sinagoge, & smote hym
before the iudges seate. And Gallio cared for none of those thynges. Paul after this, tarved there yet a good whyle, and then tooke hys leaue of the brethren, and sayled thence into Syria, Priscilla and Aquila accompanying hym. And * he Num.6.b

them there: but he hymselfe entred into

When they desired hym to tarye longer time with them, he consented not, but bad them fare well, saying: I must nedes (at this feast that commeth) bee in Jerusalem, but I will returne againe vnto you *if God wyll. And he departed from Ephesus: and when he was come vnto Cesarea, and ascended vp, and saluted the congregacion, he departed vnto Antioche: & when he had taryed there a while, he depatted, & went ouer all the countrey of Galacia and Phrigia by order, strengthyng all the disciples.

D And a certayne Jewe named * Apollos, borne at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquente manne, and mightye in the scriptures. Thesame was enformed in ꝑ waye of the Lorde, and spake feruently in the spirite, and taught diligently the thinges of the Lorde, and knewe but the baptisme of John only. And thesame beganne to speake boldely in the synagoge. Whom when Priscilla and Aquila had heard, they toke hym vnto them, and expounded vnto hym the way of God more perfectly. And when he was disposed to go into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhorting the disciples to receiue hym. Which when he was come, helped them muche whiche had beleued through grace: For he ouercame the Iewes mightely, & that openly: shewyng by the scriptures, that Jesus was Christe.

¶ The .xix. Chapter.

Of the twelue men that were baptised at Ephesus, and what miracles were done by Paul. Demetrius moued sedicion in the cyte.

A IT fortuned that whyle Apollo was at Corinthꝰ, Paul passed thorowe the vpper coastes, and came to Ephesus, and founde certayne disciples, and sayed vnto them: haue ye receyued the holy goste, sence ye beleued? And they sayed vnto hym: noe, we haue not hearde whether there be any holy goste, or noe. And he sayed vnto them: where with were ye then baptysed? And they sayed: with Johns baptisme. Then sayed Paul: * John verely baptised wyth the baptisme of repentaunce, saying vnto the people that they shoulde beleue on hym, whiche should come after him: that is on Christ Jesus. When they heard this, they were baptised in ꝑ name of the Lorde Jesu. And when Paul had layde his handes vpon them, the holy goste came on them, and they spake with tonges, & prophecied, and all the men were aboute twelue. And he wente into the synagoge, and behaued himselfe boldly for the space of three monethes, disputing and geuing them exhortacions of the kyngdome of God. But when diuers were harde hearted and beleued not, but spake euil of the waye (and that before the multitude) he departed from them, and separated the disciples. And he disputed dayly in the scole of one called Tirannus. And this contynued by the space of two yeres: so that all they whiche dwelt in Asia, heard the worde of the Lorde Jesu, both Iewes and Grekes. And God * wrought special miracles by the handes of Paul: so that from hys bodye were brought vnto the sicke, napkins and partelettes, and the diseases departed from them, and * the euyll spyrites went out of them. Then certain of ꝑ vagabounde Iewes, exorcistes, toke vpon them to call ouer them (which had euyll spyrites) the name of the Lorde Jesus, saying: We adiure you by * Jesu, whom Paul preacheth. And there were seuen sonnes of one Sceua a Iewe, and chefe of the priestes which did so. And the euil spyrite answered and sayed: Jesus I knowe, and Paul I knowe, but who are ye? And the man in whom the euil spyrite was, rane on them, and ouercame them, and preuailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded. And thys was knowen to all the Iewes, and Grekes also, which dwelt at Ephesus, & feare came on them all: and the name of the Lorde Jesus was magnified. And many that beleued, came, * & confessed and shewed theyr workes. Many of them whiche vsed curious crafte, brought theyr bookes, and burned them before all men, and they counted the price of them, and founde it fyftye thousande syluerlynges. So myghtely grewe the woorde of God, and preuayled. After these thynges were ended, Paul purposed in the spyrite (when he had passed ouer Macedonia and Achaia) to goe to Hierusalem, saying: After I haue been there, I muste also see Rome. So sente he into Macedonia two of them that ministred vnto hym, euen Timotheus and Erastus: but he himselfe remayned in Asia for a season.

C Thesame tyme there arose no lytell a do aboute that waye. For a certayne man named named Demetrius a siluersmith (whiche made siluer shrynes for Diana) was not a litell benefyciall vnto the craftes menne. Whō he called together with the workemenne of like occupacion, and saied: Sirs ye know that by thys crafte * we haue aduauntage. Moreouer, ye se and heare that not alone at Ephesus, but almost thorow out all Asia, thys Paul hath perswaded and turned awaye muche people: sayinge * þ they be not Goddes which are made with handes. So that not only thys oure crafte commeth into parell to bee set at nought: but also þ the temple of the great Goddesse Diana shoulde be despised, and her magnificence shoulde bee destroyed, whom all Asia and the worlde worshypperth.

When they hearde these sayinges, they were full of wrath, and cryed out, saying: Greate is Diana of the Ephesians. And all the citie was on a roze, and they rushed into the cōmune hall with one assent, and caught Gaius & Aristarcus, men of Macedonia, Pauls companyons. Whē Paul wolde haue entred in vnto the people, the disciples suffered hym not. But certayne of þ chiefe of Asia (which were his frendes) sent vnto him, desyring him that he would not preace into the comen hal. Some therfore cryed one thynge, and some another, and the congregacion was al out of quiet: and the more parte knewe not wherefore they were come together.

Some of the company drue forth Alexander, þ Jewes thrusting him forwardes. Alexander * beckened with the hand and woulde haue geuen the people an answer. When they knewe that he was a Jewe, there arose a shoute almost for the space of two houres, of all men, crying: greate is Diana of the Ephesians.

Whē the towne clarke had ceased the people, he sayed: ye mē of Ephesus, what man is it that knoweth not how that the citie of the Ephesians is a worshipper of the greate goddesse Diana, of the ymage whiche came from heauen. Seyng then that no man sayeth here agaynst, ye ought to be contente, and to do nothyng rashly: for ye haue brought hyther these menne, whiche are nether robbers of churches, nor yet despysers of youre Goddesse. Wherfore, if Demetrius and the craftes men which are with him, haue a matter agaynst any man, the lawe is open, & there are rulers, let them accuse one another. But yf ye goo about any other thynge, it shall bee determined in a lawfull congregacion. For we are in ieopardy to bee accused of thys dayes bysoure, for as muche as there is no cause wherby wee may geue a rekenyng of thys concourse of people. And when he had thus spoken, he let the congregacion departe.

The. xx. Chapter.

Paul goeth into Macedonia and into Greece. At Troas he rayseth vp a dead body. At Ephesus he calleth the elders of the congregation together, committeth the kepyng of Gods flocke vnto them, warneth them of false teachers, maketh hys prayer with them, and departeth to Cyppe.

After that þ rage was ceased, Paul called þ disciples vnto hym, & toke hys leaue of them, & departed for to go into Macedonia. And when he had gone ouer those parties, and had geuen thē a long exhortacion, he came into Greece, and there abode iii. monethes. And when the Jewes laide waite for him, as he was about to sayle into Syria, he purposed to returne thorow Macedonia. There accompanyed hym into Asia, Sopater of Berrea, & of Thessalonia Aristarcus and Secundus, and Gayus of Derba, and Timotheus, & out of Asia Tichicus and * Trophimus. These goyng before tarryed vs at Troas. And we sailed awaye from Philippos after the dayes of swete bread, and came vnto them to Troas in fyue dayes, where we abode seuen dayes.

And vpon one of the Sabboth daies, whan the disciples came together for to breake breade, Paul preached vnto them (ready to departe on the morow) and continued the preachyng vnto midnyght. And there were many lightes in the chamber, where we were gathered together: & there sate in a wyndowe a certayne ponge man (named Eutichus) beyng fallen into a depe sleepe. And as Paul was preachyng he was the more ouercome with slepe, and fel downe from the thirde lofte, & was take vp dead. But whā Paul went downe, he fell on hym * and embraced hym & said: make nothyng a do, for his lyfe is in him. So when he was come vp agayne, & had broken the breade, & eate, & talked a long whyle (euen till the morning) at the laste he departed. And they brought the ponge man aliue, and were not a litle conforted.

And we went afore to shyppe, & sayled vnto

vnto Assos there to receaue Paul. For so had he appoynted, and wold hym selfe goe a fote. When we were come together at Assos, we toke hym in, and came to Mitylenes. And we sayled thence, and came the nexte daye ouer agaynste Chios. And the D nexte daye we arryued at Samos, & taried at Trogilion. The nexte daye we came to Miletum, for Paul had determined to saile ouer by Ephesus, because he wolde not spende the tyme in Asia. For he hasted (yf it were possible for hym) to kepe at Jerusalem the day of Pentecoste. And from Miletū he sent messaungers to Ephesus, and called the elders of the congregacion. Whiche when they were come to hym, he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe from the fyrste daye þ I came into Asia, after what maner I haue ben with you at all seasons seruynge the Lorde with all humblenes of mynde, and with many teares and temptacions whiche happened vnto me by the layenges awayte of the Jewes, because I wolde kepe backe nothyng that was profitable vnto you: but to shew you, & teache you openly and thorowe out euery house, wytnessinge both to the Jewes, and also to the Grekes, þ *repentaunce that is toLuke.24.c ward God, and the faith which is toward oure Lorde Jesus.

E And nowe beholde, I go bounde in the spirite vnto Jerusalem, not knowyng the thynges that shall come on me there, but Luke.21.a that the holy ghoste witnesseth in euery cytie: saying, that bandes and trouble abyde me. But none of these thynges moue 2.tim.4.b me neither is my lyfe deare vnto myselfe, that I myght fulfill my course with ioye, & the ministracion (of the word) whiche I haue receaued of the Lord Jesu, to testifie the Gospell of the grace of God.

F And nowe beholde, I am sure, that hencefoorth, ye all (thorowe whom I haue gone preachyng the kyngdom of God) shall see my face nomore. Wherfore, I take you to recorde this daye, that I am pure from the bloud of al men. For I haue spared no labour, but haue shewed you al the counsell of God. Take hede therfore vnto your selues and to al the flocke, amonge whom the holy ghoste hath made you ouerseers, to rule the congregacion of God, whiche he hath purchased with hys bloude. * For1.tim.4.a 2.tim.3.a 1.Pet.5.a and.2.a Jude.1.f I am sure of this, that after my departing shall grenous wolues entre in amonge you, not sparyng the flocke. Therfore awake, and remembre that by the space of thre yeres, I ceased not to warne euery one of you night and daye with teares.

G And nowe brethren, I commend you to God, & to the worde of his grace, whiche is able to buylde farther, and to geue you an inheritaunce amonge all them whiche are sanctified. * I haue desyred no mans Act.4.c 1.Ti.6.a 2.Co.9.a and.12.b 2.Ge.8.c 1.Co.9.c 2.Thes.3.c syluer, gold, or vesture. And when he had thus spoken, he kneled doune * and prayed with them al. And they *Act.21.c all wept sore and fell on Pauls necke, and kyssed hym: sorowyng moste of all for the wordes whiche he spake, that they should se his face nomore. And they conuaied him vnto the shyppe.

Pauls Iorney by shyppe. Of Philippe the Euangelist, and Agabus the Prophet, whiche warned Paul not to go to Jerusalem. He remained stedfast in hys purpose, and is taken in the temple.

AND when it chaunced that we had launched forthe, and were I departed from them, we came with a strayght course vnto Choon, and the daye folowyng vnto the Rhodes, and from thence vnto Patara. And whē we had gotte a shippe þ would sayle vnto Phenices, we went abord into it, and set forth. But when Cyprus began to appeare vnto vs, we lefte it on the lefte hande, and sayled vnto Syria, and came vnto Tyre. For there the shyppe vnladed the burthen. And when wee had founde brethren, we taryed there seuen dayes. And Acts.20.d they tolde Paul thorowe the spirite * that he shoulde not go vp to Jerusalem. And when the dayes were ended we departed and went oure way: and they all brought vs on our waye, with wiues and children, till we were come out of the citie. And we Acts.20.f kneled doune in the shore, * and prayed. J And when we had taken our leaue one of another, we tooke shyppe, and they returned home agayne.

When we had ful ended the course from Tire, we went doune to Ptolomaida, and saluted saluted the brethren, and abode with the one daye. The next daye, we that were of Pauls company, departed, and came vnto Cesarea. And we entred into the house of * Philip the Euangelist, whiche was one of the seuen, and abode with hym. The same man had foure doughters, virgins, whiche dyd * prophecy. And as we taried there a good many of dayes, there came a certaine prophete from Jury, named Agabus. When he was come vnto vs, he tooke Pauls gyrdle, & bounde his feete & handes, and sayd: Thus sayth the holy goste, * so shall the Jewes at Jerusalem bynd the man that oweth this gyrdle, and shall delyuer hym into the handes of the Gentiles. When we heard this, both we & other whiche were of the same place, besought him that he would not go vp to Jerusalem. Then Paul answered, and sayde: what doe ye wepyng and veryng myne heart? I am ready, not to be bound only, but also to dye at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesu. When we could not turne his mynde we ceased, saying: * the will of the Lorde be fulfylled. After those dayes we tooke vp oure burthens, and went vp to Jerusalem. * There went with vs also certaine of the disciples of Cesarea, & brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an olde disciple, with whome we shoulde lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem: the brethren receyued vs gladlye. And on the morowe, Paul went in with vs vnto James. And all the elders came together. And when he had saluted them, he tolde by order all thynges, that God had wrought among the Gentyles by his ministracion. And when they hearde it, they glorifyed the Lord, and sayd vnto him: Thou seest brother, howe many thousande Jewes there are which beleue, and they are all earnest folowers ouer the lawe. And they are informed of thee, that thou teachest all the Jewes whiche are among the Gentyles, to forsake Moses, and sayest that they ought not to circumcyse theyr chyldren, neither to lyue after the customes. What is it therfore? the multitude must nedes come together. For they shall heare that thou art come. Doe therfore this that we saye to thee.

* We haue .iiii. men, whiche haue a vowe on them. Them take, & purifye thy selfe with them, and do cost on them, that they may shaue their heades: & all shal knowe that those thinges which they haue heard concernyng thee, are nothyng: but that thou thy selfe also walkest and kepest the law. But as touchyng ꝑ Gentiles which beleue, * we haue written and concluded, that they obserue no such thing, saue onlye ꝑ they kepe themselues from thynges offred to ydols, and from bloud, & from strangled, and from fornicacion. Then the next day Paul toke the men, & * purifyed hymselfe with them, and entred into the temple, declaryng that he obserued the dayes of the purification, vntyll that an offeryng should be offred for euery one of them. And when the seuen dayes were now almost ended, ꝑ Jewes which were of Asia (when they sawe hym in the temple) moued al the people, & layde handes on him, cryng: men of Israel help. This is the man, that teacheth al menne euery where against the people & the lawe, and this place. He hath also brought Grekes into the temple, & hath polluted this holy place. For they had sene with him one in the cite * Trophimus an Ephesian, whō they supposed that Paul had brought in to the temple. And all the cyte was moued, & the people swarmed together. And they toke Paul, and drue hym out of the temple, and forthwith the doores were shut. As they wente aboute to kyll hym, tydinges came vnto ꝑ hie captaine of the souldyers, that all Jerusalem was moued. Which immediatly toke souldiours and vndercaptaynes, and ranne downe vnto them. When they sawe the vpper captaine & the souldiours: they left smytyng of Paul. Then the captayne came nere and tooke hym, and commaunded hym to be bound with two chaynes, and demaunded what he was, and what he had done. And some cryed one thig, some another, among the people. And when he coulde not knowe the certaynte for the rage, he commaunded hym to bee caryed into the castle. And when he came vnto a stayre it fortuned that he was borne of the souldiers for the violence of the people. For the multitude of the people folowed after, cryng: away with hym.

And when Paul began to be caryed into the castle, he sayd vnto the hie captain: maye I speake vnto the? Which sayde: Canst thou speake Greke? Art not thou that Egipcian, which before these dayes madest an vproure, & ledest out into the wyldernes

They gaue hym audience vnto thys worde, and then lyft vp their voices, and sayd: away with suche a felowe from the earth: for it is not reason that he should lyue. And as they cryed, and cast of their clothes, and threw duste into the ayre, the captaine cōmaunded hym to bee brought into the castle, and bad that he should be scourged, and to bee examined, (that he might knowe) wherefore they cryed so on hym. And when they bounde him with thonges, Paul sayed vnto the Centurion that stoode by hym: Is it lawfull for you to scourge a man that is a Romaine and vncondemned? When the Centurion hearde that, he wente and tolde the vpper capitayn, saying: What entendest thou to doe? For this manne is (A citezen) of Rome.

C Then the vpper captain came, and sayed vnto hym: tell me, art thou a Romaine? He sayed: yea. And the captayn answered: with a great some obtayned I this freedome. And Paul sayed: I was free borne. Then straight way departed from hym they whiche should haue examyned hym. And the hye captayn also was afrayed, after he knewe that he was a Romayne, and because he had bounde hym. On the morowe (because he would haue knowē the certaynety wherfore he was accused of the Jewes) he loced hym frō his bondes, & cōmaūded ꝑ hie prīestes and all the counsel to come together, * & brought Paul furth & set him before thē.

The.xxiii. Chapter.

Paul cōmeth before the counsel. Debate ariseth among the people, the capitayne delyuereth hym, God comforteth him.

PAul behelde the counsel, and sayd: men & brethren I haue liued in all good conscience before God vntill thys day. And the hye prieste Ananias cōmaūded them ꝑ stode by to smite him on ꝑ mouth. Then sayd Paul vnto hym: God shall smite thee thou paynted wal. & Sittest ꝑ and iudgest me after the law & commaūdest me to be smitten cōtrary to the law. And they ꝑ stode by, said: reuilest * thou Gods hye prieste. Thē sayd Paul: I wist not brethren, that he was the hye prieste. For it is written: * thou shalte not curse the ruler of thy people.

When Paul perceyued ꝑ the one part were Saducеis, & the other Phariseis, he cryed out in the counsell: Men & brethren I am a Phariseу, the sonne of a phariseу. * Of ꝑ hope & resurrection frō death, I am iudged. And whē he had so said, ther arose a debate betwene ꝑ phariseis & the Saduceis & the multitude was deuyded. & for ꝑ Saduceis saye, ꝑ ther is no resurrectiō, neither angell nor spirite. But the phariseis graunt both. And there arose a great crie: & when the scribes which were of ꝑ phariseis part arose, they stroue, saying: we kynde none euill in this manne. Though a spirite or an angel hath appeared to hym, lette vs not striue against God. And when there arose great debate, the capitayn (fearing lest Paul should haue bene pluct a sōder of them) commaunded ꝑ souldiers to go down, & to take him from among them, and to bryng hym into the castell. * The night folowig, god stode by him, & said: be of good chere Paul: for as thou hast testifyed of me in Jerusalem: so must ꝑ beare witnes also at Rome. And whē it was day, certaine of ꝑ Jewes gathered thēselues together, & made a vow: saying ꝑ thei would neither eate nor drinke til they had killed Paul. They wer moe thē .xl. men, which had made this cōspiracion. And they came to ꝑ chief prieстes and elders, & sayd: we haue bounde our selues with a bowe, that we will eate nothyng, vntyll we haue slayne Paule. Now therfore geue ye knowledge to ꝑ vpper capitayn and to the counsayl, that he bryng him furth vnto vs to morow, as though we would know some thyng more perfectly of hym. But we (or euer he come nere) are ready to kill him. Whē Pauls sisters sonne heard of theyr laying awayte, he went and entred into the castle, & tolde Paul. And Paul called one of the vnder capitaines vnto him, & said: bring this yong man vnto ꝑ hie captain, for he hath a certayn thing to shew him. And he toke him & brought him to ꝑ hie captain, & said: Paul the prisoner called me vnto him, & prayed me to bryng this yong mā vnto thee, which hath a certain matter to shewe thee. The hye capitayn toke him by the hand, & went with him out of the way: and asked him, what is it that thou hast to tel me? And he sayd: the Jewes are determyned to desyre thee, that thou wouldest bryng foorthe Paul to morowe into the counsayll as though they would enquire sumwhat of him more perfectly. But folowe not thou their mindes: for ther lye in wayte for him of them, moe then .xl. men, which haue boūd themselues vnder a vow, ꝑ they will neither eate nor drinke, til they haue killed him. And now are they ready, and loke ꝑ thou shouldest promes. The vpper capitain then let ꝑ yong mā depart, & charged him saying: se ꝑ tel it out to no man, ꝑ thou hast shewed these thynges to me. And he called vnto hī two vnder capitaynes, saying: make ready .cc. souldiers to go to Cesarea, & horsmen .lxx. & spere men .cc. at ꝑ third houre of ꝑ night. And deliuer thē beastes, ꝑ they may set Paul on, & bring hym safe vnto Felix ꝑ hie debitie. (For he dispeare leste happlye the Jewes shoulde take him away & kil hym, and he himselfe shoulde be afterward blamed as though he would take money) & he wrot a letter after this maner.

Claudius Lisias vnto ꝑ most myghty ruler Felix, sendeth gretynges: * Thys man was taken of the Jewes, & shoulde haue beene killed of them. Then came I with souldiours and rescued him, & perceyued that he was a Romayne. And when I would haue knowen the cause wherfore they accused him, * I brought him furth into their counsel. There perceiued I ꝑ he was accused of questions of theyr law: * But was not gyltie of any thing worthy of death or of bondes.

maundement to his accusers, ꝑ the thin-ges whiche they haue agaynst him, they

souldiers (as it was commaũded them)
toke Paule, and brought hym by nighte to Antipatras. On the morow they left the horsmen to go with hym, & returned vnto the castle. Whiche when they came to Cesarea, (and deliuered the epistle to the debitie) presented Paule also before him. When the debitie had red the letter, he asked of what countrey he was. And when he vnderstode ꝑ he was of Cilicia:
*Dc.27.a * I will heare thee (sayd he) when thyne
accusers are come also, & he commaũded
him to be kept in Herods iudgemẽt hal.

maiste (if thou wilt enquire) know ꝑ cer-taintie of all these thinges, wherof we accuse him. The Jewes lykewyse affir-selfe had beckened vnto him ꝑ he should speake,) answered: With a more quiete

much as I vnderstande, that thou haste

And after certayne dayes, whẽ Felix F came with hys wyfe Drusilla (whiche was a Jewesse) he called furth Paul, & heard him of the faith, which is toward Christ. And as he preached of righteousnes, temperaunce, & iudgement to come, Felix trembled, and answered: Goe thy waye for thys tyme: when I haue a conuenient season, I will sende for thee. He hoped also that money should haue ben geuen hym of Paule, that he myghte
leuse him: wherfore he called him the oftener

tener, & commened with hym. But after two yere, Festus Porcius came into Felix rowme. And Felix * willing to shewe the Iewes a pleasure, left Paul in prison bounde.

The. xxv. Chapter.

The Iewes accuse Paul before Festus, he appealeth vnto the Emperour, and is sent to Roome.

I When Festus had receiued ỳ office, after three dayes he ascended frō Cesarea vnto Ierusalē. Then enformed hym the hye priestes and the chiefe of the Iewes, of Paul. And they besought hym, & desired fauour agaynst hym, that he would send for him to Ierusalē: & they laid awayte for hym in the way, to kyll hym. Festus answered, that Paul shoulde be kept at Cesarea: but ỳ he himselfe would shortly depart thither. Let thē therfore (sayd he) whiche among you are able, come down with vs, and accuse hym if there be any faute in the man.

B When he had tarryed there among thē more then .x. dayes, he went down vnto Cesarea, & the next day sate down in the iudgemēt seate, & commaunded Paul to be broughte. Which when he was come, the Iewes which were come from Ierusalem, stode about hym, and layd many & grieuous complaynes against Paul, which they could not proue as long as he answered for himself * that he had neither agaynst the law of the Iewes, neyther agaynst the temple, nor yet agaynst Cesar offended any thing at all.

C Festus * willyng to doe the Iewes a pleasure, answered Paul and sayd: wilt thou go vp to Ierusalem, & there be iudged of these thinges before me? Thē said Paul: I stand at Cesars iudgemēt seat, wher I ought to be iudged. To the Iewes haue I no harme done, as thou very well knowest. If I haue hurt thē, or committed any thing worthy of deth, I refuse not to dye. If none of these thinges are, wherof they accuse me, no man may deliuer me to them. I appeale vnto Cesar. Then spake Festus with deliberation, & answered. Thou hast appealed vnto Cesar: vnto Cesar shalte thou goe.

D And after certayn dayes, kyng Agrippa and Bernice came vnto Cesarea to salute Festus. And whē thei had ben there a good season, Festus rehearsed Pauls cause vnto the kyng, saying: * there is a certain mā left in prison of Felix, about whom when I came to Ierusalem * the hie priestes and elders of the Iewes enformed me, & desired to haue iudgement agaynst him. To whom I answered: It is not the maner of the Romaynes, for fauor to deliuer any mā, that he shoulde perish, before that he which is accused, haue the accusars before hym, and haue leyence to answere for hymselfe, concernyng the crime layde against him. Therfore, when they were come hither, without any delay, on the morow I sate to geue iudgemente, and commaunded the man to be brought furth. Agaynste whō when ỳ accusers stode vp * they brought none accusacyon of suche thynges as I supposed: but had certayn questions agaynst hym of theyr owne superstition, and of one Iesus which was dead, whō Paule affirmed to be alyue. And because E I doubted of such maner of questiōs, I asked him, whether he would go to Ierusalem, and there bee iudged of these matters. But when Paul had appealed to be kept vnto the knowiege of Cesar, I commaunded him to be kepte, tyll I might send him to Cesar. Agrippa sayd vnto Festus: I would also heare the mā my selfe. To morow (sayd he) thou shalt heare hym. And on the morow when Agryppa was come and Bernyce, with great pompe, and were entred into the counsell house, with the captaynes and chiefe men of the citie, at Festus commaūdement was Paul broughte furth. And F Festus sayde: kyng Agrippa, and all ye men whiche are here present with vs: ye see thys man, about whom all the multitude of ỳ Iewes haue cryed me both at Ierusalem & also here: crying, that he ought not to liue any lenger. yet foūd I nothyng worthy of death, ỳ he had committed. Neuertheles, seing that he hath appealed to Cesar, I haue determyned to send him: Of whō, I haue no certayn thing to write vnto my lorde. Wherfore I haue brought him vnto you, & specially vnto thee, O kyng Agrippa, ỳ after examination had, I might haue sum what to write. For me thynketh it vnreasonable for to send a prisoner, & not to shew the causes which are layd agaynst hym.

The. xxvi. Chapter.

Kyng Agrippa heareth Paul, which telleth him his calling from the beginning.

A Agrippa sayd vnto Paule: thou art permitted to speake for thy selfe. Thē Paul stretched furth
ꝑ hand, & answered for himselfe:
I thynke my selfe happy (kyng Agrippa)
because I shal answer thys daye before thee, of al ꝑ thinges wherof I am accused of the Iewes: namely, because ꝑ art
expert in all customes and questions,
which are among the Iewes. Wherfore
I beseche thee to heare me patiently.
B My liuyng that I haue led of a chylde

of the sainctes did I shut vp in prison, &
had receyued autorite of ꝑ hie priestes.
And when they wer put to deth, I gaue

them whiche iourneyed with me.
When we were fallen to the earthe, I D hearde a voyce speaking vnto me, & saying in the Hebrue tongue: Saul Saul, Acte. 9. a and. 22. c why persecutest thou me? It is harde for thee to kicke against the prickes. And I said: Who art thou lord? And he said:
I am Iesꝰ whom thou persecutest: but rise & stād vp on thy fete. For I haue appeared vnto thee for thys purpose, to make thee a minister & a witnes both of those thinges which thou hast sene, & of those thinges in the which I will appere
vnto thee, deliuering thee frō the people, and from the gentiles: vnto whō now I send thee, to open their eies, ꝑ they may be turned from darknes to light, & from the power of satan, vnto God, that they may receyue forgeuenes of synnes, and inheritaunce among them whiche are sanctifyed by fayth that is towarde me.
Wherfore (O king Agrippa) I was E
not disobedient vnto the heauenlye vision: but shewed firste vnto them of Da-masco, and at Ierusalem, and throughout al the coastes of Iewry, and then to the Gentiles, that they shoulde repente,
and turne to God, and doe such workes
as become them that repente. For thys cause the Iewes caught me in ꝑ temple,
and went about to kill me. Seeing therfore that I haue obtayned helpe of god,
I continue vnto thys daye, witnessyng
both to small and to great, saying none
other thinges, then those which ꝑ Prophetes and Moses did say should come:
that Christ should suffer, & that he shulde
be the first that shoulde ryse from death,
and should shewe light vnto the people,
and to the Gētiles. As he thus spake for himself: Festus said with a loude voice:
Paul, thou art beside thy selfe. Muche learnyng dooeth make thee madde. And Paul said: I am not mad (moste deare Festus) but speake furth the wordes of truth & sobernes. For ꝑ kyng knoweth of these thinges, before who also I speake freely: neither thinke I ꝑ any of these thin-ges are hidde from hym. For this thyng was not done in a corner. Kyng Agrippa, beleuest thou the Prophetes? I wot wel that thou beleuest. Agrippa said vnto Paule: Shortly thou bryngest me in mynde for to become Christen. And Paul said: I would to God ꝑ not only thou, but also all ꝑ heare me to day, wer
not somewhat onely, but all together, suche as I am, except these bondes. And when he had thus spoken, the king rose vp, and the deputie, & Bernice, and they that satte with them. And when they were gone aparte, they talked betwene
themselues, saying: Thys manne dooeth
nothing worthy of death, or of bondes.
Then saide Agrippa vnto Festus: This man might haue bene let leuse, if he had not appealed vnto Cesar.

The. xxvii. Chapter.

Paul shypped toward Rome, Iulius the Captayne entreateth hym curteously, and at the last

When

A WHEN it was cõcluded, that we should saile into Italy, they deliuered both Paule & certain other prisoners, vnto one named Julius, an vnder captaine of Cesars soul-diers. And wee entred in to a ship of Adramitium, & leused from lande, appointed to sayle by the coastes of Asia, one * Aristar-Acts.4.8. cus out of Macedonia of the countrey of Thessalonia, tarying still with vs. And the Gene.39.c next daye we came to Sidõ. And Julius Leui.14.c courteously entreated Paul, & gaue him libertye, to go vnto hys frendes, and to refreshe hymselfe. And when wee had launched from thence, wee sayled harde by Cipres, because the wyndes were contrary.
And when wee had sayled ouer the sea of Cilicia, and Pamphilia, wee came to Mira wh ych is in Licia.

B And there the vnder capytaine founde
a shyp of Alexandria ready, that saile into Italy, and he put vs therin. And when wee had sayled slowely many dayes, and scace were come ouer agaynst Gnidon (because the wynde withstode vs) we sayled harde by ꝑ coaste of Candy, ouer against Salmo, and with muche wooike sayled
beyond it, and came vnto a place whyche is called the faire hauens. Nye wherevnto was the cytye of Lacea. When muche tyme was spent, and when saylyng was nowe ieoperdeous, because also that they had ouerlong fasted, Paul putte them in remembraunce, and sayde vnto them:
C Syrs I perceyue ꝑ this voyage will be wh
hurte & muche damage, not of the ladinge
and ship onely, but also of your liues: Ne-uertheleile the vnder capitayne beleued the gouernoure & the master of the ship, more
then those thynges whyche were spoken of Paule. And because the hauen was not cõmodious to winter in, many toke coun
sayll to departe thence, if by any meanes
they myght attaine to Phenices, and there to wynter, whyche is an hauen of Candy
and lyeth to warde the southwest & northwest winde. When the south wind blewe
they supposing to obtaine theyr purpose,
leused vnto Asson, & sayled past al Candy.

But not longe after there arose against D their purpose, a flawe of winde out of the northeast. And when the ship was caught and coulde not resiste the winde, we lette her goe, and draue with the wether. But wee were caried into an yle whyche is named Clauda, and hadde muche woike to come by a boate, whyche they tooke vp, and vsed helpe, and made fast the ship, fearing leste they should fall into the Sirtes. And so they lette downe a vessell, and were caried. The nexte daye (when wee were tossed with an exceading tempest) they light-ned the ship, and the thirde daye wee caste out with our owne handes, the tackilyng of the ship. When at the laste, neyther the sunne nor starres in manye dairs appeared, and no small tempeste laye vpon vs,
all hope that wee should escape, was then taken awaye. But after longe abstinence, Paule stode forth in the middest of them,
and sayde: Sirs, ye shoulde haue harke-ned to me, and not haue leused from Candy, neyther to haue brought vnto vs this harme and losse. And nowe I exhorte you to bee of good chere. For there shalbee no losse of anye mannes lyfe emong you, saue
of the ship onelye, for there stoode by me
this night the angel of God, whose I am,
and whome I serue, saying: feare not

Cesar. And loe, God hath geuen thee all them that sayle with thee. Wherefore sirs bee of good chere: for I beleue God, that it shalbe euen as it was told me. Howbeit
we muste be cast into a certaine Ilonde. Acte.28.a

But when the fourteenth nyghte was C come (as we were sailyng in Adria about midnighte) the shipmen demed that there appeared some countrey vnto them: and sounded, and founde it twentye fadoms.
And when they hadde gone a litle ferther,
they sounded againe, and found fiftene fadoms. Then fearyng leste they shoulde
haue fallen on some rocke, they caste foure ancres out of the sterne, and wished for the daye. As the shipmen were about to flee out of ꝑ ship (whẽ they had let down
the boate into the sea, vnder a couloure,
as though they would haue caste ancres out of the fore ship:) Paule sayed vnto the vnder captayne and to the souldiours, excepte these abide in the ship, ye cannot bee safe. Then the souldiours cut of the rope of the boate, and lette it fall awaye.

And whan the daye began to appeare,
Paule besought them al to take meat, saying: this is ꝑ fourtenth daye that ye haue taried and continued fasting, receyuyng nothyng at all. Wherefore, I praye you to take meat: for this no dout is for youre health: for * there shall not an heere fall frõ *mat.10.c

thus spoken, he tooke breade and ‡ gaue ‡mar.8.d

whan he had broken it, he begamne to eate. Then wer thei al of good cheare, and they also tooke meate. Wee were al together in the ship, two hundred threscore and sixtene soules. And when they had eaten inough, they lightened the shippe, and caste out the wheate into the sea.

When it was daye they knewe not the lande, but they spyed a certayne hauen with a bancke, into the whiche they were mynded (yf it were possible) to thruste in the ship. And when they had taken vp the ancres, they committed themselues vnto the sea, and lowsed the rudder bondes, and hoysed vppe the mayne saile to the wynde, and drue to land. And whan thei chaunced on a place, whiche had the sea on both the sides, they thruste in the ship. And the foreparte stucke faste and moued not, but the hinder parte brake with the violence of the waues.

The Souldiers counsell was to kyll the G prisoners, leste any of them, when he had swome out, shoulde runne awaye. But the vnder captain willing to saue Paule, kept them from theyr purpose, and commaunded that they whiche coulde swim, should cast themselues first into the sea, and scape to lande. And the other he commaunded to go, some on bordes, and some on broken peces of the shippe. And so it came to passe that they escaped all safe to lande.

The .xxviii. Chapter.

C The viper hurteth not Pauls hand, he healeth Publius father, and preacheth Christ at Rome.

AND when thei wer scaped, the they knew, that * the yle was called Milete. And the straungers shewed vs no litle kindnesse: for they kindled a fire, and receiued vs euerye one, becausse of the presente rayne, and because of the cold. And when Paule had gathered a bondell of stickes, & layde them on the fire, ther came a viper out of ꝑ heat and caught him by the hande. When the straungers sawe the beaste hange on his hande, they sayde amonge themselues: No doubte this manne is a murtherer: whome (thoughe he haue escaped the sea) B yet vengraunce suffereth not to lyue. And he shoke of the viper into the fire, and * felt no harme. Howbeit they wayted when he should haue swoine, or fallen downe dead sodenly. But after they had loked a greate while, and sawe no harme come to hym, they chaunged theyr myndes, and sayde * that he was a God.

In the same quarters were landes of the chiefe manne of the yle (whose name was Publius) which receyued vs, and lodged vs three dayes courteously. And it forC tuned that the father of Publius laye sycke of a feuer, and of a bloudy flixe. To whom Paule entred in and prayde, and layde hys handes on him, and healed him. So, when this was done, other also whiche had diseases in the yle, came and were healed: whiche also dyd vs greate honoure. And when wee departed, they laded vs with suche thinges as were necessarye.

After three monethes wee departed in a ship of Alexandry, whiche hadde wintred in the yle, whose badge was Castor and Pollux. And when we came to Siracusa, we taried there three daies. And from thẽce we fet a coumpasse, and came to Regium. And after one daie the south wynde blew, and we came the nexte daye to Putiolus: D where we founde brethren, and were desired to tary wyth them seuen daies, and so came we to Rome. And from thence when the brethrẽ heard of vs, they came to mete vs at Appii forum, and at ꝑ three tauerns. When Paule sawe them, he thanked God and waxed bolde. And when wee came to Rome, the vnder captayne delyuered the prisoners to the cheke captaine of the host: but Paule was suffered to dwell by himselfe with a souldier that kept hym.

And after three dayes, Paule called the chiefe of the Iewes together. And when they were come, he sayed vnto them: Men and brethren, though * I haue committed nothyng againste the people or lawes of the elders: yet was I delyuered prisoner from Ierusalem in to the handes of the Romayns. Which when they had examined me, wouldе haue lette me gooe because there was no cause of deathe in me. But when the Iewes spake contrarye, I was constrained to appeale vnto Cesar: not because I had ought to accuse my people of. For this cause then haue I called for you, E euen to see you, & to speake with you, * because ꝑ for the hope of Israel I am bound with this cheyne.

And they saide vnto him: we neyther receaued letters out of Iewrye pertaynyng vnto the, neyther any of the brethren that came shewed or spake any harme of thee. But wee wil heare of the what thou thinkeste. For as concernyng this seete, wee knowe that * euerye where it is spoken a- * Luc. 2.

And when they agreed not among themselues, they departed, after þ Paule hadde spoken one word: wel spake the holy ghost by Esay the prophet vnto our fathers, saying: *Goe vnto this people, and saye: with youre eares shall ye heare, and shall not vnderstande: and with your eyes shal ye see, and not perceyue.

For þ heart of this people is waxed grosse, and with theyr eares haue thei had no lust to heare, and their eyes haue thei closed: lest they shoulde see with theyr eyes, and heare with theyr eares, and vnderstande with their heartes, and should be conuerted, and I shoulde heale them. Be it known therefore vnto you, that this saluacion of God is sent to the Gentiles, and they shal heare it. And when he had sayde these wordes, þ Jewes departed from him, and had great despicions among themselues.

And Paule dwelt two yeres full in hys lodgyng, and receyued all that came in vnto hym, preachyng the kingdome of God, and teachyng those thynges whiche conterne the Lord Jesus, with all confydence: no man for bydding hym.

The Epistle of the Apostle Sainct Paule to the Romayns.

The first Chapter.

Paule declareth his loue towarde the Romaynes, sheweth what the Gospel is, with the fruite therof, and rebuketh the beastlines of the heathen.

PAul the seruaūt of Jesus Christe, called to the office of an Apostle * put a part for the Gospell of God * which he had promised afore by his Prophetes, in the holy scriptures of hys sonne, whiche was borne (vnto him) * of the seed of Dauid after the flesh: and hath bene declared to be þ sonne of god with power after the spirite that sanctifieth, sence the tyme that Jesus Christe oure Lorde rose agayne from death, * by whome we haue receyued grace and Apostleship, that obedience myghte bee geuen vnto the fayth in his name amonge all Heythen, of whose number you bee the electe of Jesu Christe.

To all you that bee at Rome, beloued of god & saintes by election. * Grace be with you, and peace from God oure father, and from the Lorde Jesus Christe.

Fyrst verelye I thanke my God throughe Jesus Christ for you all, that your fayth is spoken of in all the worlde. For God is my witnes (whom I serue * with my spirite in the Gospell of his sonne) that without ceasing I make mēcion of you, prayng alwayes * in my prayers, that by some meane, at the laste (one tyme or other) a prosperous iourney (by the wyll of God) myght fortune me, to come vnto you. For I long to see you, that I might bestow among you some spirituall gift, to strength you withall: that is, that I myghte haue consolacion together with you, throughe þ comen faith, which both ye and I haue. I would þ ye should know (bretherē) how that I haue often times purposed to come vnto you, * but haue beene letted hitherto, to haue some fruite also emong you, as amonge other of the Gentiles. I am detter bothe to the Grekes & to the vngrekes, to the learned & to þ vnlearned: So that (as muche as in me is) I am ready to preache the Gospell to you that are at Rome also.

* For I am not ashamed of the Gospell of Christ, because it is the power of God vnto saluacion to euery one that beleueth: to the Jewe firste, and also to the Gentyle. For by it is the ryghteousnesse of God opened from faith to faith. As it is writte: * the iust shal lyue by faith.

For the wrath of God appeareth from heauen agaynste all vngodlinesse and vnryghteousnesse of men, whiche withholde the trueth in vnrighteousnesse: seing * that it whiche may be knowen of God, is manifest among thē, because god hath shewed it vnto them. * For his inuisible thynges (that is to saye, his eternall power and Godhead) are sene, forasmuche as they are vnderstande * by the woorkes from the creacion of the worlde. So that they are without excuse, because that when they knew god, they glorified him not as God, neyther were thanksfull, but were full of vanities in theyr imaginacions * and theyr

For in the syghte of God, they * are not Jacob.1.b righteous whiche heare the lawe: but the doers of the law shalbe iustified: For whē
the Gentiles whiche haue not the lawe,

Behold * thou art called a Jewe, and Iob.28.d
trustest in the lawe, and makest thy boast of god, and knowest his will, and alowest fourmed by the lawe: and beleuest ꝑ thou thy selfe art a guyde of the blynde, a lyghte

of them whiche are in darkenes, an infourmer of them whiche lacke discretion, a teacher of the vnlearned, whiche haste the en-sample of knowelage, and of the trueth by the lawe. Thou therefore whiche teachest another, teachyste not thy selfe.
* Thou preachest, a mā shoulde not steale: Mat.19.a yet thou stealest. Thou that sayste, a man D shoulde not committe aduoutrye, breakest wedlocke. Thou abhorreste ymages, and yet robbeste God of his honoure. Thou

that

that makest thy boast of the law, through breaking the law dishonorest God. For the name of God is euill spoken of among the Gentiles, through you * as it is written.
D For circumcision verely auayleth, if thou kepe the lawe. But yf thou bee a breaker of the lawe, thy circumcision is turned to uncircumcision. Therfore, if the uncircumcised kepe the ryght thynges contayned in the lawe, shall not his uncircumcision bee counted for circumcision? And shal not uncircumcision which is by nature (yf it kepe the lawe) iudge thee, whiche beeyng under the letter and circumcisiō, doest transgresse
the lawe? he is not a Iewe, whiche is a Iewe outwarde: Neyther is it circumcision, whiche is outwarde in the fleshe. But
* he is a Iewe whiche is hyd within, and the circumcision of the hearte, is the true
circumcision, which consisteth in the spirit,
and not in the letter, whose prayse is not of men, but of God.

The. iii. Chapter.

He sheweth what preferment the Iewes haue, and that both the Iewes and the Gentiles are under synne, and are iustified onlye by the grace of God
in Christe.

WHat preferment then hathe
A the Iewe? or what aduaun-tageth circumcisiō? Surely verye muche. Firste * because that unto them were committed the woordes of God. What then, thoughe some of them dyd not beleue? shall their unbeliefe make the promes of God withoute effecte? God forbyd. * Let God be true and euery mā
a liar, as it is written: * that thou myghtest bee iustified in thy sayinges, and ouer-
come, when thou art iudged.
B But yf our unrighteousnes make ꝑ righteousnesse of God more excellente, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous which taketh vengeaunce? I speake after ꝑ maner of menne: God forbyd. For how then shal god iudge the woorld? For yf the truth of God appeare more excellente through my lye unto his prayse, why am I hence-foorth iudged as a synner? and not rather (as menne speake euyll of vs, and as some affirme that we saye) lette vs doe euill, that good maye come thereof? Whose damnacion is iuste.
C What then? Are wee better then they?
No, in no wyse. For wee haue alreadye proued howe that both Iewes & gentiles
are all under sinne, as it is written. * There is none righteous, no not one: there is none that vnderstandeth, there is none that seeketh after God: they are all gone out of the waye, they are all unprofitable, there is none that doeth good, no not one. ‡ Their throte is an open sepulchre, with their tounges they haue discreaued, the poison of aspes is under their lyppes. ‡ Whose mouthe is full of cursyng and bitternes. *
Their feete are swifte to shedde bloude. *
Destruction and wretchednes are in their wayes, and the waye of peace haue they not knowen. ‡ There is no feare of God
before their eyes. * We know that what thynges soeuer the lawe sayeth, it sayeth
it to them whiche are under the lawe.
That all mouthes maye bee stopped, and that all the woorlde maye bee subdued to God, because ꝑ by the dedes of the lawe
there shall no flesshe bee iustyfyed in his syght. For by the law commeth the know-lage of synne. But nowe is the righteous-nesse of God declared without the lawe,
forasmuch as it is alowed by the testimony of the lawe, and of the prophetes. The ryghteousnesse of God, commeth by the D fayth of Iesus Christe, unto al, and upon all them that beleue (or him.)
There is no differēce: for all haue synned, and are destitute of the glory of God: but are iustified freely by his grace, through the
the redemption that is in Christ Iesu, who God hath set foorth * to bee the obtainer of mercy, through faith, by the meanes of his bloud, to declare his righteousnes, in that he forgeueth the synnes that are passed,
which god did suffer, to shew at this tyme
his righteousnes, that he might be counted
iust, and ꝑ iustifiar of him whiche beleeueth
on Iesus. ‡ Where is then thy reioysyng?
It is excluded: By what lawe? of woordes?
Nay: but by the lawe of fayth. Therfore
we hold, ‡ that a man is iustifyed by fayth without the dedes of the lawe. Is he ꝑ god of the Iewes onlye? Is he not also ꝑ God of the Gentiles? yes, euen of the Gentiles
also. For it is God onelye whiche iustifieth
the circumcision that is of faith, and uncircumcision through fayth. Doo we then destroy the lawe through faith? God forbid. But we rather maintayne the lawe.

The. iiii. Chapter.

He declareth by the exaumple of Abraham, that he the iustified, and not the lawe, nor the workes thereof.

What

What shal wee saye then, ꝑt Abraham ‡Esa.51.a our father (as pertaining to the flesh)
did synde? If Abraham were iustifyed by dedes, then hath he wherin to reioyce: but not with God. For what saithe the scrip-

Gala.3.a counted vnto hym for righteousnesse. To Jam.2.d him that worketh, is the reward not rekened of fauoure, but of duety. To him that worketh not, but beleueth on him ꝑ iustifi-

for rigteousnes: (according to the purpose of the grace of God) Euen as Dauid describeth the blessednesse of that manne, vnto whome God imputeth righteousnesse without ꝓ Psal.32.a dedes. *Blessed are they, whose vnrighteousnesse are forgeuen, and whose synnes are couered. Blessed is that man to whom the Lorde wil not impute synne.

Came this blessednesse then vpon the vn-
B circumcision, or vpon the circumcision also? For wee saye, that faythe was reckened to Abraham for righteousnes. How was it then reckened? whan he was in the circumcision, or whan he was in the vncircū-‡Gen.17.b cision? *Not in ꝑ time of circumcision: but whē he was yet vncircumcised.

‡Gen.17.b And he receiued the ‡ signe of circumcis-
on, as a seale of the righteousnes of fayth,
which he hadde yet beyng vncircumcised,
that he shoulde bee the father of all them

father of circumcision, not vnto them one-ly whiche came of the circumcised, but vnto them also that walke in the steppes of ꝑ faith that was in oure father Abraham,
before the tyme of circumcision.

C For the promes (that he shoulde bee

but through the righteousnesse of faithe.
Gala.3.c *For yf they whiche are of the lawe, bee

And he fainted not in the faythe, nor yet considered his owne bodye, which was nowe dead, euen when he was almoste an was paste child bearing. He staggered not at the promise of God throughe vnbeliefe,

but became strong in faith, and gaue God
the praise, being fulcertified, that he which hadde promised, the same was able also to make it good. And therfore was it reckened

B

Muche more then nowe (wee that are iustified by his bloud,) shal be saued from wrath through hym.

For yf when wee were enemyes, wee were reconciled to God by the deathe of his sonne: muche more, seing we are reconciled, wee shalbee preserued by hys lyfe.

Not onely this, but wee also ioye in God by the meanes of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we haue now obtained the attonement.

C Wherefore, as by one man, synne entred into the world, and *death by the meanes of synne: Euen so death also wente ouer all menne, insomuche as all wee haue synned. For euen vnto the lawe was synne in the worlde: but synne is not imputed, whan there is no lawe: neuertheless death rayned from Adam to Moses, euen ouer thē also ỳ had not sinned with like transgression as dyd Adam, whiche beareth the similitude of him that was to come.

But the gifte is not lyke as the synne. For yf through the synne of one, many be dead: muche more plenteous vpon manye was the grace of God and gift by grace: *whiche was of one manne Jesus Christ.

And the gift is not ouer one sinne: as death came throughe one synne of one that synned. For damnation came of one synne vnto condemnation: but the gifte came to iustifye from manye synnes. For yf by the synne of one, death raigned by the meanes of one: muche more they (whiche receyue aboundaunce of grace and of the gyfte of ryghteousnes) shall raygne in lyfe by the meanes of one (that is to saye) Jesus Christ.

+Likewyse then as by the synne of one there sprange vp euill on all menne to condemnation: euen so by the righteousnes of one, springeth good vpon all menne to the righteousnes of life. For as by one mans disobedience manye became synners: so by the obedience of one, shal manye bee made ryghteous. But *the lawe in the meane time entred in, that synne should encrease. Neuertheles where aboundance of sinne was, ther was more plēteousnes of grace. That as synne had raygned vnto death, euen so might grace raigne through righteousnes, vnto eternall life, by the helpe of Jesu Christe. ✠

The. vi. Chapter.

Forsomuche as wee bee deliuered through Christe from synne, we must fashion ourre selues to liue as the seruauntes of God, and not after ouret owne lustes. The vnlykelye rewarde of ryghteousnes and synne.

What shal we saie then? Shal we A continue in sinne, that there may be aboundaunce of grace? God dead as touching sin, liue any lēger therin?

+Knowe ye not that *all wee whiche are Gala.3.d

him by baptisme, for to dye: ỳ like wyse as Christe was raysed vp from death by the glory of ỳ father: euen so* we also should Ephe.4.a walke in a newe lyfe. For yf we bee grafte in death lyke vnto hym: euen so shall wee be partakers of the resurrection: knowing this, that oure olde man is crucified with hym also, that the body of sinne might vtterlye bee destroyed, that henceforth wee should not bee seruauntes vnto synne. For he that is dead, is iustified from synne,

Wherefore *if we be dead with Christ, B
we beleue that we shal also lyue with him: 2.Tim.2.b
knowyng that Christ beyng raysed from that he died, he died concerning synne once.

And as touchyng that he liueth, he lyueth vnto God. Likewyse consider ye also that ye are deade as touchyng sinne, but are alyue vnto God through Jesus Christ our Lorde. + Let not synne raygne therfore in your mortall bodye, that ye should therevnto obey by the lustes of it. Neither geue ye your members as instrumentes of vn- C

you: because ye are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace. What then? Shall we sinne, because we are not vnder ỳ law, but vnder
grace? God forbyd.

The.vii.Chapter.

Christ hath deliuered vs from the lawe and death. Paule sheweth what the flesh e and outewarde man is, and calleth it the lawe of the members.

I Know ye not brethrẽ (I speake to them that know the law) howe ꝑ
the lawe hath power ouer a man as longe as it endureth? For* the 1.Cor.7.g woman which is in subiection to a mã, is bound by the lawe to the man, as long as he liueth. But yf the man bee deade, she is leused from the law of the man. So then *mat.5.c yf whyle the manne liueth she couple her selfe with another man, she shalbe counted
a wedlocke breaker. But yf the manne bee dead, she is free from the law of the husbãd
so ꝑ she is no wedlocke breaker, thoughe
she couple herselfe with another man.

Euen so ye also (my brethren) are deade
concerning the law by the bodie of Christ,
that ye shoulde bee coupled to an other (I meane to hym that is risen agayne from death) that wee shoulde bryng forth fruite
B vnto God. For when we were in the flesshe, the lustes of synne whiche were stered vp by the lawe, raigned in oure members, to bring forth fruite vnto deathe. But nowe are wee deliuered from the lawe, and dead
vnto it, wherevnto wee were in bondage:
that we shoulde serue in a newe conuersacion of the spirite, and not in the olde con-uersacion of the letter.

What shall we saye then? is the lawe
Rom.7.c Gala.3.b synne? God forbid: neuertheles I knewe not synne, but by the lawe. For I had not knowen what luste hadde ment, excepte
the lawe had sayed, *thou shalte not luste.
Exod.20.c Deut.5.b But synne toke an occasion by the meanes
of the commaundemente, and wroughte in me all maner of concupiscence. For besyde without the lawe, synne was deade.
I once liued without the lawe. But when the commaundemente came, synne reuyued, and I was deade. And the very same commaundemente whiche was ordeyned
vnto life, was found to be vnto me an occasion of death. For synne toke occasion by the meanes of the commaundemente, and so disceaued me, and by the same slew me.
Wherfore* the law is holy, and the com- 1.tim.1.a maundement holy, and iust, and good. Gala.3.
Was that then whiche was good, made death vnto me? God forbid: Naye it was synne: that synne myghte appeare (by it whiche was good) to worke death in me:
that sinne by the commaundement mighte
be out of measure synfull. For we knowe that the lawe is spirituall: but I am car-nall* solde vnder synne, because I allowe Epist.2.a not ꝑ, which I doe. For what I woulde, that doe I not: but what I hate, ꝑ doe I.
If I do now that which I would not, I consent vnto the lawe that it is good: So D then nowe, it is not I that doe it, but synne that dwelleth in me. For I knowe that in me (that is to saye in my* flesshe) Gene.6.a dwelleth no good thynge. For to will is present with me: but I finde no meanes to performe that whiche is good. For the good that I would, do I not: but ꝑ euyll
whiche I woulde not, that do I. yf I do that I woulde not, then is it not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. I fynde then by the lawe, that when I woulde do good, euill is present with me. For I de-lite in the lawe of God, after the inwarde
manne. But I se another lawe in my members, rebellyng agaynste the lawe of my mynde, and subduyng me vnto the lawe of synne, whiche is in my members. O wretched man that I am: who shall deliuer me from this bodye subdued vnto death? I thanke God throughe Iesus Christe oure Lorde. So then, with the mynde I serue the lawe of God, but with the flesshe the lawe of synne.

The.viii.Chapter.✠

The lawe of the spirite geueth lyfe: The spirite of God maketh vs Gods childrẽ & heyres with Christ. The abundant loue of God cannot be seperated.

THere is then no damnacion to thẽ B which are in Christ Iesu, which walke not after the flesh, but after the spirite. For the lawe of the spirite of lyfe throughe Iesus Christ, hath Iohn.1.b
made me* free from the lawe of synne, and Rom.6.b
death. For ‡ what the law could not doe (in ‡Hebr.7.c
asmuche as it was weake because of the flesshe) that performed God, and* sente his Luke.2.b
sonne in the similitude of synfull flesshe, and Iohn.3.b
by

by synne damned synne in the flesshe: that the righteousnes of the law myght bee fulfilled in vs, whiche walke not after the flesh, but after the spirite. For they ꝑ are carnall, are carnallye mynded. But they that are spirituall, are gostly mynded. To be carnally mided, is death. But to be spiritually mided, is life & peace. ✠

B Because that the fleshly mind is enmitie against God: for it is not obedient to the law of God, neither can be: So then they that are in the flesshe, cannot please god.

But ye are not in the flesshe, but in the spirite: if so be ꝑ the spirite of God dwel in you. If any mā haue not the spirite of Christ, the same is none of his. If Christ be in you, ꝑ body is ded because of sinne: but the spirite is lyfe for righteousnes sake. Wherfore, if the spirite of him that raysed vp Jesus from deathe, dwell in you: euē he ꝑ raised vp Christ frō death, shal quicken youre mortall bodyes, because of his spirite that dwelleth in you.

C ✠Therfore brethrē we are detters, not to the flesshe, to lyue after ꝑ flesshe. For if ye liue after the flesshe, ye shal dye. But if ye (through the spirite) do mortify the dedes of ꝑ body, ye shal liue. For as many as are led by ꝑ spirit of god, they are the sonnes of God, for ye haue not receiued the spirite of bondage to feare any more, but * ye haue receiued the spirite of adopcion, wherby we crie: Abba father.

* The same spirite certifyeth our spirite that we are the sonnes of God. ¶ If we be sonnes, then are we also heires, ꝑ heires I meane of God, and heyres annexed with Christ: if so be that we suffer with him, that we maye be also glorifyed together with hym. ✠

D ✠For I suppose that the afflictions of this lyfe, are not woorthy of the glory which shalbe shewed vpon vs. & For the feruent desyre of ꝑ creature abydeth, loking whē ꝑ sonnes of god shal appeare, because the creature is subdued to vanitie against ꝑ wil therof, but for his will which hath subdued ꝑ same in hope. For the same creature shalbe deliuered from the bondage of corrupcio, into ꝑ glorious libertie of the sōnes of god. For we know ꝑ euery creature groneth with vs also, and trauayleth in payne, euen vnto thys tyme. Not onelye it, but we also which haue the first fruites of the spirite mourne in our selues also, & waite for ꝑ adopcion (of the children of God) euen the deliueraunce of our bodye. ✠ For we are saued by hope. But hope ꝑ is seyne, is no hope. For how cā a mā hope for ꝑ which he seeth? But and if we hope for ꝑ we see not, then do we wᵗ patience abyde for it. C

Likewise, the spirit also helpeth our infirmities. For we know not what to desyre as we ought: but the spirite maketh intercessiō for vs, with groninges which cannot bee expressed. And * he that sercheth the hearttes, knoweth what is the meanyng of the spirite: for he maketh intercession for the sainctes accordyng to the pleasure of God. ✠

Moreouer, whom he appointed before, them also he called. And whome he hath called, them also he iustified: and whom he iustifyed, them he also glorifyed.

Mat. 10. b

What shall we then say to these thynges? * if God be on our syde, who can be agaynst vs? whiche spared not his owne sonne, * but gaue him for vs al: how can it be, ꝑ with him he shoulde not geue vs all thinges also? who shall lay any thyng to the charge of Gods chosen? Brethre, my hartes desire & prayer to God for Israel, is þ they might be saued. For I beare the recorde, þ they haue a feruẽt mind to godward, but not according to knowledge. res: which cummeth of the law, how ꝑ
the man, which doeth the thinges of the lawe, shall lyue therby. But the ryghteousnes whiche cummeth of fayth, speaketh on this wise: Say not thou in thyne heart, who shal ascend into heauen? (that is euē to fetch Christ down frō aboue.) Either who shal discend into the depe? (ꝑ is euē to fetch vp Christ again frō deth.)
But what sayeth he? * The worde is nye thee, euen in thy mouth & in thyne heart.
This same is the worde of fayth, which we preache. For if thou knowlege with thy mouth that Jesus is the Lorde, and beleue in thy heart, that God rayled him
vp from death, thou shalte be safe.

+ For to beleue with the heart, iustify-
eth: and to knowledge with the mouthe, maketh a manne safe. For the scripture sayth: * whosoeuer beleueth on him, shal not bee confounded. There is no dyffe-rence betwene the Jewe & the Gentile.
For one is lord of al, which is ryche vnto
al ꝑ cal vpon him. For * whosoeuer doth call on the name of the lord, shalbe safe.
How thē shall they call on him on whom they haue not beleued? how shal they beleue on him, of whō thei haue not heard?
how shal thei heare, without a preacher?
And how shall they preache except they be sent? As it is written: how beautifull are the fete of thē whiche bring tydinges
of peace, and bryng tydynges of good thynges. But they haue not al obeyed to ꝑ Gospel. For Esai sayth: * Lorde, who hath beleued our sayinges? So thē faith cummeth by hearing, and hearyng cummeth by the woord of God. But I aske:
haue they not hearde? No doubt, * their sound went out into all landes, & their woordes into the endes of the world. +
But I demaunde, whether Israell dyd knowe or not? Firste Moses sayeth: * I will prouoke you to enuye, by them that are no people: by a foolishe nacion I wil anger you. Esai after that, is bolde, and sayth: * I am found of them that sought me not: I am manifeste vnto them, that asked not after me. But agaynst Israell he sayth: * all day long haue I stretched furth my handes vnto a people that beleueth not, but speaketh agaynst me.

The.xi. Chapter.+

¶ All the Jewes are not cast away, therfore Paule warneth the Gentiles that be called, not to be hye minded, nor to despyse the Jewes, for the iudgementes of God are depe and secrete.

I Say then: hath god cast away his people? God forbyd. For euen I also am an Israelite, of ꝑ seede of Abrahā, of the tribe of Beniamin: god hath not cast away his people which he knewe before. Wote ye not what the scripture saieth of Helias,
how he maketh intercessiō to god against Israel: saying? * Lorde they haue kylled
thy prophetes, and dygged downe thine altars: and I am lefte alone, and they seeke my lyfe. But what saith the answer of god vnto him? * I haue reserued vnto
my selfe seuen thousande men, whiche
haue not bowed the knee to the image of Baal. Euen so also at this tyme is there a remnaunte left accordyng to the election of grace. If it bee of grace, then is it not now of woorkes. For then grace is no more grace. But if it be of woorkes, thē is it now no grace. For thē were de-seruing no more deseruing. What then?
Israel hath not obtayned that which he
seketh: but the election hath obtayned it.
The remnaunt are blinded accordyng as it is written. * God hath geuen them the spirite of vnquietnes: eies ꝑ they should not se, and eares ꝑ thei should not heare,
euen vnto this daie. & And Dauid saieth:
Let their table bee made a snare to take them with all, and an occasion to fall, &
a rewarde vnto them. Let their eies bee blinded that they see not: and bowe thou doune their backe allwaye. I saye then:
haue they therfore stombled, that they shoulde vtterly fall awaye together?

God forbyd: but through their fall is saluaciō happened vnto the gentiles, for to prouoke them withall. Wherfore, yf
the fal of them be the riches of ꝑ world,
and the mynishing of them the riches of the Gētiles: how much more their per-fectnes? I speake to you Gentiles, in as muche as * I am the Apostle of the Gentiles, I will magnifie myne office, if by any meane I may prouoke them whiche

bee the reconcilyng of the worlde, what shall the receiuyng of them bee, but lyfe again frō death? For if one piece be holy the whole heape is holy. And if the rote be holy, the braunches shalbe holy also.

Though some of the braunches be bro-

The. xii. Chapter.

The sweete conuersacion, loue, and workes of such as beleue in Christ.

I Beseche you therfore brethrē, by the mercifulnes of God, ꝑ ye make your bodies a quicke sacrifice, holye and acceptable vnto god, which is your reasonable seruiing of god, & fashion not youre selues like vnto this worlde: but be ye chaunged in your shape, by ꝑ renuing of your mind, ꝑ ye maye proue what thyng that good, & acceptable & perfect wil of god is. For I say (through the grace that vnto me geuē is) to euery man amōg you, * ꝑ no man stand hye in his own conceate, more thē it becummeth him to estime of himself: but so iudge of himselfe, that he be gētle & sobre, according as God hath dealt to euery man the measure of faith.

For as we haue many membres in one B body, & all mēbres haue not one office, so we being manie, are one body in Christ, & euery man among our selues one anothers membres. ✠✠ Seeyng that we 1. Cor. 12. Epod.

The.xiii.Chapter.✠

The obedience of men vnto their rulers. Loue fulfilleth the law. It is nowe no tyme to folow the workes of darkenes.

that be, are ordeyned of God. Whosoeuer therfore resisteth power, resisteth the ordinaunce of God. But they that resist, shall receiue to themselfe damnation. For rulers are not fearefull to them that do good, but to them that doe euil. Wilte thou be without feare of the power? Do wel & so shalt thou be praysed of the same. For he is the minister of God, for thy wealth. But & if thou doe that whiche is euill, then feare: for he beareth not the sworde for nought, for he is the minister of God, to take vengeaunce on him that doeth euil. B Wherfore ye must nedes obey, not onely for feare of vengeaunce: but also because of conscience. And euen for thys cause pay ye tribute. For they are Gods ministers, seruing for the same purpose. ✠

Geue to euery man therfore his duetie, *tribute, to whome tribute belongeth, custome to whom custome is due: feare, to whom feare belongeth: honor, to who honor pertayneth. ✠ Owe nothyng to any manne: but this, that ye loue one another. For he that loueth another, hathe fulfilled the law. For these commaundementes. *Thou shalte not committe adultrye, thou shalt not kill, thou shalte not steale, thou shalt not beare false witnes: thou shalt not luste: and so furthe (if there be any other commaundement) it is al comprehended in this saying: namely, Loue thyneyghbour as thy self. Loue hurteth not his neighbour. Therfore is loue the fulfilling of the law. ✠

The.xiiii.Chapter.

The weake ought not to be despysed. No manne should offend an others conscience. Agayne, for outward thinges, should no man condemne another.

HYm that is weake in the faith, A receiue: not in disputyng and troubling his conscience. One beleueth that he maye eate all thing. Another whiche is weake, eateth herbes. Let not him that eateth, despise him that eateth not. And let not hym which eateth not, iudge him that eateth. For God 1.Ro.11.a day and day. Another man counteth all dayes alyke. Let euery mannes mind satisfye hymselfe. He that obserueth the day, doeth it vnto the lorde. And he that doth not obserue the day, doth it for the Lord also. He that eateth, doth it to please the lorde, for he geueth God thankes. And he that eateth not, eateth not to please the lorde withal, and geueth God thankes. For none of vs liueth for hymselfe, and no man dyeth for himselfe. For if we liue, we liue vnto the lorde. And if we die, we dye vnto the lorde. Whether we liue therfore or dye, we are the Lordes. For Christ therfore died, & rose again, & reuiued, that he might be *lord of ded & quicke. Actes.3.b

meat, now walkest thou not charitably.
D Destroy not him wt thy meat for whom Christ dyed. Cause not your treasure to be euill spoken of. For the kyngdome of god is not meat & drink, but righteousnes, & peace, and ioy in the holy gost. For he that in these thynges serueth Christe,
pleaseth God, & is commended of men.
Let vs therefore folow those thynges
which make for peace, & thinges wherw one may edifye another. Destroy not the worke of God for a litle meates sake. *
*1.Cor.10.d All thynges are pure: but it is euyll for ỳ man, which eateth with hurte of conscience. It is good neyther to eate flesche, neither to drinke wyne, neither any thing
wherby thy brother stũbleth eyther falleth, or is made weake. Hast thou faith, haue it with thy selfe before god. Happy is he that condemneth not hymselfe, in the thyng whiche he alloweth. For he that maketh conscience is damned, if he eate: because he eateth not of faithe. For whatsoeuer is not of fayth, that same is synne.

The firſte Epiſtle of Sainct Paule the Apoſtle to the Corinthians.

The.i. Chapter.

He commendeth the Corinthians, exhorteth them to bee of one mynde, and rebuketh the deuiſion that was among them, worldly wiſedome is ſpoiſ[ened] before God, yea there is no wiſedom but in the deſpyſed croſſe of Chriſt.

PAule called an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſte throughe the will of God, and brother Soſthenes. Vnto the congregacyon of God which is at Corinthum. To the[m] that are ſanctifyed by Chriſte Jeſu, [cal]led ſainctes, with all that call on the name of oure Lorde Jeſus Chriſte in euerye place, Rom.1.a Gala.1.a eyther of theyres or of oures. † Grace bee vnto you, and peace from God oure father, and from the lorde Jeſus Chriſt.

*I thanke my God alwayes on your behalfe, for the grace of God whiche is geuen you by Jeſus Chriſte, that in all thynges ye are made ryche by hym, in all vtteraunce, and in all knowelage, by the whiche thynges the teſtymonye of Jeſus Chriſt was confyrmed in you, ſo that ye are behynde in no gyfte, waytyng for the appearyng of oure Lorde Jeſus Chriſte, whiche ſhal alſo ſtrength you vnto the ende, that ye may be blameleſſe in the daye (of the comming) of oure B Lorde Jeſus Chriſte.†

Num.23.c 1.Cor.10.c *God is feythfull, by whome ye are called vnto the felowſhyppe of hys ſonne Jeſus Chriſte oure Lorde. I beſeche you brethren by the name of oure Lorde Jeſus Chriſte, that ye all ſpeake one thynge, and that there bee no dyſſencyon amonge you: but that ye maye bee a whole body: of one mynde and of one meanyng. For it is ſhewed vnto me (my brethren) of you, by them whiche are of the houſe of Cloe, that there is ſtryfes among you. I ſpeake of the ſame that euerye one of you ſayth: I holde of Paule: I holde of * Apollo: I holde of Cephas: I holde of Chriſte. Is Chriſte deuyded? Was Paule crucifyed for you? eyther were ye baptiſed in the name of Paul? I thank C God that I baptyſed none of you, but Criſpus and Gayus: leſte anye ſhould ſaye, that I had baptyſed in myne owne name. I baptiſed alſo the houſe of Stephana. Acts 18.a 1.Cor.1.a

Furthermore knowe I not, whether I baptiſed any manne (of you) or no. For Chriſte ſente me not to baptiſe, but to preache the Goſpell, not with wiſedom of wordes, leſt the croſſe of Chriſt ſhoulde haue bee made of none effecte. For the preachynge of the croſſe is to them that periſhe, foolyſhenes: but vnto vs whiche are ſaued, * It is the power of God. For it is written: † I will deſtroye the wyſedome of the wyſe, and will caſte awaye the vnderſtandynge of the prudente. Where is the wyſe? * Where is the ſcribe? Where is the diſputer of thys worlde? Hathe not God made the wyſedome of thys worlde foolyſhenes? *Rom.1.a †Esa.29.c Esa.19.c

For after that the worlde throughe wiſedome, knewe not God in the wiſedome of God, it pleaſed God throughe foolyſhenes of preachyng, to ſaue them D that beleue. For * the Iewes require a ſygne, and the Grekes ſeeke after wiſedome. But we preache Chriſt crucifyed, vnto the Iewes an occaſyon of fallyng, and vnto the Grekes foolyſhenes, but vnto them whiche are called both of the Iewes and Grekes, we preache Chriſt the power of God, and the wiſedome of God. For the foolyſhenes of God, is wyſer then menne, and the weakenes of God is ſtronger then menne. Brethren, ye ſee your calyng, howe that not many wyſe menne after the fleſhe, not many mighty, not many of hye degree, are called: but God hath choſen the foolyſhe thinges of the worlde, to confounde the wiſe. And god hath choſe the weke thinges of the world, to confound thinges which are mighty. And vile thinges of ỹ world, and thinges which are deſpiſed hath god choſen, yea & thinges of no reputacō, for to bring to nought thinges of reputacion, ỹ no fleſhe ſhould reioyce in hys preſence. And of hym are ye in Chriſte Jeſu, which of god is made vnto vs wiſedome, and ryghteouſnes, and ſanctisainctifiyng, and redempcion. That accozding as it is wzitten: he whiche reioyseth, should reioyse in the Lozde.

The.ii.Chapter.

It is not eloquence and glozious painted wozdes of wozldly wysdoome, that can edifie, and conuerte soules vnto Christ, but the playne wozdes of the scripture, for they make mencio of hym & his crosse.

AND I brethren (when I came to you) came not in glozyousnes of wozdes, oz of wisedome, shewyng vnto you ỹ testimony of God. Neither shewed I my selfe that I knewe any thyng emong you, saue Jesus Chryste, euen the same that was crucyfyed. And I was emong you in weaknes, & in feare, and in muche trembling. And my wozdes and my preachyng was not with entisyng wozdes of mannes wisedome: but in shewyng of the spirite and of power, that your fayth shoulde not stande in the wysedome of menne, but in the power of God.

B We speake of wysedome emong them that are perfecte: not ỹ wisedome of thys wozlde, neither of ỹ rulers of this wozld, (whiche go to naught) but wee speake the wysedome of God whiche is in secret and lieth hid: whiche God ozdained before the wozlde, vnto our glozy, whyche wisedome* none of the rulers of thys wozlde knew. For had thei had knowlage, they woulde not haue crucified the Lozde of glozy. But as it is wzitten: * The eie hath not sene, and the eare hath not hearde, neither haue entred into ỹ heart of manne the thynges whiche God hath pzepared for them that loue hym.

C But God hath opened theim vnto vs by his spirite. For* the spirite searcheth all thinges, yea the botome of Goddes secretes. For what manne knoweth ỹ thynges of a manne: saue the spirite of man which is wythin hym? Euen so the thynges of God knoweth no manne, but the spirite of God. And wee haue not receyued the spirite of the wozld: but ỹ spirite whiche commeth of God, for to knowe ỹ thynges ỹ are geuē to vs of God, whych thynges also wee speake, not with wozdes that mannes wisedom teacheth, but with wozdes which the holy ghooste doeth teache, making spirituall cōparisons of spirituall thinges. The naturall manne perceiueth not the thynges that belonge to the spirite of God. For they are but foolishnes vnto hym: Neither can he perceiue thē, because they are spiritually examined. But he that is spirituall, discusseth all thynges: yet he hymselfe is iudged of no manne. * For who hath knowen the mynde of the Lozd, eyther who shall enstzuct hym? But we vnderstande the mynde of Christ.

The.iii.Chapter.

Paul rebuketh ỹ sectes & authors therof: Christ is the foundacion of hys church. No man ought to reioyce in men, but in God.

AND I could not speake (vnto you brethren) as vnto spirituall, but as vnto carnall: euen as vnto babes in Christ. * I gaue you milke to drinke, & not meat. For ye then wee not stzōg, neither are ye as yet. For ye are yet carnall. As longe verely as there is emong you enuyeng, and strife, and sectes: are ye not carnal, & walke after ỹ maner of men? For while one saieth: I holde of Paule, and another: I am of * Apollo, are ye not carnall? What is Paule? What thing is Apollo? Only ministers are they by whō ye beleued, euen as the Lozde gaue euery manne grace. I haue planted, Apollo watred: but God gaue the encrease. So then, neither is he that planteth any thyng, neither he that watreth, but God that geueth the encreace. He that planteth and he that watreth, are one. Euery manne yet shall receiue his rewarde, accozding to his labour. For wee are Goddes labourers, ye are Goddes husbandzie, * ye are Goddes buyldyng. Accozdyng to ỹ grace of God geuen vnto me, as a wyse builder haue I laied the foundacion. And another builte thereon. But let euery manne take hede, how he buildeth vpon. For another foundacion can no manne laye, then it that is layed, * which is Jesus Christe.

If any manne buylde on this foundacion, gold, siluer, pzecious stones, tymbze haye oz stobble: euery mannes wozke shall appeare. For the daye shall declare, whiche shalbee shewed in fire. And the fire shall trie euery mannes wozke, what it is. If any mannes wozke that he hath buylte vpon, bide, he shall receiue a rewarde. If any mānes wozke burne, he shall suffer losse, but he shalbee sake hymselfe: neuertheles, yet as it were through fire.

++ Know ye not, that ye are the tēple of God, and how that the spirite of God dwelleth in you? If any man defyle the temple of God, hym shall God destroye. For the temple of God is holye, whyche temple ye are. Let no man deceaue hym ſelf. If any mā ſeme wiſe to him ſelf amōg you, let hym become a fole in this worlde, that he may be wiſe. For ꝑ wiſdō of thys worlde, is folyſhnes with God. For it is

For all thynges are youres, whether it bee Paul, ether Apollo, ether Cephas, whether it be ꝑ worlde, ether life, ether death, whether they be preſent thynges, or thynges to come, all are yours: & ye are Chriſtes, and Chriſt is Goddes. ✠

I wrote vnto you in a pistle, ꝑ ye should not companye wyth fornicators. And I meante not at all of the fornicatoures of this worlde, either of the couetous, or extorcyoners, either the ydolaters: for then must ye nedes haue gone out of ꝑ world.

The.vi. Chapter.

He rebuketh them for goynge to lawe together before the vnfaithfull, & reproueth their vnclennesse.

DAre one of you hauyng busines with another, go to lawe vnder the wicked, & not rather vnder the saynctes? * Do ye not know
Mat.19.d that the saintes shall iudge the worlde? If the worlde shalbe iudged by you, are ye not good ynoughe to iudge small trifles? Know ye not, howe that wee shall iudge the angels? Howe muche more, maye we iudge thinges that pertaine to ꝑ life? If ye haue iudgementes of worldlye matters, take them which are despised in the congre-
B gation, and make them iudges. This I saye to youre shame. Is there vtterlye no wise man amõg you? What not one at all, that can iudge betwene brother & brother, but one brother goethe to lawe with another, and that vnder the vnbelieuers?

Now therfore, there is vtterly a faut among you, because ye go to lawe one with another. Why rather suffer ye not wrong? why rather suffer ye not youre selues to haue harme? Naye, ye youre selues doo wrong, and robbe: & that the brethre. Doe ye not knowe, howe that the vnrighteous shall not inherite the kingdom of God? Be not deceyued. Fo[r] neyther fornicatours,

Lette the housebande gene vnto the wyfe due beneuolence. Lykewise also the wyfe vnto ꝑ housebande. The wife hath not power of her owne bodye: but ꝑ housebande. And lykewyse the housebande hath not power of his own bodye: but the wyfe. * Withdraw we not youre selues one Tob.6.b

This I saye of fauour, and not of com- B maundemente. For I wolde that al men were as I my self am: but euery man hath his proper gyfte of God, one after thys maner, another after that. I say vnto the that be vnmaryed and wyddowes: it is good for them, if they abide euen as I do.

1. Tim. 5. c But and * if they cannot absteyne, let them marye. For it is better to marye, then to burne. Vnto the maryed commaund, not
Mat. 5. c and. 19. a I, but the Lord: * Let not the wyfe be separated fro the housband. If she separate her selfe, let her remayne vnmaryed, or be reconciled vnto her housband again. And lette not the housband put away his wife from him.

C To the remnaunt speake I, not the Lord: If any brother haue a wyfe that beleueth not, if she be content to dwel with him, let hym not put her awaye. And the woman whiche hath to her housbande an infydell, and consente to dwell wyth her, let her not put him away. For the vnbeleuing housbande is sanctified by the wife, & the vnbeleuing wife is sanctified by the housebãde. Or els were youre children vncleane: but nowe are they holye. But and yf the vnbeleuing departe, let hym depart. A brother or a sister is not in subiection to suche. But God hathe called vs in peace. For howe knowest thou (o woman) whether thou shalte saue thy housbande or no? Either how knowest thou (o man) whether thou shalt saue thy wife or no? but euē as God
D hath distributed to euery manne.
Ephe. 4. a * As the Lorde hath called euerye man, so let hym walke, & so ordein I in al congregacions. If any man be called being circũcised, lette hym not adde vncircumcision. If any bee called vncircumcised, lette hym not bee circumcised. Circumcision is nothyng, and vncircumcision is nothing: but the kepynge of the commaundementes of God. * Lette euerye manne abyde in the same callyng, wherein he was called. Arte
1. tim. 6. a thou called a seruaunte? care not for it. Neuertheles if thou mayest be free, vse it rather. For he that is called in the Lord beyng a seruaunte, is the Lordes freman. Likewyse, he that is called beeyng free, is Christes seruaunt. Ye are dearly bought, bee not ye the seruauntes of menne. Brethren, lette euery man, wherein he is called, therein abyde with God. ✠

C As concernyng virgins, I haue no commaundement of the Lord, yet geue I counsayle, as one that hath obtained mercye of the Lord, to bee faythfull. I suppose therfore that it is good for ỹ present necessitye. For it is good for a manne so to bee. Arte thou bounde vnto a wyfe? seeke not to be loused. Arte thou loused from a wyfe? seeke not a wyfe. But and if thou marye a wife thou hast not synned. Likewise, if a virgin marie, she hath not synned. Neuertheles suche shal haue trouble in theyr flesh: but I fauour you. This saie I brethren, the tyme is shorte. It remaineth that they which haue wiues, be as though they had none: and they that wepe, bee as thoughe they wept not: and they that reioyce, be as though they reioyced not: & they that bye, be as thoughe they possessed not: and they that vse this worlde, be as though they vsed it not. For * the fashion of this worlde goeth awaye. I I woulde haue you without care. He that is vnmaried, careth for the thinges that belong to the Lord, how he maye please the Lorde.

But he that hath maried a wyfe careth for the thinges that are of the worlde, how he maie please his wife. There is differẽce betwene a virgin and a wyfe. The single woman careth for the thynges that are of the Lorde, that she maye be holye bothe in bodye and also in spirit. Agayn, she that is maryed, careth for the thynges that pertaine to the wõrlde, howe she maye please her housbande. This speake I for your profit, not to tangle you in a snare, but that ye maye folowe it whiche is honeste and comely, and that ye maye cleaue vnto the Lorde without seperation. If any manne thinke that it is vncomelye for his virgin yf she passe the tyme of mariage, and yf so nede requyre, lette him do what he listeth, he synneth not, let them bee coupled in mariage. Neuertheles, he ỹ purposeth surely in his heart, hauinge no neede, but hath power ouer his owne will: and hath so decreed in his heart, that he wil kepe his virgin, doeth well. So then, he that ioyneth his virgin in mariage, dooeth wel. But he that ioyneth not his virgin in mariage, dooeth better. The wyfe is bounde to the mariage, as long as her housband liueth. 1. Cor. 7. d If her housbande dye, she is at libertie to marie with whome she wyll, onelye in the Lorde. But she is happier, yf she so abide, after my iudgemente. And I thinke verely that I haue the spirite of God.

thinke þ he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to knowe.
But if any man loue god, þ same is knowen of hym. As concernyng the eatyng of those thynges that are offered vnto idols, wee are sure, that the ymage is nothyng 8.10.c in the worlde, and that there is none other God, but one. And thoughe there bee that are called Gods, whether in heauen, either in earth (as there bee Goddes manye, and
B Lordes manye) yet vnto vs is there but one God, whiche is the father, of whome are all thynges, and wee for hym: and one Lorde Iesus Christe, by whome are all thinges, and we by him.
But euery manne hath not knowledge. *Some hauyng conscience because of the

For if some man see thee which hast knowledge, sit and eate of meat offred vnto images, shal not the conscience of him whiche is weake, bee boldened to eat those

1.Cor.9.a AM I not an apostle: am I not free? *haue I not sene Iesus Christ our Lorde? Are ye not my worke in the lorde? If I be not an Apostle vnto other, yet am I vnto you. For the seale of mine Apostleshippe are ye in the Lorde. Myne answere to them that aske me, is thys.
Haue we not power to eat and to drinke? Haue we not power to leade about a woman a sister, as wel as other Apostles, and as the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas? But wo is it vnto me, if I preach not the Gospell. If I do it with a good wyll, I haue a rewarde. But if I doe it against my wil, an office is committed vnto me. What is my rewarde then? Verely that when I preache the Gospell, I make the Gospell of Christe free, that I misuse not mine auctoritie in the Gospell.

He rebuketh them for the abuſe and miſcome that they had aboute the Sacrament of the body and bloud of Chriſt, and bringeth them agayne to the firſt inſtitucion.

A BE ye ꝑ folowers of me, as I am ꝑ folower of Christ. I cõmende you brethren, that ye remẽbre me in al thinges, and kepe the ordinaũces, euen as I deliuered them to you.

But I would haue you to knowe, that Christe is the head of euery man. And the man is the * womans head: And God gen.2.d is Christes head: Euery man prayng or prophecyng hauyng any thynge on hys ephe.5.c head, shameth hys head. Euery woman that prayeth or prophecieth bare headed, dishonesteth her head. For that is euen all one, as yf she were shauen. yf the woman be not couered, let her also bee shoren. * yf it be shame for a woman to gen.11.a B be shorne or shaué, let her couer her head.

I man ought not to couer his head, for as much as he is the ymage and glorye of God. But the woman is the glorye of the man. For * the man is not of the woman, gene.1.d
but the woman of the man. Nether was the man created for the womans sake: but the womã for the mannes sake. For this cause ought the woman to haue power on her head, for the angels sakes. Neuertheles, nether is the man without the woman, nether the woman without the man in the Lorde. For as the woman is of the man, euen so is the man by the woman: but all of God.

C Iudge in youre selues, whether it be comly ꝑ a woman praye vnto God, bare headed. Doeth not nature it selfe teache you, ꝑ it is a shame for a man, yf he haue long heere: & a prayse to a woman, yf she haue long heere? For her heere is geuen her to couer her withal. yf any man luste to stryue, we haue no suche custome, nether the congregacions of God.

This I warne you of, & commẽd not, that ye come not together after a better maner: but after a worse. For firste of all whẽ ye come together in the congregaciõ, cause many are weake and sicke among you, and many slepe. For yf we had iudged our selues, we should not haue bene iudged. But when we are iudged of the Lorde, we are chastened, that we shoulde not be damned with the * worlde. Where- 1.Joh.2.c

¶ The.xii. Chapter.

¶ The diuersitie of the gyftes of the holy goost, geuen to the cõfort and edifynge of one another, as ꝑ membres of a mans body serue one another.

COncernyng spyrituall thynges I (brethren) I woulde not haue you ignoraunt. + Ye knowe that ye wer gentiles, and went your wayes vnto dumme ymages, euen as ye were led. Wherfore I declare vnto you, Mat.9.f that * no man speakyng by the spirite of God, defyeth Jesus. Also no man can saye that Jesus is the Lord, but by the holy goste. * There are diuersities of gyftes, Rom.12.g

1 Joh. 4. a.

* For as the body is one, and hath many membres, and all the membres of one bodye, though they be manye, yet are but one bodye, euen so is Christe. For by one spirite are we al baptysed, to make one bodye, whether we bee Iewes or Gentiles, whether we be bonde or free, & haue *all dronke of one spyrite. For the body is not one member, but many. If the foote saye: I am not the hande, I am not of the bodye: is he therfore not of the body? And yf the eare saie: I am not the eye, I am not of the body: is he therfore not of the bodye? If all the body were an eye, where were then the eare? If all were hearyng, where were the smellyng? But nowe hath God sette the membres euerye one seuerally in the body, as it hath pleased hym. If they wer all one member, where were the body? Nowe are there many mẽbres, yet but one body. And the eie cannot saye vnto the hande: I haue no nede of the. Againe, the head can not saye to the fete, I haue no nede of you. Yea, rather a great deale those membres of the body whiche seme to be more feble, are necessary. And vpon those membres of the body which we thynke leest honest, putte we more honestye on. And oure vngoodly partes haue more bewty on. For our honeste membres nede it not. But God hathe so disposed the body, & hath geuen the more honoure to that parte whiche lacked, lest there shoulde be any stryfe in ỳ body: but that the mẽbres shuld indifferently care one for another. And yf one membre suffer, all suffer with him: yf one membre be had in honoure, all membres be glad also.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The natures and conditions of loue.

Though I spake with ỳ tõgues of men and of angels, and haue no loue, I am euen as soundyng brasse: or as a tinklinge cimbal. And *thoughe I coulde prophecye, and vnderstode all secretes, & all knoweledge: yea, yf I haue all faythe, *so that I can moue mountaynes oute of theyr places, and yet haue no loue, I am nothyng. And though I bestow al my goodes to fede ỳ poore, and though I geue my body euen that I burned, and yet haue no loue, it profyteth me nothyng.

Mat. 7. Luke. 6. *Luke. 17.

Loue suffreth long, & is curteous. Loue B envyeth not. Loue doth not frowardlye, swelleth not, dealeth not dishonestlye, 1. Cor. 10. Phil. 2. *seketh not her owne, is not prouoked to anger, thynketh no euyll, reioyseth not in iniquitie, but reioyceth in the truth, suffreth all thynges, beleueth all thynges, hopeth all thinges, endureth all thynges. Though that prophecyinges fayle, eyther tõgues cease, or knowlage vanishe away, yet loue falleth neuer awaye. C

For our knowlage is vnperfect, and oure prophecying is vnperfect. But whẽ that which is perfect is come, then that whiche is vnperfect, shall be done awaye. When I was a childe, I spake as a chylde, I vnderstode as a childe, I ymagined as a childe. But assone as I was a man, I put awaye childishnes. Nowe we se in a glasse, euen in a darke speakyng: but then shall we see face to face. Nowe I knowe vnperfectly: but then shall I knowe euen as I am knowen. Nowe abydeth fayth, hope, and loue, euen these thre: but the chefe of these is loue. ✠

The. xiiii. Chapter.

Paul sheweth that the gyfte of prophecye, interpretyng or preachyng, excelleth the gyfte of tonges, and how they both ought to be vsed.

Labour for loue, and couet spyrituall giftes: but moste chiefly that ye maye prophecy. For he that speaketh wyth the toungue, speaketh not vnto men, but vnto God. For no manne heareth hym. Howbeit in the spirite he speaketh mysteries. But he that prophecieth, speaketh vnto menne for their edifiyng, for theyr exhortacion, and for their confort. He that speaketh

speaketh with the tonge, profiteth hym
a selfe: the ꝑ Prophesyeth, edifieth ꝑ con-
b gregacion. * I wolde that ye all spake
wt tongues: but rather ꝑ ye prophecied.
For greater is he that prophecieth, thē
he that speaketh with tongues, except he expounde it: ꝑ the congregacion may B haue edifying. Now brethren if I come vnto you speaking with tongues: what shal I profit you, except I speke to you, either by reuelacion, or by knowlege, or by prophecying, or by doctrine. More-ouer, whē thinges wout life geue soūd (whether it be a pipe or an harpe) except they make a distinctiō in ꝑ soūdes, how shall it be knowen what is piped or har-
ped. For if the trumpe geue an vncertain voyce, who shal prepare himselfe to the warre. Euen so likewise when ye speake with tonges, except ye speake woordes that haue signification, how shall it be C vnderstande what is spoken. For ye shal
but speake in the ayre.
Many kindes of voyces are in ꝑ world,
& none of thē are without signification.
If I knowe not what ꝑ voyce meaneth,
I shalbe vnto him that speaketh, an alyen:
and he that speaketh, shalbe an aliēt vnto me. Euen so ye (for asmuche as ye couet spirituall giftes) seke that ye may excel, vnto the edifying of the congrega-cion. Wherefore, let hym that speaketh with tonge, pray, that he may interprete
also. For if I praye with tonge, my spi-rite prayeth, but my vnderstanding doth
no good. What is it then? I will pray wt
the spirit, and will pray with the vnder-
standing, and will syng with the spirite,
and will sing with the vnderstandyng.
For els, whē thou blessest with ꝑ spirit,
how shal he that occupieth the roume of the vnlearned, saye Amen, at thy geuing
of thankes, seeing he vnderstandeth not,
what thou sayest. Thou verelye geuest thankes well, but ꝑ other is not edified.
I thanke my God that I speake wt tongues more then ye al. Yet had I leuer in the congregacion, to speake fiue woordes
with my vnderstanding to the informa-
cion of other, rather then ten thousande
D woordes with the tongue.
Brethren, be not ye chyldren in witte.
Howbeit, as concerning malicyousnes be children: but in witte be perfecte. In the law it is writtē: with sondrye ton-ges, & with sondry lippes wil I speake
vnto this people, and yet for al that, wil they not heare me sayeth ꝑ lorde. Wherefore tonges are for a signe, not to them
that beleue, but to them that beleue not.
Contrarywise, prophecying serueth not for them ꝑ beleue not, but for thē which beleue. If therfore when all the congregacion is come together, and all speake with tongues, there come in they ꝑ are vnlearned, or they which beleue not: will they not say, that ye are out of your wit-tes? But and if al prophecy, & there come in one that beleueth not, or one vnlear-ned, he is rebuked of all men, and is iudged of euery manne, & so are the secretes of hys heart opened, and so falleth he downe on hys face, & worshippeth God and saith, that God is in you of a trueth. G
How is it then brethren? As oft as ye come together, euerye one of you hath a song, hath a doctrine, hath a tonge, hath a reuelacion, hath an interpretacion. Let all thinges be doen vnto edifying. If any man speake with tonge, let it bee by two or at the most by three, & that by course, & let another interprete it. But if there be no interpreter, let hym kepe silēce in the congregacion, & let hym speake to hymselfe & to god. Let the prophetes speake 1. Joh. 4 d two, or three, & * let the other iudge. If any reuelacion be made to an other ꝑ sitteth by, let ꝑ first holde his peace. For ye may all prophecy one by one, that al may learne, and ꝑ al may haue comforte. And the spirites of the prophetes are in the power of the prophetes. For God is not causer of strife * but of peace, as (I teache) * Ro. 15. g in al congregacions of the saincte. F
* Let your weomen kepe silence in the 1. tim. 2. b congregacyons. For it is not permytted Gen. 3. c vnto them to speake, but to be vnder o- 1 Cor. 14. a bedience, as sayeth the lawe. If they will learne any thing, let them aske their husbandes at home. For it is a shame for weomen to speake in the congregacion.
Sprong the woorde of God from you?
Either came it vnto you onelye? If any man thinke himselfe to be a prophete, either spiritual: let him know what thyn-ges I write vnto you. For they are ꝑ cōmaundementes of the lord. But and if any manne be ignorannte, let him be ignorannt. Wherfore brethren, couet to prophecy, & forbyd not to speake with tongues, let all thinges be doone honestlye
and in ordre (among you.)

The. xv. Chapter.

The resurrection of the dead.

Brethren

A BRethren, as pertayning to the gospel which I preached vnto you, which ye haue also accepted, & in the which ye continue, by the which also ye are saued: I do you to wete, after what maner I preached vnto you, if ye kepe it, except ye haue beleued in vayn. For first of al I deliuered vnto you. þ whiche I receyued: how þ* Christ died for our sinnes, according to þ scriptures. & Ind þ he was buried, & that he arose agayn þ third day according to þ scriptures: & that he was sene* of Cephas, thẽ of þ twelue. After that he was sene of mo then fyue hundred brethrẽ at once, of whiche many remayne vnto thys day, & many are fallẽ a slepe. After þ appered he to James, thẽ to al þ apostles.

B And last of al he was sene of me, as of one that was borne out of due time. For I am the leaste of þ Apostles, which am not woorthy to be called an Apostle, because* I persecuted the congregation of God. But by the grace of God, I am þ I am. And his grace which is in me, was not in vayne: but I laboured more aboundantly then they al, yet not I, but the grace of God whiche is with me. Therfore whether it were I or they, so we preache, and so haue ye beleued. If Christe bee preached howe that he rose from the dead: how say some emong you that there is no resurrection of þ dead? If there be no rysing agayn of the dead, then is Christ not risen agayn. If Christ be not risen agayn, then is our preaching in vayne, and your faith is also in vayne.

yea and we are founde false witnesses C of God. For we haue testifyed of God, how þ he raysed vp Christ: whõ he raysed not vp, if it be so þ the dead ryse not agayn. For if þ dead ryse not agayn, thẽ is Christ not risen agayn. If it be so that Christ rose not again, then is your faith in vayn, & ye are yet in your sinnes. Therfore thei which are fallẽ a slepe in Christ are perished. If in this life onely we beleue on Christ, thẽ are we of al mẽ most miserable. But now is Christ risẽ from the dead, & become* the first fruites of thẽ that slept. For by a man came death, and by a man came the resurrection of þ dead. For as by Adam all dye, euen so by Christe shall all bee made alyue: but euery manne in hys owne ordre. The first is Christ, thẽ they that are Christes at his cumming. Then cummeth þ ende, when he hath deliuered vp the kingdom to God the father, when he hath putte downe all rule, & al auctoritie & power. For he must raygne tyll he haue put all his enemies vnder his feete. The last enemy þ shalbe destroyed is death.* For he hath put all thynges vnder hys feete. But when he sayeth all thynges are put vnder him, it is manifest þ he is excepted whiche dyd put all thinges vnder him. Whẽ all thinges are subdued vnto him, then shal þ sonne also himself be subiect vnto him, that put al thinges vnder him, that God may be al in all. Els what doe they which are baptised ouer the dead, if the dead ryse not at all? Why are they thẽ baptised ouer thẽ? yea, & why stande we alway then in ieoperdy? By our reioysyng whiche I haue in Christe Jesu our Lorde, I dye daylye. That I haue fought with beastes at Ephesus after þ maner of men, what auauntageth it me if the dead ryse not agayn? Let vs eate C & drinke, for to morow we shall dye. Be not ye deceyued: euill woordes corrupt good maners. Awake truly out of slepe, & sinne not. For some haue not þ knowelage of god: I speke this to your shame. But some man wil saye: how aryse the dead? with what bodye shal they come? Thou foole,* þ whiche thou sowest, is not quickened, except it dye. And what sowest thou? Thou sowest not the body that shalbe, but bare corne (as of whete, or of some other) but God geueth it a body at his pleasure, to euery seede his owne body. All fleshe is not one maner of fleshe: but there is one maner of fleshe of men, another maner of fleshe of beastes, another of fyshes, & another of byrdes. Ther are also celestial bodies, & ther are bodies terrestriall. But the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another. Ther is one maner glory of þ sũne, and another glory of the mone, & another glory of the starres. For one starre differeth from another in glory. So is the resurrection of the dead. It is sowen in corruption, it riseth agayne in incorrupciõ. It is sowẽ in dishonor, it riseth again in honor. It is sowẽ in wekenes, it riseth agayn in power. It is sowẽ a natural body, it riseth again a spiritual body. Ther is a natural body, & ther is a spiritual body: as it is also writtẽ:* The first man* Adã was made a liuing soule, and þ last Adã was made a quicke-

God shall suffer me. I wil tary at Ephesus, vnto the fiftieth daye. For a greate
dooze and a fruiteful is opened vnto me

Brethren, ye knowe the house of * Ste-phana (and of Fortunatus and Achaicus,) how that they are the first fruites of Achaia,

ues to ministre vnto ỳ saintes: I beseche
you that ye be obediẽt vnto such, and to all that helpe and labour: I am glad of ỳ cumming of Stephana, ¶ Fortunatus and Achaicus: for that whiche was lacking vnto me on youre parte, they haue supplyed. For they haue comforted my spirite and yours. Loke therfore that ye knowe them that are suche.

Collos.1.c

Whether we be troubled for your consolacion and health, (or whether we be comforted, it is for your comfort and saluacion:) which saluacion sheweth her power in that ye suffre the same afflictions, whiche we also suffer: or whether we bee comforted for your consolacyon & saluacyon: our hope also is stedfast for you, in asmuch as we know, how that as ye are partakers of the afflictions, so shall ye bee partakers also of the consolacion.

Brethren I would not haue you ignorant of our trouble, whiche happened vnto vs in * Asia. For we were grieued out of measure, passing strẽgth so greatly, that we despaired euẽ of life. Also we receiued an answer of death in our selues, that we should not put our truste in our selues: * but in God whiche rayseth the dead to lyfe, and whiche deliuered vs from so great a deathe, and dooeth deliuer. For oure preaching to you, was not yea and nay. For Goddes sonne Jesus Christe, whiche was preached among you by vs (euen by me, & Siluanus & Timotheus) was not yea and nay: but by hym it was yea: for all the promises of God by him are yea: and are in hym Amen: vnto the laude of God thorow vs. For it is God, which stablisheth vs with you in Christ, and stãdeth by vs, & hath anoynted vs, which hath also sealed vs, & hath geuẽ the earnest of the spirite in our heartes.

The. vi. Chapter.

An exhortacion to receaue the word of God with thankefulnesse, and amendemente of lyfe. The diligence of Paul in the Gospell, and howe he warneth them to eschue the company of the vngodly.

WE also as helpers, exhort you ye receiue not the Grace of God in vaine. For he saieth: I haue heard the in a time accepted: & in ye daie of saluacio, haue I succored the. Behold, nowe is that accepted time: beholde, nowe is that daie of saluacion. Let vs geue no occasyon of euell, that in oure office bee founde no faute: but in al thinges let vs behaue oure selues *as the ministers of God.

In muche pacience, in afflictions, in necessities, in anguishes, in strypes, in presonmentes, in styres, in labours, in watchinges, in fastinges, in pureues, in knowlage, in longe sufferyng, in kyndnes, in the holy ghost, in loue vnfayned, in the worde of trueth, in the power of God, by the armoure of rygh teousnes of the right hande and on the lefte, by honoure and dyshonoure: by euell repoze and good repoze: as disceyuers, and yet true: as vnknowen and yet knowen: as dying, and beholde we lyue: as chastened, and not killed: as sorowing, and yet alwaye mery: as pooze & yet make many riche: as hauyng nothyng, and yet possessyng all thynges.

O ye Corinthians, our mouth is open vnto you. Our harte is made large: ye are in no straite in vs, but are in a straite in youre owne bowels: I promyse vnto you lyke reward, as vnto children. Set youre selues at large, & *bearre not ye the yoche with ye vnbeleuers. For what felowshyp hath righteousnes with vnrighteousnes? Or what company hath light with darknes? *Or what concorde hath Christ with Belial? Ether what parte hath he that beleeueth with an infydel? Or how agreeth ye temple of God with ymages? For *ye are the temple of ye liuing God, as saied God. ‡ I will dwell amonge them, and walke amonge them, and will be their God: and they shalbe my people. Wherfore * come out from among them, and seperate youre selues from them (sayeth the Lorde) and touche none vncleane thyng: so will I receyue you, and will bee a father vnto you, and ye shalbe my sonnes and doughters, sayeth the Lorde almightye.

The. vii. Chapter.

He exhorteth them to accoumpt the promyses of God thankfully. The Corinthians are commended for their obedience and loue towarde Paul.

SEyng that we haue suche promyses (deerely beloued) let vs clense our selues from al filthines of the flesshe and spirite, and growe vp to ful holynes with the feare of God. Understande vs, we haue hurte no man: we haue corrupt no man: we haue defrauded no man. I speake not this to condemne you: for I haue shewed you before, that ye are in oure hearres to dye and lyue with you. I am very bolde ouer you. I reioyce greatly in you. I am filled with comforte, and am exceding ioyous in all oure tribulation. For when we were come into Macedonia *oure flesshe had no reste, but we were troubled on euery side. Outward was fightinge, inward was feare. Neuertheles *God that comforteth the abiecte, comforted vs by the commyng of Titus.

And not by his cumming only: but also by the consolacion whiche wee receyued of you: when he tolde vs your desire, your feruente mynde for me: so that I reioyced the more. For thoughe I made you sory with a letter, I repente not, though I did repent. For I perceyue that the same epistle made you sory, though it were but for a season. But I nowe reioyce, not that ye were sory, but that ye so sorowed that ye repented. For ye sorowed godly: so that in nothyng ye were hurte by vs. For godly sorow we causeth repentaunce vnto saluacion, not to bee repented of: contrary wise *worldely sorowe causeth death.

For beholde, what diligence this godly sorow that ye toke, hath wrought in you, yea it caused you to cleare your selues. It caused indignacio, it caused feare, it caused desyre, it caused punishment. For in all thynges ye haue shewed your selues, that ye were cleare in that matter. Wherefore, though I wrote vnto you, I did it not for hys cause that had dooen the hurte, nether for hys cause ye was hurte: but that youre good minde for vs might appeare among you in the sight of GOD.

Therfore, wee are comforted, because ye are comforted: yea and exceadyngly the more ioyed wee, for the ioye that Titus had: because his spirite was refreshed of you all. I am therfore not no we ashamed, though I boasted my selfe to hym of you. For as all thynges whiche we spake vnto you are true, euen so oure boastyng, that I made vnto Titus is founde true. And his inwarde affeccion is more aboundant towarde you, when he remembreth the obedience of you all: how with feare and trembling ye receaued hym. I reioyse that I may be bolde ouer you in all thynges.

The.viii.Chapter.

He putteth them in remembraunce to helpe the poore saynctes at Jerusalē, accordyng as the Macedonians dyd.

I Certifye you brethren, of the grace of GOD whiche was geuen in ỳ cōgregacions of Macedonia, howe that the aboundaunce of their reioysyng is, that they are tryed with muche tribulacion. And thoughe they were exceadyng poore, yet haue they geuen exceadyng rychelye, and that in syngleines. For to their powers (I beare them recorde) yea & beyond their power they were wyllyng of their owne accord and prayed vs with great instaūce that we would receyue their benefite, and suffer them to bee partakers with other *in ministryng to the saynctes. And thys they dyd, not as wee loked for: but gaue their owne selues first to the lorde, and after vnto vs by the will of God: so that we coulde not but desyre Titus, to accomplyshe the same benevolence amonge you also, euen as he had begonne.

Nowe therfore, as ye are riche in al partes, in fayth, in worde, in knowlage, in all feruentnes, and in loue, whiche ye haue to vs: euen so see that ye bee plentrous in this benevolence also. Thys say I, not commaunding, but because of feruentnes. I do alowe the vnfaynednesse of youre loue towarde other menne. For ye knowe the lyberalitie of our Lord Jesus Chryst, that though he was *riche, yet for youre sakes he became poore: that ye thorowe his powertie might be made riche.

And I geue councel herein. For this is expedient for you, whiche began not to do onely, but also to wyll a yere a go. Nowe therfore perfourme the thynge whiche ye began to do: that as there was in you a redynes to will, euen so ye maye perfourme the dede * of that whiche ye haue. For yf there be firste a willing minde, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

It is not my mynde that other bee set at ease, and ye brought into cumbraunce but ỳ there be equalnes now at this tyme: and that youre aboundaunce may sucker their lacke: and that their aboundaunce maye supplye your lacke: that there maye bee equalitie, agreyng to that whiche is writtē: *he that had muche, had not the more aboundaunce: & he ỳ had a litle, had neuer the les. Thākes be vnto God which put the same good mynde for you in the heart of Titus, which accepted ỳ request: yea, rather he was so well willyng, that of his owne accord, he came vnto you.

We haue sente with hym the brother, whose laude is in the Gospell thorowout all the congregacions: and not that onely, but is also chosen of the congregacions to be a felowe with vs in our iorney, concernynge this benevolence that is ministred by vs vnto the prayse of the same Lorde, and to stirre vp youre prompte minde.

For this we eschew, that any mā should reproue vs in thys plentreous distribucion *that is ministred by vs, (to the glory of the Lorde) & make prouision for honest thynges: not only in the sight of the Lorde, but also in the syght of menne.

We haue sente with them a brother of oures, whom we haue ofte times proued dilygent in many thynges, but nowe much more dilygente. The great confydence whiche I haue in you, hathe caused me thys to doo: partelye for Titus sake, which is my felow, and helper as concernynge you. Partelye because of other whiche are oure brethren, and the messengers of the congregacions, and the glory of Chryste. Wherfore, shewe ye vnto them the proffe of youre loue, and of oure *boastynge of you in the sighte of the congregacions.

The.ix.Chapter.

In thys chapter doth he the same that he dyd in the chapter going before: that is, he moueth them to helpe the poore brethren at Jerusalem.

For ỳ *ministryng to ỳ saincters, it is but superfluous for me to wryte vnto you: for I knowe ỳ redynes of your mynd, wherof I boaste my selfe vnto them of Macedonia, that Achaia was prepared a yere a go: and youre ensample hathe prouoked many. Neuertheles, yet haue I sente these brethren, leste oure boastyng which I make of you, shoulde bee in vayne in this behalfe, that (as I haue sayde) ye may prepare youre selues: leste paraduenture yf they

they of Macedonia come with me, and fynd you vnprepared, we (I will not saye ye) shoulde be ashamed in this matter of
B boastyng. Wherfore, I thought it necessarye, to exhorte the brethren, to come before hande vnto you, and to prepare your good blessyng promysed afore, that it might be ready, so that it be a blessing, and not a defraudyng. + This yet I say: he whiche soweth lytle, shall reape lytle: and *he that soweth (in geuyng) largely 2.co.11.d Gal.6.b. and freely, shall reape plenteously. And lette euery man doe accordyng as he hath purposed in his herte, not grudgingly, or of necessitie. * For God loueth a cherefull

He that ministreth sede vnto the sower, ministre bread also for fode, & multiplye your sede, & increase the frutes of your ryghteousnes, + that on all partes, ye may be made ryche into all synglenes, which causeth thorowe vs that thankes are geuen vnto God.

D For the office of this ministracion, not onely supplyeth the nede of the saintes: but also is aboundaunte herein, that for this laudable ministryng, thākes might be geuen to God of many, whiche prayse God for the obedience of youre consentyng to the gospel of Christ, and for your synglenes in distributing to them, and to all men, & in theyr prayers for you which long after you, for the aboundaunt grace of God in you. Thākes be vnto God for his vnspeakeable gyfte.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

He toucheth the false Apostles, and defendeth his autorytye and callyng.

I Paul my selfe beseche you by the mekenes and softnes of Christ, which when I am present among you, am of no reputacion: but am bold towarde you, beyng absente. I beseche you that I nede not to be bolde when I am present (wyth that same boldnesse, wherewith I am supposed to haue been bolde) agaynste some, whiche repute vs as though we walked carnally. For though we walke in the flesshe, yet we doe not warre fleshly.
*For the weapens of our warrefare are Ephe.6.c not carnal thynges, but thynges mighty
B in God, to cast downe stronge holdes, wherewith we ouerthrowe councels and euery hye thyng that exalteth it selfe agaynst the knowlage of God: and bryng into captiuitie all ymagynacion to the obedience of Christ, and are ready to take vengeaunce on all disobedience, when your obedience is fulfylled. Looke ye on thynges after the vtter apperaunce.

If any man trust in hymselfe, that he
C is Christes, let hym consyder this agayn of hymselfe: that as he is Christes, euen so are we Christes. For though I boast my selfe somewhat more of our authoritie (which the Lord hath geuē vs, *to edifye 2.Cor.13.c and not to destroy you) it shall not be to my shame: leste I should seme, as though I wente aboute to make you afrayde wyth letters. For the Epistles (sayeth he) are soore and strong: but his bodyly presence is weake, and his speache rude. Let hym that is suche thinke on this wyse: that as we are in wordes by letters when we are absente, suche are we in dedes, when we are present.

For we cannot fynde in oure hertes to
D make our selues of the nombre of them, or to compare our selues to them, which prayse them selues. Neuertheles, whyle they measure themselues with themselues, and compare them selues with them selues, they vnderstande nought. But we wyll not reioyce aboue measure: but accordyng to the measure of the rule, which God hath distributed vnto vs, a measure to reache euen vnto you. For we stretche not out our selues beyonde measure, as though we reached not vnto you. For euen to you also haue we come with the gospell of Christ, and we boast not oure selues out of measure of other mennes labours. Yea, and we hope it wyl come to passe, þ whē your faith is increased emōg you, we shall bee magnifyed accordyng to oure measure more largely, and that I shall preache the gospell in those regions whiche are beyonde you: and not to boaste of those thynges whiche by another mannes measure are prepared alreadye. But let hym that reioyseth, reioyce in the Lorde. For he that prayseth hymselfe, is not allowed: but he whom the Lorde prayseth.

¶ The.xi.Chapter.

Paul (vnder sufferaunce) commendeth himselfe, and defendeth his autorite against the false Prophetes.

I WOulde to God, ye coulde haue suffered me a lytle in my folishnes: yea ye do also forbeare me.
For I am gelous ouer you,
with godly gelousy. For I haue coupled you to one mā, that ye should make youre
selues a chaste virgin to Christe.
But I feare leste it come to passe, that *Gen.3.a as the serpente *begyled Eue through his subtelty, euen so your wittes shoulde
bee corrupte from the singlenes that ye had towarde Christe. For yf he that com-

Doubtles, it is not expedyent for me to booste: I wyll come to visyons and reuelacions of the Lorde. I knowe a man in Christe, aboue fourtene yeres ago (whether he were in ỳ body I cannot tel, or whether he were out of the body I cannot tell, God knoweth) howe that he was taken vp into the third heauē. And I knowe thesame manne (whether in the body, or

Of this manne will I booste, but of my selfe will I not booste, except it bee of mine infirmities: for though I would booste, I shal not be a foole, for I would saie ỳ truth. Neuertheles, I spare you lest any mā should thinke of me, aboue that whiche he seeth me to bee, or that he

And *lest I shoulde be exalted out of measure, through the excellency of the reuelacions: there was geuen vnto me vnquietnes throughe the flesshe, euen the messenger of Satan to buffet me: because I shoulde not be exalted out of measure. For thys thyng besought I the Lord thryse, that it might departe fro me. And he sayed vnto me: my grace is sufficiente for thee. For my strength is made perfect throughe weaknes. The first Chapter.

Paul rebuketh them, because they were fallen awaye from the Gospell, sheweth hys owne conuersation, magnifieth hys office and apostleshyp, and declareth hym selfe to bee equall with the ye Apostles.

Paul an Apostle, not of men nether by mã, but by Jesus Christ, and by GOD the father, whiche raised him vp from deathe: & al þ brethrẽ which are wythme.

Unto the cõgregacions of Galacia. *Grace be with you, & peace from God the father, & from our Lorde Jesus Christe, whiche gaue hym selfe for oure synnes, to deliuer vs frõ this presente euel worlde, accordyng to the will of God our father, to whom be prayse for euer and euer. Amen.

I marualle, that ye are so sone turned from Christe, which called you by grace, vnto a nother Gospel: whiche is nothyng els, but that there be some, which trouble you, and *intende to peruerte the Gospell Acts.15.c of Christe. Neuertheiesse, though we oure selues, or an angell from heauen, preache any other Gospel vnto you, then þ which wee haue preached vnto you, let hym bee B accursed. As we sayde before, so saye I nowe agayne: yf any manne preache any other Gospell vnto you, then that ye haue receyued, let hym be accursed. Do I nowe perswade men, or God? Eyther do I seke to please menne? *For if I had hytherto Job.32.b studyed to please men, I were not the seruaunt of Chryste.

+ I certifie you brethren, that the Gospell whiche was preached of me, was not after the maner of men. For I neither receaued it, nor learned it of man, but by the reuelacion of Jesus Christe. For ye haue C heard of my conuersacion in time paste, in the Jewes way: howe that beyonde measure *I persecuted þ congregacõ of God Act.8.c and spoyled it: and prouailed in the Jewes 9.a.22.d. and.26.b. waye, aboue many of my companyons in 1.Cor.15.b mine owne nacion, & beyng a very feruent +Phil.3.d mayntener of the tradicions of the elders.

The

¶ The.ii. Chapter.

He withstandeth Peter in the face, and proueth that the lawe & circumcision are not necessarye to saluacion.

A The.xiiii. yeres therafter, I wente vp agayne to Ierusalem * with Barnabas, & toke Titus w̄ me. I went vp also by reuelacion, and commened with them, of ỹ Gospel which I preache amonge the Gētiles (but spetially) with thē whiche were counted chefe, lest I shoulde runne or had runne in vayne. Also Titus whiche was with me, thoughe he were a greke, yet was not compelled to be circumcysed: & that because of incommers beyng false brethren, whiche came in preuely to spye out our lybertie which we haue in Christ Iesu, that they might bringe vs into bōdage. To whome we gaue no roume, no not for the time (by waie of subiection) because that the trueth of the Gospel might continue with you.

Of them whiche semed to be somwhat, B what they were in time passed it maketh no matter to me: * God loketh on the outward appearaunce of no man. Neuertheles they whiche semed greate, added nothyng to me. But contrary wise, whē they sawe that the Gospell ouer the vncircumcision was committed vnto me, as the Gospell ouer the circumcysion was committed vnto Peter: For he ỹ was mightie in Peter in the Apostleshyp ouer the the circumcysion, the same was mighty in me amonge the Gentiles. When they perceaued the grace that was geuen vnto me, then Iames, Cephas and Iohn, whiche semed to be pillers, gaue to me & Barnabas the right handes of that felowshyp, that we shoulde be Apostles among the Heathen, and they in the circumcision: onely that we shoulde remembre the poore. * Wherein also I was dilygente to doo the same.

C But whē Peter was come to Antioche, I withstode hym openly, because he was worthy to bee blamed. For yer that certayne came from Iames, he did eate with the Gentyls. But when they were come, he withdrue and separated hym selfe from them, fearing them which were of the circumcision. And the other Iewes dissembled as well as he: inso muche that Barnabas also was brought into their simulacion. But when I sawe that they went not the right waye after the truthe of the Gospell, I sayde vnto Peter before them all: yf thou beyng a Iewe, liuest after the maner of the Gentyles, and not as doe the Iewes: why causest thou the Gentyles to liue as do the Iewes? For we whiche are * Iewes by nature, and not synners of the Gentyles, know we, that a man is not iustifyed by the dedes of the lawe, but by the fayth of Iesus Christ: And we haue beleued on Iesus Christe, that we might bee iustified by the fayth of Christ, and not by the dedes of the lawe: because that by the dedes of the law, no flesh shalbe iustified.

If while we seke to be made righteous D by Christe, we our selues are founde synners, is Christ then the minister of synne? God forbyd. For yf I buylde agayne the thynges whiche I destroyed, then make I my selfe a trespasser. For I (thorowe the lawe) haue bene dead to the lawe: that I might liue vnto Christe. I am crucified w̄ Christ: Neuertheles, I lyue: yet now not I, but Christ lyueth in me. The life which I nowe lyue in the flesche, I lyue by the fayth of the sonne of God * whiche loued me, and gaue hym selfe for me. I despyse not ỹ grace of God. For * yf righteousnes come of the lawe, then Christe is dead in vayne.

The .iii. Chapter.

He rebuketh the vnstedfastnesse of the Galathians, shewynge the vnperfectnesse of the lawe, and declareth neuertheles that it was not geuen for naught.

O ye folish Galathians: A who hath bewitched you, that ye should not beleue the truthe? To whom Iesus Christe was described before the eyes, and among you crucifyed. This onely would I learne of you, whether ye receaued the spirite by the dedes of the lawe, or by the preachyng of the faithe? Are ye such foles that after ye haue begonne in the spirite, ye now end in ỹ flesche? So many thinges ye haue suffred in vain, yf it be also in vain. Moreouer, he that ministreth to you the spirite, and worketh miracles among you, doth he it thorowe the dedes of the lawe, or by preachyng of the faithe? Euen as Abrahā beleued God, and it was aūtryded to hym for righteousnes. Ye know we therefore, that they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham.

Gene.12.a and.22.b. fayth, shewed before hande glad tydinges vnto Abraham, saying: * In thee shall all nacions be blessed. So then, they whiche are of fayth, are blessed with faythful Abraham. For as many as are of the dedes of the lawe, are subiecte to the curse. For Deu.27.d it is written * cursed be euery one, that cõtinueth not in all thynges whiche are written in the boke of the law, to fulfyll them. That no man is iustifyed by the lawe in the sight of God it is euidente. * For the Abac.2.a Rom.1.c iust shal liue by fayth. The lawe is not of Deut.10.g faith: but ỳ mã that fulfilleth the thinges ‡ Leui.18.a contayned in the lawe, shall liue in them. Dete.21.b Christe hath deliuered vs from the curse Rom.10.a of the lawe, in as muche as he was made Deu.21.b. accursed for vs. For it is written: ‡ cursed is euery one, that hangeth on tree, that the blessyng of Abraham myght come on the Gentyles throughe Jesus Christe, that wee myghte receiue the promes of the spirite throughe fayth.

C Brethren, I speake after the maner of menne. Though it bee but a mannes testamente, yet yf it bee alowed no manne despiseth it, or addeth any thyng thereto. + To Abraham ‡ his seede were the promises made: he saieth not in the seedes, as many: but in thy seede, as of one, whyche is Christ. This I saie, ỳ the lawe whyche *Gen.15.c began afterward, beyond * CCCC.xxx. Exod.12.f yeres, dooth not disanull the testamente, Iudit.5.b that was confirmed afore of God vnto Acres.7.a Christ warde, to make ỳ promes of none effect. ‡ For if the inheritaunce come of the Rom.4.c lawe, it cõmeth not now of promes. But God gaue it vnto Abraham by promes.

Rom.5.c and.7.b Wherefore then serueth the lawe? * It was added because of transgression (till the seede came, to whom the promes Acte.7.g was made) ‡ it was ordained by angels in ỳ hande of a mediator. A mediator is not a mediator of one. But God is one. Rom.7.c 1.tim.1.b * Is the lawe then against ỳ promes of God? God forbid. For if there had been a lawe geuen whiche coulde haue geuen life, then no doubte righteousnes shoulde come by the lawe. But the scripture concluded all thynges vnder synne, that the promes by ỳ fayth of Jesu Christ should be geuen vnto them that beleue. + But be- D fore that faith came, wee were kept vnder the law, ‡ wer shut vp vnto ỳ faith which should after warde bee declared.

Wherefore, the lawe was our scholemaister vnto Christe, that wee shoulde bee iustifyed by faithe. But after that faith is come, we are no lenger vnder the scholemaister. For ye are all the children of God because ye beleue in Christe Jesu. For all ye that ‡ are baptised, haue putte on Christe. There is no Iewe nether Gentile: there is nether bonde nether free: there is nether manne nor woman: for ye are all ‡ one in Christe Jesu. If ye bee Christes, then are ye Abrahams sede, and heires accordyng to the promes.

The.iiii. Chapter.

Paul sheweth that throwe Christe we be deliuered from the lawe, and rebuketh the vnthankefulnesse of the Galathians.

AND I saie, that the heire (as lõg as he is a child) differeth not frõ a seruaunt, though he bee Lord of all: but is vnder tuters ‡ gouerners, vntill ỳ tyme that the father hath appointed. Euen so we also when we wer children, were in bondage vnder the ordynaunces of the world. But when the time was full come, God sent ‡ his sonne, made ‡ Gala. of a womã, and made bond vnto the law, Iohn. to redeme them whiche were bonde vnto Rom. the lawe: that we throughe election might receyue the inheritaunce that belongeth vnto the naturall sonnes. Because ye are sonnes * God hath sente the spirite of hys Rom. sonne into oure hartes, crying Abba father. Wherefore nowe thou arte not a seruaunt, but a sonne. If thou bee a sonne thou arte also an heire of God throughe Christ. + Notwithstanding, when ye knew 1.Cor. not God, ye dyd seruice vnto them ‡ which by nature are no goddes. But nowe after that ye haue knowen God (yea rather are knowen of God) howe is it that ye turne Colla.2 againe vnto the weake, and ‡ beggerly ordinaunces, where vnto againe ye desire a fresh to be in bondage? Ye obserue daies, and monethes, and times, and yeres. I am in feare of you, leste I haue bestowed on you laboure in vayne. B

Brethren I beseche you, be ye as I am, for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurte me at all. Ye knowe, howe throughe infirmitie of the flesshe, I preached the Gospell vnto you at the first. And my temptaciõ whiche was in ỳ flesshe, ye despised not, nether abhorred: but receyued me as an Angell of God: euen as Christ Jesus. What is then your felicitie? For I beare you record, that if it had ben possible ye woulde haue plucked out youre owne eyes, and haue geuen them to me: Am I therefore become youre enemie, because I tell you the trueth?

Ther

C They are gelous ouer you amisse. Yea they intend to exclude you, that ye shoulo be feruente to them warde. It is good alwayes to be feruent in a good thyng and not onlye when I am presente with you. My lytle childzen (of whome I trauple in birthe agayne, vntill Christe be fashioned in you) I woulde I were with you nowe, and coulde chaunge my voyce: for I stand in a doubte of you. Tell me (ye that desyre to be vnder the law) do ye not heare of the law? + For it is wrytten, that Abraham had two sonnes: the one by a bond mayde, * the other by a freewoman. Yea, & he whiche was borne of the bonde woman was borne after the flesshe: but he which was of the freewoman, was borne by promes. Whiche thynges are spoken by an allegory. For these are two testamentes, the one from the mounte Sina, which gendzeth vnto bondage, which is Agar, for mounte Sina is Agar in Arabia, and borderh vpon the citie, which is now called Jerusalem, & is in bõdage wher childzen. But Jerusalem, which is aboue is free, which is the mother of vs al.

D For it is wrytten: * reioyce thou barren, that bearest no childzen: breake forth and cry, thou that trauaylest not. For the desolate hath many moe childzen: then she which hath an husband. Brethren, we are after Isaac the childzē of promes. But as then he that was borne after the flesshe, persecuted hym that was borne after the spyrte: euen so is it nowe. Neuertheles, what sayeth the scripture? + put away the bonde woman and her sonne. For the sonne of the bonde woman, shall not bee heire with the sõne of the freewomā: So then brethren, we are not childzen of the bonde woman: but of the freewoman. +

¶ The.v. Chapter.

He laboureth to drawe them away from circumcision, & sheweth them the battayll betwixt the spyrte and the flesshe, and the frutes of them both.

A STande fast therfore in the libertye wherwith Christ hath made vs free: and wrappe not youre selues agayne in * the yoke of bondage. Behold, I Paul say vnto you, that & yf ye bee circumcised, Christe shall profite you nothyng at all. I testifye agayne to euery manne whiche is circumcised, that he is bounde to kepe the whole lawe. Christe is become but in vayne vnto you: as many of you as are iustifyed by the lawe, are fallen from grace. We looke for and hope in the spirite, to bee iustifyed through faythe. * For in Jesu Christe, neyther is circumcision any thyng worthe, neyther yet vncircumcision, but fayth * whiche worketh by loue. Ye dyd runne wel: who was a lette vnto you, that ye should not beleue the trueth? (consent vnto no manne.) Euen the counsayle which came not of hym that calleth you: * A lytle leauen doeth leauen the whole lompe of dowe.

I haue trust towarde you in the Lorde, B that ye shall bee none otherwise mynded. But he that troubleth you, shal beare his iudgement whatsoeuer he bee. Brethren, yf I yet preache circumcision, why doe I then yet suffre persecution? Then is ỳ slaunder of the crosse ceased. I woulde to God they were separated frõ you, which trouble you. Brethren, ye were called into libertie: onely & lette not your libertye bee an occasion vnto the flesshe: but by loue (of the spirite) serue one another. For al the lawe is fulfilled in one worde, which is this: * thou shalt loue thyne neyghboure as thy selfe. If ye bite and deuour one another: take heede, lest ye be lyke wyse consumed one of another. +

+ I saye: walke in the spirite, and fulfyll not the luste of the flesshe. For the flesshe lusteth contrary to the spirite, and & the spirite contrarye to the flesshe: These are contrary one to the other, so ỳ ye cannot doe whatsoeuer ye would. But and yf ye bee led of the spirite, then are ye not vnder the lawe. The dedes of the flesshe are manifest, whiche are these: aduoutry, fornication, vnclennesse, wantonnesse, worshyppyng of images, witchcraft, hatred, variaunce, zele, wrathe, stryfe, seditions, sectes, enuying, murder, dronckennesse, glottony, & suche lyke: of the whiche I tell you before as I haue tolde you in tyme past, that they & whiche commytte suche thinges, shall not be inheritours of the kyngdome of God. Contrarely, the frute of the spirite is loue, ioy, peace, long sufferyng, gentlenesse, goodnesse, faythfulnesse, meknesse, temperancye. * Against suche there is no lawe. They truly that are Christes, haue crucified the flesh with the affeccions and lustes. +

bee vnto the prayse of his glory.

In whom also we beleue, for as muche
as we haue heard the worde of trueth, euen the Gospell of your saluacion: wher-
in when ye had beleued, * ye were sealed
with the holye spirite of promes whiche is the earnest of our inheritaunce, for the recouerynge of the purchased possessyon,
vnto the prayse of his glory.

Wher-

Wherfore, I also (after that I heard of the faith which ye haue in the Lord Jesu, and loue vnto al ỳ saincte) *cease not to geue thankes for you, makyng mencion of you in my prayers: that the God of our Lord Jesus Christe, the father of glorye, may geue vnto you ỳ spirite of wisdō & reuelatiō, by ỳ knowlage of hi selfe, & lighte the eyes of your myndes, ỳ ye may knowe what the *hope is, whereunto he hath called you: and how riche the glorye is of hys inheritaunce vpon the saincte, and what is the excedyng greatnes of hys power to vs ward, whiche beleue accordyng to the workyng of ỳ his mightie power, whiche he wrought in Christ, when he rayled him from the dead, *and set hym on hys righte hande in heauenly thinges, aboue *al rule, and power, and might, and dominion, and aboue euery name ỳ is named, not in thys worlde onely, but also in the worlde to come: and *hath put all thynges vnder hys fete, & hath made hym aboue all thinges the head of the congregation, whiche is hys bodye, and the fulnes of hym, that fylleth all in all.

The. ii. Chapter.

Paul sheweth them what manner of people they were before their conuersion, and what they are nowe in Christe.

AND you hath he quickened, where as ye were dead in tresspasses, and synnes, in the which *in tyme passed ye walked, accordyng to the course of thys worlde, euen after the gouerner that ruleth in the ayre, the spirite that nowe worketh in the chyldre of vnbeleue *amonge whome we all had our conuersacion also in tyme paste, in the lustes of oure flesshe, and fulfilled the wil of the flesshe, and of the mynde, and were by nature the chyldren of wrath, euen aswell as other.

But God which is riche in mercie, (for his greate loue wherwith he loued vs) euen when we were dead by synnes quickened vs together in Christe (*by grace are ye saued) and rayled vs vp together with him, and made vs sitte together with him amonge them of heauen in Christe Jesu. That in tymes to come, he might shewe ỳ excedyng riches of his grace, in kindnes to vs warde thorowe Christe Jesu. For by grace are ye made safe thorowe fayth, and that not of your selues. It is the gifte of God, and commeth not of workes, lest any man shoulde boast hym selfe. For we are hys workemanshippe, created in Christ Jesu vnto *good workes, which God ordeyned, that we shoulde walke in them.

Wherfore, remembre that ye beyng in time passed Gentils in the flesshe, were called vncircumcision from ỳ which is called *circumcision in the flesh, which circūcision is made by handes. Remember (I saie) ỳ at that time ye were without Christ, beyng aliantes from the commen welth of Israel, & straungers frō the testamētes of ỳ promes, hauing no hope, & being wout God in this worlde. But nowe by ỳ meanes of Christ Jesu, ye which sōtime were farre of, are made nye by the blonde of Christe.

For he is our peace, whiche hath made of both one, & hath broken doune the wall that was a stoppe betwene vs, and hathe also put away thorow his flesshe, the cause of hatred, euen the lawe of commaundementes contained in the lawe written, for to make of twayne one newe man in hym selfe, so makyng peace: & to reconcile bothe vnto God in one body thorowe the crosse, and slewe hatred therby, and came and preached peace to you which were afar of, & to them ỳ were nie. For thorowe him we bothe haue an entraunce in one spirite vnto the father.

*Nowe therfore ye are not straungers & forayners: but citizins with the saincte, and of the houshold of God: and are built vpō the *foundacion of the Apostles, and prophetes: Jesus Christe hym selfe being the head corner stone: in whom what buildyng soeuer is coupled together, it groweth vnto an holye temple in the Lorde, in whom ye also are built together, to be an habitaciō of God thorow ỳ (holy) ghost.

The. iii. Chapter.

He sheweth the cause of his emprisonment, desyreth them not to fayntre because of hys trouble, & prayeth God to make them stedfast in his spirite.

FOr thys cause, I Paul am a prisoner of Jesus Christe for you herthē: yf ye haue heard of the ministracion of the grace of GOD *which is geuen me to youward. For by reuelaciō shewed he ỳ mistery vnto me, as I wrote afore in fewe wordes, wherby whē ye rede, ye maie vnderstād my knowlage in ỳ mistery of Christ: which mistery in times passed was not opened vnto the sonnes of men, as it is now declared vnto his holy Apostles & prophetes by ỳ spirite: that the Gentyles shoulde be inheritours also,

also, and of the same bodie, and partakers of his promes in Christ, by the meanes of the gospel, wherof I am made a minister, according vnto the gyfte of the grace of God which is geuen vnto me after the working of hys power.

B Vnto me the* least of al sayntes is this grace geuē, that I should preache among the Gentyls the vnsearchable ryches of Christ: and to make al men se, what the fe-
*Ge.32.10.a lowshyp of the mistery is, which from the begynnyng of the worlde hath bene hyd in God, whiche made all thynges thorow Jesus Christe: to the intente, that nowe vnto the rulers and powers in heauenly thynges, myght be knowen by the congregacion, the manyfolde wysdome of God: according to ỳ eternal purpose, which he wrought i Christ Jesu our Lord, by whō we haue boldnes and entraunce with the confydence whiche is by the faith of hym.

+ Wherfore I desyre, that ye faynt not Coll.1.b. because of my tribulacions that I suffer for youre sakes, which is youre praise. For
C thys cause I bowe my knees vnto the father of our Lorde Jesus Christe, whiche is father ouer all ỳ is called father in heauen and in earth, that he woulde graunte you according to the riches of hys glory, that ye may be strengthed with might by his spyryte in the inner manne, that Christe may dwell in youre hartes by fayth, that ye beyng roted & grounded in loue, might be able to comprehende with al sainctes, what is ỳ bredth & length, depth & height: & to knowe the excellent loue of the knowlage of Christe, that ye might be fulfylled with al fulnes, which cōmeth of God. Vnto him ỳ is able to do exceadyng abundantly aboue al that we aske or thinke, according to the power that worketh in vs, be praise in the cōgregacio by Christ Jesu, thorowout al ages world wout end. Amē.

¶ The.v.Chapter. ✠

He exhorteth them vnto loue, warneth them to beware of all vnclennes. He teacheth howe wemen ought to obeye their husbandes, and howe louyngly men ought to intreate their wyues.

know: that no *whoremonger, either vn

For the frute of the spyrite consisteth in all goodnes and righteousnes and trueth. ✠ Searching what is acceptable vnto the Lord, ‡ haue no felowshyp with ỹ vnfrutthem. For it is shame euen to name those thinges which are done of thē in secrete:

but al thiges whē they are brought furth
by the light are manifest. For whatsoeuer is manifest, that same is light. Wherfore he sayth: awake thou ỹ slepest, ‡ stand vp

iection to their husbandes in al thynges.
ye husbandes, loue your wyues, euen as Christ also loued ỹ congregacion, ‡ gaue himselfe for it, to sanctifie it, ‡ clensed it in the fountaine of water through ỹ woorde,
to make it vnto himselfe a glorious con-gregacion, without spot or wrinkle, or any suche thyng: but ỹ it should be holy, ‡ without blame. So ought men to loue their wyues, as their owne bodyes. He ỹ loueth his wyfe loueth himselfe. For no man euer yet hated his owne flesshe: but nourysheth and cherysheth it, euen as the Lord doth the congregacion. For we are members of his body, of his flesshe, and of his bones. ‡ For this cause shall a man
leaue father and mother, and shalbe ioyned vnto his wyfe, ‡ of two shalbe made one flesshe. This is a great secrete, but I speake of Christ and of the congregaciō.
Neuertheles, doe ye so, that euery one commeth by Jesus Chzist, vnto the glorye and pzayse of God. ✣

I would ye shoulde vnderstande (bzethzen) that the thynges which happened
vnto me, chaunced vnto the great furthe-raunce of the gospel: So that my bandes

in

in Christe, are manifeste throwout all the iudgement hall, & in all other places: In so much ỹ many of the brethrẽ in the Lorde being encoraged throw my bandes, dare more boldely speake ỹ woord without feare. Some preache Christ of envy & stryfe, & some of good will. The one parte preache Christe of stryfe & not synceirely, supposyng to adde more aduersitie to my bandes. Agayn, the other part preache of loue, because they know that I am set to defende the Gospel.

C What then? So ỹ Christe be preached any maner of waye, whether it be by occasion, or of true meaning, I am gladde therof, yea & wil be glad. For I know, ỹ this shal chaunce to my saluacion, *throw your prayer and mynistryng of the spirite of Jesu Christe, accordyng to my expectacion, and hope, that in nothyng I shalbe ashamed: but ỹ with all boldenes (as alwais, euẽ so now also) Christ shal be magnifyed in my body, whether it be throw life, or throw deth. For Christ is to me life, & deth is to me auauntage. If it chaunce me to liue in the flesshe, that thing is to me fruitfull for the worke: and what I shall choose I wote not. For I am constrayned of these two thynges. *I desyre to be loused, and to bee with Christ: which is much & far better. Neuertheles to abyde in the flesshe, is more nedefull for you. And this am I sure of, that I shall abyde, & continue with you al, for your furtherannce and ioy of your fayth, ỹ your reioysing may be the more aboundaunt throw Jesus Christ in me, by my cumming to you agayne.

*Only let your conuersation be as it becummeth the Gospel of Christ: that whether I come and see you, or elles be absent, I may yet heare of your condicion, that ye continue in one spirite, and in one soule, labourynge as we dooe, to mayntayne the fayth of the Gospel, and in nothyng fearyng youre aduersaryes: which is to them a cause of perdicion, but to you of saluacion, and that of god: for vnto you it is geuẽ for Christ that not only ye should beleue on him, but also that ye should suffer for his sake: hauing euẽ such a fight as ye sawe in me, and nowe heare of me.

The. ii. Chapter.

He exhorteth them to vnitie, and brotherly loue, and to beware of stryfe and vayne glorye: and for a pure ensaumple, he layeth Christ before them.

If there be therefore any consolacion in Christ, if there be any confort of loue, if there be any felowshyp of the spirite, if ther be any compassion and mercy: fulfyll ye my ioy, that ye be lyke mynded, hauyng one loue, beyng of one accorde, & of one mind, ỹ nothyng be doen through stryfe or of vayne glorye, but in meekenesse of mynd, let euery man esteme another better then himselfe. *Looke not ye euerye manne on hys owne thynges, but euery man on the thinges that are other mens.

*Lette the same mynde be in you, that was also in Christ Jesu: which when he was in the shape of God, thought it no robbery to be equall with God: Neuertheles he made hymselfe of no reputacion, taking on him the shape of a seruant, and became lyke vnto menne, and was founde in hys apparell as a manne. He humbled hymselfe, and became obedient vnto the deathe, euen the deathe of the crosse. Wherfore God also hath exalted hym on hye, & geuen hym a name whiche is aboue all names: that in the name of Jesus *euery knee shoulde bowe, bothe of thinges in heauen, & thynges in earth, & thynges vnder the earth: and ỹ all tongues should confesse, ỹ Jesus Christ is ỹ lord, vnto the praise of god ỹ father.

Wherfore (my dearely beloued) as ye haue alwayes obeyed, not when I was present only, but now muchmore in mine absence, euen so worke out your owne saluacion with feare & trembling. *For it is God which worketh in you, both the will and also the dede, euen of good will. Dooe all thing without murmuring, and disputing, ỹ *ye may be suche as no man can complayne on: & vnfayned sonnes of god without rebuke, in ỹ mides of a croked & peruerse nacion: emong whom, see that ye shyne as lightes in the world, holding fast the woorde of life, ỹ I may reioice in the day of Christ, how ỹ I haue not runne in vayn, neither haue laboured in vayn. Yea & though I be offered vp vpon the offering & sacrifice of your fayth, I reioyce: and reioyce with you all. For the same cause also dooe ye reioyce, and reioyce with me.

I truste in the LORDE Jesus, for to sende * Timotheus shortelye vnto you, that I also maye be of good comfort, when I knowe what case ye stande in. For I haue no manne that is so lyke mynded to me, whiche with so pure affection will care for your matters. For all other seeke theyr owne, and not the thinges which are IESUS Christes. Ye knowe the proofe of hym, howe that as a sonne with the father, so hathe he with me bestowed hys seruyce in the Gospell. Hym therefore I hope to sende as soone as I knowe howe it will goe with me. I trust in the Lorde, that I also my selfe shall come shortlye.

D But I supposed it necessary to sende brother Epaphroditus vnto you, my companion in labour, & felow souldier, your apostle, which also ministreth vnto me at nede. For he longed after you al, & was ful of heuines, because that ye had heard say, that he had bene sycke. And no doubte he was sycke, in so much that he was nye vnto death. But God had mercy on him: & not on him onely, but on me also, lest I shoulde haue sorow vpon sorow. I sent hym therfore the more diligently, ỹ when ye se him, ye may reioice agayn: and that I may be the lesse sorowfull. Receiue him therefore in the Lorde with all gladnes, & *make much of such: Rom.16.d

For whome I haue counted al thing losse, and do iudge them but vyle, that I may winne Christ: & be found in hym, not hauing mine owne righteousnes of the law: but that which is thorow the fayth of Christe: euen the ryghteousnes whiche cummeth of God thorow fayth: that I may knowe hym, and the vertue of his resurrection, and ỹ felowshyp of hys passions, whyle I am conformable vnto hys (death) if by anye meanes I might attayn vnto the resurrection of the dead.

C Not that I haue atteyned vnto it alreadye, or that I am already perfecte: but I folow, if that I may comprehende that, wherin I am cōprehended of Christ Iesu. Brethren, I counte not my selfe that I haue gotten it as yet, but thys one thing I saye: I forgette those thynges whiche are behynde, & endeuour my selfe vnto those thinges whiche are before, & (according to the marke appoynted) I preace to the rewarde of the hye callyng of god thorow Christ Iesu. Let vs therfore as many as be perfect, be thus wise mynded: and if ye be otherwise minded, God shall open the same also vnto you.

D Neuertheles vnto ỹ which we haue attayned vnto, let vs procede by one rule, that we may be of one accorde.

The.iiii. Chapter.

He saluteth certayne of them, exhorteth them to be of honeste conuersacyon, and thanketh them because of the prouision, that they made for him being in prison.

I THerfore my brethren (dearly beloued & longed for) my ioy & croune, so continue in the Lorde ye beloued. I pray Euodias, and beseche Synteches, that they be of one accord in ỹ lord. Yea, and I beseche thee faythfull yokefelow, helpe the women whiche laboured with me in the gospel, & with Clement also, & with other my labour felowes, * whose names are in the boke of lyfe.

that

*Reioyce in the Lord alway, & agayn I say, reioyce. Let your softnes be knowen vnto all men. The lorde is euen at hande. Be carefull for nothyng: but in all prayer and supplicacion, let your petycions be manifest vnto God with geuing of thankes. And the peace of God (which passeth all vnderstandyng) keepe youre hertes & mindes thorow Christ Iesu. * Furthermore brethrē, whatsoeuer thinges are true, whatsoeuer thynges are honeste, whatsoeuer thynges are iust, whatsoeuer thinges are pure, whatsoeuer thinges are couenieme, whatsoeuer thinges are of honest report: if there be any vertue, if there be anye prayse (of seruyng) those same haue ye in youre mynde, whiche ye haue both learned & receiued, hearde also & seene in me: those thynges doe, & the god of peace shalbe with you.

I reioyce in the lord greatly, ỹ now at ỹ last your care is reuiued agayne for me, in that wherin ye were also carefull, but ye lacked opportunitie. I speake not because of neessitie: for I haue learned in whatsoeuer estate I am, * therewith to be content. I know how to be lowe, & I know how to excede. Euery where and in all thynges I am instructed, bothe to bee full, and to be hungrie: both to haue plentie and to suffre nede. I can doe all thinges thorow Christ, which strengtheneth me. Notwithstanding ye haue well doone, that ye bare parte with me in my tribulacion.

Ye of Philippos knowe also that in the beginning of the gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no congregacyon bare part with me, as concerning geuing and receiuing, but ye only. For when I was in Thessalonica, ye sēt once, and afterwarde agayne vnto my neeessitie: not that I desyre gifres: but I desyre abundant fruite on your part. Neuertheles, I receyued all, and haue plentie. I was euen filled after that I receiued of Epaphroditus the thinges, which were sente from you, an odoure of a swete smell, a * sacrifice accepted & pleasaunte to God. My God shal supply all your nede thorow his glorious riches by Jesu Christ. Vnto God and our father be prayse for euermore. Amen. Salute al the saintes in Christ Jesu. The brethrē which are with me, grete you. Al the saintes salute you, most of al they whiche are of the Emperours houshold. The grace of our lord Jesu Christ be with you al. Amen.

The Epistle of Saincte Paul the Apostle to the Colossians.

The first Chapter.

He geueth thankes vnto god for theyr faith, loue and hope: prayeth for theyr increase, and sheweth howe we are the kyngdome of God, obtayned by Christ, whiche is the head of the congregacion.

PAUL an Apostle of Jesu Christe, by the will of God, and brother Timotheus. To the saincte which are at Colossa, and brethren that beleue in Christ.

*Grace bee vnto you, and peace from God our father, and from the lorde Jesu Christ. * We geue thankes to god the father of our Lorde Jesus Christe * alwayes for you in ourre prayers. For we haue heard of your faith in Christ Jesu, & of ỹ loue which ye beare to al saintes, for the hopes sake whiche is layed vp in store for you in heauen: of whiche hope ye heard before by the true worde of the Gospel, which is come vnto you: euē as it is fruitefull (and groweth) as it is also among you, from the daye in the which ye heard of it, & had experience in the grace of god thorow ỹ truely, as ye learned of * Epaphra our dere felow seruaūt, which is for you a faithfull minister of Christ, whiche also declared vnto vs your loue whiche ye haue in the spirite.

*For this cause we also, sence the daye we heardr of it, haue not ceased to praye for you, and to desyre, ỹ ye might bee fulfilled with the knowledge of his wyll, in all wysdome and spirituall vnderstanding, that ye might walke worthy of the Lorde, that in all thinges ye maie please * beeyng fruitefull in all good wozkes, & encreasing in ỹ knowlage of God, strengthed with all myghte, thorowe his glorious power, vnto al pacience and longe suffering with ioyfulnes, geuing thankes vnto the father, whiche hath made vs mete to be partakers of ꝑ inheritaunce of sainctes in light. ꝑ

Which hath deliuered vs from the power of darknes, and hath translated vs into the kingdome of his dere sonne * by whom we haue redempcion thorow his bloude, euen the forgeuenes of synnes, * which is the ymage of the inuisible god, firste begotten of all creatures. ⁊ For by hym were all thynges created, that are in heauen, and that are in earthe, visible and inuisible, whether they bee maiestie or lordshyppe, eyther rule or power. All thinges were created by hym, ⁊ for him, and he is before all thinges, and by hym all thynges haue their beyng.

And * he is the head of the bodye, euen of the congregacion: he is the begynnyng and * firste begotten of the dead, that in all thinges he myghte haue the preemynence. For it pleased the father, that in hym shoulde all fulnes dwell, ⁊ by hym to * reconcyle all thynge vnto hymselfe, and to sette at peace by him thorow the bloud of his crosse, both thynges in heauen, and thinges in earth.

And you * which were sometime farre of and enemies, because your mindes were set in euill workes, hath he nowe yet reconcyled in the body of his flesh thorow death, to make you holy and vnblameable, ⁊ without faut in his own sight, if ye continue grounded ⁊ stablished in the fayth, and be not moued away from the hope of ꝑ gospel, wherof ye haue heard howe that it is preached among all creatures whiche are vnder heauen, wherof I Paul am made a minister.

Nowe ioy I * in my sufferinges for you, and fulfil that whiche is behynde of the passions of Christ in my flesh, for his bodies sake, which is the congregacion: wherof I am made a minister, according to ꝑ ordinaūce of god: which ordinaunce was geuen me vnto youward, to fulfil ꝑ word of god, ꝑ * mistery whiche hath bene hyd sence the worlde began, ⁊ sence ꝑ begynnyng of generacions: but now is opened to his sainctes, to whom god would make known what the glorious riches of thys misterye is emong the Gentiles, whiche riches is Christe in you, ꝑ hope of glory, whom we preache, warnynge all menne, and teachynge all menne in all wisedome, to make all men perfect in Christe Jesu. Wherin I also labour and stryue, euen as farforth as his strength worketh in me myghtely.

The. ii. Chapter.

What great care ꝑ Paul toke for all congregacions. He exhorteth them to be stedfast in Christe, to beware of false teachers and worldely wysedome, and describeth the false prophetes.

For I would that ye knew how great care that I haue for you, ⁊ for them that are at Laodicia, ⁊ for as many as haue not seene my person in the flesche, ꝑ their heartes might be confirted when they are knitte together in loue, ⁊ in al riches of full vnderstandyng, for to know the mistery of God the father, and of Christe, in whom are hid all the treasures of wisedom and knowledge. * Thys I saye, lest any man should beguile you with entysing wordes. For though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirite, ioying and beholdyng youre order, and youre stedfast fayth in Christ.

As ye haue therfore receyued Christe Jesu the Lord, euen so walke ye in hym: so ꝑ ye be rooted and built in hym, ⁊ stablished thorow faith, as ye haue lerned: and therein bee plenteous with geuyng thankes. * Beware leste any man spoile you thorow philosophie, ⁊ discreatfull vanitie, after the tradicion of men, ⁊ after the ordinaunces of the worlde, ⁊ not after Christ. For in hym dwelleth al the fulnes of the godhed bodily, and ye are complete in him, which is the head of all rule and power, by whome also ye are circumcised, with circumcision which is done without handes, for asmuche as ye haue putte of the synfull bodye of the flesche thorow the circumcisyon that is in Christ, in that * ye are buried with him thorow baptisme, in whome ye are also risen agayne thorow fayth, that is wroughte by the operacyon of God, which rayled hym from death.

* And ye when ye were dead thorow sinne, ⁊ through ꝑ vncircumcision of youre flesche, hath he quickened with hym, and hath forgeuen vs all our trespasses, and hath putte out the hande writyng that was against vs, conteined in ꝑ law written: ⁊ that hath he taken out of the way and hath fastened it to hys crosse, ⁊ hath spoyled rule and power, and hath made a shewe of them openly, and hath triumphed

phed ouer them in his owne persone. Lette no manne therfore trouble your conscience about meat and drinke, or for a piece of an holye daye, or of the newe moone, or of the Sabboth daies, ‡ which are shadowes of things to come: but the body is in Christ.

D Lette no man make you shote at a wrong marke, by the humblenesse and holinesse of angels, in the thinges which he neuer sawe, being causelesse puffte vp with his fleshlye minde, and holdeth not the heade, whereof al ỳ body by ioyntes and couples receiueth nourishement, and is knyt together, and encreaseth with the increasing that commeth of God. Wherefore, yf ye bee dead wyth Christ fró the ‡ ordinaunces of the worlde, why as though ye yet liued in the worlde, are ye ledde with tradicions? Touche not, taste not, handell not: whiche all perishe throughe the verye abuse, after the commaundementes and doctrines of menne: whiche thinges outwardelye haue the symilitude of wisedom by superstition, and humblenesse of mynde, and by hurtyng of ỳ body, and in that thei do the flesh no worshyp vnto the nede thereof.

The .iii. Chapter. ✠

He putteth them in remembraunce of the spirituall resurrection, to laye aside all maner of corrupte lyuyng, to be fruitefull in all godlines and vertue: and sheweth all degrees theyr dueтye.

A IF ye be then risen again wt Christ, seeke those thynges whiche are aboue, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affection on heauenlye thynges, and not on earthye thinges. For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christe in God.

When soeuer Christ (whiche is oure life) shall shewe hymselfe, then shal ye also appeare with hym in glorye. Mortifye therfore your earthye members: fornicacion, vnclennes, vnnaturall luste, enyll concupiscence, ¶ couetousnesse, whiche is worshipping of idols: for whiche thinges sake the wrathe of God vseth to come on the disobediẽt children * amõg whom ye walked sometime, when ye liued in them. ỳ

B But now put ye also awaye from you all suche thinges: wrath, fearcelesse, maliciousnes, cursed speakyng, filthy communicacion out of your mouth. Lye not one to another, seeyng that ye haue putte of the olde man with his workes, and haue put on ỳ newe men whiche is renued into ỳ knowlage ¶ image of him that made him: where as neither Gentile nor Iewe, circumcision nor vncircumcisiõ, Barbarous or Scithiã, bond or fre: but Christ is al in al thynges.

+ Therfore as elect of God, holy and beloued, put on tender mercy, kindenesse, humblenes of mind, meknes, long sufferyng, forbearynge one another, and forgeuyng one another, if any man haue a quarell against another: as Christ forgaue you, euẽ so doo ye. Aboue all these thinges put on louer, whiche is the bonde of perfectenes. And ỳ peace of God rule in youre heartes, to the which peace ye are called in one body. And se ỳ ye be thankful. Let ỳ word of Christ dwel in you plenteously, wt al wisedome. Teache and exhorte your owne selues, * in Psalmes, and hymnes, and spyrytuall songes, singyng with grace in youre heartes to the Lorde. And ‡ whatsoeuer ye doo (in worde or dede) doe all in the name of ỳ Lorde Iesu, geuing thankes to God the father by hym. ỳ

* Ye wiues submitte yourselues vnto your owne housebandes, as it is comlye in ỳ lord: ye housbandes, loue your wiues: ‡ be not bitter vnto them. * Ye children, obey your fathers and mothers in al thynges, for that is well pleasyng vnto ỳ Lord. Ye fathers, prouoke not your children, (to anger) lest they bee of a desperate mynde.

D

* Ye seruauntes, be obediente vnto them ỳ are youre bodilye maisters in all thynges: not with eye seruyce as menne pleasers, but in singlenes of hearte fearyng God. And whatsoeuer ye doo, doo it hartely, as thoughe ye dyd it to the Lord, and not vnto menne: knowyng that of the Lorde ye shall receyue ỳ reward of inheritaunce: for ye serue ỳ Lord Christ. But he ỳ doth synne, shal receiue for his synne. ‡ Neyther is there any respecte of persones (with God.)

The .iiii. Chapter.

He exhorteth them to bee feruente in prayer. to walke wisely vnto them that are not yet come to ỳ true knowlage of Christ, and saluteth them.

MAisters, * do vnto youre seruauntes that whiche is iuste and equall, knowyng that ye also haue a master in heauen. * Continue in prayer, ‡ watch in the same wt thankes geuing, prayyng also for vs: that god may open vnto vs the doore of vtterance, ỳ we may speake this mistery of Christ (wherfore I am also in bondes) that I may vtter it as it becommeth me to speake.

The first Epistle of Saincte Paule the Apostle to the Thessalonians.

The first Chapter.

He thanketh god for them, that they are so stedfast in fayeth and good workes, and receyue the gospell wyth suche earnestnes.

PAULE, and Siluanus & Timothe. Unto the congre- I gacio of the Thessalonias, in GOD the father, and in the Lorde Jesus Christe. ‡Grace be vnto you, and
1 Thes. 1 peace from God oure father, and from the 1. Cor. 1 Lorde Jesus Christe. 2. Cor. 1 Gala. 1

We geue God thankes *alwaye for Ephe. 1 you all, makynge mencion of you in oure *Rom. 1 prayers without ceasyng and call you to Phil. 1 remembraunce because of the woorke of Ephe. 1 youre fayethe, and labour in loue, and be Colo. 1 cause ye haue contynued in the hope * of 1. Thes. 1 oure Lorde Jesus Christe, in the syght of *1. Tim. 1 B God oure father. We knowe brethren (beloned of God) how that ye are elect.

For oure Gospell came not vnto you by *woorde onelye, but also by power, and 1. Cor. 2. a by the holy goste: and by muche certayntye as ye knowe, after what maner wee be- 1. Thes. 2. a haued oure selues emonge you, for youre sake. And ye became folowers of vs and of C the Lorde, receyuynge the woorde wyth muche affliccyon, wyth ioye of the holye goste: so that ye were an ensaumple to all that beleue in Macedonia and Achaia.

For from you sounded out the woorde of the Lorde, not in Macedonia and in Achaia onelye: but youre fayth also whiche ye haue vnto God, spred her selfe abroade B in all quarters, so that it nedeth not vs to speake any thing at all. For they them selues shewe of you, what maner of entrynge in wee had vnto you: and howe ye turned to God from images, for to serue the lyuing and true God, and for to loke for his sonne from *heauen, whō he rayſed from death: *Acte. 3 euen Jesus, whiche deliuereth vs from ‡Job. 3 the wrath to come.

The. ii. Chapter.

C He putteth them in mind of the godly conuersacion that he led among them (when he preached the Gospell vnto them,) thanketh God that they receiue his word so fruitfully, & exhorteth thē abidinge.

For

A FOr ye your selues (*brethren) know of our entraunce in vnto you, howe that it was not in vaine: but euen after that wee had suffered before, and were *shamefully entreated at Philippos (as ye know) then were we bolde in our God, to speake vnto you the Gospell of God, in *much stryuynge. For oure exhortacion was not to bryng you to errour, nor yet to vnclennesse, neyther was it with guile, but as we were alowed of God, that the Gospell shoulde bee committed vnto vs: euen so wee speake, not as they that *please men, but God, which trieth our hartes.

B Neither led we our conuersacion at anytime wyth flatteryng woordes, as ye know we: neyther by occasion of couetousnes. *God is recorde: neyther soughte wee prayse of men, neither of you, nor yet of any other, when we might haue bene in authoritie, as the Apostles of Christe: but we were tender emong you, euen as a nourse cherisheth her children, so were wee affectioned toward you: oure good wyll was to haue dealte vnto you, not the Gospell of God onely: but also oure owne soules, because ye were dere vnto vs.

C Ye remember brethren oure labour and trauayle. *For we laboured daye and night, because we would not be chargeable vnto anye of you, & preached vnto you the Gospell of God. Ye are witnesses, and so is God, how holily and iustly, & vnblameably wee behaued oure selues amonge you that beleued, as ye know, howe þ wee bare such affection vnto euery one of you, as a father doth vnto children: exhorting, conforting, and beseching you, þ ye would walke worthye of God, which hath called you vnto his kingdome and glory.

For this cause thanke we God also wythoute ceassyng, because that when ye receyued of vs the word (where w ye learned to know God) ye receiued it not as the word of manne: but euen as it was in dede, the woorde of God, whiche woorketh also in you that beleue. For ye brethren became followers of þ cõgregacõs of god, which in Iewrye are in Christe Iesu: for ye haue suffered like thinges of youre kynsmen, as we our selues haue suffered of the Iewes. Whiche as they killed the Lorde Iesus, & theyr owne prophetes, euen so haue they persecuted vs: and god thei please not, and are contrary to al men, and hinder vs, that wee shoulde not speake vnto the Gentiles, that they myghte bee saued, to fulfyll theyr synnes alwaye. For *the wrathe of God is come on them, euen to the vtmoste.

For asmuche brethren as we are kept from you for a season, as concernyng the bodily presence, (but not in the hearte) wer enforced the more to see you personallye w greate desyre. And therefore wee woulde haue come vnto you, I Paule once and agayne: * but Satan withstoode vs. For what is oure hope of ioye, or croune of reioysinge? * are not ye it in the presence of our Lord Iesus Christ at his comminge yes, ye are oure glorye and ioye.

The .iii. Chapter.

He sheweth how greatly he was reioyced, when Timothe tolde him of their fayth and loue.

WHerefore, seinge wee could no longer forbeare, we thought it good to remayne *at Athes alone, & sent Timothe our brother and minister of God, and the helper forth of our labour in þ Gospell of Christe, to stablishe you: and to comforte you, concernyng oure faythe, *that no manne shoulde be moued in these afflictions. For ye your selues know that we are euen apointed therunto. For when we were with you, we tolde you before þ wee shoulde suffer tribulacion, euen as it came to passe, and as ye know. For thys cause when I coulde no longer forbeare, I sent that I might haue knowlage of youre faithe, leste by some meanes the tempter had tempted you, and leste oure labour had bene bestowed in vayne.

But nowe lately, when Timothe came from you vnto vs, & declared to vs youre faith and youre loue, and how that ye haue good remembraunce of vs alwayes, desyrynge to se vs, as we also desyre to see you: Therefore brethren we receyued consolacion by you, in al oure aduersity, & necessitie, through your faith. For now are we aliue, if ye stand stedfast in the Lord. For what thankes can we recompence to God agayn for you, ouer all the ioye that wee ioye for your sakes before our God, prayinge nighte and daye exceadinglye, that we myght see you presently, and might fulfil the thinges whiche are lackyng vnto your fayth.

God himselfe our father, and our Lorde Iesus Christe, shal gyde oure iourney vnto you: the Lorde also shall encrease you and make you flowre ouer in loue one towarde another, & towarde al men, euen as we do toward you: þ he may make youre hartes stable and vnblameable, in holines before God oure father, at the comminge of oure

Lorde Jesus Christe, with all saintes.

The.iiii. Chapter.

He exhorteth them to stedfastnes, to kepe themselues from synne and vnclenly conuersacion, to loue one another: vnbraideth idlines, and speaketh of the resurrection.

A IFurthermore, ✝we beseche you (brethē) ✝exhort you by ✝ Lord Jesus, that ye encrease more ✝ more, euē as ye haue receiued of vs, howe ye ought to walke and to please God. For ye knowe what commaundemētes we gaue you by our Lorde Jesu Christ. For this is the wil

¶ The firste Epistle vnto the Thessalonians was written from Athens.

¶ The second Epistle of Saincte Paule the Apostle to the Thessalonians.

The first Chapter.

He thanketh God for theyr fayth and loue, and prayeth for the encrease of the same.

PAULE, and Siluanus & Timotheus. Vnto þ cōgregatiō of the Thessalonians, in GOD our father, and in the Lorde Jesus Christe. * Grace bee vnto you, and peace from God oure father, and from the Lorde Jesus Christe.

We are bounde to thanke God al wayes for you brethren (as it is mete) because þ your fayth groweth exceedingly, & euerye one of you swimmeth in loue toward another bet weene youreselues, so that wee oure selues boast of you in the congregacions of God, ouer your patience, and faith in all your persecucions and tribulacions þ ye suffer, whiche is a token of the righteous iudgemente of God, that ye are counted worthie of the kingdome of God, for which ye also suffer. It is verely a righteous thing with god, þ he recompēce tribulacion to thē þ trouble you: & to you which are troubled, rest with vs, when the Lord Jesus shal shewe hymselfe from heauen with the angels of his power, with flamming fire, whiche shall render vengeaunce vnto them that knowe not God * and that obey not the Gospell of oure Lorde Jesus Christe, & whiche shalbee punished with euerlastynge damnacion, from the presence of the Lorde, and from the glorye of hys power: * when he shall come to bee glorified in his saincte̅s, and to become meruailous in al them þ beleue: because our testimonie that wee had to you, was beleued euen þ same day. & Wherfore also, we praye alwaies for you, that oure God wil make you woorthie of this calling, and fulfill all delectacion of goodnes, and the woorke of fayth with power: that the name of oure Lord Jesus Christe may bee glorified by you, and ye by him, according to the grace of our god, and of the lord Jesus Christ.

The.ii. Chapter.

¶ He sheweth them that the daye of the Lord shall not come, tyll the departyng from the fayth come first: and therefore he exhorteth them not to be deceyued, but to stande stedfast in the thynges that he hath taughte them.

WE beseche you (brethren) by the comming of oure Lorde Jesu Christe, and ... in that wee shall assemble vnto hym, þ ye be not sodenly moued frō your mind, nor bee troubled, neither by spyrite, neither by woordes, nor yet by letter, which should seme to come from vs, as though þ day of Christ wer at hād. Let no mā deceiue you by any meanes, for the lord shall not come, excepte there come * a departyng firste: and that that sinful manne be opened, the sonne of perdicion, whiche is an aduersarie: and is exalted aboue all that is called God, or that is worshipped: so that he doeth sytte * in the temple of God, boasting himselfe to be God.

Remember ye not, that when I was yet wyth you, I tolde you these thynges? And nowe ye knowe what withholdeth: euen that he might be vttered at his tyme. * For the misterye of the iniquitie dothe al ready worke: tyll he whiche now onely letteth, be taken out of the waie. And thē shal that wicked be vttered, & whome the Lord shal consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroye with the appearaunce of his comming, euen him whose comming is after the woorkynge of Satan wyth all lyeng power, * signes, and woonders, and with all deceiuablenesse of vnrighteousnes, among them that perishe: because they receyued not the loue of the truethe, that they might bee saued. * And therfore God shall sende them stronge delusion, that they should beleue lyes: that all they might be damned, whiche beleued not the truthe, but had pleasure in vnrighteousnes. But wee are bounde to geue thankes alwaye

alwaye to God for you (bretheren beloued of the Lorde) for becauſe that God hathe from the begynnyng choſen you to ſaluacion, throughe ſanctifyyng of the ſpirite, and through beleuing of the truth, wherevnto he called you by our Goſpell to obtain the glory of our Lorde Jeſu Chriſt.

Therefore bretheren ſtande faſte, and D kepe the ordinaunces which ye haue learned: whether it were by our preachyng, or by Epiſtle. Our Lorde Jeſu Chriſte himſelfe, and God oure father (which hath loued vs, and hath geuē vs euerlaſtyng cōſolacion, and good hope throughe grace) comforte your heartes, and ſtablyſhe you in all good ſayyng and doyng.

The.iii. Chapter.

He deſireth them to praye for him, that the goſpell may proſper, and geueth them warnyng to reproue the rebellious yf they will not labour wyth their handes that they ſhall not eate.

FVrthermore bretheren praye ye for vs, *that the woorde of God may haue paſſage, and be glorified, as it is alſo with you: and that wee maye be deliuered from vnreaſonable and frowarde menne. For all menne haue not faithe, but the Lorde is faythfull, which ſhall ſtablyſh you, and preſerue you from euyll.

We haue confidence throughe the Lorde towarde you that ye bothe doo, and will doo the thynges which wee commaunde you. And the Lorde gide your heartes to ꝑ loue of god, and to the pacient waiting for Chriſt. We require you bretherē by ꝑ name of our Lorde Jeſu Chriſt ꝑ ye withdraw your ſelues frō euerye brother, that behaueth himſelfe inordinatly, and not after the inſtitution whiche he receyued of vs. For ye youre ſelues knowe, how ye ought to folow vs. For we behaued not oure ſelues inordinatlye among you. Neyther toke we bred of any mā for naught: but wrought wt labor and ſwete night and day, becauſe wee would not be chargeable to anye of you: not but that we had auctoritie, but to make our ſelues an enſample vnto you, to folowe vs. For when wee were with you, this we warned you of, that if any would not worke, the ſame ſhoulde not eate.

For we haue heard ſaye, that there are ſome which walke among you inordinatlye, worcyng not at all, but beryng buſibodies. Them that are ſuche, we commaund and exhort, by oure Lord Jeſu Chriſte, ꝑ they worke with quietnes, and eate their owne breade: *Brethren bee not ye weerye in well dooyng. If anye manne obeye not our ſayyng, ſende vs woorde of hym by a letter: and * haue no cumpany wyth him, that he maye be aſhamed. And counte him not as an enemye: but warne hym as a brother. The very Lord of peace geue you peace alwayes, by all meanes. The Lord bee wyth you all. The ſalutation of me Paule, with mine owne hand. This is the token in all Epiſtles. So I write. * The grace of oure Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with you all. Amen.

The firſt Epiſtle
Of Saincte Paule to Timothe.
The fyrſte Chapter.

He exhorteth Timothe to wayte vpon his office: namely, to ſee that nothyng bee taught but Gods word. He ſheweth alſo wherefore the lawe is good, & reſteth that Chriſte Jeſus came into the worlde, to ſaue ſynners.

PAVLE an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſte, * by the commiſſion of god our ſauioure, and Lord Jeſus Chriſte, whiche is our * hope.

Vnto † Timothe hys naturall ſonne in the fayth.

*Grace, mercye, and peace, from God our father, and from the Lorde Jeſus Chriſt, our Lorde.

As I beſoughte the to abide ſtyll at Epheſus (when I departed into *Macedonia) euen ſo do, ꝑ thou commaund ſome that they folow no ſtraunge doctryne, neither geue hede * to fables and endleſſe genealogies, which brede doubtes more then godlye edifiyng, whiche is by faythe: for the ende of the commaundement is, *loue out of a ꝑure heart, and of a good conſcience, and of faith vnfained: from the which thynges, becauſe ſome haue erred, they are turned vnto vaine langeling, becauſe they woulde bee doctoures of the law, and yet vnderſtand not what they ſpeake, neyther whereof they affyrme.

We know, that * the law is good, yf a manne vſe it lawfullye: knowyng thys, thowe that the lawe is not geuen vnto a righteous mā, but vnto the vnrighteous and diſobediente, to the vngodlye and to ſynners, to vnholye and vncleane, to murthorers

owne house, howe shall he care for the con-

The elders that rule wel, are worthy of double honour, moste specially ye they which labour in the worde, & teaching. For the scripture sayth: *thou shalt not muzzel the mouth of the oxe that treadeth out the corne. And: the labourer is worthy of his rewarde. Agaynst an elder receiue none accusacion: but *vnder two or three witnesses. Them that synne, rebuke openly, that other also maye feare.

I testifye before God & the lorde Jesus Christ, & the elect angels, that thou obserue these thynges without hastines of iudgement, and do nothing partially. *Lay handes sodenly on no man, neither be partaker of other mens synnes: kepe thy selfe pure. Drynke no longer water, but vse a litle wyne for thy stomackes sake, and thyne often diseases.

Some mens sinnes are open before hand, and goe before vnto iudgemēt, and some mens synnes folow after. Like wise also good workes are manifest before hand, & they that are otherwise, cannot be hid.

The.vi.Chapter.

The duetye of seruauntes towarde their maysters. Agaynst suche as are not satisfyed wyth the worde of God. Agaynste couetousnes. A good lesson for ryche men.

LEt as many *seruantes as are vnder the yoke, counte theyr maisters worthy of all honor, that the name of God and his doctrine be not euil spoken of. See that they whiche haue beleuyng maisters, despise them not, because they are brethrē: but rather do seruice, forasmuch as they are beleuing and beloued, and partakers of the benefite.

These thinges teache and exhort. *If any manne folow other doctrine, & entende not vnto the wholesome wordes of our Lord Jesu Christ, & to ye doctrine which is according to godlines, he is puft vp, and knoweth nothyng: but wasteth hys braines about questiōs & *strife of wordes, wherof spring eny, strife, railinges, euill surmysynges, vayne disputacion of men that haue corrupte myndes, and that are *robbed of the trueth: whiche thinke that lucre is godlines. From the that are suche, separate thy selfe. Godlynes is great riches *if a man be content with that he hath. For we brought nothing into the worlde, neyther maye we cary any thing out.

But when we haue fode & rayment, we must therwith be contēt. They that will be ryche, fall into temptacion & snares, (of the deuil) and into many foolyshe & noysome lustes, which drowne men into perdicion & destruccion. For couetousnes of money is the rote of al euil: which while some lusted after, they erred from the faith, & tangled themselues with manye sorowes. But thou mā of god, flye such thinges. Folow righteousnes, godlines, faith, loue, patience, mekenes. Fighte the good fight of faith: Lay hand on eternal life, whereunto thou arte also called, and hast professed a good profession before many witnesses. I geue thee charge in ye syghte of God *whiche quickeneth all thinges, and before Jesu Christe (which vnder Pōcius Pilate witnessed a good witnessing) that thou kepe the commaūdemente, and be without spot, and vnreprouable, vntyll the appearyng of oure Lorde Jesus Christ *which appearing (in hys tyme) he shall shewe, that is blessed and mightye onely, kyng of kynges, and lorde of lordes, whiche onelye hath immortalitie, and dwelleth in the lyght that no man can attayne, *whom no man hath sene, neyther can se, vnto whom be honour and rule euerlasting. Amen.

Charge them whiche are ryche in this worlde, that they be not hye minded, nor *trust in vncertayne riches, but in the liuyng God (which geueth vs aboūdantly all thinges to enioye them:) that they do good, ye they be riche in good workes, that they be ready to geue, and gladly to distribute *laying vp in store for themselues a good foundacion agaynst the tyme to come, ye they may obtaine eternal lyfe.

O Timothe, saue that whiche is geuen thee to kepe, and auoyde vngostly vanities of voyces & oppositions of science, falsely so called, which sciēce while some professed, they erred as concerning the fayth. Grace be with thee. Amen.

2. Tim. 2. b

* Se that thou haue the ensample of the holesome wordes, which thou hast herd of me with faith & loue, that is in Christ Jesu. That good thing, whiche was cõmitted to thy keping, holde fast through the holy goste, whiche dwelleth in vs. This ꝑ knowest, how ꝑ all they whiche are in Asia, bee turned frõ me. Of which sort are Phigelus, & Hermogenes. The Lord geue mercy vnto the household of Onesiphorus, for he oft refreshed me, * and was not ashamed of my chayn: but whẽ he was at Rome, he sought me out very diligently, and found me. The lord graunt vnto him, ꝑ he may fynde mercye with the lorde at that day. And in howe manye thynges he ministred vnto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very wel.

Mat. 25. Rom. 15.

The. ii. Chapter.

Like as in the firste Chapter, so here he exhorteth him to be constant in trouble, to suffer martyr, and to abyde fast in the wholesome doctrine of our lorde Jesus Christe.

¶ THou therefore my sonne, bee strong in the grace (that is thorow Christe Jesu) and in the thinges that thou hast hearde of me by many witnesses: the same commit thou vnto faythfull men, whiche shalbe apte to teache other also. Thou therfore suffer afflictions, as a good souldiour of Jesu Christ. No man that warreth, entangleth himself with worldly busines, & that because he may please him, whith hath chosen him to bee a souldiour. And though a man striue for a mastery, yet is he not crowned, except he striue lawfully. * The housbãdman that laboreth, must firste receyue of the frutes. Consider what I saye. The Lorde geue thee vnderstanding in all thinges.

B Remẽbre that Jesus Christ of the sede of Dauid, rose agayn from death accordyng to my gospel, wherin I suffre trouble as an euill doer, euen vnto bondes. But the word of God was not bounde. Therefore I suffer al thinges, for the elect sakes, that they might also obtayne that saluacion, which is in Christe Jesu with eternall glory. It is a true sayyng, * for if we be dead with hym, we shal also liue with hym. If we be paciente we shall also raygne with hym. * If we denye hym, he also shal denye vs. If we beleue not, yet abydeth he faythfull. He cannot denye himself. before the lord, that they folow no contencious wordes, which are to no profit, but to the peruerting of the hearers.
Study to shewe thy selfe laudable vnto God, a workeman that needeth not to be ashamed, distributyng the worde of trueth iustly. * As for vngodly vanities of voyces, passe thou ouer the. For they wil encrease vnto greatter vngodlinesse, and theyr wordes shall freate euen as doeth the dysease of a canere: of whose nũbre is Hymeneus & Philetus, whiche (as concernyng the trueth) haue erred: saying that þ resurrection is past alcea-dy, and doe destroye the fayth of some.
But the sure grounde of God standeth still, and hath this seale: * the lorde knoweth them that are hys. And lette euery manne that calleth on þ name of Christ, depart from iniquitie. Notwithstãding * in a great house are not onely vesselles of golde & of siluer, but also of wood & of earth: some for honour, and some vnto dishonour. If a man therfore pourge hymselfe from suche menne, he shalbe a vessell sanctifyed vnto honoure, mete for þ vses of the Lord, and prepared vnto al good workes: Lustes of youth auoide, but folow righteousnes, fayth, loue and peace, with them that call on the Lorde with a pure hearte: * foolyshe and vnlearned questions put from thee, knowing that they do but engendre strife. The seruaunte of the Lorde must not stryue: but bee gentle vnto all menne, * apte to teache, and one that can suffer the euyll with mekenes, & can̄enforme them that resyste (the trueth) if that God at anye tyme wil geue thẽ repentaũce, for to know þ truth: & that they may come to thẽselues agayne out of the snare of þ deuil, which are holden captiue of hym at hys will.

The. iii. Chapter.

De prophecieth of the perilous times, setteth out hipocrites. Persecution for the Gospel.

THys knowe, that in the laste dayes shall come perilous times. For men shalbe louers of theyr owne selues, couetous, boasters, proude, cursed speakers, disobedient to fathers & mothers, vnthankfull, vngodly, vnkynde, trucebreakers, false accusars, ryotours, fearse, despysers of thẽ whiche are good traytours, heady, hie minded, gredy vpon voluptuousnes more then þ louers of God, hauing a similitude of godlines, but haue denied þ power therof: and such abhorre. For of this sort are they, which entre into houses, & bring into bondage women laden with sinne: which womẽ are led wt diuerse lustes, euer learning, & neuer able to come vnto the knowlage of the truth.
* As Iames and Iambres withstode Moses: euen so doe these also resyst the trueth: menne they are of corrupte myndes, and leude, as concernyng the fayth: but they shal preuayl no lõger. For their madnes shalbe vttered vnto al men euen as theirs was. But thou hast seene the experience of my doctryne, fashion of liuing, purpose, faith, long suffering, loue, pacience, persecucions, and afflictions, which happened vnto me at Antioche, at Iconium, and at Listra: which persecucions I suffered paciẽtly. And from them all, the lorde delyuered me. Yea and all they þ wil liue godly in Christ Iesu shal suffre persecutiõ. But the euil men & deceauers shal wexe worse & worse, while they deceiue and are deceiued thẽselues. But continue thou in the thinges whiche thou hast learned, which also were committed vnto thee, knowing of whõ thou hast learned them, and forasmuche also as of a child þ hast known þ holy scriptures, which are able to make thee learned vnto saluaciõ thrugh þ faith which is in Christe Iesu. All scripture geuen by inspiracion of God, is profitable to teache, to improue, to amende, and to instruct in righteousnes, that the manne of God may be perfecte, and prepared vnto all good woorkes.

The. iiii. Chapter.

De exhorteth Timothe to be feruent in the worde, and to suffer aduersitie: maketh mencion of his owne death, & biddeth Timothe come vnto him.

The first Chapter.

Howe God dealt louyngly with them of the olde tyme in sendyng them hys Prophetes, but muche more mercyfully hath he shewed vs, in ꝑ he sent vs hys owne sonne. Of the moste excellent glory of Iesus Christe, whiche in all thynges is lyke to his father.

Are they not all ministryng spyrites, that are sent to minister, for theyr sakes whiche shalbe heyres of saluacion?

The. ii. Chapter.

He exhorteth vs to bee obedient vnto the newe lawe whiche Christ hath geuen vs, and not to be offended at the infirmite and lowe degree of Christe, because it was necessary ꝑ for our sakes he shoulde take suche an humble state vpon him, that he might be lyke vnto his brethren.

A Herfore, we ought to gene the more earnest hede to ꝑ thinges ꝑ are spoken vnto vs, lest at any time we perishe. For yf ꝑ worde whiche was spoken by angels was stedfast: and euery transgression and disobedience receaued a iust recōpence of rewarde: how shall we escape, yf we despise so great saluacion, whiche at the first began to bee preached of the Lorde hym selfe, and was confirmed vnto vs warde, by them that hearde it? *God bearyng wytnes therto, both with signes & wonders also, & with diuers myracles, and gyftes of the holy ghoste accordyng to hys owne wyll.

For vnto the angels hath he not subdued ꝑ world to come, wherof we speake. But one in a certayne place witnessed, saying: *What is man that thou art mynde full of hym: Or the sonne of manne, that
B thou visitest hym? Thou madest hym a lytle lower thē the angels: thou hast crouned him with honour and glory, and *hast set hym aboue the worckes of thy handes. Thou hast putte all thynges in subiection vnder hys fete. In that he putte al thinges vnder hym, he lefte nothyng that is not put vnder hym. Neuertheles we se not yet all thinges subdued vnto hym: but hym that was made lesse then the angels, wer se that it was Jesus, whiche is crouned with glory and honour for the sufferynge of death: that he by the grace of GOD, shoulde taste of death for all menne.
C For it became hym (for whom are all thynges, and by whom are all thynges (after that he had brought many sonnes vnto glory) that he shoulde make the Lorde of their saluacio perfect through afflictions. For both he ꝑ sanctifieth, & they which are sanctified, are al of one. For whiche causes sake he is not ashamed to call them brethren, saying: I will declare thy name vnto my brethren, in the middes of the congregacion will I prayse thee. And again, I wil put my truste in hym. And agayne, behold, here am I, and the children whom GOD hath geuen me.

For as muche then as the children are D partakers of flesche and bloud, he also him selfe lyke wise toke parte with them, that (through death) he might expell him that had lordship ouer death, that is to saye the deuell, and that he might deliuer them, whiche throughe feare of death were all their life time subdued vnto bondage. For he in no place taketh on hym the angels: but the sede of Abraham taketh he on hym. Wherfore, in all thynges it became hym to bee made like vnto hys brethren, that he might bee mercifull, and a faithfull hie prieste in thynges concernyng GOD, for to purge the peoples synnes. For in that he fortuned hymselfe to bee tempted, he is able to succoure them also that are tempted.

The. iii. Chapter.

He requireth vs to be obedient vnto the word of Christ, which is more worth then the ceremonial lawe of Moyses. The punishment of suche as wyll neades harden their hartes.

Herfore holy brethrē, partakers A of the celestiall calling, consider the ambassadour and hie prieste of our profession, Christ Jesus: how ꝑ he is faithefull vnto him ꝑ put him in the office, euē as was Moses in al hys house. For loke how muche honoure he (ꝑ hath buylded a house) hath more then the house it selfe: So muche honoure is he coumpted worthy of more then Moses. For euery house is builded of some man. But he that ordayned all thinges, is God. And Moses verely was faythefull in all his house, as a minister, to beare witnes of those thynges whiche were to bee spoken afterwarde. But Christe as a sonne hathe rule ouer the house, whose house are we, yf wee holde faste the confidence *and the re- *Rom. 5. a joysyng of that hope vnto the ende.
Wherefore (as the holy ghoste sayeth) to daye yf ye will heare his voyce, harden B not youre hearttes, as in the prouokynge, in the daye of temptacion in the wylder-nesse, where youre fathers tempted me, proued me, and sawe my workes fourty yere. Wherefore I was greued with that generacion, and sayed: They doo alwaye erre in their hearttes: They verelye haue not knowen my wayes, so that I sware in my wrathe: they shall not entre into my reste. Take hede brethren, leste at any time there bee in any of you a frowarde hearte, subiecte vnto vnbeliefe, that he shoulde departe from the liuyng God: but exhort ye one another dayly, whyle it is called to daye: leste any of you were hearde hearted through the deceitfulnes of synne.

C We are made partakers of Christe, yf wee kepe sure (vnto the ende) the begynnynge of the substance, so longe as it is sayed: to daye yf ye will heare hys voyce, harden not youre hearttes, as in the prouokyng: for some when they heard dyd prouoke: howbeit not al ỹ came out of Egipt by Moses. But with whom was he displeased fourty yeres? Was he not displeased with them that had synned, whose carkases were ouerthrowen in the desert? To whom sware he that they shoulde not enter into his rest, but vnto them that were not obediente? And wee see that they coulde not entre in, because of vnbeliefe.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The Authority or rest of the Christen: punishment of vnbeleuers: the nature or the worde of God.

LEt vs feare therfore, leste any of you (forsakynge the promes of enterynge into hys reste) shoulde seme at any time to haue been disapointed. For vnto vs is it declared, as wel as vnto thē. But it profited not them, ỹ they hearde the worde: because they whiche hearde it, coupled it not with faithe. For we which haue beleued, doe enter into hys reste, as he sayed: Euen as I haue swoorne in my wrath, they shall not enter into my reste. And that spake he verily long after ỹ the workes were made, and the foundacion of the worlde layed. For he spake in a certayne place of the seuenth daye on thys wise. And God dyd reste the seuenth day from al hys workes. And in thys place againe: They shall not enter in to my reste.

Genes. 2. a

B Seyng therfore it followeth, that some muste enter therevnto, and they (to whom it was firste preached) entered not therein for vnbeleefes sake: he appoynteth a certayne daye after so longe a tyme, saying in Dauid (as it is rehearsed:) this daye yf ye will heare hys voyce, harden not youre hearttes. For if Iosue had geuen them rest, then woulde he not afterwarde haue spoke of another daye. There remaineth therfore yet a rest to ỹ people of God. For he that is entered into hys reste, hath ceased also frō his owne workes, as God did frō his.

Let vs study therefore to entre into that reste, leste any manne fall after the same ensample of vnbeliefe. For ỹ word of God is quicke and mighty in operacion, & sharper then any two edged swearde: and entereth throughe, euen vnto the diuidyng a sunder of the soule, and the sprite, and of the ioyntes and the mary: and is a discerner of ỹ thoughtes, and of the intentes of the hearte: nether is there any creature that is not manifest in ỹ sight of hym: but all thynges are naked and open vnto the eyes of hym, of whom wee speake.

Seeyng then, that wee haue a greate hye priest whiche is entered into heauen (euen Iesus the sonne of GOD) lette vs hold the professiō (of our hope.) For we haue not an hie priest whiche cannot haue compassion on our infirmities: but was in all poinctes tempted, like as wee are: but yet without synne. Lette vs therfore go boldly vnto ỹ *seate of grace, ỹ we may obtain mercy, & find grace to helpe in time of nede.

*Hebr. 4. b

Gra. vl.

The. v. Chapter.

Christ is oure hie priest, and seate of grace, and more excellent then the hie priestes of the olde lawe.

EVERY euery hie priest that is taken from among menne, is ordeyned for menne, in thynges pertaining to God, to offer giftes and sacrifices for synne: which can haue compassion on the ignoraunte, and on them that erre out of the waye, for as muche as he hym selfe also is compassed with infirmitie. And for the same infirmities sake, he is bounde to offer for synnes, as well for hymselfe, as for the people. And no manne taketh honour vnto hymselfe, but he that is called of God as was Aaron.

Leui. 9. b

B Euen so Christe also glorified not hym selfe, to be made the hie priest: but he that sayed vnto hym, *thou art my sonne, thys daye haue I begotten thee, glorified hym. As he sayeth also in a nother place: Thou art a priest for euer after the order of Melchisedeche. Whiche in the dayes of hys flesshe, when he had offered vp prayers and supplycacions, with stronge crying and teares (vnto hym that was hable to saue hym from death) and was hearde because of his reuerence: though he were the sonne (of God) yet learned he obedience, by those thynges, whiche he suffered: and he beyng perfecte, was the cause of eter-

nall saluacion vnto al them that obeyed
hym, and is called of God an hye priest,
after the order of Melchisedech.

C Wherof we would speake many thiges,
but they are harde to be vttered: seyng ye

yng the tyme, ye ought to bee teachers,
yet haue ye nede againe, that we teache

The. vi. Chapter.

He goeth forth with the thyng that he began in the latter ende of the first Chapter, and exhorteth them not to faynt, but to be stedfast, and patiente (for so muche as God is sure in his promesse).

THerfore leauyng the doctryne
A that pertayneth to the begyn-nyng of Christen menne, let vs go forth vnto perfection, not laying agayne the foundacion of repentaunce from dead workes, and of fayth toward God, of baptisynges, of doctrine,
and of laying on of handes, and of re-surrecciō from death, and of eternal iud-gemente. And so wyll we doe, & yf God permitte. For it cānot be that they which were once lighted, and haue tasted of the heauenly gyfte, and were become parttakers of the holy goste, and haue tasted of the good worde of God, and of the power of the worlde to come: * If they fall

da, a newe testamente: not lyke the testamente that I made with theyr fathers in that daye, when I toke thē by the handes, to leade them out of the lande of Egypte. For they continued not in my testamente, and I regarded them not, sayth the Lorde.

For this is the testament, that I wyll make with the house of Israel: After those dayes (sayeth the Lorde) I wyll put my lawes in their myndes, & in their heartes I wyll wryte them, and I wil bee theyr God, and they shalbe my people. And they shall not teache euery man his neighbour, and euery man his brother, saying: knowe the Lorde: For they shall knowe me, from the least to the moste of them. For I will bee mercyfull ouer theyr vnrighteousnes, and theyr synnes and theyr iniquities wyll I thinke vpon nomore. In that he sayeth a newe testament, he hath worne oute the olde. For that whiche is worne oute and waxed olde, is ready to vanyshe awaye.

The.ix. Chapter.

The profyte and worthinesse of the olde testamente, and how farre the new excelleth it.

THe olde testament thē had verely ordinaunces, and seruinges of God, and worldly holynes. For * there was a fore tabernacle made, wherin was the light, and þ table, and the shew bread, whiche is called holy. But w thin the seconde vayle was there a tabernacle, whiche is called holyest of all, whiche had the golden senser, and the arke of the testament, ouerlayed rounde aboute with golde, wherin was the golden pot with * Manna, and & Aarons rodde, that sprong, and * the tables of the testament. Ouer the arke were the Cherubins of glory, shadowyng the seat of grace. Of which thinges we cānot now speake particularly.

When these thynges were thus ordeyned, the priestes wente alwayes into the firste tabernacle, whiche executed the seruyce of the holy thynges. But into the seconde went the hye priest alone * once euery yere: not without blouds whiche he offred for hym selfe, and for the ignoraunces of the people. Where with the holy ghoste this signified, þ the waye of holy thinges was not yet opened, whyle as yet the first tabernacle was standynge. Whiche was a similitude for the tyme then present, in which were offered gyftes and sacrifyces, that couldenot make the myndster perfect, as pertaynyng to the conscience, with onely meates and drynkes, and diuers washynges, and iustifiinges of the flesshe which were ordeyned vntyll the tyme of reformacion.

But  Christ beyng an hye priest of good thynges to come, came by a greater and a more perfect tabernacle, not made with handes: that is to saye, not of thys buyldyng, nether by the bloud of goates and calues: but * by hys owne bloude he entred in once into the holy place, & founde eternall redemption.

For if the * bloude of oxen and of goates, and the asshes of a younge cowe, when it was sprynkled, puryfyeth the vncleane, as touchynge the purifyng of the flesshe: how much more shall the bloud of Christ (whiche thorow the eternall spirite, offred hym selfe without spotte to God) pourge youre conscience from dead workes, for to serue the lyuyng GOD.

And for thys cause is he the * mediator of the newe testament, that thorow death, whiche chaunced for the redemption of those transgressions that were vnder the fyrste testamente, they whiche are called might receaue the promes of eternall enheritaunce. † For † where as is a testamēt there muste also (of necessitie) be the deathe of hym that maketh the testament. For the testamente taketh authoritie when menne are dead: for it is yet of no value, as longe as he that maketh the testament is alyue, for whiche cause also, nether the firste testamente was ordeyned without bloude. For when Moses had declared al the commaundement to al the people according to the lawe, he toke the bloude of calues and of goates, with water & purple wolle, & yssope, and sprynkled both the boke, and all the people, saying: * this is the bloud of the testamente, whiche God hath appoynted vnto you. Moreouer, he sprinckled the tabernacle with bloud also, and al the myndstryng vessels. And almoste all thynges are by the law purged with bloud, and without shedyng of bloud is no remission.

It is nede then, that the similitudes of heauenly thynges be purifyed with suche thynges: but that the heauenly thynges them selues bee purifyed with better sacrifyers then are those. * For Christe is not entred into the holy places that are made with handes (which are similitudes of true thynges:) but is entred into very heauen, for & to appeare now we in the sight of GOD for vs: not to offer hym selfe often * as the hye priest entreth into the holy place euery yere w straunge bloud,

for then muste he haue often suffred sence
the worlde began. But nowe in the end of the worlde, hath he appeared once, to put sinne to flyght by the offryng vp of hym selfe. And as it is appoynted vnto all men that they shall once dye, and then commeth the iudgement: * euen so Christ was once offred to take away ꝑ sinnes of many, and vnto them that loke for hym shall he appeare agayne without sinne, vnto saluacion. ✠

then those sacrifices haue ceased to haue
ben offered, bycause that the offerers once pourged should haue had no more consci-

¶ The Epistle of Sainct James.

¶ The first Chapter. ✠

He exhorteth to reioyce in trouble, and thankefully to receyue the worde of God: true religion, or deuocion what it is.

JAmes the seruaunt of God and of the Lorde Jesus Christe, sendeth gretyng to the twelue trybes which are scattered abrode.

My brethren, count it for an exceedyng ioy, when ye fall into diuers temptacions: knowyng this, that *the tryng of your fayth gendreth pacience: and let pacience haue her perfecte worke, that ye may be perfect and sound, lackyng nothyng.

If any of you lacke wisedome *let him aske of hym that geueth it: euen God, which geueth to all men indifferentlye, & casteth no man in the tethe, and it shalbe geuen hym. But let hym aske in fayth, and wauer not. For he that douteth, is lyke a waue of the sea, which is toste of the wyndes and caryed with violence. Neither let that man thinke, that he shall receyue any thing of the Lorde. A wauerynge mynded man, is vnstable in all his wayes. Let the brother which is of lowe degree reioyce whē he is exalted. Againe, let hym that is ryche, reioyce when he is made lowe. *For euen as the floure of the grasse, shal he passe away. For as ỳ sunne ryseth with heate, & the grasse wydereth, and his floure falleth awaye, & the beautie of the fashion of it perisheth: euen so shall the ryche man perishe in his wayes. Happy is the man that endureth temptacion: for when he is tryed, he shall receiue the croune of lyfe, which the Lorde hath promysed to them that loue hym. ✠

Let no man say when he is tempted, that he is tempted of God. For *as God cānot be tempted with euyl, so neither he hymselfe tempteth any man. But euery man is tempted, when he is drawen awaye, and entised of hys owne concupiscence. Then when lust hath conceiued, she bringeth forth sinne: and sinne whē it is fynished bryngeth forth death.

Do not erre my dere brethren. * ✠ Euerye good gyft, and euery perfecte gyft, is from aboue, and commeth downe from the father of lyghtes, with whome is no variablenes, neyther is he chaūged vnto darkenes. *Of his owne wyll begat he vs with the woorde of trueth, that we should be ỳ first frutes of his creatures. Wherfore (dere brethren) * let euery man be swyfte to heare, slowe to speake, slowe to wrath. For the wrath of man worketh not that which is righteous before God. * Wherfore lay apart all fylthynes and superfluitie of maliciousnes, and receiue with mekenes the worde that is graffed in you, which is able to saue youre soules. ✠ And ✠ see that ye bee doers of the worde and not hearers onely, deceyuyng your owne selues. For *yf any man heare the worde, and declareth not the same by his workes, he is lyke vnto a man beholdyng his bodely face in a glasse. For assone as he hath looked on hymselfe, he goeth his waye, & forgetteth immediatly what his fashion was. * But whoso looketh in the perfect lawe of libertie, & continueth therin (yf he be not a forgetfull hearer, but a doer of the worke) the same shalbe happye in his dede.

If any man among you seme to be deuoute, and refrayneth not his tonge, but deceyueth his owne herte, this mans deuocion is in vayne. Pure deuocion & vndefiled before God the father, is this: to visyte the fatherlesse and widdowes in their aduersitie, and to kepe himselfe vnspotted of the worlde. ✠

The. ii. Chapter.

He forbyddeth to haue any respecte of persones, and not to boast of fayth where no dedes are.

in goodly aparell, and there come in also a poore man in vile raiment, and ye haue a respecte to hym that weareth the gaye clothyng, and saye vnto hym: Sytte thou here in a good place: & saye vnto the poore, stand thou there, or syt here vnder my fote stoole: are ye not partiall in youre selues, and haue iudged after euill thoughtes?

B Harken my deare beloued brethrē. Hath not God chosen the poore of thys world, suche as are riche in faythe, and heires of the kingdom, whiche he promised to them that loue hym? But ye haue despised the poore. Doo not riche menne execute tyranny vpon you, and drawe you before ỹ iudgement seates? Doo not they speake euill of that good name whiche is called vpon ouer you: If ye fulfil the royall law Leui.19.d accordyng to the scripture: *(Thou shalte Mat.22.d loue thyne neighbour as thy selfe,) ye doo Mar.12.c well. But yf ye regarde one persone more Rom.13.c then another, ye commit synne, and are re- Gala.5.b buked of the lawe, as transgressours.

C Whosoeuer shall kepe the whole lawe, mat.5.c and yet faile in one poynete, he is gyltie of all. For he that sayed: Thou shalte not commit adultery, sayed also: thou shalte not kyl. Though thou doe none adultery, yet yf thou kyll, thou art become a transgressor of the lawe. So speake ye, and so doo, as they that shalbee iudged by the lawe of libertie. For he shal haue iudgemēt Mat.18.b without mercie that sheweth no mercye: and mercy reioyseth against iudgement.

What auayleth it my brethren, though a manne saye he hathe faythe, yf he haue no deedes? Can faythe saue him? If a brother or a sister bee naked and destitute of dayelye foode, and one of you saye vnto them: departe in peace, God sende you warmnes and foode, notwithstandyng ye geue them not those thynges whiche are nedeful to the body, what shal it helpe? Euē so faith, if it haue no dedes, is dead in it selfe.

D But some manne will saye, thou haste faythe, and I haue deedes: shewe me thy fayth by thy deedes: and I wil shew thee my faythe by my deedes. Beleuest thou ỹ there is one God? Thou doest well. The deuels also beleue, and tremble. But wilte thou vnderstande (O thou vain manne) that faythe without dedes is dead? Was not Abrahā our father iustified throughe Gene.22.d workes, when he had offered Isaac hys sonne vpon the aulter? Thou seest, howe that fayth wrought with his deedes, and through the deedes was the faythe made perfecte: and the scripture was fulfilled whiche saieth: Abraham beleued God, & it gene.15.b was reputed vnto hym for righteousnes, Rom.4.c and he was called the frend of God. Ye se gala.3.a. then how that of deedes a mā is iustified, and not of fayth onely. Likewise also, was not Raab the harlot iustifyed throughe workes, when she had receiued the messē- Iosu.2.c gers and had sent them out another waye? For as ỹ body, without ỹ spirite is dead, euen so faythe without workes is dead also.

¶ The.iii. Chapter.

What good and euell cummeth thorow the tōge. The dutie of suche as be learned. The difference betwixte the wysdome of the Gospell, and the wisdō of the worlde.

My brethren, *be not euery man a master, knoweyng howe that we shall receyue the greater dānacion: for in many thynges we synne all. If a man sinne not in word, the same is a perfect man, & able also to tame all the body. Behold, we put bittes into ỹ horses mouthes, ỹ they may obey vs: & we turne aboute al the body of them. Behold also the shippes, which though they be so greate & are driuen of fearce windes, yet are they turned about wt a verie small helme whither soeuer the violence of the gouerner will. Euen so the toungue is a litle mēbre also, & boosteth greate thinges. Behold howe great a thyng a litle fire kēdleth, and the toungue is fire, euen a worlde of wickednes. So is ỹ toūgue set among oure membres, that it defileth the whole body, and setteth a fire all that we haue of nature, and is it selfe sette a fire euen of hel.

All the natures of beastes, and of birdes, and of serpentes, and thynges of the sea, are meked and tamed of the nature of mā. But the toungue can noe manne tame. It is an vnruly euill, full of deadly poyson. Therewith blesse we God the father, and C therewith curse wee menne, which are gene.1.d made after the (image and) similitude of God. Out of one mouthe proceadeth blessing & cursyng. My brethrē, these thinges ought not so to bee. Doeth a fountayne sende forthe at one place swete water and bitter also? Can ỹ figge tree (my brethren) beare olyue beryes? eyther a vyne beare figges? So can no foūtain geue both salte water and freshe also. If any manne bee wise and endued with knowlage amonge you, lette hym shewe hys workes out of good conuersacion with meknes of wise-dome. But yf ye haue bitter enuiyng and D stryfe in youre hearte, reioyce not: neither bee lyars agaynste the truthe: For suche wisedome descendeth not from aboue: but is earthy, natural, and deuelish. For where enuiyng and strife is, there is vnstablenes, and al maner of euil workes. But the wis-dome that is from aboue, is firste pure,

then peaceable, gentle, and easy to bee in-treated, full of mercy & good frutes, without iudging, without simulation: yea, and
the frute of righteousnes is sowē in peace,
of them that maintain peace.

The.iiii. Chapter.

Warre and fighting commeth of voluptuousnesse. The frendshyppe of the worlde is enmitie before God. An exhortacion to flye slaunder, and the vanitie of this lyfe.

I Rom whence commeth warre, & fighting among you? Come they not here hence? euē of your lustes, that fight in your mem-bres? Ye lust, and haue not. Ye enuye and haue indignacion, and cannot obtayne. Ye fight and warre. Ye haue not because ye aske not. Ye aske and receyue not, because ye aske amysse: euen to cōsume it vpō youre lustes. Ye aduouterers and women that breake matrimony: know ye not howe yt yᵗ frendshyp of the world is enmytie with God? Whosoeuer therefore will be a frend of the worlde, is made the enemie of God.
Esther do ye thinke that the scripture sayth
in vayne? The spirite that dwelleth in vs, lusteth euen contrarie to enuie: but geueth
more grace (wherefore he sayeth: GOD resisteth
the proud, but geueth grace vnto the lowly.)

B Submitte youre selues therfore to God:
but * resist the deuell, and he will flie from
you. Drawe nye to God, and he will drawe nye to you. Clense youre handes ye sinners and pourge youre hearte ye wauerynge mynded. Suffre afflictions: and mourne and wepe. Let youre laughter bee turned to mournyng: and youre ioye to heuinesse.
‡Humble youre selues in the sight of the Lorde, and he shall lifte you vp. Backebite not one another, brethren. He that backebiteth hys brother, and he that iudgeth
his brother, backbiteth the lawe, and iudgeth the lawe. But and yf thou iudge the lawe, thou art not an obseruer of the law, but a iudge. There is one lawe geuer (and C iudge) whiche is able to saue & to destroy.
‡What art thou that iudgest another?

Go to nowe ye that saye: * to daye and to morowe let vs go into suche a citie, and cōtinue there a yere, and bye and sell, and wyn: and yet cannot ye tel, what shall happē on the morow. For what thing is youre lyfe? It is euen a vapoure, that appeareth for a litle tyme, and then vanisheth awaye.
For that ye ought to saye: ‡ If the Lorde
wil, and yf we liue, let vs doo this or that.
But nowe ye reioyce in your boastynges.
All suche reioysyng is euill. Therefore to hym that knoweth how to doo good and dooth it not, to hym it is synne.

The.v. Chapter.

He threatneth the wicked ryche men, exhorteth vnto pacience, to beware of swearing. One to knowledge his faultes to another, on to praie for another, and one to labour to bring another to the truthe.

GO to nowe ye riche men. Weepe & houle on youre wretchednesse that shall come vpon you. Youre ryches is corrupte, youre garmentes are motheaten. Your gold and siluer is cankered, and the ruste of them shall be a witnes vnto you, and shall eate youre flesche as it were fire. Ye haue heaped treasure together (euen wrath to yourselues) in your last dayes: Beholde * the hire of the labourers whiche haue reaped doune youre feldes (whiche hire is of you kepte backe
by fraude) cryeth: and the cries of them whiche haue reaped, are entered into the eares of the Lorde Sabaoth. Ye haue liued in pleasure on the earth, and ben wanton. Ye haue nozished youre heartes, as in a daye of slaughter. Ye haue condemned & killed the iust, & he hath not resisted you.

B ‡Bee patient therefore brethren, vnto the commyng of the Lorde. Beholde, the husbandmā watteth for yᵗ precious frute
of the earth, and hath long pacience there vpon, vntill he receyue the early and the latter rayne. Bee ye also pacient therefore and settle your heartes, for the commynge of the Lorde draweth nie. Grudge not one agaynste another, brethren, lest ye be damned. Behold, the iudge standeth before the dore. Take (my brethren) the Prophetes for an ensample of sufferynge aduersitie, & of pacience, which spake in the name of the Lorde. ‡Behold, * we counte them happy which endure. Ye haue heard of the pacience of Job, & haue knowen what end yᵗ Lorde made. For the Lorde is verie pitifull and mercifull.

But aboue al thinges my brethren sweare
not, neither by heauen, neither by earth, nether any other othe. Let your yea be yea,
and

and your nay, nay: leste ye fall into ypocrisye. If any of you be vexed, lette hym praye. If any of you be mery, let hym syng psalmes. If any be diseased among you, let hym call for the elders of the congregacion, and let them praye ouer hym, and anoynte hym with oyle in the name of the Lorde, and the prayer of fayth shall saue the sicke, and the Lorde shall rayse hym vp: and yf he haue cõmitted sinnes, they shall be forgeuen hym. Knowelage your faultes one to another, & praye one for another, that ye may bee healed. For the feruente prayer of a ryghteous man auayleth muche. Helias was a man vnder infirmities euen as we are, and he prayed in his prayer that it myght not rayne: and it rayned not on the earth by the space of thre yeres & sixe monethes. And he prayed agayne, and the heauen gaue rayne: and the earth brought forth her frute. Brethren, yf any of you doe erre from the trueth and another conuert hym, let the same knowe that he whiche conuerteth the synner from going a stray out of his waye, shall saue a soule from death, and shall hyde the multitude of synnes.

The first Chapter.

He sheweth that thorow the aboundaunt mercy of God, we are begotten agayne to a lyuely hope, & how fayth must be tryed: how the saluacõ in Christ is no Newes, but a thing prophecied of olde. He exhorteth them to a godly conuersacyon, for so muche as they are now borne a new by the worde of God.

PEteran Apostle of Jesu Christ to the that dwell here & there as straungers thoughout Põtus, Galacia, Capadocia, Asia and Bethinia, elecre accordyng to the foreknowlage of God the father, thorowe the sanctifying of ye spirite vnto obedience & sprynklyng of the bloud of Jesus Christe.

Grace be with you and peace be multiplyed. Blessed be God the father of our Lorde Jesus Christ, which accordyng to his aboundaũt mercy begat vs agayn vnto a lyuely hope (by that, that Jesus Christe rose agayn from death) to an inheritaunce immortal and vndefyled, and that perisheth not, reserued in heauen for you, whiche are kepte by the power of God thorow faith, vnto saluacion: which is prepared already to bee shewed in the laste time in ye which ye reioyce: though nowe for a season (yf nede require) ye are in heauynes, thorowe manyfolde temptacions, that the tryall of your fayth beeing muche more precious then gold that perisheth (though it be tryed with fyre) myght be founde vnto laude, glorye and honour, at the appearyng of Jesu Christ: whome ye haue not seen, & yet loue hym, in whome euen nowe though ye see him not, yet doe you beleue, and reioyce with ioy vnspeakeable and glorious, receyuyng the ende of youre fayth, euen the saluacion of your soules.

Of whiche saluacion haue the Prophetes enquyred & searched, whiche prophecyed of the grace that should come vnto you, searching when or at what tyme the spirite of Christe (whiche was in them) shoulde signifie: whiche spirite testifyed before, the passions that shoulde happen vnto Christ, and the glorye that shoulde folowe after, vnto whiche Prophetes it was also declared, that not vnto themselues, but vnto vs, they should minister ye thynges which are nowe shewed vnto you of them, whiche (by the holy goste sent downe from heauen) haue in the gospell preached vnto you ye thinges, which the Angels desyre to beholde.

Wherfore gyrde vp the loynes of youre mynde, be sober, & trust perfectly on the grace that is brought vnto you (by the declaryng of Jesus Christe) as obedient children, that ye geue not your selues ouer vnto youre olde lustes: by whiche ye were led, when as yet ye were ignorant of Christe: but as he which called you is holy, euen so be ye holy also in all maner of conuersacion, because it is written: Be holy for I am holy. And yf so bee that ye call on the father, whiche without respecte of person iudgeth accordyng to euery mannes worke, see that ye passe the tyme of youre pylgrimage in feare.

The .iiii. Chapter.

He exhorteth men to cease from synne, and no man to suffer as an euill doer: but as a Christen man.

FOR as muche then as Christe hath suffered for vs in ✠ flesche, A arme ye your selues likewise with the same mynde: for he whyche suffereth in the flesche, ceaseth from synne, that he hence forwarde shuld liue (as much time as remaineth in the flesche) not after ✠ lustes of menne, but after the will of God. For it is sufficient for vs, that wee haue spente the tyme that is paste of the life, after the will of the Gentiles *walkyng in wantonnes, lustes, in excesse of wines, in excesse of eating, in excesse of drynckyng (in drōkenesse) and in abhominable idolatrie.

Ephe

And it semeth to them an inconuenient thyng, that ye runne not also with them B vnto the same excesse of riote, and therefore speake they euil of you, whiche shall geue accomptes to hym, that is ready to iudge quicke and deade. For vnto thys pourpose verily was the Gospel preached also vnto the deade, that they shoulde bee iudged lyke other menne in the flesshe, but shoulde liue before God in the spirite. ✣ The ende of all thynges is at hand. Be ye therefore sober, and watche vnto prayer. But aboue all thynges haue feruente loue among your selues. For loue shall couer the multitude of sinnes. * Bee ye herberous one to another, withoute grudgyng. As euery manne hath receiued the gifte, euen so ministre the same one to another, as good ministers of the manyfolde grace of God. If any manne speake, lette hym talke as the wordes of God. * If any manne ministre, lette hym doo it as of the ability, whiche God ministreth vnto hym. That God in all thynges maye bee glorified throughe Jesus Christe, to whom be praise and dominion for euer and euer. Amen. ✣ Derely beloued, maruaill not that ye are proued by fire (whiche thyng is to trie you) as though some straunge thyng happened vnto you: but reioyce in as much as ye are partakers of Christes passions: that when his glorye appeareth ye may bee merie & glad. * If ye bee railed vpō for ꝓ name of Christ, happy are ye. For the glory and the spirite of God resteth vpon you. On their parte he is euill spoken of: but on your parte he is glorifyed.

Let none of you bee punished as a murtherer or as a theefe or an euill doer, or as a busibody in other mennes matters. If any manne suffre as a Christian manne, let him not bee ashamed: but let him glorify God on this behalfe. For the tyme is come ꝓ iudgement must begyn at the house of God. If it first begyn at vs, what shall the ende bee of them whiche beleue not the Gospel of God? And if ꝓ righteous scarcely be saued: where shal ꝓ vngodly & the sinner appeare? Wherfore let the ꝓ are troubled, according to the will God commit their soules to hym in well doing, as vnto a faythfull creatour.

The .v. Chapter.

A spirituall exhortacion for all degrees and states. He exhorteth yonge persones to subiect them selues to ꝓ elder, & euery one to loue another.

THe elders which are emong you, I exhort, which am also an elder and a witnes of the afflictions of Christe and also a partaker of ꝓ glory ꝓ shal be opened: * Feede ye Christes flocke, as muche as lyeth in you, takyng the ouersight of them not as compelled therto, but wyllyngly: (after a godlye sorte) not for the desire of fylthy lucre, but of a good mynde: * not as thoughe ye were lordes ouer the parysshes, but that ye be an example to the flocke. (& that with good will.) And when ꝓ chefe shepherd shal apeare ye shal receiue * an incorruptible croune of glorye. Likewise ye yonger submit your selues vnto the elder. ✣ Submit your selues euery man one to another, knit your selues together, in lowlines of mynde. For god resisteth the proude, and geueth grace to the humble. Submyt your selues therefore vnder the myghtye hande of God, that he may exalte you when the tyme is come. * Caste all your care vpon hym: for he careth for you. Be sober and watche, for your aduersary the deuel as a roaryng lyon * walketh about, seking whom he may deuour, whom resiste stedfast in the fayth, knowyng that the same afflictiōs are appointed vnto your brethē, that are in the worlde. But the God of all grace which hath called vs vnto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, shall his owne selfe (after that ye haue suffered a litle affliction) make you perfect, settle, strength & stablisshe you. To hym be glorye and dominion for euer and euer. Amen. ✣

By Siluanus a faythfull brother vnto you (as I suppose) haue I written briefely, exhortyng, and testifyng, howe that this is the true grace of God, wherin ye stande. The congregacion of them whyche at Babilon are companions of your election, saluteth you & so doeth Marcus my sonne. * Greete ye one another with the kisse of loue. Peace be with you all, which are in Christe Jesu. Amen.

The second Epistle of S. Peter.

The first Chapter.

Forasmuche as the power of God hath geuen vs all thinges pertaynyng vnto life, he exhorteth vs to make oure callynge knowen by good workes, and fruites of faith. He maketh mencyō of his owne death.

SYmon Peter a seruaunte, and an Apostle of Jesus Christe, to them whiche haue obtained lyke precious fayth with vs, throughe the righteousnes of oure God and sauioure Jesus Christe. * Grace be vnto you, and peace be multiplied throughe the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lorde. Accordyng lozdyng as hys godly power hath geue vnto vs all thynges that perteyne vnto life and godlines, throughe ỹ knowledge of him that hath called vs by glozy, and vertue: by the whiche are geuen vnto vs excellent and moste great promises, that by the meanes therof ye might be * partakers of the Godlye nature, if ye flye the corrupcion of wozldlye luste.

B And herunto geue al diligence: in youre fayth minister vertue, in vertue knowe-ledge: * in knowledge temperaunce, in temperaunce patience: in patience godly-nes: in godlines, brotherly kyndenes: in brotherlye kyndeneſſe, loue. For if theſe thinges be emong you, & be plenteous, they will make you ỹ ye neyther shalbe ydle nor vnfruitful in ỹ knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. But he that lacketh theſe thinges, is blynd, and gropeth for the way with his hand, and hath forgotte, ỹ he was pourged frō his old sinnes.

C Wherfore brethren, geue the more diligence for to make youre callyng and election sure (by good workes.) For if ye doe such thinges, ye shall neuer fal. Yea, and by this meanes an entryng in shall be ministred vnto you aboundauntly, into the euerlasting kyngdome of our lord and sauiour Jesus Christ.

Wherefore, I will not be negligent to putte you alwayes in remembraunce of suche thynges, though ye knowe them
your selues, and be stablished in the present truely. Notwithstandyng, I thinke it mete (as long as I am in * thys tabernacle) to stere you vp by puttyng you in remembraunce, forasmuch as I am sure
ỹ shortely I must put of thys my tabernacle, euen as our Lorde Jesus Christ shewed me. I will euer also geue my diligence, that ye may haue wherewith to stere vp the remembraunce of theſe thin-ges after my departyng. For we haue not folowed diſceatful fables, when we opened vnto you the power and cūning of our lord Jesus Christ, but * with our eyes we saw his maiestie: euen then ve-rely when he receiued of God the father D honour, and glory. * This is my dere be-loued sonne, in whō I haue delite. This voyce we heard come from heauen, whē
we were with hym, in the holy mounte.
We haue also a right sure word of prophecy, whereunto if ye take hede, as vnto
a light that shyneth in a darke place, ye doe well, vntill the daye dawne, and the daye starre aryse in your hearttes. So ỹ ye first knowe this: that no prophecy in the scripture hath anye priuate interpre-tacion. For the scripture came neuer by ỹ will of man: but holy men of god spake
as they were moued by the holy goſt.

The first Epistle of S. John the Apostle.

The first Chapter.

True witnesse of the euerlastyng worde of God. The bloud of Christe is the purgacion from synne. No man is without synne.

THat whiche was from the begynning, which we haue heard, whiche we haue seen with oure eyes, whiche we haue looked vpon, & our handes haue handled, of the worde of the lyfe. And the lyfe appeared, and we haue seen and beare witnes, and shewe vnto you * that eternall life, which was with the father, and appeared vnto vs. That which we haue seen and heard, declare we vnto you, that ye also maye haue felowshyp with vs, and that our felowshyp maye be with the father and his sonne Jesus Christe. And this write we vnto you, that (ye may reioyce, and that) youre ioy may be full.

And this is the tydynges which we haue heard of hym, and declare vnto you, that God is light, and in hym is no darknes at all. If we say, that we haue felowshyp with hym, and walke in darknes, we lye and doe not the trueth. But and yf we walke in light euen as he is in light, then haue we felowshyp with hym, and * the bloud of Jesus Christ his sonne clenseth vs from all synne.

* If we say that we haue no sinne, we deceiue our selues, and the trueth is not in vs: * If we knowlage our synnes, he is faythful & iust, to forgeue vs our synnes, and to clense vs fro all vnrighteousnes. If we saye we haue not synned, we make hym a lyar, and his worde is not in vs.

The. ii. Chapter.

Christe is our aduocate. Of true loue, and howe it is tryed.

MY lytle childre, these thinges write I vnto you, þ ye sine not. And if any ma sinne, we haue an aduocate with the father, Jesus Christ the rygh teous: and he it is that obteyneth grace for our synnes: not for our synnes only, but also for the synnes of all the worlde. And hereby we are sure that we knowe him, if we kepe his commaundementes. * He that sayeth I know hym, and kepeth not his comaundementes, is a lyar, & the veritie is not in hym. But whoso kepeth hys worde, in hym is the loue of God perfect in dede: hereby knowe we that we are in hym. He that sayeth he bydeth in hym, ought to walke euen as he walked.

Brethren, I wryte no newe commaundement vnto you: but that olde commaundemẽt, which ye haue had frõ the begining. The olde commaundement is the worde, which ye haue heard frõ the begynnyng. Again, a newe commaundement I write vnto you, that is true in hym, & the same is true also in you: for the darkenesse is paste, & the true lyght nowe shyneth. He that sayeth howe that he is in the lyght, and yet hateth his brother, is in darknes euen vntyl this tyme. He that loueth his brother, abydeth in the lyght, & there is none occasion of euyl in hym. * He that hateth his brother, is in darknes, & walketh in darknes: and cãnot tell whyther he goeth, because þ darknes hath blinded his eyes. Babes, I wryte vnto you, howe that your synnes are forgeuẽ you for his names sake. I wryte vnto you fathers, howe þ ye haue knowen him that is from the begynnyng. I wryte vnto you yong menne, howe that ye haue ouercome that wycked. I wryte vnto you lytle childre, howe that ye haue knowen the father. I haue wrytten vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowen hym that is from the begynning. I haue wrytten vnto you yong men, howe that ye are stronge, and the worde of God abydeth in you, and ye haue ouercome that wycked.

Se that ye loue not * the worlde, neyther the thynges that are in the worlde. yf any man loue the worlde, the loue of the father is not in hym. For all that is in the worlde (as the luste of the flesshe, and the luste of the eyes, and the pryde of lyfe) is not of the father, but of the worlde. And the worlde passeth awaye, and the luste therof: but he þ fulfilleth the wil of God, abydeth for euer. Lytle childre, it is the laste tyme, & as ye haue heard howe that Antichrist shall come, euen now are there many begon to bee Antichristes already, wherby we knowe, that it is þ last time. * They went out frõ vs, but they were not of vs. For yf they had been of vs, they would no dout haue continued with vs. But þ it myght appeare, that they were not of vs. Neuertheles, ye haue an oynt ment of him that is holy, and ye know al thinges I haue not wrytte vnto you, as though ye knewe not the trueth: but as though ye knew it (& knowe also) that no lye commeth of truth. Who is a liar, but he ꝑ denieth that Iesus is Christe? The same is Antichrist that denieth the father & the sone. Whosoeuer denieth the sone, the same hath not the father, (he that knowledgeth the sonne, hath the father also.) Let therfore abyde in you that same whiche ye hearde from the begynnyng. If that whiche ye hearde frō the begynnyng shall remayne in you, ye also shall continue in the sone, and in the father. And this is the promes that he hath promised vs, euen eternall life. These thinges haue I wryten vnto you, concernyng them that deceiue you. And the anoyntyng whiche ye haue receyued of hym, dwelleth in you. And ye nede not that any man teache you: but as the anoyntyng teacheth you of all thynges, and is true, and no lye: and as it hath taught you, euen so byde therin. And nowe babes abyde in hym: that whē he shal appeare, we maye be bolde, & not be made ashamed of hym at his commig. If ye knowe that he is righteous, know also that euery one whiche doeth righteousnes, is borne of hym.

The.iii. Chapter.

The singular loue of God toward vs: and howe we agayne ought to loue one another.

BEholde what loue the father hath shewed on vs, that we shoulde bee called* (and be in deede) ꝑ sones of God. For this cause ꝑ world knoweth you not, because it knoweth not hym. Dearely beloued, nowe are we the sonnes of God, and yet it doeth not appeare, what we shalbe. But we knowe that when it shall appeare, we shall bee lyke hym. For we shall see hym as he is. And euery manne that hath this hope in hym, pourgeth himselfe, euen as he also is pure. Whosoeuer committeth synne, committeth vnrighteousnesse also, & synne is vnrighteousnesse. And ye know that he appeared, to take awaye our synnes, and in hym is no synne. As many as byde in hym synne not: whosoeuer synneth, hath not seen hym, neither knowen hym.

Babes, let no man deceiue you. He that doeth righteousnes, is righteous, euen as he is righteous. He that committeth synne, is of the deuill: * for the deuill synneth sence the begynning. For this purpose appeared the sonne of God, to lowse the workes of the deuill. Whosoeuer is borne of God, sinneth not: for his sede remayneth in him, and he cannot sinne, because he is borne of God. In this are the children of God knowen, and the children of ꝑ deuil. Whosoeuer doeth not righteousnes, is not of God, neyther he that loueth not his brother. For this is the tydynges that ye hearde from the begynnyng, that ye shoulde loue one an other, not as * Cain which was of that wicked, and slewe his brother. And wherfore slew he him? Because his owne workes were cupll and his brothers good.

Marualle not my brethren, though the worlde hate you. We knowe that we are translated frō death vnto life, because we loue the brethren. He that loueth not his brother, abideth in death. Whosoeuer hateth his brother, is a manslear. And ye knowe, that no manslear, hath eternall lyfe abyding in him. Hereby perceiue we loue: because he gaue his life for vs: and we ought to geue oure lyues for the brethre. But whoso hath this worldes good, and * seeth his brother haue nede, and shutteth vp hys compassion from hym: howe dwelleth the loue of God in hym? My babes, let vs not loue in worde, neyther in tonge: but in dede and in veritie. Hereby we knowe, that we are of the veritie, and canne quiet oure heartes before hym. For ꝑ our heart condemne vs, God is greater then oure hearte, and knoweth al thinges. Dearly beloued, ꝑ our heart condemne vs not, then haue we trust to God warde: * and whatsoeuer we aske, we receyue of hym, because we kepe hys commaundementes, & doe those thynges whiche are pleasyng in his sight. And this is hys commaundemente, that we beleue on the name of hys sonne Iesus Christ, and loue one another, as he gaue commaūdement. And he that keepeth hys commaundementes, dwelleth in hym, and he in hym: and hereby we knowe that that he abydeth in vs, euen by the spirite whiche he hath geuen vs.

The.iiii. Chapter.

Differences of spyrites, & howe the spyrite of God, may be knowen from the spyrite of errour. Of the loue of God and of our neyghbours.

Dearely beloued, * beleue not euery spyrite: but proue the spyrites, whether they are of God or not, for * manye false Prophetes are gone out into into the worlde. Herby shall ye knowe the spyte of God. Euery spyte that confesseth that Jesus Chriſte is come in the fleshe, is of God. And euery spyte, which confesseth not that Jesus Chriſt is come in the flesh, is not of God. And this is that spyte of Antichriſte, of whom ye haue heard, howe that he shoulde come: and euē nowe already is he in the worlde.

Litle children, ye are of God, and haue ouercome them: for greater is he that is in you, then he that is in the worlde. They are of the worlde, therfore speake they of ỹ
B worlde, and the worlde heareth them. Wee are of god. He that knoweth God, heareth vs: he that is not of God, heareth vs not. Herby knowe wee the spyte of veritie, & the spyte of errour.

*Derely beloued, *let vs loue one another: for loue commeth of God. And euery one that loueth, is borne of GOD, and knoweth God. He that loueth not, knoweth not God: for God is loue. In thys appeared the loue of GOD to vs ward, because that *God sente hys onely begotten sonne in to the worlde, that we might lyue thrugh hym. Herin is loue, not that wee loued God, but that he loued vs, and sente his son to be the agrement for oure sinnes.

Derely beloued, yf God so loued vs,
C we ought also to loue one another.* No man hath sene God at any tyme. Yf wee loue one another, God dwelleth in vs, and hys loue is perfecte in vs. Herby knowe we that we dwell in hym, and he in vs, because he hath geuen vs of hys spyte: and wee haue sene, and do testifye, that the father sente the son to bee the sauioure of the worlde. Whosoeuer confesseth, that Jesus is the sonne of God, in hym dwelleth God, and he in God. And we haue knowen and beleued the loue that God hath to vs.

D GOD is loue, and he that dwelleth in loue, dwelleth in GOD, and God in hym. Herein is the loue perfecte in vs, that wee should haue trust in the day of iudgement. For as he is, euen so are we in this worlde. There is no feare in loue, but perfect loue casteth oute feare, for feare hath paynfulnesse. He that feareth, is not perfect in loue.

We loue hym, for he loued vs fyrst. Yf a man say: I loue God, and yet hate hys brother, he is a lyer. For howe can he that loueth not his brother whō he hath sene, loue GOD whome he hathe not sene? And thys commaundemente haue wee of hym: that he whiche loueth God, shoulde loue hys brother also.*

The.v. Chapter.

To loue God is to kepe hys commaundementes. Faith ouercommeth the worlde. Euerlastyng lyfe is in the loue of God. Of the synne vnto deathe.

WHo soeuer beleueth that Jesus is A Chriſte, is borne of God. And euery one that loueth hym which begat, loueth him also whiche was begotten of him.* By thys we knowe, that we loue Joh.14.d
the chyldren of God, when we loue GOD and kepe his commaūdementes. For thys is the loue of God, that we kepe hys commaundementes, & *his commaundemētes Mat.11.d are not greuous.

For *all that is borne of God, ouercōmeth the worlde. And thys is the *victorye that ouercommeth the worlde, euen our faythe. Who is it that ouercommeth the worlde, but he whiche beleueth that Jesus is the sonne of GOD? 1.Joh.5.g

Thys Jesus Chriſt is he that came by B water & bloud, not by water onely, but by water and bloude. And it is the spyte that beareth witnes, because the spyte is truth. (For there are three whiche beare recorde in heuen, the father, the word and the holy ghoste. And these three are one.) And there are thre which beare record (in earth) the spyte and water and bloud: and these thre are one. Yf wee receaue the wytnes of menne, the wytnes of GOD is greater. For thys is the wytnes of God (that is greater) whiche he testified of hys sonne. He that beleueth on the son of God, hathe the witnes in hym selfe. He that beleueth not GOD, hathe made hym a lier, because he beleued not the record that god gaue of his sonne. And thys is the record, C howe that GOD hathe geuen vnto vs eternall lyfe, and thys lyfe is in hys sonne. He that hathe the sonne hath lyfe: and he ỹ hathe not the son of god, hath not life.*

These thynges haue I wrytten vnto you that beleue on the name of the sonne of God, that ye maye knowe, howe that ye haue eternall lyfe, and that ye maye beleue on the name of the sonne of God. And thys is the trust that we haue in hym: that *yf we aske any thynge accordyng to hys Mat.7.d
wyll, he heareth vs. And yf wee knowe and.21.c
that he heare vs, whatsoeuer we aske, we Mar.11.d
knowe that wee haue the peticions, that Luk.11.b
wee desyre of hym. Joh.14.d
15.d.16.f

If any man se his brother sinne a synne Jacob.1.c
not vnto deathe, let hym aske, and he shall 1.Joh.5.d
geue hym lyfe, for them that synne not vn- D to death. There is a synne vnto deathe, for whiche saye I not that a manne shoulde praye. All vnrighteousnes is synne, & there is synne not vnto death.

We knowe, that whosoeuer is borne of God synneth not: but he that is begotten of God, keepeth hym selfe, and that wicked toucheth hym not. We knowe that wee are of God, and the worlde is altogether set on wickednesse. We knowe that the sonne of God is come, and hath geuen vs a mynde to know hym whiche is true: and we are in hym that is true, throughe hys sonne Jesu Christe. Thys same is verie God, and eternall lyfe. Babes, kepe youre selues from ymages. Amen.

The second Epistle of Sayn̄t John.

The wryteth vnto a certayne Lady, reioyseth that her children walke in the truthe, exhorteth them vnto loue, warneth them to beware of truth discreuers as Cerinthus & Ebion, that came in the flesh, prayeth them to continue in the doctrine of Christ, & to haue nothyng to do with them that bring not this learning.

THe elder to the electe ladye and her chyldren, whom I loue in the truth: and not I only, but also al that haue knowen the truthe, for the truthes sake which dwelleth in vs, & shalbe in vs for euer.

With vs shalbe grace, mercy, & peace from God the father and from the Lorde Jesus Christe the sonne of the father, in truthe and loue.

B I reioyced greately, that I founde of thy chyldren walkynge in truthe, as wee haue receyued a commaundemente of the father. And nowe beseche I thee lady, not as though I wrote a newe commaundement vnto thee, but that same whiche wee haue had from the begynnyng: that wee Joh.14. 1.Joh.3. a shoulde * lone one another. And thys is the loue, that we shoulde walke after hys commaundemente.

Thys commaundement is, that (as ye haue heard from the beginning) ye should walke in it. For many discreuers are entred into the worlde, whiche confesse not that Jesus Christe is come in the flesshe. Thys is a discreuer and an Antichriste. Loke on youre selues, that wee loose not C that we haue wrought, but that we may haue a full rewarde. Whosoeuer transgresseth and byddeth not in the doctrine of Christe, hath not GOD. He that indureth in the doctryne of Christe, hath both the father and the sonne.

If there come any vnto you, and bring not thys learnynge, hym receyue not to house: neither byd hym God spede. For he that byddeth hym GOD spede, is partaker of hys euell deades. (Beholde, I haue tolde you before, that ye shoulde not bee ashamed in the day of the Lorde.) I had many thynges to wryte vnto you, neuertheles I would not write with paper and yncke, but I trust to come vnto you, and speake with you mouthe to mouthe, that oure ioye maye bee full. The sonnes of thy electe sister greete thee. Amen.

The thirde Epistle of Saint John.

He is glad of Gaius, that he walketh in ỹ truth: exhorteth them to be louing vnto the poore Christen in their persecution. Reproueth the vnhyude dealyng of Diotrephes, and the good reporte of Demetrius.

THe elder vnto the beloued Gaius, whom I loue in ỹ truthe. Beloued, I wysshe in all thynges ỹ thou prosperedste, and faredst well, euen as thy soule prospereth. For I reioyced greatelie, when the brethren came and testified of the truthe that is in the, how thou walkest in ỹ truth. I haue no greater ioye, then for to heare howe that my sonnes walke in veritie. Beloued, thou doest faithfully whatsoeuer thou doest to the brethren, and to straungers, which beare witnes of thy loue before the congregacion. Whiche brethren yf thou bringe forwardes of their iourney (after a godly sorte) thou shalt do wel, because that for his names sake they went forth: and toke nothyng of the Gentyles. We therfore ought to receyue suche, that we might be the helpers to the truthe.

C I wrote vnto the congregacion: but Diotrephes which loueth to haue the preeminence among them, receyueth vs not. Wherfore yf I come, I will declare hys dedes whiche he doth, iesting on vs with malicious wordes, neither is therewith content. Not onely he hym selfe receyueth not the brethren, but also he forbyddeth them that would, and thrusteth them out of the congregacion.

Beloued, folowe not that whiche is euell, but that which is good. He that doeth well, is of God: but he that doeth euell seeth not GOD. Demetrius hath good reporte of al menne, and of the truth it selfe: yea, and wee our selues also beare recorde, and ye knowe that our recorde is true. I had many thinges to write: but I will not with ynke & pēne write vnto thee. I trust I shall shortely se thee, and we shal speake mouth to mouth. Peace be vnto thee. The louers salute the. Greete ỳ louers by name.

The Epistle of Sayncte Jude.

He rebuketh such as being blinded with their own lustes, resiste the trueth. He exhorteth vs to edifie one another, to pray in the holy goste, to continue in loue, to looke for the comming of the Lorde.

I Iudas + the seruaunte of Jesus Christ, the brother of James. To them which are called and sanctified in God the father, and preserued in Jesu Christ. Mercy vnto you, and peace and loue be multiplied.

Beloued, when I gaue all diligence to write vnto you of the comunen saluacion, it was nedefull for me to write vnto you, to exhort you that ye shoulde continually laboure in the fayth, which was once geuen vnto the sayntes. For there are certayne vngodly men craftely crepte in, of which it was written afore tyme vnto such iudgemente. They turne the grace of oure God vnto wantonnes, and denie god (which is the onelye Lorde) and oure Lorde Jesus Christ.

B My mynde is therfore to put you in remembraunce, forasmuch as ye once know this, how we that the Lorde (after that he hadde deliuered the people out of Egypte) destroied them whiche afterward beleued not. The angels also whiche kept not their first estate, but left their owne habitacion, he hath reserued in euerlasting chaines vnder darkenes, vnto ỳ iudgement of ỳ great daye: * euen as Sodom and Gomor, and the cities about them (which in like maner defiled themselues with fornicacion, & followed straūge flesh) are set forth for an ensample, and suffer the payne of eternal fyre. Gen. 19. f

Lyke wyse, these beeyng diseased by dreames, defile ỳ flesh, despyse rulers, and speake euill of them that are in autoritie. C Yet Michael the archangel when he stroue against the deuyl, and disputed about the body of Moyses, durst not geue railing sentence, but said: the Lorde rebuke the. But these speake euyll of those thynges whiche they know not: & what thinges they know naturally (as beastes whiche are without reason) in those thinges they corrupt themselues. Wo be vnto them, for they haue followed the waye of * Cayn, and are vtterly geuen to the errour of Balam for lukers sake, and perishe in the treason of Chore. These are spottes which of your kindnes D feast together, without feare, liuing lawles, and after their owne pleasure. * Gen. 4. b ‡ Nu. 16. c

Cloudes they are wythoute water, caried about of windes, trees whout fruit, at gatheryng tyme withered, twyse dead, and plucked vp by the rotes. They are the raging waues of the sea, foming out their owne shame. They are wandring starres, to whome is reserued the miste of darkenes for euer.

Enoch the seuenth from Adam prophecied before of such, saying: * Behold, the Lord shall come with thousandes of Sayntes, to geue iudgemente against all men, and to rebuke all that are vngodlye amonge them, of all their vngodlye deedes, whiche they haue vngodlye committed, and of all their cruell speakynges, whiche vngodlye sinners haue spoken against hym. Apoca. 1. b Esay. 5. c

These are murmurers, complainers, walkynge after their owne lustes, whose E mouthes speake proude thynges. They haue menne in greate reuerence because of auauntage. But ye beloued remember the wordes whiche were spoken before of the Apostles of our Lord Jesu Christ, howe that they told you * ỳ there should be begilers in the last tyme, whiche shoulde walke after their owne vngodlye lustes. These are makers of sectes, sensuall, hauynge no spirite. But ye derely beloued, edifye youre selues in your moste holye fayth, praying in the holye ghost, and kepe your selues in ỳ loue of God, loking for the mercy of our Lorde Jesus Christe, vnto eternall lyfe. F And haue compassion of some, separating them: and other saue with feare, pullynge them out of the fyre (and haue compaſsion on the other) & hate the fylthy vesture of the flesh. Acte. 20. f 1. Tim. 4. 2. Tim. 3. 2. Pet. 2. and 3.

Unto hym that is able to kepe you free from synne, and to presente you faultlesse before the presence of his glorye with ioye (at the comming of our Lord Iesus Christe) to god our sauiour (through Iesus Christ our Lord) whiche onely is wyse, be glory, maiestie, dominion and power (before all worldes) nowe and euer. Amen

The Reuelacion

of Sainct John the diuine.

The firste Chapter.

Happye are they that heare the worde of God, and kepe it. He writeth to the seuen congregacions in Asia, seeth seuen candelstickes, and in the middes of them, one lyke vnto the sonne of man.

THE Reuelacion of Jesus Christe, whiche God gaue vnto hym, for to shewe vnto his seruaunte thynges whiche muste shortly come to passe. And when he had sente, he shewed by his Aungell vnto his seruaunte John, whyche bare recorde of the woorde of God, and of the testimonye of Jesus Christe, and of all thynges that he sawe. Happye is he that readeth, and they that heare the wordes of the prophecye, and kepe those thynges which are writte therein. For the time is at hande.

John to the seuen congregacions in Asya: Grace be vnto you, and peace, from hym which is and which was, and which is to come: and from the seuen spirites whiche are before his trone, & from Jesus Christ whiche is a faythfull witnesse, and fyrste begotten of the dead: and Lorde ouer the kinges of the yearth. Vnto hym that loued vs, & washed vs fro our synnes in his owne blonde, and made vs kynges and preistes vnto God his father, be glorye & dominion for euermore. Amen. Beholde he commeth with cloudes, and al eyes shal see hym, and they also whiche pearsed hym. And all kinredes of the earth shal wayle: (euen so) Euen so. Amen. I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnyng and the endyng, sayeth the Lorde almightye, whiche is, and whiche was, and whiche is to come.

I John youre brother, and companion in tribulacion, and in the kyngdome and patience in Jesu Christe, was in the yle that is called Pathmos, for the worde of god, and for the witnessing of Jesu Christ. I was in the spyryte on a Sondaye, and hearde behynd me a great voyce as it had bene of a trompe, saying: I am Alpha and Omega, the fyrst and the laste. That thou seeste, write in a booke, and sende it vnto the seuen congregacions, whyche are in Asia: vnto Ephesus, and vnto Smirna, and vnto Pergamos, & vnto Thiatira, & vnto Sardis, & vnto Philadelphya, and vnto Laodicia.

And I turned backe to see the voyce that spake to me. And when I was turned: I sawe seuen golden candelstickes, and in the myddes of the candelstickes, one lyke vnto the sonne of man, clothed wyth a linnen garmente downe to the feete, and gird aboute the pappes with a golden gyrdle. His heade and his heeres were white, as white woll, & as snowe: and his eyes were as a flame of fyre: and his feete lyke vnto brasse, as though they brente in a fornace: and his voyce, as the sounde of many waters. And he had in his ryght hande seuen starres. And oute of his mouthe wente a sharpe two edged swearde. & His face shone, euen as the sunne in hys strengthe. And when I sawe him, I fell at his feete as dead. And he layed his right hand vpon me, saying vnto me: feare not. * I am the fyrst and the laste, and am alyue, & was dead. And beholde, & I am alyue for euermore and haue the keyes of hel and of death. Write therefore the thinges which thou haste seene, and the thynges whyche are, and the thinges whiche muste be fulfilled hereafter: the misterye of the seuen starres whiche thou saweste in my ryghte hande, and the seuen golden candelsticke. The seuen starres are the messengers of the seuē congregacions. And the seuen candelsticke whiche thou sawest, are the .vii. congregacions.

The .ii. Chapter.

He exhorteth foure congregacions to amende, and rewerd the rewarde of hym that ouercommeth.

VNTO the messengers of the congregacion of Ephesus, write: these thinges sayeth he that holdeth the .vii. starres in his ryghte hande, & that walketh in the myddes of the seuen golden candelsticke. I knowe thy woorkes and thy labor, and thy patience, & how thou canneste not forbeare them which are euill: and hast examyned them, whiche saye they are Apostles, and are not: and hast found them lyars, and hast suffered. And hast patience: and for my names sake, haste labored, and haste not fayntede. Neuertheles, I haue somewhat against thee, because thou hast lefte thy fyrste love.

Remember therefore, from whence thou art fallen, and repente, and doo the fyrste woorkes. Or elles I wyll come vnto thee shortely, and wyll remoue thy candelsticke out of his place, except thou repente. But this thou haste, because thou hateste the deedes of the * Nicolaitans, whiche deedes I also hate. Lette him that hath eares, heare what the spirite sayeth vnto the congregacions. To hym that ouercummeth, will I geue to eate of the tree of life, which is in the middes of the paradise of God.

C And vnto the Angel of the congregacion of Smirna, write: These thinges sayeth he that is first, and the laste, whiche was dead, and is aliue. I know thy woorkes, and tribulacion, & pouertie, but thou art riche: And I know ỳ blaspheny of them whiche call themselues Iewes, and are not: but are the cõgregacion of Satan. Feare none of those thinges, whiche thou shalt suffre. Beholde, the deuil shal caste some of you into prison, to tempt you, and you shall haue tribulacion ten dayes. Be faythful vnto the deathe, & I will geue thee a croune of lyfe: Let hym that hath eares, heare what the spirite sayeth to the congregacions: He that ouercummeth, shall not be hurt of the seconde deathe.

D And to the messenger of the congregacion in Pergamos, write: This sayeth he which hath the sharpe sworde with two edges: I know thy woorkes, & where ỳ dwellest, euen where Satans seate is: & thou kepest my name, & hast not denyed my faith. And in my dayes Antipas was a faythful witnes of myne, whiche was slain emõg you, where Satã dwelleth. But I haue a few thinges agaynst thee, because thou hast there, them ỳ maintain the doctrine of Balam * which taught in Balac, to put occasyon of sinne before the children of Israel, that they should eate of meate dedicate vnto idoles, & cõmit fornicacion. Euen so hast thou them that maintayne the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, whiche thyng I hate. But bee conuerted, or els I will come vnto thee shortly, and will fight agaynste them w the sworde of my mouth. Let him ỳ hath eares, heare what the spirite sayeth vnto the congregacions: To him that ouercũmeth, will I geue to eate Manna that is hid, and will geue him a white stone, and in the stone, a newe name written, which no man knoweth, sauyng he that receyueth it. And vnto the messenger of the congregacion of Thiatira write. Thys sayeth the sonne of God, whiche hathe eyes lyke vnto a flame of fyre, & his feete are lyke brasse: I knowe thy woorkes, and thy loue, seruyce, and fayth, and thy patience, and thy deedes, which are moe at the last then at the fyrst.

Notwithstanding I haue a few thinges agaynst thee, because thou sufferest that woman Iesabel, whiche called her selfe a prophetisse, to teache, & to deceyue my seruautes: to make thẽ cõmit fornicacio, & to eate meates offred vp vnto ydoles. And I gaue her space to repente of her fornication, & she repented not. Beholde, I wil caste her into a bed: and them that commit fornicacion with her, into greate aduersitie, except they turne from theyr deedes. And I wil kil her children with deathe. And all the congregacions shall knowe, that * I am he whiche searcheth the raynes and hearties. And I wil geue vnto euerye one of you accordyng vnto his woorkes. Vnto you I saye, & vnto o- G ther of thẽ of Thiatira, as many as haue not this learnyng, and whiche haue not knowen the depenes of Satan (as they say) I will putte vpon you none other burthen, but that which ye haue alredy. Holde fast tyll I come, and whosoeuer ouercummeth and kepeth my woorkes vnto the ende, to hym will I geue power ouer nacions, & he shall rule them with a rod of yron: and as the vessel!es of a potter, shall they bee broken to shiuers. Euen as I receiued of my father, so will I geue hym the mornyng starre. Let him that hath eares, heare what the spirite sayeth to the congregacions.

AND write vnto the messenger of ỳ congregacion that is at Sardis: I this sayeth he that hath the seuen spirites of God, & the seuen starres. out his name out of the boke of life, & I will confesse his name before my father, and before his angels. Let him that hath eares, heare what the spirite sayeth vnto the congregacions.

B And write vnto the Angel of the congregacion of Philadelphia: this sayth he, ꝑ is holy and true, whiche hath the keye of Dauid: & whiche openeth & no man shutteth, and shutteth, and no man openeth. I know thy workes. Beholde, I haue set before thee an open doore, & no man can shut it, for thou hast a litle strēgth, & hast kept my sayinges: & hast not denyed my name. Beholde, I make them of ꝑ cōgregacion of Satan, whiche cal themselues Iewes, & are not, but doe lye: Behold, I will make them that they shal come, and worship before thy feete, and shal know that I haue loued thee.

Because thou hast kept ꝑ wordes of my patience, therfore I will kepe thee from the houre of tēptacion, whiche wil come vpon al ꝑ world, to tempt thē that dwel C vpon the earth. Behold I come shortly. Holde that which thou hast, that no man take awaye thy croune. Hym that ouercummeth, wil I make a pyller in the tēple of my god, & he shal go no more out. And I will write vpon him, the name of my God, and the name of the citie of my God, new Ierusalem, whiche cummeth downe out of heauen fro my god: and I wil write vpon him my newe name. Let him that hath eares, heare what the spirite sayeth vnto the congregations.

And vnto the messenger of the congregatiō which is in Laodicia, write: Thys sayeth (Amen) the faythful and true witnes, the begynnyng of the creatures of God. I knowe thy workes, that thou art neither cold nor hoat: I would thou wert colde or hoat. So thē because thou D art betwene bothe, and neither colde nor hoat: I wil spew thee out of my mouth: because thou sayst: I am riche and encreased with goodes, and haue nede of nothyng, and knowest not, howe thou arte wretched and miserable, and poore, and blynde, and naked. I counsell thee to bye of me golde tryed in the fyre, that thou mayst be riche, and white rayment, that a Col.3. thou mayst be * clothed, that thy filthy nakednes doe not appeare: and annoynte thyne eies with eye salue that thou mayst b pro.3. b set. * As manye as I loue, I rebuke and heb.12. b chasten. Bee seruente therefore and repent. Beholde, I stand at the doore, and knocke. If any man heare my voyce, and open the doore, I will come in to hym, & wil supper with him, and he with me. To him that ouercummeth, will I graunte to sit with me in my seate: euē as I ouercame, and haue sytten with my father in his seat. Let him that hath eares, heare what ꝑ spirit saith vnto ꝑ cōgregacions.

The.iiii. Chapter.

He seeth the heauē open and the seat, and one sitting vpon it, and.xxiiii. seates about it, with .xxiiii. elders sitting vpon them, and foure beastes praising God day and nyght.

A Fter thys I looked, and beholde a A doore was open in heauen: and the first voyce which I hearde, was as it were of a trompet talkyng with me,
whiche sayde: come vp hither, and I wil shew thee thinges, which must be fulfilled hereafter. And immediatly I was in the spirite: and behold, a seat was set in heauen, and one sate on the seate. And he that sate, was to loke vpon, lyke vnto a Iaspar stone, and a Sardine stone. And there was a rayne bow about the seate, in sight lyke to an Emerald. And about the seate were .xxiiii. seates. And vpon B the seates .xxiiii. elders sitting, clothed in white raiment, and had on theyr heades
crounes of golde.

And out of the seate proceded lightenynges, & thundringes, and voyces: and there were seuen lampes of fyre burning before the seate, whiche are the seuen spirites of God. And before the seate there was a sea of glasse, lyke vnto Christal, &
in the middes of the seat, & rounde about the seate were foure beastes full of eyes
before and behynde. And the firste beaste C was like a lyon, and the second beast like a calfe, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beaste was lyke a flyeng Egle. And the foure beastes had eche one of them .vi. winges about him, and they were full of eyes within. And they had no rest day nether night, saying:
* Holy, holy, holy, Lord God almyghtie, * Esay.6.
whiche was, and is, and is to come.
And when those beastes gaue glory and D
honour, and thankes vnto hym that sate on the seate (whiche liueth for euer and euer) the .xxiiii. elders fell downe before him that sate on the trone, and worshipped hym that lyueth for euer, and caste
theyr crounes before the trone, saying: Th
art worthy o lord (our God) to receiue glory

glorye and honour, and power, for thou hast created al thinges, and for thy wils sake they are, and were created.

The.v.Chapter.

He seeth the lambe opening the boke, and therfore the foure beastes, the.xxiiii.elders, and the Angels prayse the lambe, and doe him worship.

A And I sawe in the right hande of him that sate in the trone, a booke written within, and on the backesyde, sealed with seuen seales. And I sawe a strong Angel, whiche preached with a loude voyce: Who is woorthye to open the booke, and to leuse the seales therof? And no man in heauen nor in earth, neyther vnder the earthe, was able to open the booke, neither to loke theron. And I wept much because no man was founde worthy to open, and to reade the booke, neither to looke theron.

B And one of the elders sayde vnto me: wepe not: Beholde, a lyon of the tribe of Iuda, the roote of Dauid, hath obtayned to open the booke, and to leuse the seuen seales therof. And I behelde, & loe in the middes of the seate, & of the foure beastes, and in the middes of the elders, stode a lambe as though he had bene killed, hauyng seuen hornes, and.vii.eyes, which are the seuen spirites of God, sent into al ỹ worlde. And he came & toke the boke out of ỹ right hãd of him ỹ sat vpõ the seat. And when he had takẽ the boke, the.iiii.beastes, & .xxiiii. elders fel downe before ỹ lambe, hauing euery one of thẽ harpes, & golden vyalles ful of odours, which are the prayers of sainctes, & they song a new sõg, saying: thou art worthy to take ỹ boke, & to open ỹ seales therof, for thou wast kylled, & hast redemed vs by thy blud out of al kinreds, & tonges, and people, and nacions, and hast made vs vnto our God, kynges and priestes, and we shall raygne on the earth.

D And I behelde, and I hearde the voyce of many Angels about the trone, and aboute the beastes and the elders, and I hearde thousande thousandes, saying wt a loud voyce. Worthy is the lambe that was killed to receiue power and riches, and wisedome, and strength, and honor, and glory, and blessing. And all the creatures whiche are in heauen, and on the earth, and vnder the earth, and in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I, saying: blessing, honor, glory, and power, be vnto him that syteth vpon the seate, and vnto the lambe for euermore. And the iiii.beastes sayde: Amen. And ỹ.xxiiii.elders fell vpon their faces, and worshipped him, that liueth for euermore.

The.vi.Chapter.

The lambe openeth the.vi.seales, and many thinges folow the opening therof.

And I sawe, when the lambe opened one of the seales, & I heard one of the.iiii.beastes saye, as it were the noise of thunder: come and se. And I sawe. And behelde, there was a whyte horse, and he that sate on hym, had a bow, and a croune was geuen vnto him, & he went furth conquering, and for to ouercome. And when he had opened ỹ second seale, I hearde ỹ second beast saye: come and se. And ther went out an other horse ỹ was red, and power was geuen to hym that sat theron to take peace from the earth, & that they should kil one an other. * And ther was geuẽ vnto him a great sword. Gal.v.

B And when he had opened the third seale, I hearde the thirde beast saye: come and se. And I behelde, & loe, a blacke horse, & he that sate on hym, had a payre of balãces in his hande. And I heard a voyce in the middes of the foure beastes, saye: a measure of wheate for a peny, and three measures of barly for a peny: and oyle, & wyne se thou hurt not. And when he had opened the fourth seale, I heard ỹ voice of the fourth beaste saye: come, and se. & I loked. And behold a pale horse, and his name that sat on him was death, and hell folowed after him, and power was geuen vnto them ouer the fourth parte of the earth, to kill with sweord & with hunger, and with deathe that cummeth of vermen of the earth.

C And when he had opened the fifthe seale, I sawe vnder the aulter * the soules of them that were killed for the woorde of God, and for the testimony whiche they had, and they cryed with a loude voyce, saying: How long tariest thou Lord holy and true, to iudge and to auenge our bloude on them that dwel on the earth? And long whyte garmentes were geuẽ vnto euery one of them. And it was said vnto them, that they should rest yet for a litle season, vntil the number of their felowes & brethren, & of them that should be killed as they were, were fulfilled. And I behelde, when he had opened the Iod.12.

firſt ſeale: and lo there was a great earthquake, and the ſunne was as blacke as ſacke cloth, made of heere. And the mone wayed al, euē as bloud, & the ſtarres of heauen fell vnto the earth, euen as a figtree caſteth from her vnripmely fygges, when ſhe is ſhaken of a mightie winde. And heauen vanyſhed awaye, as a ſcroll whē it is rolled together. And al mountaynes & yles, were moued out of theyr places. And þ kynges of the earth, & the great men, & the riche mē, & the chiefe capitaines, & the mighty mē, & euery bondman, and euery free man, hyd thēſelues in dennes, and in rockes of the hilles: & Oſe. 10. h Luke. 23. d ſayd to the hilles, & rockes: fall on vs, & hide vs from the preſence of him that ſitteth on the ſeat, and from the wrath of þ lambe: for the great day of his wrath is come, and who is able to endure?

The. vii. Chapter.

The ſeuēth the ſeruauntes of God ſealed in theyr foreheades out of all nacyons and people, whiche thoughe they ſuffer trouble, yet the lambe feedeth them, leadeth them to the fountaynes of liuing water. and God ſhall wype awaye al teares from theyr eyes.

1 AND after þ, I ſaw .iiii. Āgels ſtand on the .iiii. corners of the earth, holding the foure windes of the earth, that þ wind ſhould not blow on þ earth, neither on the ſea, neither on any tree. +

2 And I ſaw an other angel aſcende from the ryſing of the ſunne, whiche hadde the ſeale of the liuyng God, and he cryed with a loude voyce to the foure angels, (to whom power was geuē to hurt the earthe and the ſea) ſaying: hurte not the earth neither the ſea, neither the trees, til we haue ſealed the ſeruauntes of oure God in theyr foreheades.

3 And I heard the numbre of them whiche wer ſealed: & there wer ſealed, an. C. and xliiii. M. of al þ tribes of the childrē of Iſrael. Of the tribe of Iuda wer ſealed xii. M. Of the tribe of Ruben wer ſealed xii. M. Of the tribe of Gad were ſealed. xii. M. Of the tribe of Aſer were ſealed. xii. M. Of þ tribe of Neptalim wer ſealed. xii. M. Of þ tribe of Manaſſes were ſealed. xii. M. Of the tribe of Simeon wer ſealed. xii. M. Of the tribe of Leui wer ſealed. xii. M. Of þ tribe of Iſacar wer ſealed. xii. M. Of the tribe of Zabulon were ſealed. xii. M. Of the tribe of Ioſeph wer ſealed. xii. M. Of the tribe of Beniamin wer ſealed. xii. M.

C After this I beheld, and lo, a great multitude (which no man could numbre) of all nacions, and people, and tongues, ſtode before the ſeate, & before þ lambe, clothed with long whyte garmentes, & palmes in theyr handes, and cryed with a loude voyce, ſaying: ſaluacion be aſcribed to him that ſitteth vpon the ſeate of our God, and vnto the lambe. And al the angels ſtode in the cumpaſſe of the ſeate, & of the elders, & of the .iiii. beaſtes, and fell before the ſeate on theyr faces, and wurſhypped God, ſaying: Amen. Bleſſyng, and glory, & wiſedome, & thankes, and honour, and power, & might, be vnto our god for euermore. Amē. D And one of þ elders āſwered, ſaying vnto me: what are theſe which are arayed in long white garmentes, and whence came they? And I ſaid vnto him: Lord, thou woteſt. And he ſayd to me: theſe are they which came out of great tribulacion, and made theyr garmentes large, and made them whyte by the bloud of the lambe: therefore are they in þ preſence of the ſeate of god, and ſerue him daye and nyght in hys temple, and he that ſitteth in the ſeate will dwel among them: They ſhal hūger no more, neither thirſt, neither ſhal the ſunne light on them, neither any heate. For the lambe which is in the middes of the ſeate, ſhall fede them, and ſhal leade them vnto fountaynes of liuyng water, and God ſhall wype away all teares from theyr eyes.

The. viii. Chapter.

The ſeuenth ſeale is opened, there is ſilence in heauen, the foure angels blow theyr trumpettes, & great plages folow vpon the earth.

1 AND when he had opened the ſeuēth ſeale, there was ſilence in heauen about þ ſpace of halfe an houre. And I ſaw .vii. angels ſtāding before God, & to them were geuē ſeuen trompets. And another angel came and ſtode before the auiter, hauing a golden cenſer, and much of odours was geuen vnto him: that he ſhould offer of þ prayers of al ſaintes vpō þ golden aiter, which was before the ſeate. And þ ſmoke of the odours which came of the prayers of al ſainctes, aſcended vp before god out of þ angels hand. 5 And the angel toke the cenſer, and filled it with fyre of the auiter, and caſte it in to the earthe: and voyces were made, and thundringes, and lightenynges, and earthquakes. And þ ſeuē angels whiche hadde the ſeuen trumpettes, prepared

themselues to blowe. The fyrst Aungell blew, and there was made hayle and fyre, whiche were myngled wyth bloude, and they were cast into the earth. and the thirde parte (of the earth was set on fire, & the third parte) of trees was burnte, and all grene grasse was burnte. And the seconde angel blewe, & as it were a greate mountayne burnyng with fire was cast into the sea, and ꝑ third parte of the sea turned to bloude, and the thirde parte of the creatures which hadde lyfe, died: and the thyrde parte of shyppes wer destroyed. And the thirde angel blew, and there fel a great starre frō heauen, burnyng as it were a lampe, and it fell into the third part of the riuers, & into fountaynes of waters; and the name of the starre is called wormewood. And the thirde parte was turned to wormewood. And manye men dyed of the waters, because they were made bitter.

And the fourthe angell blewe, and the thyrde parte of the sunne was smitten, and the thyrde parte of the moone, and ꝑ thyrd parte of starres: so that the thyrde parte of them was darkened. And the daye was smitten, that the thirde parte of it shoulde not shine, and lykewyse the nyght. And I beheld, and heard an angel flying through the myddes of heauen, saying with a loud voyce: Woe, woe, to the inhabyters of ꝑ yearth, because of the voyces to come of ꝑ trompe of the thyer angels, which wer yet to blowe.

The. ix. Chapter.

The fift and syxte Aungell blowe theyr trompettes: the starre falleth from heauē: the locustes come out of the smoke. The fyrste woe is paste: the foure Angels that wer bounde are lowsed, and the thyrd part of men is kylled.

AND the fyfte Aungell blewe, and I sawe a starre fall from heauen vnto the yearth. And to him was geuen the keye of the bottomlesse pitte: And he opened the bottomlesse pytte, and the smoke of the pyt arose, as ꝑ smoke of a great fornace. And ꝑ sunne, and the aire were darkned, by the reason of ꝑ smoke of the pitte. And there came out of the smoke locustes vpon the earth, and vnto them was geuen power, as the scorpions of the earth haue power. And it was commaunded them, that they shoulde not hurte the grasse of the yearthe: neyther anye grene thinge: neither anye tree: but onelye those men which haue not the seale in theyr foreheades.

And to them was commaunded, that they shoulde not kyll them, but that they shoulde be vexed fyue monethes; and theyr payne was as the payne that commeth of a scorpion, when he hathe stunge a manne. * And in those dayes shall menne seke deathe, and shall not fynde it, and shall desyre to dye, and deathe shall flye from them. * Apoc. 6. Ozee. 10. Luc. 23.

And the similitude of the locustes was lyke vnto horses prepared vnto battayle, and on their heades wer as it wer croues, lyke vnto golde, and theyr faces were as it hadde bene the faces of menne. And they hadde heere as the heere of women. And theyr tethe were as the teth of lyons. And they hadde habbergions, as it were habbergions of yron. And the sounde of theyr wynges, was as the sound of Chariotes when manye horses runne together to battayle. And they hadde tayles lyke vnto scorpions, and there were stynges in theyr tayles. And theyr power was to hurt mē fyue monethes. And they hadde a kynge ouer them, whyche is the angel of the bottomlesse pytte, whose name in the Hebrew toungue, is Abadon: but in the Greeke tongue, Apollion, that is to say a destroyer. One woe is paste, and beholde two woes come yet after this.

And the syxt angell blewe, and I hearde a voyce from the foure corners of the golden auter, whiche is before God, sayinge to the syxt angell, whiche hadde the trompe: Lowse the foure angels, which are bounde in the great riuer Euphrates. And the iiii. angels were lowsed, whiche were prepared for an houre, for a daye, for a moneth, and for a yeare, for to slaye the thyrde parte of menne. And the nomber of horsemen of warre were twenty. M. times. x. thousand. And I hearde the number of them: & thus I sawe the horses in a vision, and them ꝑ sate on them, hauing fyrye habbergions of a Jacinct couloure, & brymstone: and the heades of ꝑ horses were as ꝑ heades of lions. And out of theyr mouthes wēt forth fier and smoke, and brimstone. And of these three was the thyrde parte of menne kylled: that is to saye, of fyer, smoke, & brymstone, which proceded out of the mouthes of them. For theyr power was in theyr mouthes, and in theyr tayles: for theyr tayles wer lyke vnto serpentes, and hadde heades, and with them they dydde hurte. And the remnaunte of the menne whyche were not kylled by these plages, repented not of the deedes of theyr handes, that they ſhoulde not worſhippe deuyls, and ymages of golde and ſiluer, and braſſe, and ſtone, and of wood, whiche neither can ſee neither heare, neyther goe. Alſo they repented not of theyr murther, and of theyr ſorcery, neyther of theyr fornicacion, neyther of theyr theefte.

The.x. Chapter.

The Angell hath the booke open, he ſweareth there ſhalbe nomore time. he geueth the boke vnto Iohn, whiche eateth it vp.

1 AND I ſawe another myghtye Angel come downe from heauen, clothed with a cloude, & the rainebow vpon his head. And his face was as it were the ſunne, and his feete as it were pillars of fire: and he had in his hande a litle booke open, and he putte his righte foote vpon the ſea, and his lefte foote on the yearthe. And cryed with a loude voice, as when a lion roreth. And when he had cried, ſeuen thonders ſpake theyr voyces. And when the ſeuen thonders had ſpoken theyr voices, I was aboute to wryte. And I heard a voyce frō heauē, ſaying vnto me: ſeale vp thoſe thinges whiche the ſeuen thunders ſpake, and wryte them not.

B And the angel whiche I ſawe ſtand vpon the ſea, and vpon the earth, lyfte vp his hande to heauen, and ſware by hym that liueth for euermore, which created heauen, and the thinges that therein are (And the earth, and the thinges that therein are,) and the ſea, and the thinges which therein are, that there ſhoulde be no lenger tyme: but in the daies of the voyce of the ſeuenth angell, when he ſhall beginne to blowe: euen the miſtery of God ſhalbe finiſhed, as he preached by his ſeruaunte the Prophetes.

C And the voice which I heard from heauē, Eze. 2.c ſpake vnto me agayne and ſaid: goe and take the litle boke which is open in the hād of the angel whiche ſtandeth vpō the ſea, & vpon the yearth. And I went vnto the angel, and ſaied to him: geue me the litle boke: and he ſayed vnto me: take it and eate it vp, and it ſhall make thy bellye bytter, but it D ſhalbee in thy mouthe as ſwete as honye. Eze.3.c And I toke the litle boke out of his hand and eate it vp, and it was in my mouth as ſwete as hony, and as ſone as I had eatē it, my belly was bitter. And he ſayed vnto me: thou muſt prophety again among the people, and nations, and tounges, and to many kinges.

The.xi. Chapter.

The temple is meaſured. The ſeconde woe is paſte.

AND then was geuen me a reede, like A vnto a rodde, and it was ſayed vnto me: Riſe and mete the temple of god, and the aulter, and them that worſhyppe therein: and the quire whiche is within the temple, caſte oute, and mete it not: for it is geuen vnto the gentiles, and the holye cyte ſhall they treade vnder foote fourty, and twoo monethes. And I will geue power vnto my twoo witneſſes, and thei ſhal prophecy a thouſande, two hundred, and ſixty daies, clothed in a ſacke clothe. These are twoo oliue trees, and twoo candelſticked ſtandyng before the God of the yearth. And if any man will hurte them, fyer ſhall B procede out of their mouthes, and cōſume their enemies. And if any manne will hurt them, this wiſe muſte he bee kylled. These haue power to ſhut heuen, ꝑ it rain not in ꝑ daies of their prophecyng: & haue power ouer waters to turne them to bloude, and to ſmite the yearth with al maner plages, as often as they wyll.

And when they haue finiſhed theyr teſtimony, ꝑ beaſt that came out of ꝑ bottomleſſe pit, ſhall make warre againſt thē, and ſhall ouercome them, and kyll them. And theyr bodyes ſhall lye in the ſtretes of the greate citie, whiche ſpiritually is called Sodom and Egipt, where our Lord was crucifyed. And they of the people and kynredes, and tongues, and they of the nacyons, ſhall ſee their bodies thre dayes and an halfe, and ſhall not ſuffer their bodyes to be put in graues. And they that dwell vpon the earth, ſhal reioyſe ouer them and bee glad, and ſhall ſende gyftes one to another: for theſe two prophetes vexed them that dwelte on the earth.

And after three dayes and an halfe, the ſpyryte of lyfe from God entred into them. C And they ſtode vp vpon their feete, & great feare came vpon them whiche ſawe them. And they hearde a great voyce from heauen, ſaying vnto them: Come vp hither.

And they aſcended vp into heauen in a cloude, and their enemies ſawe them. And the ſame houre was there a greate earthe quake, and the tenthe part of the citie fel, and in the earth quake were ſlayne names of menne. vii. M, and the remnaunte were feared, and gaue glory to ꝑ God of heauē. The ſeconde woe is paſte: and behold the thyrde woe wyll come anone.

And the ſeuenth angell blew, and there were made greate voyces in heauen, ſay- D ing: the kyngdomes of thys worlde are

oure

our Lordes, and hys Christes, and he shal raigne for euermore (Amē). And ỳ .xxiiii. elders, which sit before God on their seates, fel vpon their faces, and worshipped God, saying: wee geue the thankes O Lorde God almighty, which art & wast, and art to come, for thou hast receyued thy great might, and haste reigned. And the nations were angrye, and thy wrath is come, and the tyme of the dead that they should bee iudged, & that thou shouldest geue reward vnto thy seruauntes the Prophetes and Sainctes, & to them that feare thy name small and greate, and shouldest destroye them whiche destroye the earth. And the temple of God was opened in heauen, and there was seene in hys temple, the arcke of hys testament, and there folowed lightenynges, and voyces, and thondrynges, and earthquake, and mucke hayle.

The.xii. Chapter.

The seuenth Angell bloweth his trompet. There appeareth in heauen a woman clothed with ỳ Sunne: Michaell fyghteth with the dragon, which persecuteth the woman.

AND there apeared a great wonder in heauen: A woman clothed with ỳ sunne, and the moone vnder her feete, and vpon her head a croune of .xii. starres. And she was with childe, & cryed trauayling in byrth, & payned redy to bee delyuered. And there appeared another wonder in heauē: for behold, a great red dragon hauing .vii. heades, and .x. hornes, and crounes vpon his heades: & hys tayle drew the third part of the starres (of heauen) & cast thē to ỳ earth.

B And the dragon stode before the woman whiche was readye to bee delyuered, for to deuoure her childe as soone as it were borne. And she brought forth a man childe, whiche shoulde rule all nations with a rodde of yron. And her sonne was taken vp vnto God, and to hys seate. And the woman fled into wyldernes, where she hadde a place prepared of God, that they shoulde feede her there a thousande two hundred and lx. dayes.

C And there was a great battayle in heauen, Michaell and hys angels foughte with the dragon, and the dragon foughte and hys angels, and preuayled not, neyther was their place founde any more in heauen. And the great dragon, that olde serpente, called the deuell and Sathanas, was caste oute. Whiche deceaueth all the worlde. And he was caste into the earthe, & hys angels were cast oute also (with him.)

D And I hearde a loude voyce sayinge: in heauen is now made saluation & strength, & the kingdom of oure God, and the power of hys Christe. For the accuser of oure brethren is caste downe, whiche accused them before oure God daye & nighte. And they ouercame hym by the bloude of the lambe, and by the worde of their testimonye, and they loued not their lyues vnto the death. Therfore reioyce heauens, and ye that dwell in them. Woe to the inhabiters of the earth, and of the sea: for the deuel is come downe vnto you, whiche hath great wrathe, because he knoweth that he hath but a shorte tyme.

And when the dragon sawe that he was caste vnto the earth, he persecuted the woman, which broughte forthe the manchylde. And to the woman were geuen .ii. wynges of a greate Egle, that she myghte flye into the wyldernesse into her place, where she is norysshed for a tyme, tymes, and halfe a tyme, from the presence of the serpente. And the dragon caste oute of hys mouth water after the woman, as it had ben a ryuer, because she shoulde haue bene caught of the floude. And the earth holpe the woman: & the earth opened her mouth and swalowed vp the ryuer, whiche the dragon caste out of hys mouthe. And the dragon was wrothe wyth the woman: and went, and made warre with the remnaunte of her seede, whiche kepe the commaundementes of God, and haue the testimonye of Iesus Christe. And he stode on the sea sande.

The.xiii. Chapter.

A beaste ryseth out of the sea with seuen heades and ten hornes. Another beast commeth out of the earth with two hornes.

AND I sawe a beaste rise out of the sea, hauyng seuen heades, & ten hornes, & vpon his hornes ten crounes, and vpō his head, the name of blasphemy: And the beaste which I sawe was lyke a cat of the mountayne, and hys feete were as the feet of a bear, and hys mouthe as the mouthe of a lyon. And the dragon gaue him his power and hys seat, and great authoritie: and I sawe one of hys heades as it wer wounded to death, and hys deadly woumde was healed. And all the worlde wondred at the beaste, and they worshypped the dragon, whiche gaue power vnto the beaste, and they

they worshypped the beaste, saying: Who is lyke vnto the beaste? Who is able to warre with hym?

B And there was geuen vnto him a mouth that spake greate thynges, and blaspheimyes, and power was geuen vnto hym, to doo .xlii. monethes.

And he opened hys mouthe vnto blaspheimy agaynste God, to blaspheme hys name and hys tabernacle, and them that dwell in heauen. And it was geuen vnto hym to make warre with the sainctes, and to ouercome them. And power was geuē him ouer al kinred, & people, & tōgue, & nacion, and all that dwell vpon the earthe worshypt hym, whose names are not writen in the boke of lyfe of the lambe, which was kylled from the begynnynge of the worlde. If any manne haue an eare, let him

And I beheilde another beast cōming vp out of the earthe, & he had two hornes lyke a lambe, and he spake as dyd the dragon. And he dyd all that the fyrste beaste could do in hys presence, and he caused the earthe, and them whiche dwell therin, to worshyp the fyrste beaste, whose deadlye wounde was healed. And he dyd greate wōders, so that he made fyre come downe from heauen in the sighte of menne. And deceaued them that dwelte on the earthe by the meanes of those signes whiche he had power to doe in the syght of the beast, saying to them that dwelte on the earthe: that they shoulde make an image vnto the beast, whiche had the wound of a sweard, and dyd lyue.

D And he had power to geue a spyryte vnto the ymage of the beaste, and that the ymage of the beast shoulde speake, & should cause that as manye as wouldе not worshyppe the ymage of the beaste, should be kylled. And he made all bothe small and greate, ryche and poore, free and bonde, to receaue a marke in their ryght handes or in their foreheades. And that no man might bye or sell, saue he that had the marke, or the name of the beaste, either the nounber of hys name. Here is wysedome. Let him that hathe wyt, counte the nounber of the beast. For it is the nounber of a man, and hys nounbre is fyre hundred, threscore and sixe.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

The lambe standeth vpon the mounte Syon, and the vnstayned congregacion with hym. The angell sheweth to the seaet of God, and telleth of the fall of Babylon.

AND I loked, & loe, a lambe stode on the mounte Syō, & with hym an .C. and .xliiii. thousande, hauyng his (name and hys) fathers name writtē in their foreheades. And I heard a voyce from heauen, as the sounde of many waters, & as the voice of a greate thūdre. And I heard the voice of harpers harpyng with their harpes. And they song as it were a newe songe, before the seate, and before the foure beastes, and the elders: and no man coulde learne that songe but the houndred and .xliiii. M. whiche were redemed from the earthe. These are they whiche were not defyled wyth wemen, for they are virgyns. These folowe the lambe whyther soeuer he goeth. These were redemed from menne, beyng the fyrst frutes vnto GOD and to the lambe, and in theyr mouthes was founde no gyle. For they are without spot before ỹ trone of GOD. ỹ

And I sawe another angell flye in the middes of heauen hauynge the euerlasting Gospell to preache vnto them that sit and dwell on the earthe, and to al nations, kinredes and tongues, & people, saying with a loude voyce: * Feare God and geue honour to him, for the houre of his iudgemēt is come: and worshyp hym that made heauen and earth, and the sea, and fountaynes of water. And there folowed another angel, saying: * Babylō is fallē, is fallen, that greate citie, for she made all nacions drynke of the wyne of her fornicacion.

And the thirde angel folowed them, saying with a loude voyce: If any man worshyp the beast and hys ymage, and receaue hys marke in hys forehead, or on hys hand, the same shall drinke the wine of the wrath of God, which is powred in the cup of his wrath. And he shal be punished in fyre and brimstone, before the holy angels, and before the lambe.

And the smoke of their torment ascendeth vp euermore. And they haue no rest daye nor nyght whiche worshyp the beaste, & his image, and whosoeuer receaueth the print of his name. Here is ỹ pacīce of sainctes. Here are they that kepe the commaundementes and the fayth of Jesu.

And

And I heard a voyce from heauē saying vnto me, wryte: Blessed are the dead, which here after dye in the Lorde: euen so sayth the spirite that they rest from theyr labours, but theyr workes folowe them. And I looked, & beholde a whyte cloude, and vpon the cloude one sitting lyke vnto the sonne of man, hauyng on hys head a goldē croune, and in his hand a sharpe syckle. And another Angell came out of the temple, cryeng with a loude voyce to hym that sate on the cloude: * Thrust in thy sickle, & reape, for thy time is come to reape, for the corne of ꝑ earth is ripe. And he that sate on the cloude, thruste in his syckle on ꝑ earth, & the earth was reaped. And another Angel came out of the temple, whiche is in heauen, hauyng also a sharpe syckle. And another Angell came out frō the aulter, which had power ouer fyre, and cryed with a loude crye to hym that had the sharpe syckle, & sayd: thrust in thy sharpe syckle, and gather the clusters of the earth, for her grapes are ripe. And the Angel thrust in his sharpe sickle on the earth & cut downe the grapes of ꝑ vynyarde of the earth, & cast thē into the great wynefat of the wrath of God: and the wynefat was troden without the cite, and bloude came out of the fat, euen vnto the horse brydels, by the space of a thoulande and. vi. The. xv. Chapter.

He seeth seuen Angels, hauyng seuen vyals full of wrathe.

AND I sawe another signe in heauen great and merueylous, seuē Angels hauyng the seuen last plages, for in them is fulfilled the wrathe of God. And I sawe as it were a glassye sea, myngled with fyre, and them that had gotten victorye of the beaste, and of his ymage, and of the nombre of hys name, stande on the glassye sea, hauyng the harpes of God: and they songe the songe of Moses the seruaunte of God, and the songe of the lambe, saying: Greate and marueylous are thy workes, * Lorde God almightie, iuste & true are thy wayes, thou kyng of sayntes. Who shall not feare, O Lorde, & glorifye thy name? For thou onlye art holy, and all Gentyles shall come and worshyp before thee, for thy iudgementes are made manifest.

Exo. 11. c. Ier. 51. a

AND after that, I loked, and behold, the temple of the tabernacle of testimonye was open in heauen, & the seuen Angels came out of the temple, which had the seuen plages, clothed in pure and bryght lynnen, and hauyng theyr brestes gyrded with golden gyrdels. And one of ꝑ foure beastes gaue vnto ꝑ seuen Angels, seuen golden vyals, full of the wrathe of God, whyche lyueth for euermore. And the temple was full of the smoke of the glorye of God and of his power, and no man was hable to entre into the temple, tyll the seuen plages of the seuen Angels were fulfylled.

The. xvi. Chapter.

The Angels powre out theyr vyals full of wrath.

AND I heard a great voyce out of the temple saying to the seuen Angels: go your waies, powre out your vials of wrathe vpon the earth. And the first Angell went, and powred out hys vyall vpon the earth, & there fell a noysome and a sore botch vpon the menne whiche had the marke of the beaste, and vpon them whiche worshypped hys ymage. And the seconde Angell shed out his vyall vpon the sea, and it turned as it were into the bloud of a dead man: and euery lyuyng thyng dyed in the sea. And the thyrd Angel shed out his vyall vpon the ryuers & fountaynes of waters, and they turned to bloud.

AND I heard an Angell saye: Lorde, whiche arte and waste, thou arte ryghteous and holy, because thou haste geuen suche iudgementes, for they shed out the bloud of sayntes and Prophetes, & therfore haste thou geuen them bloude to drynke: for they are worthy. And I heard another out of the aulter saye: euen so Lorde God almightie: true and ryghteous are thy iudgementes.

AND the fourth Angell powred out hys vyal on the sunne, and power was geuen vnto hym to vexe men with heate of fyre. And the men raged in great heat: & spake euil of ꝑ name of God, which hath power ouer those plages, and they repented not of their euyll dedes, to geue hym glorye. And the syxt Angel powred out his vyal vpon the seate of the beaste, & his kyngdome waxed darke, and they gnewe their tongues for sorowe, and blasphemed the God of heauen for sorowe and payne of their sores, & repented not of theyr dedes.

AND the first Angel powred out his vyal vpon the great ryuer Euphrates, and

the

the water dryed vp, that the wayes of the kynges of ꝑ east should be prepared. And I sawe thre vncleane spirites like frogges, come out of the mouth of ꝑ dragon, & out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophete. For they are the spirites of deuyls, worckyng myracles, to goe out vnto the kynges of the earth and of the whole worlde, to gather them to the battayle of that great daye of God almyghty. * Beholde, I come as a thefe. Happy is he that watcheth and keepeth his garmentes, leste he walke naked, and me see his filthynes. And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrue tong Armagedon. And the seuenth Angel powred out his vyall into ꝑ ayre. And there came a great voyce out of heauē from the seat, sayng: it is done. And there folowed voyces, thōdrynges, and lyghtnynges, and there was a great earthquake, suche as was not sence men were vpon ꝑ earth, so myghty an earthquake & so great. And the great citie was deuided into three partes, & the cities of all nations fel. And great Babilon came in remembraunce before God, to geue vnto her the cup of the wine of the fearcenesse of his wrathe. Euery yle also fled away, and the mountaines were not fouñd. And there fel a great haile (as it had been talentes) out of heauen vpon the menne: and the menne blasphemed God because of the plage of the hayle, for it was great and the plage of it soore.

The. xvii. Chapter.

The describeth the woman sytting vpon the beast with tenne hornes.

AND there came one of the seuen Angels, whiche had the seuen vyals & talked wt me, saying vnto me: come, I will shewe vnto thee ꝑ iudgement of the great whore that sitteth vpon many waters, with whome haue committed fornicacion the kynges of the earth: & the inhabiters of the earth are droncken wyth the wine of her fornicacion. And ꝑ spirite caryed me away into the wildernes. And I sawe a woman sit vpon a rosecoloured beast, full of names of blasphemy, which had. vii. heades, & x. hornes. And the womā was arayed in purple & rosecoloure, and decked with gold, precious stone, & pearles, & had a cup of gold in her hand, full of abhominacions and filthynesse of her fornicatiō. And in her forehead was a name wrytten, a misterye, greate Babilon the mother of whordom & abhominations of the earth. And I sawe ꝑ wyfe droncken with the bloud of saīctes, and with the bloud of the witnesses of Jesu. And when I sawe her, I wondred with great maruaile. And ꝑ Angel sayed vnto me: wherfore maruailest ꝑ? I will shewe thee ꝑ mistery of the womā, & of the beast that beareth her, which hath seuen heads and ten hornes. The beast that thou seest, was & is not, & shall ascende out of ꝑ bottomlesse pitte, & shall go into perdition: & they that dwel on the earth shall wonder (whose names are not wrytten in ꝑ booke of lyfe from the begynning of the world) when they behold the beast that was & is not. And here is a minde that hath wisedome. The seuen heads are seuen mountaynes, on which the woman sitteth: they are also seuen kynges. Fiue are fallen, & one is, and another is not yet come. And when he cōmeth, he must continue a short space. And the beast ꝑ was, and is not, is euen the eight, & is one of the seuen, and shall goe into destruccion. And the tenne hornes whiche thou sawest, are tenne kynges whiche haue receyued no kyngdome as yet, but shall receyue power as kynges at one houre with ꝑ beast. These haue one mynde, & shal geue their power and strength vnto the beast. These shall fight with the lambe, & the lambe shall ouercome thē. * For he is Lord of Lordes, and kyng of kinges, and they that are on his syde are called, & chosen, & faythfull. And he sayd vnto me: the waters whiche thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, are people, and folke, and nacions, & tonges. And the tenne hornes, which thou sawest vpō the beast, are they that shall hate the whore, & shal make her desolate & naked, and shall eate her flesh, & burne her with fyre. For God hath put in their hartes to fulfil his wil, and to do with one consent, for to geue their kyngdom vnto the beast, vntyll the wordes of God be fulfilled. And the womā which thou sawest, is that great citie, whiche raigneth ouer the kynges of the earth.

Apo. 19. d

The. xviii. Chapter.

The louers of the worlde are sory for the fal of Babilon, but they that be of God haue cause to reioyce for her destruccion.

AND after that, I sawe another Angel come from heauen, hauing greate power, and the earth was lightened wt his brightnes. And he cried mightely mightelye with a strong voyce, saying.

Esay.21.c * Great Babilon is fallen, is fallen, and Jere.50.a is become the inhabitacion of deuyls, & the holde of al foule spirites, and a cage of all vncleane and hateful byrdes: for al nacions haue dronken of the wine of the wrath of her fornicacion. And the kinges of ỳ earth haue cõmitted fornicacion wt her, & ỳ marchantes of ỳ earth are wexed tyche of ỳ aboundaũce of her pleasures.
B And I heard another voyce from heauẽ, say: come away from her my people, that ye bee not partakers of her synnes, and that ye receyue not of her plagues. For her synnes are gone vp to heauen, and God hathe remembred her wickednes. Reward her euen as she rewarded you, & geue her double accordyng to her woorkes. And the kynges of the earthe shal bewepe her, & waile ouer her, which haue cõmitted fornicacion with her, and haue liued wantonly with her, when they shal see the smoke of her burnyng, and shall stande a farre of, for feare of her punish-

And the apples that thy soule lusted after, are departed from ther. And al thinges which were deintie and had in price, are departed frõ ther, & thou shalte fynd them no more. The marchantes of these thynges which were wexed ryche, shall stande afarre of from her, for feare of ỳ punishment of her, weping and wailing, and saying: * Alas, alas, that great citie, * Jer.
that was clothed in raynes, and purple, E
and skarlet, and decked with golde, and precious stones, and pearles, for at one houre so great riches is come to nought.

And euery shyppe gouernour, and all they that occupied shippes, and shipmen which worke in the sea, stode a farre of & cryed, whẽ they saw ỳ smoke of her burning, saying: what citie is lyke vnto this great citie? And they cast dust on theyr heades, and cryed weping, and wailing, and sayde: * Alas, alas, that great citie Jere.51 for at one houre is shee made desolate. Reioyce ouer her thou heauẽ, and ye holy Apostles and Prophetes: for God hath geuen your iudgement on her. And a mightie Angel tooke vp a stone lyke a great mylstone, and caste it into the sea, saying: with such violẽce shal that great citie Babilon be cast, and shalbe founde no more. And the voyce of harpers, G and musicions, and of pipers, and trumpeters, shal be heard no more in thee: and no crafts man, of whatsoeuer craft he be, shalbe found any more in thee. And ỳ sound of a mylle shalbe heard no more in thee, (and candle light shalbe no more burning in thee) and the voyce of the brydegroome and of ỳ bryde, shalbe heard no more in thee: for thy marchantes were the great men of the earth. And with thyne inchauntement were deceaued all nacions: and in her was founde the bloude of the Prophetes, and of the saintes, and of al that were slayne vpon the earth.

The.xix.Chapter.

Prayse is geuen vnto god for iudging the whore, and for auenging the bloud of hys seruauntes. The Angel will not be worshypped. The foules and byrdes are called to the slaughter.

AND after ỳ, I heard a great voice of A muche people in heauen, saying: Alleluya. Saluaciõ and glory and honour and power, be ascribed to the lord our God, for true and righteous are his iudgemẽtes, for he hath iudged ỳ great whore which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and hathe auenged the bloude of hys seruauntes of her hande. And agayne they sayde: Alleluya. And smoke rose vp for euermore. And the.xxiiii. elders, & the.iiii. beastes fel down & worshipped wurshypped God that sate on the seate, saying: Amen, Alleluia. And a voice came out of the seate, saying: prayse our lord God all ye that are his seruantes, and ye that feare him, both smal and great.

And I heard the voyce of much people, euen as the voyce of many waters, & as the voyce of strong thondrynges, saying: Alleluia, for the Lorde oure God omnipotente raygneth. Let vs be glad & reioyce, and geue honour to him: for the mariage of the lambe is come, and hys wyfe made her selfe readye. And to her was graunted, that she shoulde be arayed with pure & goodly raynes. For the raynes is the righteousnesse of sainctes.

Mat.22.a And he sayd vnto me, write: *happy are Luc.14.a they which are called vnto the supper of ỹ lambes mariage. And he sayd vnto me: these are the true sayinges of god. And I fell at hys feete, to wurship him. And he sayd vnto me: se thou do it not. For I am thy felow seruant, & one of thy brethren, euen of them that haue the testimony of Jesus. Wurship God. For the testimony of Jesus is the spirite of prophecy.

And I saw heauen open, and beholde a whyte horse: and he that sat vpon hym was called faithful & true, and in righteousnes he doeth iudge and make battail. His eies wer as a flame of fire: & on his head were many crounes, and he had a name written, that no man knewe but he 19.11.b hymselfe. *And he was clothed with a vesture dipte in blood, and hys name is called the worde of god. And the warriers which were in heauen, folowed him vpon whyte horses, clothed with whyte and pure raynes: and out of his mouth went a sharpe two edged sweorde, that with it he shoulde smyte the heathen. And he shal rule them with a rodde of yron: & he trode the wynefat of fearsenes and wrath of almightie God. And hath on his vesture and on hys thygh a name writte: king of kinges, & lord of lordes.

And I saw. & angel stand in the sunne, and he cryed with a loude voyce, saying to all the foules that flye by the middes of heauen: come and gather your selues together vnto the supper of the greate god, that ye may eate the flesh of kinges, and the flesh of hye capitaynes, and the flesh of mightie menne, and the flesh of horses, and of them that sit on them, and the flesh of all free men and bondemen, both of small and greate. And I saw the beaste, and the kynges of the earthe, and their warryers gathered together to make battayl agaynst him that sat on the the horse, and agaynst his souldiers. And the beaste was taken, and with him that false prophet that wrought miracles before hym, with which he deceiued them that receyued the beastes marke, & the that worshipped hys ymage. These both wer cast quicke into a pond of fyre burning with brimstone: & the remnaũt wer slayne with the sweord of hym that sate vpon the horse, whiche sweord proceded out of his mouth: & al the foules were fulfilled with their flesh.

The.xx. Chapter.

The dragon is bounde for a .M. yeres. The deed arysē, and vseint iudgement.

AND I sawe an Aungell come I
downe from heauen, hauing the kaye of the botomlesse pyt, and a great chayne in hys hande.

And he toke the dragon that olde serpent, which is the Deuil and Satanas, and he bounde hym a thousande yeres: and cast him into the botomles pit, and he shut hym vp, and sette a seale on hym, that he shoulde disceaue the people no more, till the thousande yeres were fulfilled. And after that he muste be lensed for a litle season.

And I sawe seates, and they sat vpon D
them, and iudgemente was geuen vnto them: and I saw the soules of them that were beheaded for the witnes of Jesu, and for the woord of God, & which had not wurshipped the beaste, neyther hys ymage, neyther had taken hys marke vpon their foreheades, or in their handes, and they lived, and raygned with Christ a thousand yere: but the other of ỹ dead men lived not again, vntil the thousande yere were finished. This is that first resurrection. Blessed and holye is he that hath part in the first resurrection. For on such shall the seconde death haue no power, but they shalbe the priestes of God and of Christ, and shal raygne with hym a thousande yere.

And when the thousande yeres are ex- Eze.38. and.39
pyred, Satan shalbe lensed out of hys prison, and shall goe out to deceyue the people whiche are in the foure quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog: to gather

them together to battayle, whose number is as the sand of the sea: and they went vp on the playne of the earthe, and compassed the tentes of the sayntes about, and the beloued citie. And fyre came downe from God out of heauen, and deuoured them: and the deuell that deceiued them was caste into a lake of fire and brymstone, where the beaste and ꝓ false prophetes shalbe tormented daye and nyghte for euermore. And I sawe a greate white seate, and hym that sate on it, from whose face fled awaye both the yearth and heauen, and theyr place was nomore founde. And I sawe the dead, bothe greate and smal stand before God: And the bokes wer opened, and another boke was opened, whyche is the boke of lyfe, and the deade were iudged of those thynges whyche were writte in ꝓ bokes according to theyr dedes: and the sea gaue vp her dead, whyche were in her, and death and hel delyuered vp the deade whyche were in them: and they were iudged euery man according to his dedes. And death and hel were caste into the lake of fire. This is ꝓ second death. And whosoeuer was not founde written in the boke of life, was cast into the lake of fyre.

The.xxi. Chapter.

In this chapter is described the new and spirituall Jerusalem.

AND I sawe a newe heauen & a newe earth. For the first heauen, & the first earth were vanished awaye, and there was nomore sea. And I Jhon sawe that holy citie, newe Jerusalem, come downe from God oute of heauen, prepared as a bryde garnished for her husbande. And I herde a great voyce out of heaue, saying: beholde, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwel with them. And they shalbe his people, and God him selfe shalbe with them, & be theyr God. *And God shal wipe away all teares from theyr eyes. And there shalbe nomore death, nether sorowe, nether crying, nether shall there be any more payne, for the olde thynges are gone. And he that sate vpō the seat, said: *Behold, I make all thynges newe. And he saied vnto me: write, for these wordes are faythfull and true.

And he saied vnto me: it is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnyng and the ende: I will geue to hym that is a thyrst of the well of the water of life, free. He that ouercommeth, shall inherite all thynges, and I will be hys God, and he shalbe my sonne. But the fearefull & vnbeleuyng, and the abhominable, & murtherers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all lyers shall haue their parte in the lake whyche burneth with fyre and brymstone, whyche is the second death.

And there came vnto me one of ꝓ .vii. angels, whyche had the seue vialles full of the seuen last plages: and talked with me, saying: come hyther, I will shewe thee the bryde, the lambes wife. And he caryed me away in the spirite to a great & an hye mountayne, and he shewed me the greate citie holy Jerusalem, descendyng out of heauen from God, hauing ꝓ brightnes of God. And her shynyng was lyke vnto a stone moste precious, euen lyke a Jasper clere as Cristal: & had walles greate and hye, and had .xii. gates, and at the gates .xii. Angels & names written, whyche are the names of the .xii. trybes of Israel: on the East parte .iii. gates, and on the Northsyde thre gates, and towardes the South .iii. gates, and from the West .iii. gates, and the wal of the citie had .xii. foundacions: and in them the .xii. names of the lambes .xii. Apostles.

And he that talked with me, had a golden reede to measure the citie withall, and the gates therof, and the wall therof. And the cyte was builte .iii. square, and the lengthe was as large as the breedth, and he measured ꝓ cite with the (golden) reede .xii. M. furlōges: & the length and the breedth and the heigth of it, were equall. And he measured the wall therof, an .cxliiii. cubites: the measure that the angell had, was after the measure that man vseth. And the buyldyng of the wall of it was of Jasper. And the cite was pure gold like vnto clere glasse, & the foundacōs of the wall of the cyte were garnished with all maner of precious stones. The fyrste foundacō was Jaspys, ꝓ second Saphire, the thyrde a Calcedony, ꝓ .iiii. an Emeralde, the .v. Sardony, the .vi. Sardeos the .vii. Chrisolyte, the .viii. Beryll, the .ix. a Topas, the .x. a Crisoprasos, the .xi. a Jacynte, the .xii. an Amathistr.

The twelue gates were .xii. pearles, euery gate was of one pearle, and the strete of the cite was pure golde as thorowe shynyng glasse. And I sawe no temple therin: For the Lorde God almyghtie and the lāde ate the temple of it. * And the citie hath no neede of the sunne neither of the moone to lyghten it. For the brightnes of God dyd lyghte it, and the lambe was the lyghte of it.

of it. And ꝑ people which are saued shall walke in the lighte of it. And the kynges of the earth shall bryng their glorye (and honoure) vnto it. *And ꝑ gates of it are not shut by daye. For there shalbe no nyghte there. (And vnto it shall they bryng the glory and honoure of the nacions.) And there shall entre into it none vncleane thing, neither whatsoeuer worketh abhommacion, or maketh lyes: but they only which are written in the lambes boke of life.

The. xxii. Chapter.

The ryuer of the water of lyfe, the fruytefulnes and lyght of the cyte of God. The Lorde geueth euer hys seruauntes warninge of thynges to come, the angell will not be worshipped. To the worde of God maye nothyng be added nor mynished.

¶ And he shewed me a pure ryuer of water of life, clere as Christal, proceding out of ꝑ seat of God, and the lambe. In the myddes of the strete of it, and of either syde of the ryuer was there wood of life: which bare twelue manner of frutes: and gaue frute euery moneth: and the leaues of the wood serued to heale the people wythall. And there shalbe nomore curse, but the seat of God and the lambe shalbe in it: and hys seruauntes shal serue hym. And they shall se his face, and his name shalbe in their foreheades. *And ther shalbe no nyght ther, and they nede no candle, neither lyght of the sunne: for the Lord God geueth them light, and they shal reigne for euermore.

And he sayed vnto me: these sayinges are faythfull and true. And the Lord God of the holy prophetes seneth his angell to shewe vnto hys seruauntes the thynges whiche muste shortly be fulfilled. Beholde, I come shortely. Happy is he that keepeth the saying of the prophecye of this boke. I am Ihon which sawe these thynges and heard the. And when I had heard and sene,

*I fell downe to worship before the feete of the angell whiche shewed me these thynges. And he sayd vnto me: se thou do it not, for I am thy felowe seruaute, & the felowe seruaute of thy brethren the prophetes, and of them which kepe ꝑ sayinges, of (the prophecye of) thys boke. But worship God.

And he sayed vnto me: seale not the sayinges of the prophecye of this booke. For the tyme is at hande. He that doeth euyll let hym do euyll styll: and he whiche is fylthy let hym be fylthy styll: and he that is rightcous let hym be more rightcous: and he that is holye, let hym be more holy. And beholde, I come shortly, and my rewarde is with me, to gene euery man accordynge as his dedes shalbe. I am Alpha & Omega, the begynnyng and the ende: the fyrste and the laste. Blessed are they that do hys commaundementes, that their power maye be in the tree of life: and maye entre in thorowe the gates into ꝑ cite. For without shalbe dogges and inchaunters, & whoremongers, & murtherers, and idolaters, and wholocuer loueth or maketh leasynges.

I Jesus sent myne Angel, to testify vnto you these thynges in ꝑ congregacions. I am the roote and the generacion of Dauid, and the bright morning starre. And the spyryte and the bryde saye, come. And let hym that heareth, saye also: come. *And let him that is a thirst, come. And let whosoeuer wyll, take of the water of life free.

I testifye vnto euery man that heareth the wordes of the prophecye of this boke: * yf any man shall adde vnto these thynges, God shall adde vnto hym the plages that are writte in this boke. And yf any ma shal mynyshe of the wordes of the boke of thys prophecy, God shal take away his parte out of the boke of lyfe, & out of the holye cyte, & frō the thinges whyche are writte in this boke. He which testifieth these thynges, saith: he it. I come quickely: Amen. Euen so come Lorde Jesu. The grace of our Lord Jesu Christ be with you all. Amen.
